Good afternoon, Olivia.

I hope that this email finds you well.

Kent asked me to follow up with you regarding the missing information / inquiries.

1. Liability Insurance: I have attached AMS's current policy. You will note that AMS exceeds the minimum of one million dollars.

I hope the above information is helpful.
Please let me/us know if you are in need of any other information.

Thank you.
Have a lovely day!

6. The Surety or Principal may cancel this Bond by providing written notice of such cancellation to the Obligee. Cancellation or expiration shall be effective 30 days after notice of cancellation or expiration is sent to the Obligee's contractor, the National Supplier Clearinghouse, provided such notice is actually received.
7. In the event this Bond is cancelled or expires, and the Principal fails to submit a new bond to the Obligee, the Surety remains liable for unpaid claims, civil money penalties, or assessments that were imposed or assessed by CMS or the Office of Inspector General during the 2 years following the effective date of cancellation or expiration of this Bond.

NOTICE OF VIOLATION

Dear Mr. Anderson ;

The Board has reviewed information received from an reinstatement application for Atrium Medical Corporation, 40 Continental Blvd., Merrimack, N.H. 03054 , license #5935 that Atrium Medical Corporation has shipped prescription products in New Hampshire on numerous occasions from July 1st, 2018 to July 22nd, 2019 without a valid license. New Hampshire- law (RSA 318:51-a (I)) requires all wholesaler/manufacturer/distributors shipping in New Hampshire to be licensed by the New Hampshire Board of Pharmacy. This constitutes a violation of RSA 318:51-a (I) and New Hampshire Administrative Code Ph 1001.01 (a).

Under RSA 318:29 and RSA 318:55, the Board may impose civil penalties "not to exceed $5,000 per violation upon any person who willfully or repeatedly violates any provision of this chapter." It appears that by engaging in the conduct described above, you may have violated RSA 318:51-a(I) and Ph 1001.01(a) by delivering prescription drugs into the state without a license from July 1st, 2018 to July 22nd, 2019.

The Board sees fit to use its discretion to propose an administrative fine of $24,000.00 ($2,000.00 for each month you were not licensed) for violation of RSA 318:51-a(I) and Ph 1001.01(a) with $12,000.00 suspended providing no additional violations in next two years.

You have the following two options upon receipt of this Notice. First, you can waive the right to a hearing and pay the proposed fine. If you choose to do so, please pay $12,000.00 within thirty (30) days of receipt of this Notice and remit payment to Treasurer, State of New Hampshire. Second, you may request a hearing on the matter. If you do so, your request for a hearing must be received within 30 days of receipt of this Notice. The Board will thereafter schedule a hearing on the matter.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact this office at (603)-271-2350.

SUMMARY ORDER

NOW, on this 9th day of December 2021, comes before the Kansas Board of Pharmacy (the "Board"), through its Executive Secretary, the matter of Getinge USA Sales, LLC. ("Applicant"), for application for registration as a wholesale distributor in the state of Kansas.

Pursuant to the authority granted to the Board by the Kansas Pharmacy Act, K.S.A. 65-1625, et seq., and in accordance with the provisions of the Kansas Administrative Procedure Act, K.S.A. 77-501, et seq., the Board enters this Summary Order in the above-captioned matter. After reviewing the application materials and being otherwise duly advised in the premises, the Board makes the following findings, conclusions, and order:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. On November 12, 2021, the Board received Applicant's application for registration as a wholesale distributor in the State of Kansas ("Applicant's Application").

2. On Applicant's Non-Resident Supplemental S-350 form, Applicant answered "Yes" to the following question: "Has the facility listed on the application shipped drugs and/or devices into Kansas in the previous 12 months." The form directs that if the applicant answered "yes," the applicant should provide the specific drugs and/or devices sent in, the dates of shipment, and the locations they were sent in Kansas."

3. In conjunction with Applicant's Application, Applicant provided requested copies of shipping records for products shipped into Kansas. Applicant reported shipping into Kansas on 269 unique days during the previous 12-month period.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. Pursuant to K.S.A. 65-1658, the Board may assess a civil fine not to exceed $5,000, after notice and an opportunity to be heard, to any registrant for violation of the pharmacy act of the state of Kansas or any other rules or regulations of the state board of pharmacy.

2. Pursuant to K.S.A. 65-1627(f)(6), the Board may take action against the application of any wholesale distributor upon a finding that the applicant has violated the pharmacy act of the state of Kansas or any regulation adopted by the Board.

3. Pursuant to K.S.A. 65-1643(c), it shall be unlawful for any person to distribute at wholesale any drugs or devices without first obtaining a registration from the Board.

4. Applicant's act of shipping into Kansas prior to being registered as a wholesale distributor is a violation of K.S.A. 65-1643(c) and is a basis to take action against Applicant's Application pursuant to K.S.A. 65-1627(f)(6).

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing findings of fact and conclusions of law, Applicant's Application is hereby GRANTED but Applicant is ordered to pay a fine to the Board in the amount of $5,000. Applicant has 30 days from the date of this order to pay the fine and the registration shall be issued upon receipt.

NOTICES

Applicant is hereby notified as follows:

1. Applicant may request a hearing pursuant to the Kansas Administrative Procedure Act by filing a written request with the Kansas Board of Pharmacy, 800 SW Jackson, Suite 1414, Topeka, KS 66612-1231, within 15 days after service of this Order. If the outcome of the hearing is adverse to Applicant, costs of the proceedings shall be charged to Applicant.

2. If a hearing is not requested as described above, the Order shall become a final order of the Board, effective upon the expiration of the time to request a hearing.

3. Within 15 days after entry of a final agency order, either party may file a petition for reconsideration pursuant to K.S.A. 77-529.

viii. Maintain accurate and complete complaint files and establish and implement adequate written procedures for receiving, reviewing, and evaluating complaints; and

ix. Develop and implement adequate written MDR procedures in compliance with 21 C.F.R. Part 803, including, but not limited to, adequate procedures for management review, and ensure that employees are trained on, understand, and properly implement the MDR requirements and procedures;

B. Defendants retain, at Corporate Defendants' expense, an independent person(s) (the "expert") to inspect the Specified Facilities and review their manufacturing procedures and records to determine whether the methods, facilities, and controls are operated and currently administered in conformity with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations. The expert shall be qualified by education, training, and experience to conduct such inspections, and shall be without personal or financial ties (other than the retention agreement) to Defendants or their families. Defendants shall notify FDA in writing of the identity of the expert and the expert's qualifications within fifteen (15) days after retaining such expert. The expert shall:

i. Perform a comprehensive inspection of the methods, processes, and controls used to manufacture devices at each Specified Facility and determine whether each is in compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations; in conducting this inspection, the expert shall review all deviations at each Specified Facility brought to Defendants' attention in writing by FDA since October 2009 (including, but not limited to, all Forms FDA-483 issued to Defendants since October 2009), by the expert, or by any other source. The expert is permitted to conduct separate inspections for designated categories of the Specified Facilities' devices so long as each inspection includes an evaluation of all of the methods and controls necessary for compliance with the QS regulation for that designated category of devices. If the expert decides to conduct separate inspections for designated categories of the Specified Facilities' devices, Defendants shall submit to FDA a written statement delineating the designated categories of devices. For purposes of complying with this paragraph, Defendants may not include more than a total of five (5) designated categories of devices;

ii. Within thirty (30) days after completing any inspection under paragraph 5.B.i, the expert shall submit simultaneously to FDA and Defendants a complete written report of the inspection, which shall include, but not necessarily be limited to:

a. Identifying in detail which methods, processes, controls, and FDA observations the expert reviewed and the expert's evaluation as to whether each such method, process, and control is now operated in compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations, and, if applicable, listing any observed deviations from compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations;

b. Identifying whether each observation listed on a Form FDA-483 issued at the Specified Facility since October 2009 has been corrected.

iii. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if, at any time before the completion of the expert's inspection(s), Defendants notify FDA in writing that all manufacturing operations have ceased at a Specified Facility or that all manufacturing operations with respect to one or more designated categories of the Specified Facilities' devices have ceased at a Specified Facility, any requirement that the expert inspect the methods, facilities, processes, equipment, and controls used to manufacture all or any such designated categories of devices at such Specified Facility shall cease. If, at any time before the completion of the expert's inspection(s), Defendants notify FDA in writing that manufacturing operations for any designated category of devices have been transferred from one Specified Facility to another Specified Facility, the expert must thereafter inspect the methods, facilities, processes, equipment, and controls used to manufacture any such designated category of devices at the transferee Specified Facility; and

C. Within thirty (30) days after receiving the expert's inspection report(s) under paragraph 5.B.ii , Defendants shall submit a written report ("work plan") to FDA detailing the specific actions Defendants have taken and/or will take at the Specified Facility to address the expert's observations and bring the Specified Facility's methods, facilities, processes, and controls used to manufacture, process, pack, hold, and distribute devices into compliance with the requirements of this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations. The specific actions in the work plan shall be set forth in numbered steps and, where appropriate, the numbered steps may include subordinate lettered steps. The work plan shall include a timetable to be approved by FDA, and FDA will approve or disapprove in writing the proposed work plan within thirty (30) days after receiving the proposed work plan. If the expert conducts separate inspections for designated categories of the Specified Facilities' devices, the Defendants are permitted to submit one addendum per designated category of devices, so long as the work plan and each addendum together detail the specific actions Defendants have taken and/or will take at a Specified Facility to address the expert's observations and bring the methods, facilities, processes, and controls used to manufacture, process, pack, hold, and distribute a designated category of devices into compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations. In the event that Defendants notify FDA in writing that all manufacturing operations for a designated category of devices have ceased at a Specified Facility, any requirement in the work plan related to such Specified Facility shall cease with regard to such devices. In the event that Defendants notify FDA in writing that manufacturing operations for any designated category of devices have been transferred from one Specified Facility to another Specified Facility, any requirement in the work plan related to the transferor Specified Facility will be deemed to apply to the transferee Specified Facility; and

D. As the actions detailed in the work plan are completed at each Specified Facility, Defendants shall notify the expert in writing, who shall promptly inspect and verify whether those actions have been completed in a manner that complies with the requirements of this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations to the expert's satisfaction and in accordance with the work plan timetable approved by FDA. The expert is permitted to conduct separate inspections for designated categories of the Specified Facilities' devices so long as each inspection includes an evaluation of all of the methods and controls necessary for compliance with the QS regulation for the designated category of devices. If the expert determines that an action has not been completed to his or her satisfaction, the expert shall promptly notify Defendants and FDA in writing. Beginning thirty (30) days after approval of the work plan by FDA, and quarterly thereafter until submission of a certification set forth in paragraph 5.E, the expert shall submit to FDA a table that summarizes the expert's findings regarding whether the actions have been completed to the expert's satisfaction and in accordance with the numbered steps in the work plan timetable. FDA may, in its discretion and without prior notice, periodically inspect any and all Specified Facilities and undertake such additional examinations, reviews, and analyses as FDA deems appropriate to verify whether the actions reported to have been completed have, in fact, been completed adequately and on time. In the event that FDA determines that an action that has been reported to be completed is inadequate, FDA will notify Defendants in writing, and Defendants shall take appropriate action in accordance with a timetable that is subject to approval by FDA;

E. When the expert determines that all of the actions identified in the work plan approved by FDA have been completed to his or her satisfaction, the expert shall provide Defendants and FDA with a written certification that all of the actions have been completed and that, based on the inspection(s) conducted under paragraph 5 and on the satisfactory completion of the actions in the work plan identified under paragraph 5.C, Defendants' methods, facilities, processes, and controls used to manufacture, process, pack, hold, and distribute devices are in conformity with the requirements of this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations.

The expert's certification shall include a detailed report of the results of the expert's inspection(s). The expert may provide FDA with a separate certification under this paragraph for each Specified Facility. If the expert conducts separate inspections for designated categories of the Specified Facilities' devices, the expert is permitted to submit a separate certification and certification report for each designated category of devices so long as each certification and accompanying report contains all of the information required by this provision for the designated category of devices. In the event the Defendants have notified FDA in writing that all manufacturing operations with regard to a designated category of devices have ceased at a Specified Facility, the expert need not certify as to the completion of work plan actions or as to compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations that relate to such devices at the Specified Facility. In the event the Defendants have notified FDA in writing that manufacturing operations for any designated category of devices have been transferred from one Specified Facility to another Specified Facility, the expert must certify as to the completion of work plan actions or as to the compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations that relate to such devices at the transferee Specified Facility;

F. In addition to paragraph 17 and FDA's authority to conduct inspections under 21 U.S.C. § 374, within sixty (60) days after FDA receives a certification described in paragraph 5.E, FDA, as it deems necessary, may inspect any or all of the applicable Specified Facilities to evaluate Defendants' compliance with this Decree, the Act, and its implementing regulations;

G. Corporate Defendants pay all costs of inspections, supervision, and review for FDA oversight with respect to paragraph 5; and

H. FDA notifies Defendants in writing that Defendants appear to be in compliance with the requirements set forth in paragraphs 5.A-G. If FDA conducts an inspection or reinspection pursuant to paragraph 5.F, and finds that the manufacturing, processing, packing, holding, and distribution of devices at and/or from a Specified Facility appear to be in conformity with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations, this notice will be issued within sixty (60) days after completion of the inspection. If FDA does not conduct an inspection or re-inspection pursuant to paragraph 5.F, this notice will be issued within sixty (60) days after receipt of the expert's certification under paragraph 5.E. If the expert has provided a certification and certification report limited to designated categories of the Specified Facilities' devices or a particular Specified Facility pursuant to paragraph 5.E, then FDA may issue the notification under this paragraph to authorize resumption of manufacturing processing, packing, holding, labeling and/or distribution limited to designated categories of devices or to one or more of the Specified Facilities.

6. A. Notwithstanding paragraph 5, Defendants and all Associated Persons may continue manufacturing, processing, holding, packing, labeling and distributing at or from the Specified Facilities:

i. Medically necessary devices, as defined in paragraph 4.D to customers who have received the Notification Guide described in paragraph 4.F and have submitted a signed CMN to Corporate Defendants, provided that Defendants maintain a record of all sales and distribution of medically necessary devices, including shipping documents and the following information regarding the devices distributed: the name, model number, and lot numbers for the medically necessary devices, the names of the consignees to whom they are shipped, and the number of devices shipped. Defendants shall make the records described in this paragraph available to FDA immediately upon request. Within ninety (90) days after entry of this Decree, and quarterly thereafter, Defendants shall submit to FDA a summary of the medically necessary devices distributed, which shall include: the names of the medically necessary devices shipped, the names of the consignees to whom they were shipped, and the total number of devices shipped.

ii. Devices for use in product demonstrations, workshops, and laboratories, provided that the subject devices are labeled "For In-Office/In-Facility Demonstration Use Only - Not for Sale";

iii. Devices solely for the purpose of conducting clinical trials in accordance with 21 C.F.R. Part 812, provided that Defendants comply with all applicable laws and regulations relating to the manufacture and distribution of investigational devices;

iv. Devices, including warranty replacements, that both FDA and Defendants agree in writing are necessary to distribute and sell to fulfill contracts and agreements with foreign governments;

v. Devices to testing laboratories solely for the purpose of developing, testing, verifying, or validating design changes or modifications in accordance with 21 C.F.R. Part 820 or comparable international standards; and

vi. Devices that are necessary for the sole purpose of preparing or supporting a premarket approval application (PMA), premarket notification (510k), or supplement thereto, but such products may not be distributed without prior written authorization from FDA.

B. Corporate Defendants shall pay the United States Treasury the amount of six million dollars ($6,000,000.00) in equitable disgorgement, to be paid within twenty-eight (28) days after entry of this Decree (hereinafter "initial payment"). Six (6) months after the date of the initial payment, Corporate Defendants shall pay the United States Treasury an additional amount of six million dollars ($6,000,000.00) in equitable disgorgement, unless by that date Defendants have received FDA authorization to resume, with regard to all medically necessary devices, all operations at the Specified Facilities as set forth in paragraph 5.H and/or Defendants have transferred all manufacturing, processing, packing, holding, and distribution of all medically necessary devices at and/or from the Specified Facilities to another manufacturing site owned or controlled by Corporate Defendants (hereinafter "new site(s)").

7. Within thirty (30) days after receiving the written notification in paragraph 5.H for a Specified Facility, Defendants shall select and retain at Corporate Defendants' expense an independent person(s) (the "specified facility auditor") to conduct audit inspections of the Specified Facility not less than once every six (6) months for a period of one (1) year, after which the specified facility auditor shall conduct audit inspections annually for an additional period of four (4) years. The specified facility auditor shall be qualified by education, training, and experience to conduct such inspections, and shall be without personal or financial ties (other than the retention agreement) to Defendants or their families, except that the specified facility auditor may be the same person(s) as the expert described in paragraph 5.B and/or the additional facility auditor described in paragraph 9.

A. At the conclusion of each audit inspection at each such facility, the specified facility auditor shall prepare a written audit report ("audit report") analyzing whether Defendants are in compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations, and identifying all deviations from this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations ("audit report observations"). As part of every audit report, except the first audit report, the specified facility auditor shall assess the adequacy of corrective actions taken by Defendants to correct all previous audit report observations. The audit report shall be delivered contemporaneously to Defendants and FDA no later than thirty (30) days after the date an audit inspection is completed.

B. If an audit report contains any audit report observations, Defendants shall, within thirty (30) days after receipt of the audit report, correct those observations, unless FDA notifies Defendants that a shorter time period is necessary. If, after receiving an audit report, Defendants believe that correction of any audit report observations will take longer than thirty (30) days, Defendants shall, within ten (10) business days after receipt of the audit report, propose a schedule for completing corrections ("correction schedule"). The correction schedule shall be reviewed and approved by FDA in writing prior to implementation. Defendants shall complete all corrections according to the approved correction schedule. Within thirty (30) days after being notified that Defendants have taken actions to correct audit report observations, the auditor shall review the actions taken by Defendants to correct the audit report observations. Within fifteen (15) business days after completion of such a review, the specified facility auditor shall report in writing to FDA and to the Defendants whether each of the audit report observations has been corrected.

8. Not less than three months before Defendants transfer any manufacturing operations from any of the Specified Facilities to any new site that Defendants own or control, Defendants shall submit to FDA a written transfer plan. However, in the event Defendants notified FDA before the date of entry of this Decree of a planned transfer of manufacturing operations from any Specified Facility(ies) to any new site(s), Defendants shall submit to FDA a written transfer plan within thirty (30) business days from the date of entry of this Decree. Any such new site, if not already an Additional Facility, as described in paragraph 4.B, shall thereafter be fully subject to the provisions of this Decree without further action by the parties or this Court, as though it were listed as an Additional Facility in paragraph 4.B, but only to the extent that manufacturing operations have been transferred from a Specified Facility to that new site.

ADDITIONAL FACILITIES

9. Within ninety (90) days after entry of this Decree, Defendants shall select and retain at Corporate Defendants' expense an independent person(s) (the "additional facilities auditor") to conduct audit inspections of each of the Additional Facilities not less than once every twelve (12) months for a period of four (4) years from the date of entry of this Decree, for a total of not less than four audit inspections. The auditor shall be qualified by education, training, and experience to conduct such inspections, and shall be without personal or financial ties (other than the retention agreement) to Defendants or their families, except that the auditor may be the same person(s) as the expert described in paragraph 5.B and/or the specified facilities auditor described in paragraph 7. The requirements in paragraphs 7.A and B shall apply to all audit inspections conducted under this paragraph.

ADDITIONAL INJUNCTION PROVISION

10. Upon entry of this Decree and except as provided for in paragraphs 6 and 11, Defendants and each and all Associated Persons shall, with regard to any device manufactured at any of the Specified or Additional Facilities, be permanently enjoined from directly or indirectly doing or causing to be done any act that:

A. Violates 21 U.S.C. § 331(a) by doing or causing the introduction, and delivery for introduction, into interstate commerce of any device, as defined by 21 U.S.C.

DocuSign Envelope ID: 0FF12DAC-D75C-4E6A-8D29-CFE52ADF9A4F

§ 321(h), that is adulterated within the meaning of 21 U.S.C. § 351(h), or misbranded within the meaning of 21 U.S.C. § 352(t)(2);

B. Violates 21 U.S.C. § 331(k) by doing or causing any act that results in the adulteration, within the meaning of 21 U.S.C. § 351(h), or misbranding, within the meaning of 21 U.S.C. § 352(t)(2), of any device, as defined by 21 U.S.C. § 321(h), while such device is held for sale after the shipment of one or more of its components in interstate commerce; and/or

C. Violates 21 U.S.C. § 331(e) by doing or causing the failure to maintain and/or submit reports respecting devices, as defined by 21 U.S.C. § 321(h), as required by 21 U.S.C. § 360i.

EXCLUSIONS

11. The prohibitions set forth in paragraphs 5 and 10 or in any order issued under paragraphs 13 or 14 shall not apply to any device manufactured, processed, packaged, labeled, held for sale, or introduced into interstate commerce solely for export from the United States, provided that the applicable requirements of 21 U.S.C. §§ 381(e) and/or 382 have been satisfied with respect to such device. Independent of their right to export other devices, Defendants may export any medically necessary device to support their International Distributors, provided that:

(A) Defendants ask their International Distributors to ask their International End-Users to execute a signed CMN;

(B) Defendants exercise their best efforts to ask their International Distributors to confirm that the person signing the CMN form has read the form and is who s/he purports to be;

(C) Defendants document these efforts and provide to FDA, on a quarterly basis for two years, a summary of these efforts; and

(D) Defendants maintain records evidencing compliance with this subparagraph for two years.

ADDITIONAL PROVISIONS

12. Defendants shall establish and document management control over quality policy, as defined in 21 C.F.R. § 820.3(u), at the Specified and Additional Facilities for all devices intended for introduction into interstate commerce, to ensure continuous compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations. Corporate Defendants shall vest responsibility for all quality system functions, as defined in 21 C.F.R. § 820.3(v), in the Specified and Additional Facilities, in an individual who shall be authorized and responsible for all quality system functions at the Specified and Additional Facilities, including establishing, implementing, and maintaining a comprehensive written quality program, to ensure Defendants' continuous compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations. Within ninety (90) days after entry of this Decree, Defendants shall provide to FDA an affidavit of compliance stating the fact and manner of compliance with this paragraph.

13. If, at any time after this Decree has been entered, FDA determines, on the basis of the results of an inspection, the analyses of samples, a report or data prepared or submitted by Defendants or an expert or auditor under this Decree, or any other information, that Defendants have failed to comply with any provision of this Decree, or have violated the Act, the QS, CR, or MDR regulations at any of the Specified or Additional Facilities, or that additional corrective actions are necessary to achieve compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations at any of the Specified or Additional Facilities, FDA may, as and when it deems necessary, order Defendants in writing, specifying the noncompliance(s) giving rise to the order, to take appropriate action, including, but not limited to, the following:

DocuSign Envelope ID: 0FF12DAC-D75C-4E6A-8D29-CFE52ADF9A4F

A. Cease manufacturing, processing, packing, labeling, holding, or distributing any or all devices at any Specified or Additional Facility that was involved in the failure to comply;

B. Recall at Corporate Defendants' expense, adulterated or misbranded devices manufactured, distributed, and/or sold by Defendants from any Specified or Additional Facility, and/or that are under the custody and control of Defendants' U.S. agents, distributors, or customers;

C. Revise, modify, expand, or continue to submit any reports or plans described in this Decree;

D. Submit additional reports or information relating to any Specified or Additional Facility, to FDA as requested;

E. Issue a safety alert, public health advisory, and/or press release;

F. Take any other corrective actions relating to any Specified or Additional Facility as FDA, in its discretion, deems necessary to bring Defendants into compliance with this Decree, the Act, or the QS, CR, or MDR regulations.

These remedies shall be separate and apart from, and in addition to, any other remedy available to the United States under this Decree or the law. The cost of FDA inspections, sampling, testing, travel time, and subsistence expenses to implement these remedies shall be borne by Corporate Defendants at the rates specified in paragraph 18. However, nothing in this paragraph authorizes FDA to take any action with regard to products that are not manufactured, processed, packed, labeled or distributed in the United States.

14. If FDA inspects any facilities owned and/or operated by Corporate Defendants and/or their subsidiaries and/or affiliates, other than the Specified and Additional Facilities, and finds violations of the Act or the QS, CR, or MDR regulations, FDA may, without further action by the parties or this Court, order that such facility or facilities shall thereafter be fully subject to the provisions of this Decree as though it or they were listed as an Additional Facility or Additional Facilities in paragraph 4.B when the Decree was entered, and FDA, with respect to such facility or facilities, may thereafter, based on subsequent violations, order Defendants to take any or all of the actions described in paragraph 13.

15. Upon receipt of any order issued by FDA pursuant to this Decree, the following procedures shall apply:

A. Unless a different time frame is specified by FDA in its order, Defendants shall, within ten (10) business days after receiving such order, notify FDA in writing that:

i. Defendants are undertaking or have undertaken corrective action, in which event Defendants shall describe the specific action(s) taken or proposed to be taken and the proposed schedule for completing the action(s); or

ii. Defendants do not agree with FDA's order, including a written explanation of the basis for their disagreement; in doing so, Defendants may propose specific alternative actions and specific time frames for achieving FDA's objectives.

B. If Defendants notify FDA that they do not agree with FDA's order, FDA will review Defendants' notification and thereafter, in writing, affirm, modify, or withdraw its order, as FDA deems appropriate. If FDA affirms or modifies its order, it will explain the basis for its decision in writing. The written notice of affirmation or modification shall constitute final agency action.

C. If FDA affirms or modifies its order, Defendants shall, upon receipt of FDA's notice of affirmation or modification, immediately implement the order (as modified, if applicable), and, if they so choose, bring the matter before this Court on an expedited basis. Defendants shall continue to diligently implement FDA's order, as modified if applicable, unless the Court sets aside, stays, reverses, vacates, or modifies FDA's order. Any review of FDA's order under this paragraph shall be made in accordance with the terms set forth in paragraph 27.

D. The procedures set forth in paragraphs 15A-C shall not apply to any order issued under paragraph 13 if such order states that it is based on FDA's judgment that the matter raises significant public health concerns, and FDA's judgment and basis for such decision are stated in the order. In such case, Defendants shall immediately and fully comply with the terms of that order. If they so choose, Defendants may bring the matter before this Court on an expedited basis. Defendants shall continue to diligently implement FDA's order, unless the Court sets aside, stays, reverses, vacates, or modifies FDA's order. Any review of FDA's order under this paragraph shall be made in accordance with the terms set forth in paragraph 27.

16. Any cessation of operations or other actions described in paragraph 13 shall continue until Defendants receive written notification from FDA that Defendants appear to be in compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations, and that Defendants may, therefore, resume operations. After receiving Defendants' written request to resume operations, FDA will determine whether it needs to inspect any of Defendants' facilities to determine Defendants' compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations. If FDA determines that an inspection is necessary, it shall conduct the inspection and determine whether Defendants appear to be in compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations and, if so, FDA will issue to Defendants a written notification permitting resumption of operations. With regard to U.S. facilities, FDA will decide within forty-five (45) days after receipt of the request whether Defendants appear to be in compliance and, if so, issue to Defendants a written notification permitting resumption of actions described in paragraph 13. With regard to facilities located outside of the United States, FDA will, as soon as reasonably practicable, act on the request whether Defendants appear to be in compliance and, if so, issue to Defendants a written notification permitting resumption of actions described in paragraph 13.

17. Representatives of FDA shall be permitted, without prior notice and as and when FDA deems necessary, to make inspections of any of the Specified or Additional Facilities, collect samples, and, without prior notice, take any other measures necessary to monitor and ensure continuing compliance with the terms of this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations. During such inspections, FDA representatives shall be permitted ready access to the Specified and Additional Facilities including, but not limited to, all buildings, equipment, finished and unfinished materials and products, containers and packaging materials, and labeling; to take photographs and make video recordings; to take samples (without charge to FDA) of Defendants' finished and unfinished materials and products, containers and packaging materials, and labeling; and to examine and copy all records relating to the manufacture, processing, packing, labeling, receiving, holding, installing, and distribution of any and all devices in order to ensure continuing compliance with this Decree, the Act, and the QS, CR, and MDR regulations. FDA will provide Defendants with a receipt for any samples taken pursuant to 21 U.S.C. § 374 and with copies of any photographs and video recordings made, upon a written request by Defendants and at Corporate Defendants' expense. The inspections shall be permitted upon presentation of a copy of this Decree and appropriate credentials. The inspection authority granted by this Decree is separate from, and in addition to, the authority to conduct inspections under the Act, 21 U.S.C. § 374.

18. Corporate Defendants shall reimburse FDA for the costs of all FDA inspections, investigations, supervision, analyses, examinations, and reviews that FDA deems necessary to evaluate Defendants' compliance with any part of this Decree at the standard rates prevailing at the time the costs are incurred. As of the date of entry of this Decree, these rates are: $88.45 per hour or fraction thereof per representative for inspection and investigative work; $106.03 per hour or fraction thereof per representative for analytical or review work; $0.56 per mile for travel expenses by automobile; government rate or the equivalent for travel by air or other means; and the published government per diem rate for subsistence expenses where necessary. FDA shall submit a reasonably detailed bill of costs to Corporate Defendants. In the event that the standard rates applicable to FDA supervision of court-ordered compliance are modified, these rates shall be increased or decreased without further order of the Court.

19. Within ten (10) business days after entry of this Decree, Defendants shall post a copy of this Decree in a common area at each of the Specified and Additional Facilities and shall ensure that the Decree remains posted for as long as the Decree remains in effect.

20. Within ten (10) business days after the entry of this Decree, Defendants shall provide a copy of this Decree, by electronic means, personal service, or registered mail, to each and all Associated Persons. Within thirty (30) days after entry of this Decree, Defendants shall provide to FDA an affidavit of compliance stating the fact and manner of compliance with this paragraph and identifying the names, addresses, and positions of all Associated Persons located in the U.S. who have received a copy of this Decree.

21. In addition to the requirements in paragraph 8, Defendants shall notify FDA at least ten (10) business days before any change in ownership or character of their business, such as dissolution, assignment, bankruptcy, or sale resulting in emergence of a successor corporation, the creation or dissolution of subsidiaries, or any other change in the corporate structure of any Corporate Defendant, or the sale or assignment of any business assets, such as buildings, equipment, or inventory, that, in each case, may affect compliance with this Decree. Defendants shall provide a copy of this Decree to any proposed successor or assignee at least thirty (30) business days prior to making any assignment or transferring any interest in the company as described in this paragraph. Defendants shall furnish FDA with an affidavit of compliance with this paragraph no later than ten (10) business days prior to such assignment or change in ownership.

22. In the event that any of the Defendants becomes associated with any additional Associated Person(s) at any time after entry of this Decree, Defendants shall within ten (10) business days of the commencement of such association provide a copy of this Decree, by electronic mail, personal service, or certified mail (restricted delivery, return receipt requested), to such Associated Person(s). Every six (6) months, if during that time Defendants become associated with any such additional Associated Person(s), Defendants shall provide to FDA an affidavit stating the fact and manner of their compliance with this paragraph, identifying the names, addresses, and positions of all Associated Person(s) who received a copy of this Decree pursuant to this paragraph. Within ten (10) business days after receiving a request from FDA for any information or documentation that FDA deems necessary to evaluate Defendants' compliance with this paragraph, Defendants shall provide such information or documentation to FDA.

23. In the event Defendants replace any third-party expert or auditor required under this Decree, Defendants shall notify FDA in writing of the successor to such third-party expert or auditor and Defendants' reasons for replacing the expert or auditor within ten (10) business days after such replacement. In satisfying the requirements of this Decree, any third-party expert or auditor may review the previous expert's or auditor's work, and refer to such work to satisfy the requirements of the Decree; however, when such work is referenced by the new expert or auditor, s/he shall identify the specific prior work referenced.

24. Unless otherwise specified, all notifications, certifications, reports, correspondence, and other communications to FDA required by the terms of this Decree shall be addressed to the Director, FDA New England District Office, One Montvale Avenue, Stoneham, MA 02180. All notifications, correspondence, and communications required to be sent to Defendants or Corporate Defendants by the terms of the Decree shall be addressed to the General Counsel's Office, Maquet/Atrium Shared Legal Group, 1300 MacArthur Boulevard, Mahwah, NJ 07430.

25. Should Defendants fail to comply with any provision of this Decree, including any time frame imposed by this Decree, at any Specified or Additional Facility, then Corporate Defendants shall pay to the United States of America: fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) in liquidated damages for each day such violation continues; an additional sum of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) in liquidated damages per day, per violation for each violation of the Act, its implementing regulations, and/or this Decree. In addition, should Defendants distribute from any Specified or Additional Facility after entry of this Decree any device that violates this Decree, the Act, or its implementing regulations, Corporate Defendants shall, in addition to the foregoing, also pay to the United States as liquidated damages a sum equal to two times the retail value of such devices. The amount of liquidated damages imposed under this paragraph shall not exceed ten million dollars ($10,000,000) in any one calendar year. The parties acknowledge that any payments to the government under any provision of this Decree are not a fine, penalty, forfeiture, or payment in lieu thereof. The remedy in this paragraph shall be in addition to any other remedies available to the United States under this Decree or the law.

26. Should the United States bring and prevail in a contempt action to enforce the terms of this Decree, Corporate Defendants shall, in addition to other remedies, reimburse the United States for its attorneys' fees (including overhead), investigational and analytical expenses, expert witness fees, and court costs relating to such contempt proceedings.

27. Defendants shall abide by the decisions of FDA, and FDA's decisions shall be final. All decisions conferred upon FDA in this Decree shall be vested in FDA's discretion and, if contested, shall be reviewed by this Court under the arbitrary and capricious standard set forth in 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A). Review by the Court of any FDA decision rendered pursuant to this Decree shall be based exclusively on the written record before FDA at the time the decision was made. No discovery shall be taken by either party.

28. The parties may at any time petition each other in writing to modify any deadline provided herein; and, if the parties mutually agree in writing to modify a deadline, such modification may be granted without seeking leave of Court.

29. If any deadline in this Decree falls on a weekend or federal holiday, the deadline shall be continued to the next business day.

30. If, and for as long as, an individual Defendant ceases to be employed by or to act on behalf of Corporate Defendants or any of their subsidiaries, franchises, affiliates and/or "doing business as" entities (the "Corporate Defendant Entities"), then, without further order of the Court, that individual Defendant shall not be subject to the terms of this Decree but shall continue to be liable for such individual Defendant's act(s) or failure(s) to act under this Decree prior to the time such individual ceased to be employed by or to act on behalf of all of the

DocuSign Envelope ID: 0FF12DAC-D75C-4E6A-8D29-CFE52ADF9A4F

Corporate Defendant Entities. An individual Defendant shall notify FDA within thirty days after said Defendant ceases to be employed by or to act on behalf of all of the Corporate Defendant Entities. Once an individual Defendant ceases to be employed or otherwise act for all of the Corporate Defendant Entities, Corporate Defendants shall petition the Court to formally remove that individual Defendant's name from the caption of this Decree and the United States will not oppose such a motion, so long as FDA has sufficient evidence or information that the individual Defendant to be removed is no longer directly or indirectly working for or with, or in any way influencing, Corporate Defendant Entities. If Defendant Gail Christie's responsibilities are materially reduced, or the position of Corporate Chief Quality Assurance/Regulatory Affairs and Compliance Officer is eliminated, Corporate Defendants shall petition the Court to substitute for her as an individual Defendant either her successor as Corporate Chief Quality Assurance/Regulatory Affairs and Compliance Officer or the individual vested with responsibility for all quality system functions, as described in paragraph 12 ("Christie Substitute Defendant"). The United States will not oppose such a motion, so long as FDA has sufficient evidence or information that the Christie Substitute Defendant is vested with responsibility for all quality system functions, as described in paragraph 12. If removing an individual Defendant would result in no individual Defendant being subject to this Decree, Corporate Defendants shall designate an individual of similar position and responsibility to be substituted as an individual Defendant ("Substitute Individual Defendant"). Corporate Defendants shall petition the Court to add the Substitute Individual Defendant to the Decree and the United States will not oppose such a motion so long as FDA has sufficient evidence or information regarding the Substitute Individual Defendant's position and responsibilities. The obligations under this Decree of each individual named herein and any Substitute Defendant shall apply only to the extent of his or her authority, responsibilities, and conduct within Maquet Holding B.V. & Co. KG and/or the Corporate Defendant Entities.

31. This Court retains jurisdiction over this action and the parties thereto for the purpose of enforcing and modifying this Decree and for the purpose of granting such additional relief as may be necessary or appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

History of Business

Upjohn US 1 LLC, part of the Upjohn division of Pfizer, maintained Virtual Manufacturer registration #092-1679 with NCDA&CS from its location in Peapack, NJ. Following the sale of the Upjohn division and the merger of Mylan and Upjohn as Viatris, Inc. in 2020, it became a subsidiary of Viatris. Upjohn US 1 became Viatris Specialty, established as a limited liability corporation in Delaware in January 2022, and relocated operations from its former location to the Mylan distribution center in Greensboro in February 2022.

Person(s) Interviewed and Individual Responsibility

Credentials were presented to and Notice of Inspection issued to Mr. Chad Wittenbrook, Designated Representative. He and representatives of Mylan Pharmaceuticals, including Mr. Bob Teper, Director of Distribution Operations, Mr. Steven Sharples, Head of Quality, Ms. Janet Kinsley, Quality Assurance Director, and Ms. Elizabeth Joyce, Manager of Regulatory Compliance/Inventory Control, provided requested documents for review and answered questions and provided information relative to Greenstone business operations.

Background

This visit was the initial inspection of this virtual manufacturer of prescription drugs following relocation into this state. The purpose of this inspection was to verify compliance with NCGS §106 Article 12 and Article 12A prior to registration approval at this facility. Viatris Specialty LLC operated as Upjohn US 1 prior to relocation and maintained active registration #092-1584 in good standing with NCDA&CS at its NJ location.

Operations

Viatris Specialty LLC, previously part of the Upjohn division of pharmaceutical manufacturer Pfizer, now operates as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Viatris, Inc. They utilize contract manufacturing organizations and a third-party logistics (3PL) provider for drug product storage and distribution.

Business operations for Viatris Specialty are now based at the Mylan Pharmaceuticals distribution center, which serves as the primary 3PL provider for all Viatris Specialty prescription drug products; the Mylan facility maintains active 3PL license #094-372 in good standing with NCDA&CS and is routinely inspected annually for compliance. Viatris Specialty has established a written policy defining existing Mylan procedures for product receipt, storage, management, rotation, recall, and quarantine that will be applicable to all Viatris Specialty drug products delivered to this facility.

Observations

There were no significant objectionable conditions noted during the inspection; registration as a Virtual Manufacturer at this location is approved.

Compliance

This firm will be re-inspected on a routine or as-needed basis.

Case No. 2018-4829

STIPULATION AND FINAL AGENCY ORDER

IN THE MATTER OF DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS REGARDING THE NON-RESIDENT WHOLESALER REGISTRATION IN THE STATE OF COLORADO OF FEDEX SUPPLY CHAIN, INC., REGISTRATION NO. WHO 7476, Respondent Outlet.

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED by and between the Colorado State Board of Pharmacy ("Board") and FedEx Supply Chain, Inc. ("Respondent Outlet") to resolve all matters pertaining to Board Case Number 2018-4829, as follows:

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

1. The Board has jurisdiction over Respondent Outlet, its registration as a non-resident wholesaler outlet, and the subject matter of this Stipulation and Final Agency Order ("Final Agency Order") pursuant to the Pharmacists, Pharmacy Businesses, and Pharmaceuticals Act at Title 12, Article 42.5, C.R.S. (2018).

2. Respondent Outlet was originally registered in the State of Colorado on or about January 13, 2009, being issued registration number WHO 7476, and has been so registered at all times relevant to this disciplinary action.

3. Respondent Outlet's address of record with the Board and current location is 1600 Ruffin Mill Rd., Bldg. E, Colonial Heights, VA 23834.

4. Respondent Outlet admits these findings and hereby waives any further proof in this proceeding before the Board regarding the following facts.

5. Respondent Outlet failed to timely submit an application to the Board detailing a change in designated representative and fee. In this case, 524 days transpired between December 1, 2014, the date the previous designated representative ceased the position, and October 1, 2016, the date the application and fee were received.

6. On or about June 21, 2018, the Board initiated a complaint against Respondent Outlet because of the delay of 524 days in submitting an application for change in designated representative and fee.

7. Respondent Outlet's conduct, as set forth above, constitutes violations of the following sections of the Colorado Revised Statutes and Board Regulations:

Colorado Revised Statutes

12-42.5-123. Unprofessional conduct - grounds for discipline.

(1) The board may suspend, revoke, refuse to renew, or otherwise discipline any license or registration issued by it, after a hearing held in accordance with the provisions of this section, upon proof that the licensee or registrant:

(c) Has violated:

(II) The lawful rules of the board;

(k) Has failed to meet generally accepted standards of pharmacy practice.

12-42.5-303. Wholesaler license requirements.

(5) The designated representative of an applicant for a wholesaler license shall:

(i) Update all of the information required in this part 3 whenever changes occur.

Pharmacy Board Rules and Regulations

15.01.11 Minimum required information for registration.

b. Changes in any information in section 15.01.11 shall be submitted to the Board within thirty calendar days thereof.

15.01.14 Change of name, location, or ownership, or designated representative.

c. Any change in the designated representative of a wholesaler shall be reported to the Board on a form supplied by the Board within thirty (30) calendar days of such change. The incoming designated representative must undergo the required background check.

TERMS OF DISCIPLINE

8. Fine with Surcharge. Pursuant to section 12-42.5-124(5)(a)(I), C.R.S., Respondent Outlet shall pay a fine of One Thousand Dollars and No Cents ($1,000.00). Respondent Outlet understands and acknowledges that, pursuant to section 24-34-108, C.R.S., the Executive Director of the Department of Regulatory Agencies shall impose an additional surcharge of 15% of this fine. Respondent Outlet shall therefore pay a total amount of One Thousand One Hundred Fifty Dollars and No Cents ($1,150.00). The total amount shall be payable to the State of Colorado and shall be remitted in one (1) lump sum to be included when Respondent Outlet submits this signed Final Agency Order to the Board. Respondent Outlet shall write its registration number (WHO 7476) and the case number (2018-4829) on the check.

9. Compliance. Respondent Outlet shall report all future applications and appropriate fees to the Board detailing changes in designated representative within the required time frame specified by Board rule or statute in effect at the time of such change in designated representative.

10. Other Requirements. Respondent Outlet acknowledges and agrees that, as a condition of this Final Agency Order, Respondent Outlet shall:

    a. promptly pay all Respondent Outlet's own fees and costs associated with this Final Agency Order;

    b. comply fully with this Final Agency Order; and

    c. comply fully with the Pharmacists, Pharmacy Businesses and Pharmaceuticals Act, all Board rules and regulations, and any other state and federal laws and regulations related to wholesaler outlets and pharmaceuticals in the State of Colorado.

11. Advisements and Waivers. Through its undersigned Authorized Representative, Respondent Outlet enters into this Final Agency Order freely and voluntarily, after having the opportunity to consult with legal counsel and/or choosing not to do so. Respondent Outlet acknowledges its understanding that it has the following rights:

    a. to have formal notice of hearing and charges served upon it;

    b. to respond to said formal notice of charges;

    c. to have a formal disciplinary hearing pursuant to sections 12-42.5-123 and 12-42.5-124, C.R.S.; and

    d. to appeal this Final Agency Order.

    Respondent Outlet freely waives these rights, and acknowledges that such waiver is made voluntarily in consideration for the Board's limiting the action taken against Respondent Outlet to the sanctions imposed herein.

12. Acknowledgments. The undersigned Authorized Representative of Respondent Outlet has read this Final Agency Order in its entirety and acknowledges, after having the opportunity to consult with legal counsel and/or choosing not to do so, that Respondent Outlet understands the legal consequences and agrees that none of the terms or conditions herein is unconscionable. Respondent Outlet is not relying on any statements, promises or representations from the Board other than as may be contained in this Final Agency Order. Respondent Outlet further acknowledges that it is not entering into this Final Agency Order under any duress.

13. Violations. Time is of the essence in this Final Agency Order. It is the responsibility of Respondent Outlet to take all appropriate steps to comply fully with this Final Agency Order. Respondent Outlet acknowledges and agrees that any violation of this Final Agency Order shall constitute a willful violation of a lawful Board order, may be sanctioned as provided under section 12-42.5-124(4), C.R.S., and may be sufficient grounds for additional discipline, including but not limited to revocation of Respondent Outlet's registration. The pendency of any suspension or disciplinary action arising out of an alleged violation of this Final Agency Order shall not affect the obligation of Respondent Outlet to comply with all terms and conditions of this Final Agency Order.

14. Completion of Terms. Upon satisfactory completion of all terms and conditions set forth in this Final Agency Order, the Board shall release Respondent Outlet from the Final Agency Order, and Respondent Outlet's registration will be restored to active and unencumbered status.

15. Integration and Severability. Upon execution by all parties, this Final Agency Order shall represent the entire and final agreement of and between the parties. In the event any provision of this Final Agency Order is deemed invalid or unenforceable by a court of law, it shall be severed and the remaining provisions of this Final Agency Order shall be given full force and effect.

16. Public Record. Upon execution by all parties, this Final Agency Order shall be a public record, maintained in the custody of the Board.

17. Board Order. This Final Agency Order shall become an order of the Board when it is accepted and signed by the Program Director or authorized Board representative.

18. Effective Date. This Final Agency Order shall become effective upon (a) mailing by first-class mail to Respondent Outlet at Respondent Outlet's address of record with the Board, or (b) service by electronic means on Respondent Outlet at Respondent Outlet's electronic address of record with the Board. McKesson Corporation and its wholly owned subsidiaries (hereinafter "McKesson") delivers pharmaceutical and medical products and business services to retail pharmacies and institutional providers like hospitals and health systems throughout North America and globally. Over the past 185 years, McKesson has developed multiple businesses that operate pharmacies, medical supply distribution centers, wholesale drug distribution centers, 3PL facilities, repackaging facilities, and other entities subject to federal and state regulation. Currently, McKesson owns and operates over 100 facilities in the United States that are licensed, permitted, or registered with the respective state agency with jurisdiction over its business type. Due to the breadth of its operations, it is practical that we limit this summary to disciplinary actions taken against these facilities during the last five years or the time frame specified in the question. The information in this statement is provided to the best of our knowledge and belief and includes all public disciplinary actions. This statement does not include any fines that are deemed non-disciplinary by the issuing state (for example, it does not include non-disciplinary Citations and Fines issued by California). Please let us know if your state requires information regarding non-disciplinary fines.

In January 2017, McKesson entered into an agreement (the "DEA Settlement") with the DEA and DOJ to settle all potential administrative and civil claims stemming from investigation into McKesson's practices for identifying and reporting suspicious orders of controlled substances, beginning in 2009. Under the settlement McKesson agreed to pay $150 million and to implement remedial measures related to its controlled substances monitoring program. Ms. Herrera,

Thank you for your message.

Although Minnesota requires anyone engaged in wholesale drug distribution to obtain a license from the Board of Pharmacy, Minnesota does not license or register companies that exclusive manufacture, distribute or supply medical devices. MINN. STAT. § 151.47. The Board of Pharmacy website, General FAQs / https://mn.gov/boards/pharmacy/resourcesfaqs/faqs/generalfaqs.jspMinnesota Board of Pharmacy (mn.gov), explains this and contains the following FAQ under the "Licenses and Registrations" section:

> Does the Minnesota Board of Pharmacy license or register medical device or medical supply manufacturers, wholesale distributors, supplies or retailers?
> The Board does not license or register companies that exclusively manufacture, distribute, supply or sell medical devices or supplies. If a company that handles medical devices or supplies also manufactures or distributes drugs, it must be licensed as a drug manufacturer or drug wholesaler. Exception if the drug is coated on or embedded in the device (e.g. drug-coated stents) and the resultant product is approved by the FDA as a device, the company does not have to be licensed as a manufacturer or wholesale distributor.

A list of our employees is attached. Thank you for your efforts and please let me know if anything further is needed.

Cautionary Note on Forward-Looking Statements

This Annual Report on Form 10-K contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. We intend such forward-looking statements to be covered by the safe harbor provisions for forward-looking statements contained in Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act") and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"). All statements other than statements of historical facts contained in this Annual Report on Form 10-K are forward-looking statements, including statements regarding our future results of operations and financial position, business strategy, the impact of the ongoing and global COVID-19 pandemic on our business, financial results and financial position, clinical trial results, prospective products, product approvals, research and development costs, timing and likelihood of success and the plans and objectives of management for future operations.

In some cases, you can identify forward-looking statements by terms such as "may," "will," "should," "expect," "plan," "anticipate," "could," "intend," "target," "project," "contemplate," "believe," "estimate," "predict," "potential" or "continue" or the negative of these terms or other similar expressions, although not all forward-looking statements contain these words. The forward-looking statements in this Annual Report on Form 10-K are only predictions and are based largely on our current expectations and projections about future events and financial trends that we believe may affect our business, financial condition and results of operations. These forward-looking statements speak only as of the date of this Annual Report on Form 10-K and are subject to a number of known and unknown risks, uncertainties and assumptions, including, but not limited to, the important factors discussed in Part I, Item 1A. "Risk Factors" in this Annual Report on Form 10-K, which are summarized below. Moreover, we operate in an evolving environment. New risk factors and uncertainties may emerge from time to time, and it is not possible for management to predict all risk factors and uncertainties.

You should read this Annual Report on Form 10-K and the documents that we reference in this Annual Report on Form 10-K completely and with the understanding that our actual future results may be materially different from what we expect. We qualify all of our forward-looking statements by these cautionary statements. Except as required by applicable law, we do not plan to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statements contained herein, whether as a result of any new information, future events, changed circumstances or otherwise.

Summary Risk Factors

Our business is subject to numerous risks and uncertainties, including those described in Part I, Item 1A. "Risk Factors" in this Annual Report on Form 10-K. You should carefully consider these risks and uncertainties when investing in our common stock. The principal risks and uncertainties affecting our business include, but are not limited to, the following:

- we have a history of significant losses, which we expect to continue and we may not be able to achieve or sustain profitability;
- our principal stockholders, management and directors (four of whom are affiliated with our principal stockholders) own a significant percentage of our stock and will be able to exert significant control over matters subject to stockholder approval;
- we have a limited history operating as a commercial company and are highly dependent on a single product, Barostim and the failure to obtain market acceptance in the U.S. for Barostim would negatively impact our business, liquidity and results of operations;
- we have limited commercial sales experience marketing and selling Barostim, and if we are unable to establish and maintain sales and marketing capabilities, we will be unable to successfully commercialize Barostim or generate sustained and increasing product revenue;

- we must demonstrate to physicians and patients the merits of Barostim;

Table of Contents

- if third-party payors do not provide adequate coverage and reimbursement for the use of Barostim, our revenue will be negatively impacted;
- our industry is competitive; if our competitors, many of which are large, well-established companies with substantially greater resources than us and have a long history of competing in the heart failure market, are better able to develop and market products that are safer, more effective, less costly, easier to use or otherwise more attractive than Barostim, our business will be adversely impacted;
- if we fail to receive access to hospitals, our sales may decrease;
- we are dependent upon third-party manufacturers and suppliers, and in some cases a limited number of suppliers, making us vulnerable to supply shortages, loss or degradation in performance of the suppliers and price fluctuations, which could harm our business;
- manufacturing risks may adversely affect our ability to manufacture our product and could reduce our gross margin and profitability;
- a pandemic, epidemic or outbreak of an infectious disease in the U.S. or worldwide, including the outbreak of the novel strain of coronavirus disease, COVID-19, could adversely affect our business;
- we may face product liability claims that could be costly, divert management s attention and harm our reputation;
- we may in the future become involved in lawsuits to protect or enforce our intellectual property, which could be expensive and time consuming, and ultimately unsuccessful, and could result in the diversion of significant resources, thereby hindering our ability to effectively commercialize our existing or future products;
- if we fail to retain our key executives or recruit and hire new employees, our operations and financial results may be adversely affected while we attract other highly qualified personnel; and
- we will continue to obtain long-term clinical data regarding the safety and efficacy of our products, which could impact future adoption and regulatory approvals.

PART I

Item 1. Business

Overview

We are a commercial-stage medical device company focused on developing, manufacturing and commercializing innovative and minimally invasive neuromodulation solutions for patients with cardiovascular diseases. Our proprietary platform technology, Barostim, is designed to leverage the power of the brain to address the imbalance of the Autonomic Nervous System ("ANS"), which causes heart failure ("HF") and other cardiovascular diseases. Our second-generation product, Barostim, is the first and only commercially available neuromodulation device indicated to improve symptoms for patients with HF with reduced Ejection Fraction ("HFrEF"), or systolic HF. Barostim provides Baroreflex Activation Therapy ("BAT," or "Barostim Therapy") by sending imperceptible and persistent electrical pulses to baroreceptors located in the wall of the carotid artery to signal the brain to modulate the cardiovascular function. We have developed a significant body of published clinical evidence that supports the strong value proposition of Barostim Therapy and its ability to meaningfully improve the quality of life for patients suffering from HFrEF. We estimate that our initial annual market opportunity for HFrEF is $1.4 billion in the U.S. and $1.5 billion in select European Markets (Germany, France, Italy, Spain and the United Kingdom, or "EU5").

HF is one of the most prevalent and devastating cardiovascular diseases. We estimate that there are approximately 26 million people globally suffering from HF, including approximately 6.2 million people in the U.S. and 8.6 million people in EU5. Every year, 1.3 million and 1.4 million new patients are diagnosed with HF in the U.S. and select EU5, respectively. HF is characterized by the heart's inability to effectively circulate blood throughout the body resulting in insufficient levels of oxygen and nourishment to various body parts. This impacts a patient's ability to function and leads to a variety of symptoms such as shortness of breath, extreme fatigue, exercise intolerance, swelling and fluid retention that affects the patient's quality of life, both physically and emotionally. HF usually develops from an imbalance of the ANS, which is also the primary cause of multiple other cardiovascular diseases, such as hypertension, angina pectoris and arrhythmia. The ANS plays a vital role in the function of the heart and is strongly influenced by baroreceptors located in certain arterial walls.

We are currently focused on the treatment of patients with HFrEF, which represents approximately 40% of the patients with HF. In HFrEF, the left ventricle loses its ability to contract properly, resulting in insufficient power to pump and push the necessary quantities of blood into circulation. Approximately 75% of HFrEF patients die within five years of being admitted to the hospital for HFrEF. Patients with HFrEF are typically placed on a treatment progression plan during which they are initially given Guideline Directed Medical Therapy ("GDMT") to help manage symptoms, and then progress to more invasive and costly treatment options involving other implantable devices with the most severe patients often requiring Left Ventricular Assist Devices ("LVADs") or heart transplants. These other implantable devices mostly target different HFrEF patient populations, may require an invasive procedure that places hardware directly inside the heart, and are not designed to address the imbalance of the ANS that causes the disease. We believe there is a significant need and market opportunity for a safe, effective and minimally invasive device-based treatment option for HFrEF.

We believe Barostim offers meaningful benefits for patients, physicians and payors that will continue to drive adoption of our therapy. The primary benefits include:

- Addresses significant unmet medical need. Barostim addresses a life-threatening disease for patients who failed to receive adequate benefits from existing treatments and who have no alternative treatment options. Based on this, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (the "FDA") granted Barostim a Breakthrough Device designation for HFrEF in June 2015.

- Safe and effective treatment. Our BeAT-HF pivotal trial demonstrated compelling safety and effectiveness data regarding the clinical benefits of Barostim for HFrEF. These results showed significant improvement in the following patient-centered outcomes:

Table of Contents

- Quality of life (measured by Minnesota Living with Heart Failure ("MLWHF")): Our therapy demonstrated a 14-point improvement in quality of life for patients in the device arm relative to patients in the control arm. A 5-point improvement is considered clinically meaningful.

- Exercise capacity (measured by the standardized 6 Minute Hall Walk ("6MHW") distance test): Our therapy demonstrated that patients in the device arm were able to improve the distance they walked in a six-minute period by 60 meters more than patients in the control arm. A 25-meter improvement in walking distance is considered clinically meaningful.

- Functional status (determined by New York Heart Association ("NYHA") classification): Our therapy demonstrated that 65% of patients in the device arm improved at least one NYHA class as compared to only 31% in the control arm, with 13% of patients improving two NYHA classes in the device arm as compared to only 2% in the control arm.

- Widely accepted mechanism of action. Our platform technology is based on a widely accepted mechanism of action and is designed to address the imbalance of the ANS, which causes HFrEF and other cardiovascular diseases.

- Strong global clinical evidence. The benefits of treatment with Barostim were shown to be similarly robust and reproducible across all three of our HF clinical studies, including BAT-in-HF (Phase I), HOPE4HF (Phase II) and BeAT-HF (Phase III pivotal trial), evaluating 624 patients in aggregate across the U.S., Germany, Italy, France, Canada and the United Kingdom. Barostim Therapy's trial results have been published in more than 60 peer-reviewed publications, approximately 20 of which relate to the treatment of HF, including, among others, the Journal of the American College of Cardiology.

- Minimally invasive implant procedure. Barostim's implantable pulse generator ("IPG") and stimulation lead are implanted during a minimally invasive procedure typically performed in an outpatient setting that lasts approximately one hour and involves two small skin incisions. Our device does not require hardware to be implanted in the heart or vasculature, which is the case with most other device-based treatments indicated for different HFrEF patient populations. Patients typically recover quickly and are discharged from the hospital within 24 hours of the procedure.

- Potential reduction in total healthcare costs for HFrEF patients. A Company-sponsored and co-authored cost-impact analysis, which was published in BMC Cardiovascular Disorders, a peer-reviewed manuscript, predicted that BAT plus GDMT would become the lower-cost alternative treatment within three years from implantation, as compared to GDMT alone, resulting in significant cost savings to healthcare systems.

- Inherent patient compliance and durability. Barostim ensures patient compliance, unlike most commercially available drug treatments, as it requires no device interaction by the patient. Our device has a battery that does not require recharging, has an average service life of five years and is replaced through a short outpatient procedure.

Barostim is a minimally invasive neuromodulation device that consists of two implantable components, an IPG and a stimulation lead and is programmed by a wireless clinician-controlled programmer that communicates with the IPG. The IPG contains the electronics and battery in a hermetic enclosure and controls and delivers the imperceptible and persistent electrical pulses to the carotid baroreceptors through the stimulation lead attached to the exterior wall of the carotid artery. These electrical pulses delivered to the baroreceptors increase signals to the brain to modulate the cardiovascular function, thereby improving symptoms of HFrEF. Our wireless programmer allows physicians to verify and customize the therapy to the patient's needs by adjusting the intensity and frequency of the electrical pulses.

We have developed a significant clinical data set that demonstrates the safety, effectiveness, patient adherence and durable benefits of Barostim Therapy. Our BeAT-HF pivotal trial, which was a multi-center, prospective, randomized, controlled trial, met the primary safety and effectiveness endpoints and demonstrated meaningful improvement in the quality of life, both physically and emotionally, for patients suffering from HFrEF. These results led to FDA Premarket Approval ("PMA") approval of Barostim in August 2019 on an accelerated basis of only four months from the submission of the clinical trial report. We continue to develop and expand upon our significant body of published clinical evidence that supports the meaningful benefits of Barostim Therapy. We have also established a U.S. patient registry to evaluate and assess real world outcomes from HFrEF patients who have been implanted with Barostim.

We primarily sell Barostim to hospitals through a direct sales organization in the U.S. and Germany and through distributors in Austria, Spain, Italy, the Nordic region and other European countries. Our global sales and marketing team engages in sales efforts and promotional activities focused on electrophysiologists ("EPs"), HF specialists, general cardiologists and vascular surgeons. We are prioritizing our sales and marketing efforts on high volume EP centers that are strategically located and on building long-standing relationships with key physicians. We support these physicians through all aspects of the patient journey, which includes initial diagnosis, surgical support and patient follow-up. We also highlight our compelling clinical benefits and value proposition to build awareness and adoption among physicians through targeted key opinion leader ("KOL") development, referral network education and direct-to-consumer marketing. We utilize direct communication channels to inform and educate patients about Barostim Therapy and utilize a qualification process to aid in the identification of the appropriate patients for our therapy. In the U.S., Barostim is fully reimbursed by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS") across all regions. We offer assistance to patients and providers with reimbursement approvals, if required. We plan to continue actively expanding our direct sales force and commercial organization in the U.S., which is where we expect to focus most of our sales and marketing efforts in the near-term.

The primary focus of our research and development efforts in the near-term will be the continued technological advancement of Barostim, including tools to simplify the implant procedure for physicians. In 2022, we expect to launch an enhanced IPG that will be approximately 10% smaller in size and improve the battery life by approximately 20% to an average of six years. We are also developing a new implant toolkit called BATwire, which enables an ultrasound-guided implant procedure to implant Barostim and the use of local anesthetics, potentially expanding our annual market opportunity in the U.S. In the future, we plan to explore Barostim's potential to expand its indications for use to other cardiovascular diseases, including different forms of HF, hypertension and arrhythmias. Expansions into these or other new indications would require additional FDA approvals and may involve additional clinical trials or modifications to Barostim to treat such indications. If clinical studies for future indications do not produce results necessary to support regulatory clearance or approval in the U.S. or elsewhere, we will be unable to commercialize our products for these indications.

We generated revenue of $13.0 million, a gross margin of 72% and a net loss of $43.1 million for the year ended December 31, 2021, compared to revenue of $6.1 million, a gross margin of 76% and a net loss of $14.1 million for the year ended December 31, 2020. Revenue for 2020 and 2021 was negatively impacted due to the global pandemic associated with COVID-19. Specifically, in March 2020, healthcare facilities and clinics began restricting in-person access to their clinicians, reducing patient consultations and treatments or temporarily closing their facilities. As a result, beginning in the second week of March 2020, substantially all of our then-scheduled procedures were postponed, and numerous other cases could not be scheduled. During May 2020, the widespread shutdown resulted in key physician-society conferences being moved to a virtual setting, which directly impacted the commercial launch in the U.S. By the beginning of the fourth quarter of 2020, implant centers had resumed procedures in the U.S. and Europe. Procedure volumes were negatively impacted by the Delta and Omicron variants of COVID-19 in the third and fourth quarters of 2021. Our accumulated deficit as of December 31, 2021 and 2020 was $394.8 million and $351.7 million, respectively.

Our success factors

We are focused on transforming the lives of patients suffering from cardiovascular diseases by developing, manufacturing, and commercializing innovative and minimally invasive neuromodulation solutions, which we believe offer a compelling value proposition for large and significantly underpenetrated markets. We believe the continued growth of our company will be driven by the following success factors:

Table of Contents

- Novel solution offering meaningful clinical benefits to an underserved patient population suffering from HFrEF. Barostim is the first and only commercially available neuromodulation device indicated to improve symptoms for HFrEF patients who currently have no viable device-based treatment alternatives. Barostim has demonstrated clinically meaningful symptomatic improvement across industry-standard HF patient-centered outcomes. Our therapy works by sending persistent and imperceptible electrical pulses to baroreceptors located in the wall of the carotid artery, which increases signals to the brain to modulate the cardiovascular function, thereby improving symptoms of HFrEF. Barostim's IPG and stimulation lead are implanted and sutured subcutaneously during a one-hour, minimally invasive procedure with no hardware implanted in the heart or vasculature. Additionally, once implanted, Barostim has an average service life of five years and an implantable battery that does not require recharging. Barostim ensures patient compliance, unlike most commercially available drug treatments, as it requires no device interaction by the patient. With these features, we believe the revolutionary Barostim has the potential to transform the treatment paradigm and become the standard of care for many of the 26 million people worldwide with HFrEF, representing an initial annual market opportunity of $2.9 billion.

- Significant body of clinical evidence targeting a widely accepted mechanism of action. The benefits of treatment with Barostim were similarly robust and reproducible across our three HFrEF clinical studies, including BAT-in-HF (Phase I), HOPE4HF (Phase II) and BeAT-HF (Phase III pivotal trial), evaluating 624 patients in aggregate across the U.S., Germany, Italy, France, Canada and the United Kingdom. Our HOPE4HF clinical trial results led to CE Mark approval and FDA Breakthrough Device designation for HFrEF, and our BeAT-HF pivotal trial results led to FDA approval on an accelerated basis of only four months from the submission of the clinical trial report. Our trial results have been published in more than 60 peer-reviewed publications, approximately 20 of which relate to the treatment of HF, including, among others, the Journal of the American College of Cardiology. The BeAT-HF pivotal trial, which was a multi-center, prospective, randomized, controlled trial, met its primary endpoints and the positive safety and effectiveness data exceeded the pre-specified performance criteria across multiple dimensions, which measure the improvement in the quality of the patients' daily lives. Importantly, the significant benefits of our therapy were observed despite a four-fold uptake of ARNI in the control arm, as compared to the device arm.

- Favorable reimbursement paradigm for both outpatient and inpatient settings. Barostim is currently indicated for HFrEF patients, 67% of whom are above the age of 65, and therefore are eligible for Medicare or Medicare Advantage. In the U.S., Barostim is reimbursed for outpatient and inpatient procedures by the CMS, with established coverage policies and Current Procedural Terminology ("CPT") payment codes. Barostim Therapy is eligible for payment across all seven local Medicare administrative contractor ("MAC") regions, representing 38 million covered lives as of July 2020. Of note, CMS awarded Barostim Transitional Pass-Through ("TPT") payment for outpatient procedures that adds the device cost as a pass-through to the calculated procedure cost in the payment code, which took effect in January 2021. In addition, CMS awarded Barostim a New Technology Add-on Payment ("NTAP") for inpatient procedures in the amount of 65% of the device cost that is incremental to reimbursement provided for the implant procedure, which took effect in October 2020. As part of our ongoing reimbursement strategy to broaden payor coverage, we are currently building a dedicated market access team to help patients and providers work with private payors to secure the appropriate prior authorization approvals in advance of initial treatment, which we believe will drive additional positive coverage outcomes for up to approximately 20% of our target-indicated patient population.

- Targeted and methodical approach to market development in the U.S. We have established a systematic approach to market development that centers on active engagement with physicians and patients. Our direct sales organization is focused on prioritizing high volume EP centers that are strategically located and on building long-standing relationships with key physicians. We support these physicians through all aspects of the patient journey, which includes initial patient diagnosis, surgical support and patient follow-up. Due to the lack of commercially available device-based treatments for our target-indicated patient population, our sales force is keenly focused on increasing awareness by educating referral physicians on the compelling clinical results and strong value proposition of Barostim Therapy. We build upon this multi-pronged approach with direct-to-consumer marketing initiatives which help to educate patients and frequently results in patient leads. We believe that our approach to engagement across multiple stakeholders will continue to drive increased awareness of, and demand for, our therapy.

- Platform technology protected by a comprehensive and broad IP portfolio. We developed an integrated platform technology, Barostim, which is designed to leverage the power of the brain and nervous system to address the primary cause of HF and other cardiovascular diseases. Barostim is our second-generation HFrEF product, which is FDA approved and CE Marked, providing access to an initial estimated annual market opportunity of $2.9 billion in the U.S. and EU5. While we are currently focused on the treatment of HFrEF patients with limited viable device-based treatment alternatives, we believe our platform technology has the potential to provide benefits to a broader set of patients suffering from cardiovascular diseases. Our platform technology is supported by our comprehensive portfolio of wholly owned intellectual property, which includes patents, know-how and trade secrets, including therapy regimens, IPGs, leads and electrodes, delivery tools and implant methods. As of December 31, 2021, we owned 54 issued U.S. patents and had three pending U.S. patent applications. Outside of the U.S., we owned seven patents in multiple countries and had one pending application. Our trademark portfolio contains nine trademarks in the U.S. and multiple other countries.

- Experienced management team with deep expertise in the HF market and supported by key investors. Our senior management team has over 180 years of combined experience in the medical technology industry. Specifically, our team has extensive operating experience in product development, regulatory approval and commercialization activities as well as established relationships with industry specialists in the academic, clinical and commercial HF markets. Members of our management team have served in leadership positions with well-regarded medical technology companies such as Medtronic, Boston Scientific/Guidant, Abbott/St. Jude and General Electric, as well as flag-ship industry societies, including AdvaMed. Since our founding, we have been supported by leading medical technology investors including Johnson & Johnson Development Corp., New Enterprise Associates, Gilde Healthcare Partners, Vensana Capital, Treo Ventures and Action Potential Venture Capital, among others.

Our growth drivers

Our mission is to capitalize upon our first mover advantage to become the global leader in providing clinically proven, innovative and minimally invasive neuromodulation solutions that improve the health of patients with HFrEF and other cardiovascular diseases. Our strategic levers to drive continued growth are as follows:

- Continue to build a commercialization infrastructure with a specialized direct sales and marketing team in the U.S. We have grown our commercial team in the U.S. to include a direct sales force with substantial applicable medical device sales and clinical experience. Similarly, our marketing team has a significant amount of domain expertise and a strong track record of success. Our Account Managers, along with the support from our Clinical Field Specialists, are responsible for establishing, growing and supporting implant centers and referral physicians. We plan to expand our commercial organization in the U.S. by adding a strategic mix of highly qualified Account Managers and Clinical Field Specialists. Our direct sales force will leverage our existing network of EPs to maximize early commercial traction.

- Promote awareness among payors, physicians and patients to accelerate adoption of Barostim. We believe Barostim has the potential to become the standard of care for our target-indicated patient population, which currently lacks commercially available device-based treatment options. The vast majority of our indicated patients are well-defined under the purview of an EP and may have already been pre-indicated for an implantable cardiac

INDEMNIFICATION AGREEMENT

This Indemnification Agreement, dated as of _____ __, 20__, is made by and between DENTSPLY SIRONA INC., a Delaware corporation (the "Corporation") and _____ (the "Indemnitee").

RECITALS

A. The Corporation recognizes that competent and experienced persons are increasingly reluctant to serve or to continue to serve as directors or officers of corporations unless they are protected by comprehensive liability insurance or indemnification, or both, due to increased exposure to litigation costs and risks resulting from their service to such corporations, and due to the fact that the exposure frequently bears no reasonable relationship to the compensation of such directors and officers;

B. The statutes and judicial decisions regarding the duties of directors and officers are often difficult to apply, ambiguous, or conflicting, and therefore fail to provide such directors and officers with adequate, reliable knowledge of legal risks to which they are exposed or information regarding the proper course of action to take;

C. The Corporation and Indemnitee recognize that plaintiffs often seek damages in such large amounts and the costs of litigation may be so enormous (whether or not the case is meritorious), that the defense and/or settlement of such litigation is often beyond the personal resources of directors and officers;

D. The Corporation believes that it is unfair for its directors and officers to assume the risk of judgments and other expenses which may occur in cases in which the director or officer received no personal profit and in cases where the director or officer was not culpable;

E. The Corporation, after reasonable investigation, has determined that the liability insurance coverage presently available to the Corporation may be inadequate in certain circumstances to cover all possible exposure for which Indemnitee should be protected. The Corporation believes that the interests of the Corporation and its stockholders would best be served by a combination of such insurance and the indemnification by the Corporation of the directors and officers of the Corporation;

F. The Corporation's By-laws require the Corporation to indemnify its directors and officers under certain circumstances and expressly provide that the indemnification provisions set forth therein are not exclusive, and contemplate that contracts may be entered into between the Corporation and its directors and officers with respect to indemnification;

G. Section 145 of the Delaware General Corporation Law ("Section 145"), under which the Corporation is organized, empowers the Corporation to indemnify its officers, directors, employees and agents by agreement and to indemnify persons who serve, at the request of the Corporation, as the directors, officers, employees or agents of other corporations or enterprises, and expressly provides that the indemnification provided by Section 145 is not exclusive;

H. The Board of Directors has determined that contractual indemnification as set forth herein is not only reasonable and prudent but also promotes the best interests of the Corporation and its stockholders;

I. The Corporation desires and has requested Indemnitee to serve or continue to serve as a director or officer of the Corporation and/or one or more subsidiaries or affiliates of the Corporation free from undue concern for unwarranted claims for damages arising out of or related to such services to the Corporation and/or one or more subsidiaries or affiliates of the Corporation; and

J. Indemnitee is willing to serve, continue to serve or to provide additional service for or on behalf of the Corporation on the condition that he is furnished the indemnity and other rights provided for herein, in addition to the protections afforded by the Corporation's Certificate of Incorporation and By-laws, and the applicable policies of insurance maintained by the Corporation.

AGREEMENT

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and agreements set forth below, and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and adequacy of which are hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto, intending to be legally bound, hereby agree as follows:

Section 1. Indemnification Generally.

In accordance with and subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement, to the fullest extent permitted by the laws of the State of Delaware:

(a) Proceedings Other Than Proceedings by or in the Right of the Corporation. The Corporation shall indemnify and hold harmless Indemnitee from any and all Expenses and Liabilities incurred by Indemnitee by reason of a Proceeding (other than a Proceeding by or in the right of the Corporation, which shall be addressed by Subsection 1(b) of this Agreement) to which Indemnitee was or is a party or is threatened to be made a party by reason of the fact of Indemnitee's Corporate Status if Indemnitee acted in good faith and in a manner Indemnitee reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation, and, with respect to any criminal action, suit or proceeding, if Indemnitee had no reasonable cause to believe Indemnitee's conduct was unlawful.

(b) Proceedings by or in the Right of the Corporation. The Corporation shall indemnify and hold harmless Indemnitee from any and all Expenses and Liabilities incurred by Indemnitee by reason of a Proceeding by or in the right of the Corporation if Indemnitee acted in good faith and in a manner Indemnitee reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation, unless Indemnitee shall have been adjudged in such Proceeding to be liable to the Corporation, in which case no indemnification shall be made unless and to the extent (and only to the extent) that, the Delaware Court of Chancery or the court in which such Proceeding was brought shall determine upon application that, despite the adjudication of liability but in view of all the circumstances of the case, Indemnitee is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnity for such expenses which the Delaware Court of Chancery or such other court shall deem proper.

Section 2. Successful Defense; Partial Indemnification.

(a) To the extent that Indemnitee has been successful on the merits or otherwise in defense of any Proceeding, Indemnitee shall be indemnified against all Expenses incurred in connection therewith.

(b) To the extent that Indemnitee is not wholly successful in the defense of a Proceeding but is successful, on the merits or otherwise, as to one or more but less than all constituent claims, charges, issues or matters in such Proceeding, the Corporation shall indemnify Indemnitee against all Expenses incurred by him or on his behalf in connection with each successfully resolved constituent claim, charge, issue or matter.

(c) For purposes of this Agreement and without limiting the foregoing, if any Proceeding (or, for purposes of Section 2(b) above, any constituent claim, charge, issue or matter with respect to such Proceeding) is disposed of in any manner (including by a dismissal without prejudice), without any of (i) the imposition of Liabilities on the Indemnitee, (ii) an adjudication that Indemnitee is liable to the Corporation, (iii) a plea of guilty or nolo contendere by Indemnitee, (iv) an adjudication that Indemnitee did not act in good faith, (v) an adjudication that Indemnitee did not act in a manner Indemnitee reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation, or (vi) with respect to any criminal proceeding, an adjudication that Indemnitee had reasonable cause to believe Indemnitee's conduct was unlawful, Indemnitee shall be considered for the purposes of Section 2 hereof to have been wholly successful with respect thereto, and shall be entitled to indemnification hereunder.

(d) If Indemnitee is entitled under any provision of this Agreement to indemnification by the Corporation for some or a portion of the Expenses or Liabilities incurred by Indemnitee or on Indemnitee's behalf in connection with any Proceeding but not, however, for the total amount thereof, the Corporation shall nevertheless indemnify Indemnitee for the portion of such Expenses and Liabilities to which Indemnitee is entitled.

Section 3. Determination That Indemnification Is Proper; Presumptions.

(a) Any indemnification to which Indemnitee is entitled pursuant to Sections 1(a) or 1(b) of this Agreement shall (unless otherwise ordered by a court) be made by the Corporation unless a determination is made that indemnification of Indemnitee is not proper in the circumstances because Indemnitee failed to act in good faith and in a manner Indemnitee reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation, or, with respect to any criminal action, suit or proceeding, Indemnitee had reasonable cause to believe Indemnitee's conduct was unlawful. Any such determination shall be made, (i) by a majority vote of the Disinterested Directors, even if less than a quorum, (ii) by a majority vote of a committee of Disinterested Directors designated by majority vote of Disinterested Directors, even if less than a quorum, (iii) by a majority vote of a quorum of the outstanding shares of stock of all classes entitled to vote on the matter, voting as a single class, which quorum shall consist of stockholders who are not at that time parties to the Proceeding in question, (iv) by Independent Legal Counsel, or (v) by a court of competent jurisdiction; provided, however, that if a Change in Control shall have occurred or indemnification is sought in connection with a Company Authorized Proceeding, an indemnification determination hereunder shall be made by Independent Legal Counsel in a written opinion to the Board of Directors, a copy of which shall be delivered to Indemnitee.

(b) In making any determination with respect to whether Indemnitee has acted in good faith and in a manner Indemnitee reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation, or, with respect to any criminal action, suit or proceeding, Indemnitee had no reasonable cause to believe Indemnitee's conduct was unlawful, the person, persons or entity making such determination shall, to the fullest extent not prohibited by law, presume that Indemnitee is entitled to Indemnification under this agreement unless clear and convincing evidence to the contrary is adduced.

(c) The termination of any action, suit or proceeding by judgment, order, settlement, conviction, or upon a plea of guilty, nolo contendere or its equivalent, shall not, of itself, create a presumption that Indemnitee did not act in good faith and in a manner which Indemnitee reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation, and, with respect to any criminal action or proceeding, had reasonable cause to believe that Indemnitee's conduct was unlawful.

(d) For purposes of any determination of good faith, Indemnitee shall be deemed to have acted in good faith if Indemnitee's action was taken in good faith reliance on the records or books of account of the Corporation, including financial statements, or on information supplied to Indemnitee by the officers of the Corporation in the course of their duties, or on the advice of legal counsel for the Corporation or on information or records given or reports made to the Corporation by an independent certified public accountant or by an appraiser or other expert selected by the Corporation. The provisions of this Section 3(d) shall not be deemed to be exclusive or to limit in any way the other circumstances in which Indemnitee may be deemed or found to have acted in good faith for purposes of any determination under this Agreement.

(e) A person who acted in good faith and in a manner such person reasonably believed to be in the interest of the participants and beneficiaries of an employee benefit plan shall be deemed to have acted in a manner "not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation" as referred to in this Agreement.

(f) The knowledge and/or actions, or failure to act, of any other director, trustee, partner, managing member, fiduciary, officer, agent or employee of the Corporation or any other enterprise shall not be imputed to Indemnitee for purposes of any determination made under this Agreement.

Section 4. Advance Payment of Expenses; Notification and Defense of Claim; Witness Expenses.

(a) Expenses incurred by Indemnitee in defending a threatened or pending civil, criminal, administrative or investigative action, suit or proceeding, or in connection with an action by Indemnitee pursuant to Section 5(b), shall be paid by the Corporation in advance of the final disposition of such action, suit or proceeding within thirty (30) days after receipt by the Corporation of (i) a statement or statements from Indemnitee requesting such advance or advances from time to time, and (ii) an executed undertaking by or on behalf of Indemnitee to repay such amount or amounts if, and to the extent that, it shall ultimately be determined that Indemnitee is not entitled to be indemnified by the Corporation for such Expenses. Such undertaking shall be accepted without reference to the financial ability of Indemnitee to make such repayment. Advances shall be unsecured and interest-free.

(b) Promptly after receipt by Indemnitee of notice of the commencement of any Proceeding, Indemnitee shall, if a claim for indemnity or advancement of Expenses is to be made against the Corporation hereunder, notify the Corporation of the commencement thereof; provided, however, that any failure to promptly notify the Corporation of the commencement of the action, suit or proceeding, or Indemnitee's request for indemnification, will not relieve the Corporation from any liability that it may have to Indemnitee hereunder, except to the extent the Corporation is actually and materially prejudiced in its defense of such action, suit or proceeding as a result of such failure.

(c) In the event the Corporation shall be obligated pursuant to Section 4(a) to advance amounts of Expenses incurred by Indemnitee with respect to a Proceeding, and except as otherwise set forth in this Section 4(c), the Corporation shall be entitled to assume the defense of such action, suit or proceeding, with counsel reasonably acceptable to Indemnitee, upon the delivery to Indemnitee of written notice of its election to do so. After delivery of such notice, approval of such counsel by Indemnitee and the retention of such counsel by the Corporation, the Corporation will not be liable to Indemnitee under this Agreement for any fees of counsel subsequently incurred by Indemnitee with respect to the same Proceeding, provided that (1) Indemnitee shall have the right to employ Indemnitee's own counsel in such Proceeding at Indemnitee's expense and (2) if (i) the employment of separate counsel by Indemnitee has been previously authorized in writing by the Corporation, (ii) at any time during the Proceeding, counsel to the Corporation or Indemnitee shall have reasonably concluded that there may be a conflict of interest or position, or reasonably believes that a conflict is likely to arise, between the Corporation and Indemnitee with respect to any significant issue in the conduct of any such defense or (iii) the Corporation shall not, in fact, have employed counsel to assume the defense of such Proceeding, then the fees and expenses of Indemnitee's counsel shall be at the expense of the Corporation, except as otherwise expressly provided by this Agreement. The Corporation shall not be entitled, without the consent of Indemnitee, to assume the defense of any claim (X) brought by or in the right of the Corporation, (Y) as to which counsel for the Corporation or Indemnitee shall have reasonably made the conclusion provided for in clause (ii) above or (Z) that involves criminal charges being brought solely against the Indemnitee and does not otherwise implicate the Corporation. The Corporation or the Indemnitee, as the case may be, shall not settle any Proceeding (in whole or in part) as to which it has assumed the defense pursuant to this Section 4(c) in any manner which would impose any Expense, judgment, Liability or limitation on the other party without such party's prior written consent, such consent not to be unreasonably withheld.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement to the contrary, to the extent that Indemnitee is, by reason of Indemnitee's Corporate Status, made a witness in or otherwise subjected to non-party discovery or other process with respect to any action, suit, claim, counterclaim, cross claim, hearing, arbitration or other alternate dispute resolution mechanism, proceeding, or investigation (in each case, whether formal or informal, and whether civil, criminal, regulatory, administrative, arbitrative or investigatory) at a time when Indemnitee is not a party to such action, suit, claim, counterclaim, cross claim, hearing, arbitration or other alternate dispute resolution mechanism, proceeding, or investigation (in each case, whether formal or informal, and whether civil, criminal, regulatory, administrative, arbitrative or investigatory), the Corporation shall indemnify Indemnitee against all expenses (including attorneys' fees) actually and reasonably incurred by Indemnitee or on Indemnitee's behalf in connection therewith.

Section 5. Procedure for Indemnification

(a) To obtain indemnification hereunder, Indemnitee shall submit to the Corporation a written request, including therein or therewith such documentation and information as is reasonably available to Indemnitee and is reasonably necessary to determine whether and to what extent Indemnitee is entitled to indemnification. The Corporation shall, promptly upon receipt of such a request for indemnification, advise the Board of Directors in writing that Indemnitee has requested indemnification. Indemnitee shall reasonably cooperate with the person, persons or entity making such determination with respect to Indemnitee's entitlement to indemnification hereunder. Any expenses incurred by Indemnitee in so cooperating shall be borne by the Corporation (irrespective of the determination as to Indemnitee's entitlement to indemnification with respect to the underlying Proceeding for which indemnification is being sought) and the Corporation shall indemnify and hold Indemnitee harmless therefrom.

(b) The Corporation's determination whether to grant Indemnitee's indemnification request shall be made promptly, and in any event within 60 days following receipt of a request for indemnification pursuant to Section 5(a). The right to indemnification as granted by Section 1 of this Agreement shall be enforceable by Indemnitee in any court of competent jurisdiction if the Corporation denies such request, in whole or in part, or fails to respond within such 60-day period. It shall be a defense to any such action (other than an action brought to enforce a claim for the advancement of costs, charges and expenses under Section 4 hereof where the required undertaking, if any, has been received by the Corporation) that Indemnitee has failed to act in good faith and in a manner Indemnitee reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation, or, with respect to any criminal action, suit or proceeding, Indemnitee had reasonable cause to believe Indemnitee's conduct was unlawful, but the burden of proving such defense, by clear and convincing evidence, shall be on the Corporation. Neither (i) the failure of the Corporation (or its Board of Directors, one of its committees, its Independent Legal Counsel, or its stockholders) to have made a determination prior to the commencement of such action that indemnification of Indemnitee is proper in the circumstances because Indemnitee acted in good faith and in a manner Indemnitee reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation, or, with respect to any criminal action, suit or proceeding, Indemnitee had no reasonable cause to believe Indemnitee's conduct was unlawful, nor (ii) the fact that there has been an actual determination by the Corporation (or its Board of Directors, one of its committees, its Independent Legal Counsel, or its stockholders, as applicable) that Indemnitee has not met such applicable standard of conduct, shall be a defense to the action or create a presumption that Indemnitee has or has not met the applicable standard of conduct. The Indemnitee's expenses (including attorneys' fees) incurred in connection with successfully establishing Indemnitee's right to indemnification, in whole or in part, in any such proceeding or otherwise shall also be indemnified by the Corporation.

(c) The Indemnitee shall be presumed to be entitled to indemnification under this Agreement upon submission of a request for indemnification pursuant to this Section 5, and the Corporation shall have the burden of proof in overcoming that presumption in reaching a determination contrary to that presumption. Such presumption shall be used as a basis for a determination of entitlement to indemnification unless the Corporation overcomes such presumption by clear and convincing evidence.

(d) If it is determined that Indemnitee is entitled to indemnification, payment shall be timely made after that determination.

(e) Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, no determination as to entitlement to indemnification under this Agreement shall be required to be made prior to the final disposition of any Proceeding.

Section 6. Insurance; Subrogation; Other Indemnitors.

(a) The Corporation hereby covenants and agrees to use commercially reasonable efforts to purchase and maintain Directors' and Officers' liability insurance ("D&O Insurance") from established and reputable carriers in reasonable amounts on behalf of Indemnitee who is or was a director or officer of the Corporation, and may purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of Indemnitee who is or was serving at the request of the Corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise against any liability asserted against, and incurred by, Indemnitee or on Indemnitee's behalf in any such capacity, or arising out of Indemnitee's status as such, whether or not the Corporation would have the power to indemnify Indemnitee against such liability under the provisions of this Agreement. Indemnitee shall be covered by the Corporation's D&O Insurance in accordance with its or their terms to the maximum extent of the coverage available for any similarly-situated director or officer under such policy or policies. Upon written request by Indemnitee, the Corporation shall provide copies of all policies of D&O Insurance applicable to the Corporate Status of Indemnitee obtained and maintained in accordance with this Section 6(a).

(b) If the Corporation has such insurance in effect at the time the Corporation receives from Indemnitee any notice of the commencement of a Proceeding, the Corporation shall give prompt notice of the commencement of such Proceeding to the insurer(s) in accordance with the procedures set forth in the applicable policy or policies of insurance. The Corporation shall thereafter take all necessary or desirable action to cause such insurers to pay, on behalf of the Indemnitee, all amounts payable as a result of such Proceeding in accordance with the terms of such policy. The failure or refusal of any such insurer to pay any such amount shall not affect or impair the obligations of the Corporation under this Agreement.

(c) In the event of any payment by the Corporation under this Agreement, the Corporation shall be subrogated to the extent of such payment to all of the rights of recovery of Indemnitee with respect to any other party, including, without limitation, under any applicable policy of insurance and Indemnitee shall execute all papers required and take all action necessary to secure such rights, including execution of such documents as are necessary to enable the Corporation to bring suit to enforce such rights in accordance with the terms of such insurance policy. The Corporation shall pay or reimburse all expenses actually and reasonably incurred by Indemnitee in connection with such subrogation.

(d) The Corporation shall not be liable under this Agreement to make any payment of amounts otherwise indemnifiable hereunder (including, but not limited to, judgments, fines, ERISA excise taxes or penalties, and amounts paid in settlement) if and to the extent of those amounts received by or on behalf of Indemnitee from any other third party, whether pursuant to any insurance policy, contract, agreement or otherwise.

Section 7. Certain Definitions. For purposes of this Agreement, the following definitions shall apply:

(a) The term "Change in Control" means a change in control of the Corporation occurring after the date hereof of a nature that would be required to be reported in response to Item 6(e) of Schedule 14A of Regulation 14A (or in response to any similar item on any similar schedule or form) promulgated under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Act"), whether or not the Corporation is then subject to such reporting requirement; provided, however, that, without limitation, such a Change in Control shall be deemed to have occurred if after the date hereof:

(i) any "person" (as such term is used in Sections 13(d) and 14(d) of the Act) is or becomes the "beneficial owner" (as defined in Rule 13d-3 under the Act), directly or indirectly, of securities of the Corporation representing 15% or more of the outstanding shares entitled to vote generally in the election of directors without the prior approval of at least two-thirds of the members of the Board of Directors in office immediately prior to the time such person becomes such a beneficial owner; or

(ii) there occurs a proxy contest, or the Corporation is a party to a merger, consolidation, sale of assets, plan of liquidation or other reorganization not approved by at least two-thirds of the members of the Board of Directors then in office, as a consequence of which members of the Board of Directors in office immediately prior to such transaction or event constitute less than a majority of the Board of Directors thereafter; or

(iii) during any period of two consecutive years, individuals who at the beginning of such period constituted the Board of Directors (together with any new directors whose election or nomination for election by the Corporation's stockholders was approved by a vote of at least two-thirds of the directors then still in office who either were directors at the beginning of such period or whose election or nomination for election was previously so approved) shall cease for any reason other than death or disability to constitute a majority of the Board of Directors then in office.

(b) The term "Corporate Status" means the status of or service by Indemnitee in the capacity of a director, officer, employee or agent of the Corporation or, at the request of the Corporation, as a director, officer, trustee, administrator, general partner, managing member, fiduciary, board of directors' committee member, employee or agent of any other corporation, limited liability company, partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise The term "Corporate Status" shall be broadly construed and shall include, without limitation, any actual or alleged act or omission to act in such capacity. For purposes of this Agreement, Indemnitee's service shall be deemed to be "at the request of the Corporation" if such service is (i) with respect to any subsidiary of DENTSPLY SIRONA Inc., or (ii) as a director, officer, employee or agent of the Corporation which imposes duties on, or involves services by, such director, officer, employee or agent with respect to an employee benefit plan, its participants or beneficiaries; provided, however, that this list is intended to be illustrative not exhaustive and nothing contained herein shall serve to limit the circumstances under which Indemnitee may be deemed to be serving "at the request of the Corporation" for purposes of this Agreement.

(c) The term "Corporation" shall, in addition to DENTSPLY SIRONA Inc., be defined for purposes hereunder to include, in addition to the resulting corporation, any constituent corporation (including any constituent of a constituent) absorbed in a consolidation or merger which, if its separate existence had continued, would have had power and authority to indemnify its directors, officers, and employees or agents, so that any person who is or was a director, officer, employee or agent of such constituent corporation, or is or was serving at the request of such constituent corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise, shall stand in the same position under the provisions of this Agreement with respect to the resulting or surviving corporation as he or she would have with respect to such constituent corporation if its separate existence had continued.

(d) The term "Disinterested Directors" means those directors who are not and were not parties to, or threatened to be made a party to, the Proceeding that is the subject of the deliberations in question.

(e) The term "Expenses" means all direct and indirect costs (including without limitation attorneys' fees, retainers, court costs, transcripts, fees of experts, witness fees, travel expenses, duplicating costs, printing and binding costs, telephone charges, postage, delivery service fees, and all other disbursements or expenses) actually and reasonably incurred by or on behalf of Indemnitee in connection with (i) prosecuting, defending, preparing to prosecute or defend, investigating, being or preparing to be a witness in, or otherwise participating in, a Proceeding or (ii) establishing, interpreting, defending or enforcing a right to indemnification under this Agreement, the Company's By-laws, Section 145 of the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware or otherwise. "Expenses" also shall include (1) amounts incurred in connection with any appeal resulting from any Proceeding, including the premium, security for, and other costs relating to any cost bond, supersedeas bond, or other appeal bond or its equivalent; (2) any federal, state, local or foreign taxes imposed on Indemnitee as a result of the actual or deemed receipt of any payments under this Agreement (on a grossed up basis); and (3) any interest, assessments or other charges in respect of the foregoing. For purposes of this Agreement, the parties agree that the term "Expenses" in any instance shall be broadly construed, and that the above list is intended to be illustrative and not exhaustive and nothing contained therein shall serve to limit the possible scope of costs considered to be "Expenses" hereunder, provided, however, for the avoidance of doubt, "Expenses" shall not include any Liabilities.

(f) The term "Independent Legal Counsel" means a law firm, or a member of a law firm, that is experienced in matters of corporation law and neither is, nor in the past five years has been, retained to represent: (i) the Corporation, the Indemnitee or one of the other directors of the Corporation in any matter material to any such party, or (ii) any other party to the action, suit or proceeding giving rise to a claim for indemnification hereunder. Independent Legal Counsel shall be selected by the Corporation, with the approval of Indemnitee, which approval will not be unreasonably withheld; provided, however, that Independent Legal Counsel shall be selected by Indemnitee, with the approval of the Board of Directors, which approval will not be unreasonably withheld (i) from and after the occurrence of a Change in Control, and (ii) in connection with an action, suit or proceeding by or in the right of the Corporation authorized or not disapproved by the Board of Directors alleging claims against Indemnitee that, if sustained, reasonably might give rise to a judgment for money damages of more than $1,000,000 and/or injunctive relief ("Company Authorized Proceeding"). The fees and costs of Independent Legal Counsel shall be paid by the Corporation.

(g) The term "Liabilities" means any direct or indirect payments, losses or liabilities of any type or nature whatsoever, including, without limitation, any judgments, fines (including any excise taxes assessed with respect to any employee benefit plan), penalties, third party attorneys' fees, amounts paid in settlement, arbitration or mediation, or amounts forfeited or reimbursed (including all interest, assessments and other charges paid or payable in connection with or in respect of any of the foregoing), arising out of or in connection with any Proceeding; provided, however, that "Liabilities" shall not include any Expenses.

(h) The term "Proceeding" means any threatened, pending or completed action, suit, claim, counterclaim, cross claim, hearing, arbitration or other alternate dispute resolution mechanism, proceeding, or investigation (in each case, whether formal or informal, and whether civil, criminal, regulatory, administrative, arbitrative or investigatory) commenced by or on behalf of a third party, a government agency, the Corporation, its Board of Directors, or a committee thereof, in which Indemnitee was, is or will be involved as a party, potential party, non-party witness or otherwise by reason of the Corporate Status of Indemnitee, or by reason of by reason of any action alleged to have been taken or omitted while serving in any Corporate Status, and, for purposes of clarity, shall include any demand or claim for contribution brought against Indemnitee by reason of Indemnitee's Corporate Status by any director, officer, employee or agent of the Company, other than Indemnitee, based upon or alleging the joint liability of Indemnitee. For purposes of this Agreement, "Proceeding" shall also include any inquiry, hearing, written demand, or other circumstances that Indemnitee believes in good faith may lead to the institution or initiation of any of the aforementioned. For purposes of this Agreement, the term "Proceeding" in any instance shall be broadly construed to include all preparatory and procedural aspects thereof, including, without limitation, the investigation, preparation, prosecution, defense, settlement, arbitration and appeal of, and the giving of testimony or the collection, preservation or production of documents with respect to such Proceeding.

Section 8. Limitation on Indemnification. Notwithstanding any other provision herein to the contrary, the Corporation shall not be obligated pursuant to this Agreement:

(a) Claims Initiated by Indemnitee. To indemnify or advance expenses to Indemnitee with respect to an action, suit or proceeding (or part thereof) initiated by Indemnitee, except with respect to an action, suit or proceeding brought to establish or enforce a right to indemnification (which shall be governed by the provisions of Section 8(b) of this Agreement), unless such action, suit or proceeding (or part thereof) was authorized or consented to in writing by the Board of Directors of the Corporation;

(b) Action for Indemnification. To indemnify Indemnitee for any expenses incurred by Indemnitee with respect to any action, suit or proceeding instituted by Indemnitee to enforce or interpret this Agreement, unless Indemnitee is successful in establishing Indemnitee's right to indemnification in such action, suit or proceeding, in whole or in part, or unless and to the extent that the court in such action, suit or proceeding shall determine that, despite Indemnitee's failure to establish their right to indemnification, Indemnitee is entitled to indemnity for such expenses; provided, however, that nothing in this Section 8(b) is intended to limit the Corporation's obligation with respect to the advancement of expenses to Indemnitee in connection with any such action, suit or proceeding instituted by Indemnitee to enforce or interpret this Agreement, as provided in Section 4 hereof, or to indemnify Indemnitee for expenses incurred by Indemnitee in the course of cooperating with the Corporation in the process for determining Indemnitee's rights to indemnification, as provided in Section 5 hereof;

(c) Section 16 Violations. To indemnify Indemnitee on account of any Proceeding with respect to which final judgment is rendered against Indemnitee for payment or an accounting of profits arising from the purchase or sale by Indemnitee of securities subject to Section 16(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, or any similar successor statute (the "Exchange Act");

(d) Sarbanes-Oxley; Clawbacks. To indemnify Indemnitee for any reimbursement of the Corporation by Indemnitee of any bonus or other incentive-based or equity-based compensation or of any profits realized by Indemnitee from the sale of securities of the Corporation, as required in each case under the Exchange Act or applicable law (including without limitation (i) any such reimbursements that arise from an accounting restatement of the Corporation pursuant to Section 304 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 (the "Sarbanes-Oxley Act") or Section 954 of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, or (ii) the payment to the Corporation of profits arising from the purchase and sale by Indemnitee of securities in violation of Section 306 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act or (iii) any such recoupments or reimbursements that arise pursuant to any compensation recoupment or clawback policy adopted by the Board or any committee of the Board, including, but not limited to, any such policy adopted to comply with stock exchange listing requirements implementing Section 10D of the Exchange Act;);

(e) ERISA. To indemnify Indemnitee for amounts for which the Indemnitee may not be indemnified pursuant to Section 410(a) of ERISA;

(f) Non-compete and Non-disclosure. To indemnify Indemnitee in connection with Proceedings involving the enforcement of non-compete and/or non-disclosure agreements or the non-compete and/or non-disclosure provisions of employment, consulting or similar agreements the Indemnitee may be a party to with the Corporation, or any subsidiary of the Corporation or any other applicable foreign or domestic corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise, if any.

Section 9. Certain Settlement Provisions. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, the Corporation shall have no obligation to indemnify Indemnitee under this Agreement for amounts paid in settlement of any Proceeding undertaken without the Corporation's prior written consent, which shall not be unreasonably withheld. The Corporation shall not settle any action, suit or proceeding in any manner that would impose any Expense, judgment, Liability, obligation or limitation on Indemnitee without Indemnitee's prior written consent, such consent not to be unreasonably withheld.

Section 10. Savings Clause. If any provision or provisions of this Agreement shall be held to be invalid, illegal or unenforceable for any reason whatsoever: (a) the validity, legality and enforceability of the remaining provisions of this Agreement (including each portion of any Section of this Agreement containing any such provision held to be invalid, illegal or unenforceable, that is not itself invalid, illegal or unenforceable) shall not in any way be affected or impaired thereby and shall remain enforceable to the fullest extent permitted by law; (b) such provision or provisions shall be deemed reformed to the extent necessary to conform to applicable law and to give the maximum effect to the intent of the parties hereto; and (c) to the fullest extent possible, the provisions of this Agreement (including each portion of any Section of this Agreement containing any such provision held to be invalid, illegal or unenforceable, that is not itself invalid, illegal or unenforceable) shall be construed so as to give effect to the intent manifested thereby.

Section 11. Contribution.

(a) In order to provide for just and equitable contribution in circumstances in which the indemnification provided for herein is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unavailable to Indemnitee in whole or in part, it is agreed that, in such event, the Corporation shall, to the fullest extent permitted by law and in lieu of indemnifying Indemnitee with respect thereto, contribute to the payment of Indemnitee's Expenses and Liabilities incurred with respect to any Proceeding, in an amount that is just and equitable in the circumstances, in order to reflect (a) the relative benefits received by the Corporation and Indemnitee, respectively, as a result of the event(s) and/or transaction(s) giving rise to such Proceeding; and/or (b) the relative fault of the Corporation (and its directors, officers, employees and agents other than Indemnitee) and Indemnitee, respectively, in connection with such event(s) and/or transaction(s), and taking into account, among other things, contributions by other directors and officers of the Corporation or others pursuant to indemnification agreements or otherwise; provided, that, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, such contribution shall not be required where such holding by the court is due to (i) the failure of Indemnitee to act in good faith and in a manner Indemnitee reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation, or, with respect to any criminal action, suit or proceeding, Indemnitee had reasonable cause to believe Indemnitee's conduct was unlawful, or (ii) any limitation on indemnification set forth in Section 6(d), 8 or 9 hereof.

Section 12. Form and Delivery of Communications. Any notice, request or other communication required or permitted to be given to the parties under this Agreement shall be in writing and either delivered in person, sent by overnight mail, courier service, or certified or registered mail, return receipt requested, postage prepaid, or transmitted by electronic mail or similar electronic communication, to the parties at the following addresses (or at such other addresses for a party as shall be specified by like notice):

Section 13. Subsequent Legislation. If the General Corporation Law of Delaware is amended after adoption of this Agreement to expand further the indemnification permitted to directors or officers, then the Corporation shall indemnify Indemnitee to the fullest extent permitted by the General Corporation Law of Delaware, as so amended.

Section 14. Nonexclusivity. The provisions for indemnification and advancement of expenses set forth in this Agreement shall not be deemed exclusive of any other rights which Indemnitee may have under any provision of law, the Corporation's Certificate of Incorporation or By-laws, in any court in which a proceeding is brought, the vote of the Corporation's stockholders or disinterested directors, other agreements or otherwise, and Indemnitee's rights hereunder shall continue after Indemnitee has ceased acting as an agent of the Corporation and shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors and administrators of Indemnitee. No amendment or alteration of the Corporation's Certificate of Incorporation or By-laws or any other agreement shall adversely affect the rights provided to Indemnitee under this Agreement.

Section 15. Enforcement. The Corporation shall be precluded from asserting in any judicial proceeding that the procedures and presumptions of this Agreement are not valid, binding and enforceable. The Corporation agrees that its execution of this Agreement shall constitute a stipulation by which it shall be irrevocably bound in any court of competent jurisdiction in which a proceeding by Indemnitee for enforcement of his rights hereunder shall have been commenced, continued or appealed, that its obligations set forth in this Agreement are unique and special, and that failure of the Corporation to comply with the provisions of this Agreement will cause irreparable and irremediable injury to Indemnitee, for which a remedy at law will be inadequate. As a result, in addition to any other right or remedy Indemnitee may have at law or in equity with respect to breach of this Agreement, Indemnitee shall be entitled to injunctive or mandatory relief directing specific performance by the Corporation of its obligations under this Agreement.

Section 16. Interpretation of Agreement. It is understood that the parties hereto intend this Agreement to be interpreted and enforced so as to provide indemnification to Indemnitee to the fullest extent now or hereafter permitted by law.

Section 17. Entire Agreement. This Agreement and the documents expressly referred to herein constitute the entire agreement between the parties hereto with respect to the matters covered hereby, and any other prior or contemporaneous oral or written understandings or agreements with respect to the matters covered hereby are expressly superseded by this Agreement.

Section 18. Term. The rights provided by, or granted pursuant to, this Agreement shall continue as to Indemnitee after he or she has terminated his or her Corporate Status and shall continue until the latest of (i) the expiration of any relevant statutes of limitation or repose applicable to any matters for which Indemnitee may seek indemnification hereunder, and (ii) the final disposition, not subject to further appeal, of any Proceeding, and (iii) the final disposition, not subject to further appeal, of any action by Indemnitee to enforce his or her rights hereunder pursuant to Section 5(b) of this Agreement or otherwise.

Section 19. Modification and Waiver. No supplement, modification or amendment of this Agreement shall be binding unless executed in writing by both of the parties hereto. No waiver of any of the provisions of this Agreement shall be deemed or shall constitute a waiver of any other provision hereof (whether or not similar) nor shall such waiver constitute a continuing waiver.

Section 20. Successor and Assigns. All of the terms and provisions of this Agreement shall be binding upon, shall inure to the benefit of and shall be enforceable by the parties hereto and their respective successors, assigns, heirs, executors, administrators and legal representatives. The Corporation shall require and cause any direct or indirect successor (whether by purchase, merger, consolidation or otherwise) to all or substantially all of the business or assets of the Corporation, by written agreement in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to Indemnitee, expressly to assume and agree to perform this Agreement in the same manner and to the same extent that the Corporation would be required to perform if no such succession had taken place.

Section 21. Service of Process and Venue. For purposes of any claims or proceedings to enforce this agreement, the Corporation consents to the jurisdiction and venue of any federal or state court of competent jurisdiction in the state of Delaware, and waives and agrees not to raise any defense that any such court is an inconvenient forum or any similar claim.

Section 22. Supersedes Prior Agreement. This Agreement supersedes any prior understandings or agreements between Indemnitee and the Corporation or its predecessors with respect to the subject matter hereof.

Section 23. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed exclusively by and construed according to the laws of the State of Delaware, as applied to contracts between Delaware residents entered into and to be performed entirely within Delaware. If a court of competent jurisdiction shall make a final determination that the provisions of the law of any state other than Delaware govern indemnification by the Corporation of its officers and directors, then the indemnification provided under this Agreement shall in all instances be enforceable to the fullest extent permitted under such law, notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary.

Section 24. Employment Rights. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to create in Indemnitee any right to employment or continued employment.

Section 25. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed to be an original and all of which together shall be deemed to be one and the same instrument, notwithstanding that both parties are not signatories to the original or same counterpart.

Section 26. Headings. The section and subsection headings contained in this Agreement are for reference purposes only and shall not affect in any way the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement.

DENTSPLY SIRONA Inc.

NON-EMPLOYEE DIRECTOR COMPENSATION POLICY

Purpose

DENTSPLY SIRONA Inc. (the "Company") believes that the granting of compensation to its members of the Board of Directors (the "Board," and members of the Board, "Directors") represents a powerful tool to attract, retain and reward Directors of the Company. This Director Compensation Policy (the "Policy") is intended to formalize the Company's policy regarding grants of equity and cash compensation to its non-employee Directors. This Policy does not apply to Directors who serve as employees of the Company; such Directors do not receive any additional compensation for their service on the Board.

Administration

1. The Human Resources Committee of the Board shall evaluate Director compensation in accordance with its charter at least annually at or about the time of the Annual Meeting of Stockholders, and may request the input of the Company's management and an independent compensation consultant of its choosing on the status of compensation of Directors. The Human Resources Committee shall review the Policy and shall make recommendations to the Board for potential amendments. In recommending amendments, the Human Resources Committee shall generally target the Director compensation to be set at the median director compensation of the Company's peer group (as established by the Human Resources Committee), but taking into account such other factors as it deems appropriate. Any amendments to the Cash Annual Retainer section of this Policy shall become effective at the beginning of the next calendar quarter.

2. The Board shall approve the Policy and shall have the authority to construe and interpret the Policy, prescribe, amend and rescind rules relating to the Policy's administration and take any other actions necessary or desirable for the administration of the Policy. The Board may correct any defect or supply any omission or reconcile any inconsistency or ambiguity in the Policy. The decisions of the Board are final and binding on all persons.

Cash Annual Retainer

3. The Company shall pay to Directors annual retainers in cash as follows:

All Directors	$100,000
Non-Executive Chairman of the Board (the "Chairman"), if any	$75,000 (in addition to cash annual retainer payable to all Directors)
Lead Director, if any	$30,000 (in addition to cash annual retainer payable to all Directors)
Audit and Finance Committee Chair	$25,000 (in addition to cash annual retainer payable to all Directors)
Human Resources Committee Chair	$20,000 (in addition to cash annual retainer payable to all Directors)
Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee Chair	$15,000 (in addition to cash annual retainer payable to all Directors)
Science and Technology Committee Chair	$15,000 (in addition to cash annual retainer payable to all Directors)
Executive Committee Chair	No additional compensation

Other Directors serving as members of a committee will receive no additional compensation for being a committee member.

4. One quarter of the respective cash annual retainers are payable in advance of each calendar quarter.

Long-Term Incentive Awards

5. On the second trading day after each annual meeting of stockholders of the Company, after any stockholder votes are taken on such date, each Director who is to continue to serve as a director is automatically granted, without further action of the Board, an award consisting of a grant of restricted stock units valued at $200,000 (a "Director Annual Award").

6. On the second trading day after each annual meeting of stockholders of the Company, after any stockholder votes are taken on such date, the Director who will serve as Non-Executive Chairman of the Board is automatically granted, without further action of the Board, an award consisting of a grant of restricted stock units valued at $100,000, in addition to the Director Annual Award noted above (the "Chairman Annual Award"; the Chairman Annual Award collectively with the Director Annual Award, the "Annual Awards"). In the event a Chairman is appointed between meetings of stockholders, a prorated grant is automatically made in accordance with provisions of Section 11.

7. The value of one restricted stock unit granted pursuant to this Policy equals the fair market value of the Company's common stock, which is the closing stock price.

8. All Annual Awards vest on the earliest of (1) the date of the next Annual Meeting of Stockholders; (2) the date that is one year from the date of the grant, and (3) the date that a Director attains the age of mandatory retirement pursuant to the Company's Corporate Governance Guidelines/Policies. Annual Awards granted in the form of stock options are exercisable following the vesting for ten years from the grant date. In addition to the foregoing, any outstanding stock option that was granted to a Director who voluntarily resigns on or after such Director's Early Retirement Date (defined below) shall be exercisable, to the extent it has not expired or terminated, until the earlier of (1) five years after the termination of the Director's service and (2) the expiration date of the stock option. For purposes of the foregoing, Early Retirement Date means the earlier of the date on which the Director attains age 70 or the date on which the Director has 10 years of continuous service on the Board.

9. Upon vesting, the restricted stock units are payable to Directors in shares of common stock unless the Director elects to defer settlement of the restricted stock units to a future date.

10. Directors are entitled to receive dividend equivalents on the restricted stock units in the event the Company pays a regular cash dividend on its common stock.

11. Any Director who becomes a director between annual meetings of stockholders automatically receives, without further action of the Board, a prorated award described above for the remaining term in office, effective on the date of the next meeting of the Board following the appointment of the Director (or upon becoming a Chairman, as applicable).

General Provisions

12. The amounts to be paid to Directors under the Policy are unfunded obligations of the Company. The Company is not required to segregate any monies or other assets from its general funds with respect to these obligations. Directors do not have any preference or security interest in any assets of the Company other than as a general unsecured creditor. Directors will be solely responsible for any tax obligations they incur as a result of the equity and cash payments received under this Policy.

13. The Board, in its sole discretion, may change and otherwise revise the terms of the cash compensation granted under this Policy, including, without limitation, the amount of cash compensation to be paid, on or after the date the Board or the Committee determines to make any such change or revision. Any amendments to the Cash Annual Retainer section of this Policy shall become effective at the beginning of the next calendar quarter.

14. Each Annual Award granted pursuant to this Policy is evidenced by an agreement in such form as the Board has authorized, and will be granted pursuant to the 2016 Omnibus Incentive Plan, as amended and restated effective February 14, 2018, or any successor equity incentive plan that has been approved by the stockholders of the Company (the "Plan"), subject to all of the terms and conditions thereof and only to the extent that Shares remain available for issuance under the Plan.

15. Neither the Policy nor any compensation paid hereunder will confer on any Director the right to continue to serve as a member of the Board or in any other capacity. Any and all rights of a Director respecting payments under this Policy may not be assigned, transferred, pledged or encumbered in any manner, other than by will or the laws of descent and distribution, and any attempt to do so is void. This Policy will remain in effect until it is revised or terminated by further action of the Board.

PART I ITEM 1. BUSINESS

Overview AbbVie[1] is a global, diversified research-based biopharmaceutical company positioned for success with a comprehensive product portfolio that has leadership positions across immunology, hematologic oncology, neuroscience, aesthetics and eye care. AbbVie uses its expertise, dedicated people and unique approach to innovation to develop and market advanced therapies that address some of the world's most complex and serious diseases. AbbVie was incorporated in Delaware on April 10, 2012. On January 1, 2013, AbbVie became an independent, publicly-traded company as a result of the distribution by Abbott Laboratories (Abbott) of 100% of the outstanding common stock of AbbVie to Abbott's shareholders. Impact of the Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) The novel coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic continues to spread throughout the United States and around the world. As COVID-19 continues to have an impact worldwide, AbbVie is focused on the health and safety of its employees, health care professionals and patients and communities. In the continued operation of its business, AbbVie has followed health and safety guidance from relevant health authorities, managed manufacturing and supply chain resources and monitored closely its clinical trial sites. See Item 7, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Impact of the Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19)." Segments AbbVie operates as a single global business segment dedicated to the research and development, manufacturing, commercialization and sale of innovative medicines and therapies. This operating structure enables the Chief Executive Officer, as chief operating decision maker (CODM), to allocate resources and assess business performance on a global basis in order to achieve established long-term strategic goals. Consistent with this structure, a global research and development and supply chain organization is responsible for the discovery, development, manufacturing and supply of products. Commercial efforts that coordinate the marketing, sales and distribution of these products are organized by geographic region or therapeutic area. All of these activities are supported by a global corporate administrative staff. The determination of a single business segment is consistent with the consolidated financial information regularly reviewed by the CODM for purposes of assessing performance, allocating resources and planning and forecasting future periods. See Note 16, "Segment and Geographic Area Information" to the Consolidated Financial Statements included under Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data" and the sales information related to AbbVie's key products and geographies included under Item 7, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations."

It is a biologic therapy administered as a quarterly subcutaneous injection following two induction doses. Skyrizi is approved in the United States, Canada, Mexico and the European Union and is indicated for the treatment of moderate to severe plaque psoriasis in adults who are candidates for systemic therapy or phototherapy. In the United States and the European Union, Skyrizi is additionally approved for the treatment of active psoriatic arthritis in adult patients who have an inadequate response or intolerance to disease-modifying antirheumatic drugs (DMARDs). In Japan, Skyrizi is approved for the treatment of plaque psoriasis, generalized pustular psoriasis, erythrodermic psoriasis and psoriatic arthritis in adult patients who have an inadequate response to conventional therapies. Rinvoq. Rinvoq (upadacitinib) is an oral, once-daily selective and reversible JAK inhibitor that is approved to treat the following inflammatory diseases in North America, Japan and the European Union:

Condition	Principal Markets

In the United States, Rinvoq is indicated for both the treatment of moderate to severe active rheumatoid arthritis, and for active psoriatic arthritis, in adult patients who have an inadequate response or intolerance to one or more TNF blockers. It is also indicated for the treatment of moderate to severe atopic dermatitis in adults and children 12 years of age and older whose disease is not adequately controlled with other systemic drug products, including biologics, or when use of those therapies are inadvisable.

Oncology products. AbbVie's oncology products target some of the most complex and difficult-to-treat cancers. These products are: Imbruvica. Imbruvica (ibrutinib) is an oral, once-daily therapy that inhibits a protein called Bruton's tyrosine kinase. Imbruvica was one of the first medicines to receive a United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approval after being granted a Breakthrough Therapy Designation and is one of the few therapies to receive four separate designations. Imbruvica currently is approved for the treatment of adult patients with blood cancers such as chronic lymphocytic leukemia (CLL), as well as certain forms of non-Hodgkin lymphoma. Venclexta/Venclyxto. Venclexta (venetoclax) is a B-cell lymphoma 2 (BCL-2) inhibitor used to treat hematological malignancies. Venclexta is approved by the FDA for adults with CLL or SLL. In addition, Venclexta is approved in combination with azacitidine, or decitabine, or low-dose cytarabine to treat adults with newly-diagnosed acute myeloid leukemia who are 75 years of age or older or have other medical conditions that prevent the use of standard chemotherapy.

Aesthetics products. AbbVie's Aesthetics portfolio consists of facial injectables, plastics and regenerative medicine, body contouring and skincare products, which hold market-leading positions in the U.S. and in key markets around the world. These products are: Botox Cosmetic. Botox Cosmetic is an acetylcholine release inhibitor and a neuromuscular blocking agent indicated for treatment in three areas: temporary improvement in the appearance of moderate to severe glabellar lines (frown lines between the eyebrows), moderate to severe crow's feet and moderate to severe forehead lines in adults. - Focal spasticity of the ankle and foot in adult post stroke patients.

Vraylar. Vraylar (cariprazine) is a dopamine D3-preferring D3/D2 receptor partial agonist and a 5-HT1A receptor partial agonist. Its D3 binding profile may be linked to observed improvements in the negative symptoms of schizophrenia and to antidepressant effects in bipolar I disorder (bipolar depression). Vraylar is indicated for acute and maintenance treatment of schizophrenia in adults, acute treatment of manic or mixed episodes associated with bipolar disorder in adults and acute treatment of depressive episodes associated with bipolar I disorder in adults. Duopa and Duodopa (carbidopa and levodopa). AbbVie's levodopa-carbidopa intestinal gel for the treatment of advanced Parkinson's disease is marketed as Duopa in the United States and as Duodopa outside of the United States. Ubrelvy. Ubrelvy (ubrogepant) is indicated for the acute treatment of migraine with or without aura in adults and is only commercialized in the United States. Other neuroscience. Other neuroscience products include Qulipta (atogepant), which is indicated for preventive treatment of episodic migraine in adults. Eye care products. AbbVie's eye care products address unmet needs and new approaches to help preserve and protect patients' vision. These products are: Lumigan/Ganfort. Lumigan (bimatoprost ophthalmic solution) 0.01% is a once daily, topical prostaglandin analog indicated for the reduction of elevated intraocular pressure (IOP) in patients with open angle glaucoma (OAG) or ocular hypertension (OHT). Ganfort is a once daily topical fixed combination of bimatoprost 0.03% and timolol 0.5% for the reduction of IOP in adult patients with OAG or OHT. Combigan (brimonidine tartrate/timolol maleate ophthalmic solution) is approved for reducing elevated IOP in patients with glaucoma who require additional or adjunctive IOP-lowering therapy. Both Alphagan and Combigan are available for sale in the United States and numerous markets around the world. Restasis. Restasis is a calcineurin inhibitor immunosuppressant indicated to increase tear production in patients whose tear production is presumed to be suppressed due to ocular inflammation associated with keratoconjunctivitis sicca. Restasis is approved in the United States and a number of other markets in South America, the Middle East and Asia. Other eye care. Other eye care products include Xen, Durysta, Ozurdex, Refresh/Optive and Vuity. Women's health products. AbbVie's women's health products are: Lo Loestrin. Lo Loestrin Fe is an oral contraceptive. It is indicated for prevention of pregnancy with the lowest dose of estrogen with only 10mcg and is dispensed in a unique 24/2/2 regimen with a two-day hormone-free interval. It is marketed in the U.S. as Lo Loestrin Fe (norethindrone acetate and ethinyl estradiol tablets, ethinyl estradiol tablets and ferrous fumarate tablets) and in select markets outside the U.S. as Lolo. Orilissa/Oriahnn. Orilissa (elagolix) is the first and only orally-administered, nonpeptide small molecule gonadotropin-releasing hormone (GnRH) antagonist specifically developed for women with moderate to severe endometriosis pain. It represents the first FDA-approved oral treatment for the management of moderate to severe pain associated with endometriosis in over a decade. Orilissa inhibits endogenous GnRH signaling by binding competitively to GnRH receptors in the pituitary gland. Administration results in dose-dependent suppression of luteinizing hormone and follicle-stimulating hormone, leading to decreased blood concentrations of ovarian sex hormones, estradiol and progesterone. Outside the United States, Orilissa is also launched in Canada. Oriahnn (elagolix, estradiol and norethindrone acetate capsules; elagolix capsules) is a combination prescription medicine used to control heavy menstrual bleeding related to uterine fibroids in women before menopause. Other women's health. Other women's health includes Liletta, a sterile, levonorgestrel-releasing intrauterine system indicated for prevention of pregnancy for up to six years. Other key products. AbbVie's other key products include, among other things, treatments for patients with hepatitis C virus (HCV), metabolic and hormone products that target a number of conditions, including exocrine pancreatic insufficiency and hypothyroidism, as well as endocrinology products for the palliative treatment of advanced prostate cancer, treatment of endometriosis and central precocious puberty and for the preoperative treatment of patients with anemia caused by uterine fibroids. These products are: Mavyret/Maviret. Mavyret (glecaprevir/pibrentasvir) is approved in the United States and European Union (Maviret) for the treatment of adult and pediatric patients (12 years and older or weighing at least 45 kilograms) with chronic HCV genotype 1-6 infection without cirrhosis and with compensated cirrhosis (Child-Pugh A). It is also indicated for the treatment of adult and pediatric patients (12 years and older or weighing at least 45 kilograms) with HCV genotype 1 infection, who previously have been treated with a regimen containing an HCV NS5A inhibitor or an NS3/4A protease inhibitor, but not both. It is an 8-week, pan-genotypic treatment for patients without cirrhosis and following the EXPEDITION-8 study, also in patients with compensated cirrhosis who are new to treatment. Creon. Creon (pancrelipase) is a pancreatic enzyme therapy for exocrine pancreatic insufficiency, a condition that occurs in patients with cystic fibrosis, chronic pancreatitis and several other conditions. Lupron. Lupron (leuprolide acetate), which is also marketed as Lucrin and Lupron Depot, is a product for the palliative treatment of advanced prostate cancer, treatment of endometriosis and central precocious puberty and for the preoperative treatment of patients with anemia caused by uterine fibroids. Lupron is approved for daily subcutaneous injection and one-month, three-month, four-month and six-month intramuscular injection. Linzess/Constella. Linzess (linaclotide) is a once-daily guanylate cyclase-C agonist used in adults to treat irritable bowel syndrome with constipation (IBS-C) and chronic idiopathic constipation (CIC). The product is marketed as Linzess in the United States and as Constella outside of the United States. Synthroid. Synthroid (levothyroxine sodium tablets, USP) is used in the treatment of hypothyroidism. AbbVie has the rights to sell Creon and Synthroid only in the United States. Marketing, Sales and Distribution Capabilities AbbVie utilizes a combination of dedicated commercial resources, regional commercial resources and distributorships to market, sell and distribute its products worldwide. AbbVie directs its primary marketing efforts toward securing the prescription, or recommendation, of its brand of products by physicians, key opinion leaders and other health care providers. Managed care providers (for example, health maintenance organizations and pharmacy benefit managers), hospitals and state and federal government agencies (for example, the United States Department of Veterans Affairs and the United States Department of Defense) are also important customers. AbbVie also markets directly to consumers themselves, although in the United States many of the company's products must be sold pursuant to a prescription. Outside of the United States, AbbVie focuses its promotional and market access efforts on key opinion leaders, payers, physicians and health systems. AbbVie also provides patient support programs closely related to its products. Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic AbbVie has maintained its promotional activities with key stakeholders by leveraging digital engagement where permitted and in compliance with the locally applicable government guidance. AbbVie's products are generally sold worldwide directly to wholesalers, distributors, government agencies, health care facilities, specialty pharmacies and independent retailers from AbbVie-owned distribution centers and public warehouses. Certain products (including aesthetic products and devices) are also sold directly to physicians and other licensed healthcare providers. Although AbbVie's business does not have significant seasonality, AbbVie's product revenues may be affected by end customer and retail buying patterns, fluctuations in wholesaler inventory levels and other factors. In the United States, AbbVie distributes pharmaceutical products principally through independent wholesale distributors, with some sales directly to retailers, pharmacies, patients or other customers. In 2021, three wholesale distributors (McKesson Corporation, Cardinal Health, Inc. and AmerisourceBergen Corporation) accounted for substantially all of AbbVie's pharmaceutical product sales in the United States. No individual wholesaler accounted for greater than 37% of AbbVie's 2021 gross revenues in the United States. Outside the United States, AbbVie sells products primarily to customers or through distributors, depending on the market served. Certain products are co-marketed or co-promoted with other companies. AbbVie has no single customer that, if the customer were lost, would have a material adverse effect on the company's business. No material portion of AbbVie's business is subject to renegotiation of profits or termination of contracts at the election of the government. Orders are generally filled on a current basis and order backlog is not material to AbbVie's business. Competition The markets for AbbVie's products are highly competitive. AbbVie competes with other research-based pharmaceuticals and biotechnology companies that discover, manufacture, market and sell proprietary pharmaceutical products, therapies and biologics. For example, Humira competes with anti-TNF products, JAK inhibitors and other competitive products intended to treat a number of disease states and Mavyret/Maviret competes with other available HCV treatment options. In addition, in the past few years, a number of other companies have started to develop, have successfully developed and/or are currently marketing products that are being positioned as competitors to Botox. The search for technological innovations in pharmaceutical products is a significant aspect of competition. The introduction of new products by competitors and changes in medical practices and procedures can result in product obsolescence. Price is also a competitive factor. In addition, the substitution of generic pharmaceutical products for branded conventional (small-molecule) pharmaceutical products creates competitive pressures on AbbVie's products that do not have patent protection. New products or treatments brought to market by AbbVie's competitors could cause revenues for AbbVie's products to decrease due to price reductions and sales volume decreases. Biosimilars. Competition for AbbVie's biologic products is affected by the approval of follow-on biologics, also known as "biosimilars." Biologics have added major therapeutic options for the treatment of many diseases, including some for which therapies were unavailable or inadequate. The cost of developing and producing biologic therapies is typically dramatically higher than for small molecule medications, and many biologic medications are used for ongoing treatment of chronic diseases, such as rheumatoid arthritis or inflammatory bowel disease, or for the treatment of previously untreatable cancer. Significant investments in biologics infrastructure and manufacturing are necessary to produce biologic products. Humira is now facing direct biosimilar competition in Europe and other countries, and AbbVie will continue to face competitive pressure from these biologics and from orally administered products. In the United States, the FDA regulates biologics under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (the FFDCA), the Public Health Service Act (PHSA) and the regulations implementing these statutes. The enactment of federal health care reform legislation in March 2010 provided a pathway for approval of biosimilars under the PHSA, but the approval process for, and science behind, biosimilars is complex. Approval by the FDA is dependent upon many factors, including a showing that the biosimilar is "highly similar" to the original product and has no clinically meaningful differences from the original product in terms of safety, purity and potency. The types of data that could ordinarily be required in an application to show similarity may include analytical data, bioequivalence studies and studies to demonstrate chemical similarity, animal studies (including toxicity studies) and clinical studies. Furthermore, the law provides that only a biosimilar product that is determined to be "interchangeable" will be considered by the FDA as substitutable for the original biologic product without the intervention of the health care provider who prescribed the original biologic product. To prove that a biosimilar product is interchangeable, the applicant must demonstrate that the product can be expected to produce the same clinical results as the original biologic product in any given patient, and if the product is administered more than once in a patient, that safety risks and potential for diminished efficacy of alternating or switching between the use of the interchangeable biosimilar biologic product and the original biologic product is no greater than the risk of using the original biologic product without switching. The law continues to be interpreted and implemented by the FDA. As a result, its full ultimate impact, implementation and meaning remains subject to uncertainty. Intellectual Property Protection and Regulatory Exclusivity Generally, upon approval, products may be entitled to certain kinds of exclusivity under applicable intellectual property and regulatory regimes. AbbVie's intellectual property is materially valuable to the company, and AbbVie seeks patent protection, where available, in all significant markets and/or countries for each product in development. In the United States, the expiration date for patents is 20 years after the filing date. Given that patents relating to pharmaceutical products are often obtained early in the development process and given the amount of time needed to complete clinical trials and other development activities required for regulatory approval, the length of time between product launch and patent expiration is significantly less than 20 years. The Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act of 1984 (commonly known as the Hatch-Waxman Act) permits a patent holder to seek a patent extension, commonly called a "patent term restoration," for patents on products (or processes for making the product) regulated by the FFDCA. The length of the patent extension is roughly based on 50 percent of the period of time from the filing of an Investigational New Drug Application (NDA) for a compound to the submission of the NDA for such compound, plus 100 percent of the time period from NDA submission to regulatory approval. The extension, however, cannot exceed five years and the patent term remaining after regulatory approval cannot exceed 14 years. Biological products licensed under the PHSA are similarly eligible for terms of patent restoration. Pharmaceutical products may be entitled to other forms of legal or regulatory exclusivity upon approval. The scope, length and requirements for each of these exclusivities vary both in the United States and in other jurisdictions. In the United States, if the FDA approves a conventional drug product that contains an active ingredient not previously approved, the product is typically entitled to five years of non-patent regulatory exclusivity. Specific conditions of use approved for individual products may also be entitled to three years of exclusivity if approval was based on the FDA's reliance on new clinical studies essential to approval submitted by the NDA applicant. If the NDA applicant studies the product for use by children, the FDA may grant pediatric exclusivity, which extends by 180 days all existing exclusivities (patent and regulatory) related to the product. For products that are either used to treat conditions that afflict a relatively small population or for which there is not a reasonable expectation that the research and development costs will be recovered, the FDA may designate the pharmaceutical as an orphan drug and grant it seven years of exclusivity. Other types of regulatory exclusivity may also be available, such as Generating New Antibiotic Incentives Now (GAIN) exclusivity, which can provide new antibiotic or new antifungal drugs an additional five years of exclusivity to be added to certain exclusivities already provided for by law. Applicable laws and regulations dictate the scope of any exclusivity to which a product or particular characteristics of a product is entitled upon approval in any particular country. In certain instances, regulatory exclusivity may offer protection where patent protection is no longer available or for a period of time in excess of patent protection. It is not possible to estimate for each product in development the total period and scope of exclusivity to which it may become entitled until regulatory approval is obtained or sometimes even later. However, given the length of time required to complete clinical development of a pharmaceutical product, the periods of exclusivity that might be achieved in any individual case would not generally be expected to exceed a minimum of three years and a maximum of 14 years. These estimates do not consider other factors, such as the difficulty of recreating the manufacturing process for a particular product or other proprietary knowledge that may delay the introduction of a generic or other follow-on product after the expiration of applicable patent and other regulatory exclusivity periods. Biologics may be entitled to exclusivity under the Biologics Price Competition and Innovation Act, which was passed on March 23, 2010 as Title VII to the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act. The law provides a pathway for approval of biosimilars following the expiration of 12 years of regulatory exclusivity for the innovator biologic and a potential additional 180 day-extension term for conducting pediatric studies. Biologics are also eligible for orphan drug exclusivity, as discussed above. The law also includes an extensive process for the innovator biologic and biosimilar manufacturer to litigate patent infringement, validity and enforceability. The European Union has also created a pathway for approval of biosimilars and has published guidelines for approval of certain biosimilar products. The more complex nature of biologics and biosimilar products has led to close regulatory scrutiny over follow-on biosimilar products, which can reduce the effect of biosimilars on sales of the innovator biologic as compared to the sales erosion caused by generic versions of small molecule pharmaceutical products. AbbVie owns or has licensed rights to a substantial number of patents and patent applications. AbbVie licenses or owns a patent portfolio of thousands of patent families, each of which includes United States patent applications and/or issued patents and may also contain the non-United States counterparts to these patents and applications. These patents and applications, including various patents that expire during the period 2022 to the early 2040s, in aggregate are believed to be of material importance in the operation of AbbVie's business. However, AbbVie believes that no single patent, license, trademark (or related group of patents, licenses, or trademarks), except for those related to adalimumab (which is sold under the trademark Humira), are material in relation to the company's business as a whole. The United States composition of matter (that is, compound) patent covering adalimumab expired in December 2016, and the equivalent European Union patent expired in October 2018 in the majority of European Union countries. In the United States, non-composition of matter patents covering adalimumab expire no earlier than 2022. AbbVie has entered into settlement and license agreements with several adalimumab biosimilar manufactures. Under the agreements, the licenses in the United States will begin in 2023 and the licenses in Europe began in 2018. In addition, the following patents, licenses and trademarks are significant: those related to ibrutinib (which is sold under the trademark Imbruvica) and those related to risankizumab (which is sold under the trademark Skyrizi). The United States composition of matter patent covering ibrutinib is expected to expire in 2027, however no generic entry for any ibrutinib product is expected prior to March 30, 2032, assuming pediatric exclusivity is granted. The United States composition of matter patent covering risankizumab is expected to expire in 2033. AbbVie may rely, in some circumstances, on trade secrets to protect its technology. AbbVie seeks to protect its technology and product candidates, in part, by confidentiality agreements with its employees, consultants, advisors, contractors and collaborators. These agreements may be breached and AbbVie may not have adequate remedies for any breach. In addition, AbbVie's trade secrets may otherwise become known or be independently discovered by competitors. To the extent that AbbVie's employees, consultants, advisors, contractors and collaborators use intellectual property owned by others in their work for the company, disputes may arise as to the rights in related or resulting know-how and inventions.

Licensing, Acquisitions and Other Arrangements In addition to its independent efforts to develop and market products, AbbVie enters into arrangements such as acquisitions, option-to-acquire agreements, licensing arrangements, option-to-license arrangements, strategic alliances, co-promotion arrangements, co-development and co-marketing agreements and joint ventures. The acquisitions and option-to-acquire agreements typically include, among other terms and conditions, non-refundable purchase price payments or option fees, option exercise payments, milestones or earn-outs and other customary terms and obligations. The licensing and other arrangements typically include, among other terms and conditions, non-refundable upfront license fees, option fees and option exercise payments, milestone payments and royalty and/or profit sharing obligations. See Note 5, "Licensing, Acquisitions and Other Arrangements—Other Licensing & Acquisitions Activity," to the Consolidated Financial Statements included under Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data." Third Party Agreements AbbVie has agreements with third parties for process development, product distribution, analytical services and manufacturing of certain products. AbbVie procures certain products and services from a limited number of suppliers and, in some cases, a single supply source. In addition, AbbVie has agreements with third parties for active pharmaceutical ingredient and product manufacturing, formulation and development services, fill, finish and packaging services, transportation and distribution and logistics services for certain products. AbbVie does not believe that these manufacturing related agreements are material because AbbVie's business is not substantially dependent on any individual agreement. In most cases, AbbVie maintains alternate supply relationships that it can utilize without undue disruption of its manufacturing processes if a third party fails to perform its contractual obligations. AbbVie seeks to maintain sufficient inventory of product to minimize the impact of any supply disruption. AbbVie is also party to certain collaborations and other arrangements, as discussed in Note 5, "Licensing, Acquisitions and Other Arrangements—Other Licensing & Acquisitions Activity," to the Consolidated Financial Statements included under Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data." Sources and Availability of Raw Materials AbbVie purchases, in the ordinary course of business, raw materials and supplies essential to its operations from numerous suppliers around the world. In addition, certain medical devices and components necessary for the manufacture of AbbVie products are provided by unaffiliated third party suppliers. Despite the disruption to the global supply chain caused by COVID-19, AbbVie has continued to supply patients with no material supply impact, except for the previously-disclosed near-term supply issues impacting Lupron. Given the general increased global volatility due to the pandemic, AbbVie is monitoring and taking actions to mitigate potential supply shortages which may impact the fulfillment of product demand. Research and Development Activities AbbVie makes a significant investment in research and development and has numerous compounds (and complementary devices) in clinical development, including potential treatments for complex, life-threatening diseases. AbbVie's ability to discover and develop new compounds is enhanced by the company's use of integrated discovery and development project teams, which include chemists, biologists, physicians and pharmacologists who work on the same compounds as a team. AbbVie also partners with third parties, such as biotechnology companies, other pharmaceutical companies and academic institutions to identify and prioritize promising new treatments that complement and enhance AbbVie's existing portfolio. AbbVie also supplements its research and development efforts with acquisitions. The research and development process generally begins with discovery research which focuses on the identification of a molecule that has a desired effect against a given disease. If preclinical testing of an identified compound proves successful, the compound moves into clinical development which generally includes the following phases:

- Phase 1— involves the first human tests in a small number of healthy volunteers or patients to assess safety, tolerability and doses for later phases.
- Phase 2— tests different doses of the drug in a disease state in order to assess efficacy.
- Phase 3— tests a drug that demonstrates favorable results in the earlier phases in a significantly larger patient population to further demonstrate efficacy and safety in order to meet requirements to enable global approval.

Preclinical data and clinical trials from all of the development phases provide the data required to prepare and submit an NDA, a Biological License Application (BLA) or other submission for regulatory approval to the FDA or similar government agencies outside the United States. The specific requirements (e.g., scope of clinical trials) for obtaining regulatory approval vary across different countries and geographic regions.

The research and development process from discovery through a new drug launch typically takes 8 to 12 years and can be even longer. The research and development of new pharmaceutical products has a significant amount of inherent uncertainty. There is no guarantee when, or if, a molecule will receive the regulatory approval required to launch a new drug or indication. In addition to the development of new products, delivery devices, and new formulations, research and development projects also may include Phase 4 trials, sometimes called post-marketing studies. For such projects, clinical trials are designed and conducted to collect additional data regarding, among other parameters, the benefits and risks of an approved drug. Regulation—Discovery and Clinical Development *United States. Securing approval to market a new pharmaceutical product in the United States requires substantial effort and financial resources and takes several years to complete. The applicant must complete preclinical tests and submit protocols to the FDA before commencing clinical trials. Clinical trials are intended to establish the safety and efficacy of the pharmaceutical product and typically are conducted in sequential phases, although the phases may overlap or be combined. If the required clinical testing is successful, the results are submitted to the FDA in the form of an NDA or BLA requesting approval to market the product for one or more indications. The FDA reviews an NDA or BLA to determine whether a product is safe and effective for its intended use and whether its manufacturing is compliant with current Good Manufacturing Practices (cGMP). Compliance with regulatory requirements is assured through periodic, announced or unannounced inspections by the FDA and other regulatory authorities, and these inspections associated with clinical development may include the sponsor, investigator sites, laboratories, hospitals and manufacturing facilities of AbbVie's subcontractors or other third-party manufacturers. Failure to comply with applicable regulatory requirements can result in enforcement action by the FDA, including rejection of an NDA or BLA. Even if an NDA or a BLA receives approval, the applicant must comply with post-approval requirements. For example, holders of an approval must report adverse reactions, provide updated safety and efficacy information and comply with requirements concerning advertising and promotional materials and activities. Also, quality control and manufacturing procedures must continue to conform to cGMP after approval, and certain changes to the manufacturing procedures and finished product must be submitted and approved by the FDA prior to implementation. The FDA periodically inspects manufacturing facilities to assess compliance with cGMP, which imposes extensive procedural and record keeping requirements. In addition, as a condition of approval, the FDA may require post-marketing testing and surveillance to further assess and monitor the product's safety or efficacy after commercialization, which may require additional clinical trials, patient registries, observational data or additional work on chemistry, manufacturing and controls. Any post-approval regulatory obligations, and the cost of complying with such obligations, could expand in the future. Further, the FDA continues to regulate product labeling, and prohibits the promotion of products for unapproved or "off-label" uses along with other labeling restrictions. Outside the United States. AbbVie is subject to similar regulatory requirements outside the United States for approval and marketing of pharmaceutical products. AbbVie must obtain approval of a clinical trial application or product from applicable supervising regulatory authorities before it can commence clinical trials or marketing of the product in target markets. The approval requirements and process for each country can vary, and the time required to obtain approval may be longer or shorter than that required for FDA approval in the United States. For example, AbbVie may submit marketing authorizations in the European Union under either a centralized or decentralized procedure. The centralized procedure is mandatory for the approval of biotechnology products and many pharmaceutical products and provides for a single marketing authorization that is valid for all European Union member states. Under the centralized procedure, a single marketing authorization application is submitted to the European Medicines Agency. After the agency evaluates the application, it makes a recommendation to the European Commission, which then makes the final determination on whether to approve the application. The decentralized procedure provides for mutual recognition of individual national approval decisions and is available for products that are not subject to the centralized procedure. In Japan, applications for approval of a new product are made through the Pharmaceutical and Medical Devices Agency (PMDA). Japan-specific trials and/or bridging studies to demonstrate that the non-Japanese clinical data applies to Japanese patients may be required. After completing a comprehensive review, the PMDA reports to the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare, which then approves or denies the application. Similarly, applications for a new product in China are submitted to the Center for Drug Evaluation (CDE) of the National Medical Products Administration for technical review and approval of a product for marketing in China. Clinical data in Chinese subjects are usually required to support approval in China, requiring the inclusion of China in global pivotal studies, or a separate China/Asian clinical trial.

The regulatory process in many emerging markets continues to evolve. Many emerging markets, including those in Asia, generally require regulatory approval to have been obtained in a large developed market (such as the United States or Europe) before the country will begin or complete its regulatory review process. Similar to the requirements in Japan and China, certain countries (notably South Korea, Taiwan, India and Russia) also generally require that local clinical studies be conducted in order to support regulatory approval in the country. The requirements governing the conduct of clinical trials and product licensing also vary. In addition, post-approval regulatory obligations such as adverse event reporting and cGMP compliance generally apply and may vary by country. For example, after a marketing authorization has been granted in the European Union, periodic safety reports must be submitted and other pharmacovigilance measures may be required (such as Risk Management Plans). Regulation—Commercialization, Distribution and Manufacturing The manufacturing, marketing, sale, promotion and distribution of AbbVie's products are subject to comprehensive government regulation. Government regulation by various national, regional, federal, state and local agencies, both in the United States and other countries, addresses (among other matters) inspection of, and controls over, research and laboratory procedures, clinical investigations, product approvals and manufacturing, labeling, packaging, marketing and promotion, pricing and reimbursement, sampling, distribution, quality control, post-marketing surveillance, record keeping, storage and disposal practices. AbbVie's operations are also affected by trade regulations in many countries that limit the import of raw materials and finished products and by laws and regulations that seek to prevent corruption and bribery in the marketplace (including the United States Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and the United Kingdom Bribery Act, which provide guidance on corporate interactions with government officials) and require safeguards for the protection of personal data. In addition, AbbVie is subject to laws and regulations pertaining to health care fraud and abuse, including state and federal anti-kickback and false claims laws in the United States. Prescription drug manufacturers such as AbbVie are also subject to taxes, as well as application, product, user and other fees. Compliance with these laws and regulations is costly and materially affects AbbVie's business. Among other effects, health care regulations substantially increase the time, difficulty and costs incurred in obtaining and maintaining approval to market newly developed and existing products. AbbVie expects compliance with these regulations to continue to require significant technical expertise and capital investment to ensure compliance. Failure to comply can delay the release of a new product or result in regulatory and enforcement actions, the seizure or recall of a product, the suspension or revocation of the authority necessary for a product's production and sale and other civil or criminal sanctions, including fines and penalties. In addition to regulatory initiatives, AbbVie's business can be affected by ongoing studies of the utilization, safety, efficacy and outcomes of health care products and their components that are regularly conducted by industry participants, government agencies and others. These studies can lead to updates to the data regarding utilization, safety and efficacy of previously marketed products. In some cases, these studies have resulted, and may in the future result, in the discontinuance of, or limitations on, marketing of such products domestically or worldwide, and may give rise to claims for damages from persons who believe they have been injured as a result of their use. Access to human health care products continues to be a subject of oversight, investigation and action by governmental agencies, legislative bodies and private organizations in the United States and other countries. A major focus is cost containment. Efforts to reduce health care costs are also being made in the private sector, notably by health care payers and providers, which have instituted various cost reduction and containment measures. AbbVie expects insurers and providers to continue attempts to reduce the cost of health care products. Outside the United States, many countries control the price of health care products directly or indirectly, through reimbursement, payment, pricing, coverage limitations, or compulsory licensing. Political and budgetary pressures in the United States and in other countries may also heighten the scope and severity of pricing pressures on AbbVie's products for the foreseeable future. United States. Specifically, U.S. federal laws require pharmaceutical manufacturers to pay certain statutorily-prescribed rebates to state Medicaid programs on prescription drugs reimbursed under state Medicaid plans, and the efforts by states to seek additional rebates may affect AbbVie's business. Similarly, the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992, as a prerequisite to participation in Medicaid and other federal health care programs, requires that manufacturers extend additional discounts on pharmaceutical products to various federal agencies, including the United States Department of Veterans Affairs, Department of Defense and Public Health Service entities and institutions. In addition, recent legislative changes would require similarly discounted prices to be offered to TRICARE program beneficiaries. The Veterans Health Care Act of 1992 also established the 340B drug discount program, which requires pharmaceutical manufacturers to provide products at reduced prices to various designated health care entities and facilities. In the United States, most states also have generic substitution legislation requiring or permitting a dispensing pharmacist to substitute a different manufacturer's generic version of a pharmaceutical product for the one prescribed. In addition, the federal government follows a diagnosis-related group (DRG) payment system for certain institutional services provided under Medicare or Medicaid and has implemented a prospective payment system (PPS) for services delivered in hospital outpatient, nursing home and home health settings. DRG and PPS entitle a health care facility to a fixed reimbursement based on the diagnosis and/or procedure rather than actual costs incurred in patient treatment, thereby increasing the incentive for the facility to limit or control expenditures for many health care products. Medicare reimburses Part B drugs based on average sales price plus a certain percentage to account for physician administration costs, which have been reduced in the hospital outpatient setting. Medicare enters into contracts with private plans to negotiate prices for most patient-administered medicine delivered under Part D. Under the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act (together, the Affordable Care Act), AbbVie pays a fee related to its pharmaceuticals sales to government programs. In addition, AbbVie provides a discount of 70% for branded prescription drugs sold to patients who fall into the Medicare Part D coverage gap, or "donut hole." The Affordable Care Act also includes provisions known as the Physician Payments Sunshine Act, which require manufacturers of drugs and biologics covered under Medicare and Medicaid to record any transfers of value to physicians and teaching hospitals and to report this data to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services for subsequent public disclosure. Similar reporting requirements have also been enacted on the state level in the United States, and an increasing number of countries worldwide either have adopted or are considering similar laws requiring disclosure of interactions with health care professionals. Failure to report appropriate data may result in civil or criminal fines and/or penalties. AbbVie expects debate to continue during 2022 at all government levels worldwide over the marketing, availability, method of delivery and payment for health care products and services. AbbVie believes that future legislation and regulation in the markets it serves could affect access to health care products and services, increase rebates, reduce prices or the rate of price increases for health care products and services, change health care delivery systems, create new fees and obligations for the pharmaceuticals industry, or require additional reporting and disclosure. It is difficult to predict the extent to which AbbVie or the health care industry in general might be affected by the matters discussed above. European Union. The European Union has adopted directives and other legislation governing labeling, advertising, distribution, supply, pharmacovigilance and marketing of pharmaceutical products. Such legislation provides mandatory standards throughout the European Union and permits member states to supplement these standards with additional regulations. European governments also regulate pharmaceutical product prices through their control of national health care systems that fund a large part of the cost of such products to consumers. As a result, patients are unlikely to use a pharmaceutical product that is not reimbursed by the government. In many European countries, the government either regulates the pricing of a new product at launch or subsequent to launch through direct price controls or reference pricing. In recent years, many countries have also imposed new or additional cost containment measures on pharmaceutical products. Differences between national pricing regimes create price differentials within the European Union that can lead to significant parallel trade in pharmaceutical products. Most governments also promote generic substitution by mandating or permitting a pharmacist to substitute a different manufacturer's generic version of a pharmaceutical product for the one prescribed and by permitting or mandating that health care professionals prescribe generic versions in certain circumstances. Many governments are also following a similar path for biosimilar therapies. In addition, governments use reimbursement lists to limit the pharmaceutical products that are eligible for reimbursement by national health care systems. Japan. In Japan, the National Health Insurance system maintains a Drug Price List specifying which pharmaceutical products are eligible for reimbursement, and the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare sets the prices of the products on this list. The government generally introduces price cut rounds every other year and also mandates price decreases for specific products. New products judged innovative or useful, that are indicated for pediatric use, or that target orphan or small population diseases, however, may be eligible for a pricing premium. The government has also promoted the use of generics, where available. Emerging Markets. Many emerging markets take steps to reduce pharmaceutical product prices, in some cases through direct price controls and in others through the promotion of generic/biosimilar alternatives to branded pharmaceuticals. Since AbbVie markets its products worldwide, certain products of a local nature and variations of product lines must also meet other local regulatory requirements. Certain additional risks are inherent in conducting business outside the United States, including price and currency exchange controls, changes in currency exchange rates, limitations on participation in local enterprises, expropriation, nationalization and other governmental action.

Regulation – Medical Devices Medical devices are subject to regulation by the FDA, state agencies and foreign government health authorities. FDA regulations, as well as various U.S. federal and state laws, govern the development, clinical testing, manufacturing, labeling, record keeping and marketing of medical device products agencies in the United States. AbbVie's medical device product candidates, including AbbVie's breast implants, must undergo rigorous clinical testing and an extensive government regulatory clearance or approval process prior to sale in the United States and other countries. The lengthy process of clinical development and submissions for clearance or approval, and the continuing need for compliance with applicable laws and regulations, require the expenditure of substantial resources. Regulatory clearance or approval, when and if obtained, may be limited in scope, and may significantly limit the indicated uses for which a product may be marketed. Cleared or approved products and their manufacturers are subject to ongoing review, and discovery of previously unknown problems with products may result in restrictions on their manufacture, sale and/or use or require their withdrawal from the market. United States. AbbVie's medical device products are subject to extensive regulation by the FDA in the United States. Unless an exemption applies, each medical device AbbVie markets in the United States must have a 510(k) clearance or a Premarket Approval Application (PMA) in accordance with the FFDCA and its implementing regulations. The FDA classifies medical devices into one of three classes, depending on the degree of risk associated with each medical device and the extent of controls that are needed to ensure safety and effectiveness. Devices deemed to pose a lower risk are placed in either Class I or Class II, and devices deemed by the FDA to pose the greatest risk, such as life-sustaining, life-supporting or implantable devices, or a device deemed to be not substantially equivalent to a previously cleared 510(k) device, are placed in Class III. In general, a Class III device cannot be marketed in the United States unless the FDA approves the device after submission of a PMA, and any changes to the device subsequent to initial FDA approval must also be reviewed and approved by the FDA. The majority of AbbVie's medical device products, including AbbVie's breast implants, are regulated as Class III medical devices. A Class III device may have significant additional obligations imposed in its conditions of approval, and the time in which it takes to obtain approval can be long. Compliance with regulatory requirements is assured through periodic, unannounced facility inspections by the FDA and other regulatory authorities, and these inspections may include the manufacturing facilities of AbbVie's subcontractors or other third-party manufacturers. Failure to comply with applicable regulatory requirements can result in enforcement action by the FDA, which may include any of the following sanctions: warning letters or untitled letters; fines, injunctions and civil penalties; recall or seizure of AbbVie' products; operating restrictions, partial suspension or total shutdown of production; refusing AbbVie' request for 510(k) clearance or PMA approval of new products; withdrawing 510(k) clearance or PMA approvals that are already granted; and criminal prosecution. A clinical trial is almost always required to support a PMA application and is sometimes required for a 510(k) premarket notification. Clinical trials generally require submission of an application for an investigational device exemption (IDE), which must be supported by appropriate data, such as animal and laboratory testing results, showing that it is safe to test the device in humans and that the testing protocol is scientifically sound. A study sponsor must obtain approval for its IDE from the FDA, and it must also obtain approval of its study from the Institutional Review Board overseeing the trial. The results of clinical testing may not be sufficient to obtain approval of the investigational device. Once a device is approved, the manufacture and distribution of the device remains subject to continuing regulation by the FDA, including Quality System Regulation requirements, which involve design, testing, control, documentation and other quality assurance procedures during the manufacturing process. Medical device manufacturers and their subcontractors are required to register their establishments and list their manufactured devices with the FDA and are subject to periodic unannounced inspections by the FDA and certain state agencies for compliance with regulatory requirements. Manufacturers must also report to the FDA if their devices may have caused or contributed to a death or serious injury or malfunctioned in a way that could likely cause or contribute to a death or serious injury, or if the manufacturer conducts a field correction or product recall or removal to reduce a risk to health posed by a device or to remedy a violation of the FFDCA that may present a health risk. Further, the FDA continues to regulate device labeling, and prohibits the promotion of products for unapproved or "off-label" uses along with other labeling restrictions. European Union. Medical device products that are marketed in the European Union must comply with the requirements of the Medical Device Regulation (the MDR), which came into effect in May 2021. The MDR provides for regulatory oversight with respect to the design, manufacture, clinical trials, labeling and adverse event reporting for medical devices to ensure that medical devices marketed in the European Union are safe and effective for their intended uses. Medical devices that comply with the MDR are entitled to bear a Conformité Européenne marking evidencing such compliance and may be marketed in the European Union. Failure to comply with these domestic and international regulatory requirements could affect AbbVie's ability to market and sell AbbVie's products in these countries.

Environmental Matters AbbVie believes that its operations comply in all material respects with applicable laws and regulations concerning environmental protection. Regulations under federal and state environmental laws impose stringent limitations on emissions and discharges to the environment from various manufacturing operations. AbbVie's capital expenditures for pollution control in 2021 were approximately $17 million and operating expenditures were approximately $33 million. In 2022, capital expenditures for pollution control are estimated to be approximately $14 million and operating expenditures are estimated to be approximately $34 million. Abbott was identified as one of many potentially responsible parties in investigations and/or remediations at several locations in the United States, including Puerto Rico, under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act, commonly known as Superfund. Some of these locations were transferred to AbbVie in connection with the separation and distribution, and AbbVie has become a party to these investigations and remediations. Abbott was also engaged in remediation at several other sites, some of which have been transferred to AbbVie in connection with the separation and distribution, in cooperation with the Environmental Protection Agency or similar agencies. While it is not feasible to predict with certainty the final costs related to those investigations and remediation activities, AbbVie believes that such costs, together with other expenditures to maintain compliance with applicable laws and regulations concerning environmental protection, should not have a material adverse effect on the company's financial position, cash flows, or results of operations. Employees AbbVie employed approximately 50,000 employees in over 70 countries as of January 31, 2022. Outside the United States, some of AbbVie's employees are represented by unions or works councils. AbbVie believes that it has good relations with its employees. Human Capital Management Attracting, retaining and providing meaningful growth and development opportunities to AbbVie's employees is critical to the company's success in making a remarkable impact on people's lives around the world. AbbVie leverages numerous resources to identify and enhance strategic and leadership capability, foster employee engagement and create a culture where diverse talent is productive and engaged. AbbVie invests in its employees through competitive compensation, benefits and employee support programs and offers best-in-class development and leadership opportunities. AbbVie has developed a deep talent base through ongoing investment in functional and leadership training and by sourcing world-class external talent, ensuring a sustainable talent pipeline. AbbVie continuously cultivates and enhances its working culture and embraces equality, diversity and inclusion as fundamental to the company's mission. Attracting and Developing Talent. Attracting and developing high-performing talent is essential to AbbVie's continued success. AbbVie implements detailed talent attraction strategies, with an emphasis on STEM skill sets, a diverse talent base and other critical skillsets, including drug discovery, clinical development, market access and business development. AbbVie also invests in competitive compensation and benefits programs. In addition to offering a comprehensive suite of benefits ranging from medical and dental coverage to retirement, disability and life insurance programs, AbbVie also provides health promotion programs, mental health awareness campaigns and employee assistance programs in several countries, financial wellness support, on-site health screenings and immunizations in several countries and on-site fitness and rehabilitation centers. In addition, the AbbVie Employee Assistance Fund (a part of the AbbVie Foundation) supports two programs for global employees: the AbbVie Possibilities Scholarship for children of employees, which is an annual merit-based scholarship for use at accredited colleges, universities or vocational-technical schools; and the Employee Relief Program, which is financial assistance to support short term needs of employees when faced with large-scale disasters (e.g. a hurricane), individual disasters (e.g. a home fire) or financial hardship (e.g. the death of a spouse). Finally, AbbVie empowers managers and their teams with tools, tips and guidelines on effectively managing workloads, managing teams from a distance and supporting flexible work practices. New AbbVie employees are given a tailored onboarding experience for faster integration and to support performance. AbbVie's mentorship program allows employees to self-nominate as mentors or mentees and facilitates meaningful relationships supporting employees' career and development goals. AbbVie also provides structured, broad-based development opportunities, focusing on high-performance skills and leadership training. AbbVie's talent philosophy holds leaders accountable for building a high-performing organization, and the company provides development opportunities to all levels of leadership. AbbVie's Learn, Develop, Perform program offers year-long, self-directed leadership education, supplemented with tools and resources, and leverages leaders as role models and teachers. In addition, the foundation to AbbVie's leadership pipeline is the company's Professional Development Programs, which attract graduates, postgraduates and post-doctoral talent to participate in formal development programs lasting up to three years, with the objective of strengthening functional and leadership capabilities. Culture. AbbVie's shared values of transforming lives, acting with integrity, driving innovation, embracing diversity and inclusion and serving the community form the core of the company's culture. AbbVie articulates the behaviors associated with these values in the Ways We Work, a core set of working behaviors that emphasize how the company achieves results is equally as important as achieving them. The Ways We Work are designed to ensure that every AbbVie employee is aware of the company's cultural expectations. AbbVie integrates the Ways We Work into all talent processes, forming the basis for assessing performance, prioritizing development and ultimately rewarding employees. AbbVie believes its culture creates strong engagement, which is measured regularly through a confidential, third party all-employee survey, and this engagement supports AbbVie's mission of making a remarkable impact on people's lives. Equity, Equality, Diversity & Inclusion (EED&I). A cornerstone of AbbVie's human capital management approach is to prioritize fostering an inclusive and diverse workforce. In 2019, AbbVie adopted a five-year Equality, Diversity & Inclusion roadmap that defines key global focus areas, objectives and associated initiatives, and includes implementation plans organized by business function and geography. AbbVie's senior leaders have adopted formal goals aligned with executing this strategy. In recent years, AbbVie's board of directors has prioritized oversight of AbbVie's response to the U.S. racial justice movement, including overseeing internal programs designed to ensure that AbbVie is attracting, retaining and developing diverse talent. Through December 2021, women represented 51 percent of management positions globally and in the United States, 35 percent of AbbVie's workforce was comprised of members of historically underrepresented populations, an increase from 2020. Further, AbbVie is committed to pay equity and conducts pay equity analyses annually. A critical component of AbbVie's strategy is to instill an inclusive mindset in all AbbVie leaders and employees, so the company can realize the full value of a diverse workforce from recruitment through retirement. AbbVie recently launched a new resource for people who manage others to reinforce the importance of EED&I to the business, educate leaders on inclusive recruiting practices and modeling inclusive behavior, and encourage participation in the company's inclusive culture learning opportunities. AbbVie's Employee Resource Groups also help the company nurture an inclusive culture by building community, hosting awareness events and providing leadership and career opportunities. In 2021, AbbVie reiterated its commitment to racial equality and social justice by, among other things, expanding its employee matching program to $3-to-$1 for donations to civil rights nonprofits fostering racial equity and by reaffirming its commitment to clinical trial diversity. Additional information about AbbVie's efforts on racial equality and social justice is provided on the company's website at: https://abbvie.com/our-company/equality-inclusion-diversity/our-commitment-to-racial-justice.html. COVID-19 Health and Safety. AbbVie has effectively prioritized the health and safety of its employees during the COVID-19 pandemic, while continuing to drive strong business performance. AbbVie implemented, among other things, temporary office and facility closures and establishment of new safety and cleaning protocols and procedures; regular communication regarding the effect of the pandemic on AbbVie's business and employees; establishment of physical distancing procedures, modification of workspaces and provision of personal protective equipment and cleaning supplies for employees; provision of on-site vaccinations and temperature screenings; a variety of testing and vaccination resources including on-site vaccinations and on-site and at-home testing and COVID case management programs; and remote working accommodations and related services to support employees' needs for flexibility. In addition, COVID-19 is a covered event under the AbbVie Employee Assistance Fund's Employee Relief Program, entitling eligible AbbVie employees and their families to financial assistance to pay for mortgage/rent, utilities, food, childcare and medical expenses not covered by insurance. AbbVie also provided paid leave and other support and accommodations to the company's employees with relevant medical, pharmaceutical, research and development, science, public health and public safety skills, knowledge, training and experience who desired or were requested or mandated to serve as volunteers during the pandemic. Lastly, AbbVie's commitment to employees has been evidenced by no workforce reductions and no salary reductions associated with COVID-19.

ITEM 1A. RISK FACTORS

You should carefully consider the following risks and other information in this Form 10-K in evaluating AbbVie and AbbVie's common stock. Any of the following risks could materially and adversely affect AbbVie's results of operations, financial condition or cash flows. The risk factors generally have been separated into two groups: risks related to AbbVie's business and risks related to AbbVie's common stock. Based on the information currently known to it, AbbVie believes that the following information identifies the most significant risk factors affecting it in each of these categories of risks. However, the risks and uncertainties AbbVie faces are not limited to those set forth in the risk factors described below and may not be in order of importance or probability of occurrence. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to AbbVie or that AbbVie currently believes to be immaterial may also adversely affect its business. In addition, past financial performance may not be a reliable indicator of future performance and historical trends should not be used to anticipate results or trends in future periods. If any of the following risks and uncertainties develops into actual events, these events could have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's business, results of operations, financial condition or cash flows. In such case, the trading price of AbbVie's common stock could decline. Risks Related to AbbVie's Business Public health outbreaks, epidemics or pandemics, such as the coronavirus (COVID-19), have had, and could in the future have, an adverse impact on AbbVie's operations and financial condition. Public health outbreaks, epidemics or pandemics have had, and could in the future have, an adverse impact on AbbVie's operations and financial condition. The continuing pandemic caused by the novel strain of coronavirus (COVID-19) has caused many countries, including the United States, to declare national emergencies and implement preventive measures such as travel bans and shelter in place or total lock-down orders, some of which have eased. The continuation or re-implementation of these bans and orders remains uncertain. The COVID-19 pandemic has caused AbbVie to modify its business practices (including instituting remote work for many of AbbVie's employees), and AbbVie may take further actions as may be required by government authorities or as AbbVie determines are in the best interests of AbbVie's employees, patients, customers and business partners. While the impact of COVID-19 on AbbVie's operations, including, among others, its manufacturing and supply chain, sales and marketing, commercial and clinical trial operations, to date has not been material, AbbVie has experienced lower new patient starts in certain products and markets. The impact of COVID-19 on AbbVie over the long-term is uncertain and cannot be predicted with confidence. The extent of the adverse impact of COVID-19 on AbbVie's operations will depend on the extent and severity of the continued spread of COVID-19 globally, the timing and nature of actions taken to respond to COVID-19 and the resulting economic consequences. Ultimately, efforts to mitigate the impact of COVID-19 may not completely prevent AbbVie's business from being adversely affected and future impacts remain uncertain. The expiration or loss of patent protection and licenses may adversely affect AbbVie's future revenues and operating earnings. AbbVie relies on patent, trademark and other intellectual property protection in the discovery, development, manufacturing and sale of its products. In particular, patent protection is, in the aggregate, important in AbbVie's marketing of pharmaceutical products in the United States and most major markets outside of the United States. Patents covering AbbVie products normally provide market exclusivity, which is important for the profitability of many of AbbVie's products. As patents for certain of its products expire, AbbVie will or could face competition from lower priced generic or biosimilar products. The expiration or loss of patent protection for a product typically is followed promptly by substitutes that may significantly reduce sales for that product in a short amount of time. If AbbVie's competitive position is compromised because of generics, biosimilars or otherwise, it could have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's business and results of operations. In addition, proposals emerge from time to time for legislation to further encourage the early and rapid approval of generic drugs or biosimilars. Any such proposals that are enacted into law could increase the impact of generic competition. AbbVie's principal patents and trademarks are described in greater detail in Item 1, "Business—Intellectual Property Protection and Regulatory Exclusivity" and Item 7, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations," and litigation regarding these patents is described in Item 3, "Legal Proceedings." The United States composition of matter patent for Humira, which is AbbVie's largest product and had worldwide net revenues of approximately $20.7 billion in 2021, expired in December 2016, and the equivalent European Union patent expired in the majority of European Union countries in October 2018.

AbbVie's major products could lose patent protection earlier than expected, which could adversely affect AbbVie's future revenues and operating earnings. Third parties or government authorities may challenge or seek to invalidate or circumvent AbbVie's patents and patent applications. For example, manufacturers of generic pharmaceutical products file, and may continue to file, Abbreviated New Drug Applications with the FDA seeking to market generic forms of AbbVie's products prior to the expiration of relevant patents owned or licensed by AbbVie by asserting that the patents are invalid, unenforceable and/or not infringed. In addition, petitioners have filed, and may continue to file, challenges to the validity of AbbVie patents under the 2011 Leahy-Smith America Invents Act, which created inter partes review and post grant review procedures for challenging patent validity in administrative proceedings at the United States Patent and Trademark Office. Although most of the challenges to AbbVie's intellectual property have come from other businesses, governments may also challenge intellectual property rights. For example, court decisions and potential legislation relating to patents, such as legislation regarding biosimilars, and other regulatory initiatives may result in further erosion of intellectual property protection. In addition, certain governments outside the United States have indicated that compulsory licenses to patents may be sought to further their domestic policies or on the basis of national emergencies, such as HIV/AIDS. If triggered, compulsory licenses could diminish or eliminate sales and profits from those jurisdictions and negatively affect AbbVie's results of operations. AbbVie normally responds to challenges by vigorously defending its patents, including by filing patent infringement lawsuits. Patent litigation, administrative proceedings and other challenges to AbbVie's patents are costly and unpredictable and may deprive AbbVie of market exclusivity for a patented product. To the extent AbbVie's intellectual property is successfully challenged, circumvented or weakened, or to the extent such intellectual property does not allow AbbVie to compete effectively, AbbVie's business will suffer. To the extent that countries do not enforce AbbVie's intellectual property rights or require compulsory licensing of AbbVie's intellectual property, AbbVie's future revenues and operating earnings will be reduced. A third party's intellectual property may prevent AbbVie from selling its products or have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's future profitability and financial condition. Third parties may claim that an AbbVie product infringes upon their intellectual property. Resolving an intellectual property infringement claim can be costly and time consuming and may require AbbVie to enter into license agreements. AbbVie cannot guarantee that it would be able to obtain license agreements on commercially reasonable terms. A successful claim of patent or other intellectual property infringement could subject AbbVie to significant damages or an injunction preventing the manufacture, sale, or use of the affected AbbVie product or products. Any of these events could have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's profitability and financial condition. Any significant event that adversely affects Humira revenues could have a material and negative impact on AbbVie's results of operations and cash flows. Humira accounted for approximately 37% of AbbVie's total net revenues in 2021. Any significant event that adversely affects Humira's revenues could have a material adverse impact on AbbVie's results of operations and cash flows. These events could include loss of patent protection for Humira (as described further in "—The expiration or loss of patent protection and licenses may adversely affect AbbVie's future revenues and operating earnings" above), the commercialization of biosimilars of Humira, the discovery of previously unknown side effects or impaired efficacy, increased competition from the introduction of new, more effective or less expensive treatments and discontinuation or removal from the market of Humira for any reason. AbbVie's research and development efforts may not succeed in developing and marketing commercially successful products and technologies, which may cause its revenues and profitability to decline. To remain competitive, AbbVie must continue to launch new products and new indications and/or brand extensions for existing products, and such launches must generate revenue sufficient both to cover its substantial research and development costs and to replace revenues of profitable products that are lost to or displaced by competing products or therapies. Failure to do so would have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's revenue and profitability. Accordingly, AbbVie commits substantial effort, funds, and other resources to research and development and must make ongoing substantial expenditures without any assurance that its efforts will be commercially successful. A high rate of failure in the biopharmaceutical industry is inherent in the research and development of new products, and failure can occur at any point in the research and development process, including after significant funds have been invested. Products that appear promising in development may fail to reach the market for numerous reasons, including failure to demonstrate effectiveness, safety concerns, superior safety or efficacy of competing therapies, failure to achieve positive clinical or pre-clinical outcomes beyond the current standards of care, inability to obtain necessary regulatory approvals or delays in the approval of new products and new indications, limited scope of approved uses, excessive costs to manufacture, the failure to obtain or maintain intellectual property rights, or infringement of the intellectual property rights of others. Decisions about research studies made early in the development process of a pharmaceutical product candidate can affect the marketing strategy once such candidate receives approval. More detailed studies may demonstrate additional benefits that can help in the marketing, but they also consume time and resources and may delay submitting the pharmaceutical product candidate for approval. AbbVie cannot guarantee that a proper balance of speed and testing will be made with respect to each pharmaceutical product candidate or that decisions in this area would not adversely affect AbbVie's future results of operations. Even if AbbVie successfully develops and markets new products or enhancements to its existing products, they may be quickly rendered obsolete by changing clinical preferences, changing industry standards, or competitors' innovations. AbbVie's innovations may not be accepted quickly in the marketplace because of existing clinical practices or uncertainty over third-party reimbursement. AbbVie cannot state with certainty when or whether any of its products under development will be launched, whether it will be able to develop, license, or otherwise acquire compounds or products, or whether any products will be commercially successful. Failure to launch successful new products or new indications for existing products may cause AbbVie's products to become obsolete, causing AbbVie's revenues and operating results to suffer. A portion of AbbVie's near-term pharmaceutical pipeline relies on collaborations with third parties, which may adversely affect the development and sale of its products. AbbVie depends on alliances and joint ventures with pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies for a portion of the products in its near-term pharmaceutical pipeline. Failures by these parties to meet their contractual, regulatory, or other obligations to AbbVie, or any disruption in the relationships between AbbVie and these third parties, could have an adverse effect on AbbVie's pharmaceutical pipeline and business. In addition, AbbVie's collaborative relationships for research and development extend for many years and may give rise to disputes regarding the relative rights, obligations and revenues of AbbVie and its collaboration partners, including the ownership of intellectual property and associated rights and obligations. This could result in the loss of intellectual property rights or protection, delay the development and sale of potential pharmaceutical products and lead to lengthy and expensive litigation, administrative proceedings or arbitration. Biologics carry unique risks and uncertainties, which could have a negative impact on future results of operations. The successful discovery, development, manufacturing and sale of biologics is a long, expensive and uncertain process. There are unique risks and uncertainties with biologics. For example, access to and supply of necessary biological materials, such as cell lines, may be limited and governmental regulations restrict access to and regulate the transport and use of such materials. In addition, the development, manufacturing and sale of biologics is subject to regulations that are often more complex and extensive than the regulations applicable to other pharmaceutical products. Manufacturing biologics, especially in large quantities, is often complex and may require the use of innovative technologies. Such manufacturing also requires facilities specifically designed and validated for this purpose and sophisticated quality assurance and quality control procedures. Biologics are also frequently costly to manufacture because production inputs are derived from living animal or plant material, and some biologics cannot be made synthetically. Failure to successfully discover, develop, manufacture and sell biologics—including Humira—could adversely impact AbbVie's business and results of operations. AbbVie's biologic products are subject to competition from biosimilars. The Biologics Price Competition and Innovation Act creates a framework for the approval of biosimilars in the United States and could allow competitors to reference data from biologic products already approved. In Europe, the European Commission has granted marketing authorizations for several biosimilars pursuant to a set of general and product class-specific guidelines for biosimilar approvals issued over the past few years. In addition, companies are developing biosimilars in other countries that could and do compete with AbbVie's biologic products, including Humira. As competitors obtain marketing approval for biosimilars referencing AbbVie's biologic products, AbbVie's products may become subject to competition from such biosimilars, with the attendant competitive pressure and consequences. Expiration or successful challenge of AbbVie's applicable patent rights could also trigger competition from other products, assuming any relevant exclusivity period has expired. As a result, AbbVie could face more litigation and administrative proceedings with respect to the validity and/or scope of patents relating to its biologic products. New products and technological advances by AbbVie's competitors may negatively affect AbbVie's results of operations. AbbVie competes with other research-based pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies that discover, manufacture, market and sell proprietary pharmaceutical products and biologics. For example, Humira competes with anti-TNF products and other competitive products intended to treat a number of disease states and Mavyret/Maviret competes with other available hepatitis C treatment options. In addition, in the past few years, a number of other companies have started to develop, have successfully developed and/or are currently marketing products that are being positioned as competitors to Botox. All of these competitors may introduce new products or develop technological advances that compete with AbbVie's products in therapeutic areas such as immunology, hematologic oncology, aesthetics, neuroscience, eye care and women's health. AbbVie cannot predict with certainty the timing or impact of the introduction by competitors of new products or technological advances. Such competing products may be safer, more effective, more effectively marketed or sold, or have lower prices or superior performance features than AbbVie's products, and this could negatively impact AbbVie's business and results of operations. The manufacture of many of AbbVie's products is a highly exacting and complex process, and if AbbVie or one of its suppliers encounters problems manufacturing AbbVie's products, AbbVie's business could suffer. The manufacture of many of AbbVie's products is a highly exacting and complex process, due in part to strict regulatory requirements. Problems may arise during manufacturing for a variety of reasons, including equipment malfunction, failure to follow specific protocols and procedures, problems with raw materials, delays related to the construction of new facilities or the expansion of existing facilities, including those intended to support future demand for AbbVie's products, changes in manufacturing production sites and limits to manufacturing capacity due to regulatory requirements, changes in the types of products produced, physical limitations that could inhibit continuous supply, man-made or natural disasters and environmental factors. If problems arise during the production of a batch of product, that batch of product may have to be discarded and AbbVie may experience product shortages or incur added expenses. This could, among other things, lead to increased costs, lost revenue, damage to customer relations, time and expense spent investigating the cause and, depending on the cause, similar losses with respect to other batches or products. If problems are not discovered before the product is released to the market, recall and product liability costs may also be incurred. AbbVie uses a number of products in its pharmaceutical and biologic manufacturing processes that are sourced from single suppliers, and an interruption in the supply of those products could adversely affect AbbVie's business and results of operations. AbbVie uses a number of products in its pharmaceutical and biologic manufacturing processes that are sourced from single suppliers. The failure of these single-source suppliers to fulfill their contractual obligations in a timely manner or as a result of regulatory noncompliance or physical disruption at a manufacturing site may impair AbbVie's ability to deliver its products to customers on a timely and competitive basis, which could adversely affect AbbVie's business and results of operations. Finding an alternative supplier could take a significant amount of time and involve significant expense due to the nature of the products and the need to obtain regulatory approvals. AbbVie cannot guarantee that it will be able to reach agreement with alternative providers or that regulatory authorities would approve AbbVie's use of such alternatives. AbbVie does, however, carry business interruption insurance, which provides a degree of protection in the case of a failure by a single-source supplier. Certain aspects of AbbVie's operations are highly dependent upon third party service providers. AbbVie relies on suppliers, vendors and other third party service providers to research, develop, manufacture, commercialize, promote and sell its products. Reliance on third party manufacturers reduces AbbVie's oversight and control of the manufacturing process. Some of these third party providers are subject to legal and regulatory requirements, privacy and security risks and market risks of their own. The failure of a critical third party service provider to meet its obligations could have a material adverse impact on AbbVie's operations and results. If any third party service providers have violated or are alleged to have violated any laws or regulations during the performance of their obligations to AbbVie, it is possible that AbbVie could suffer financial and reputational harm or other negative outcomes, including possible legal consequences. Significant safety or efficacy issues could arise for AbbVie's products, which could have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's revenues and financial condition. Pharmaceutical products receive regulatory approval based on data obtained in controlled clinical trials of limited duration. Following regulatory approval, these products will be used over longer periods of time in many patients. Investigators may also conduct additional, and perhaps more extensive, studies. If new safety or efficacy issues are reported or if new scientific information becomes available (including results of post-marketing Phase 4 trials), or if governments change standards regarding safety, efficacy or labeling, AbbVie may be required to amend the conditions of use for a product. For example, AbbVie may voluntarily provide or be required to provide updated information on a product's label or narrow its approved indication, either of which could reduce the product's market acceptance. If safety or efficacy issues with an AbbVie product arise, sales of the product could be halted by AbbVie or by regulatory authorities and regulatory action could be taken by such regulatory authorities. Safety or efficacy issues affecting suppliers' or competitors' products also may reduce the market acceptance of AbbVie's products. New data about AbbVie's products, or products similar to its products, could negatively impact demand for AbbVie's products due to real or perceived safety issues or uncertainty regarding efficacy and, in some cases, could result in product withdrawal. Furthermore, new data and information, including information about product misuse, may lead government agencies, professional societies, practice management groups or organizations involved with various diseases to publish guidelines or recommendations related to the use of AbbVie's products or the use of related therapies or place restrictions on sales. Such guidelines or recommendations may lead to lower sales of AbbVie's products. AbbVie is subject to product liability claims and other lawsuits that may adversely affect its business and results of operations. In the ordinary course of business, AbbVie is the subject of product liability claims and lawsuits alleging that AbbVie's products or the products of other companies that it promotes have resulted or could result in an unsafe condition for or injury to patients. For example, lawsuits are pending against Allergan, AbbVie's recently acquired subsidiary, and certain of its current and former officers alleging they made misrepresentations and omissions regarding Allergan's textured breast implants. Product liability claims and lawsuits and safety alerts or product recalls, regardless of their ultimate outcome, may have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's business, results of operations and reputation and on its ability to attract and retain customers. Consequences may also include additional costs, a decrease in market share for the product in question, lower income and exposure to other claims. Product liability losses are self-insured. AbbVie is also the subject of other claims, legal proceedings and investigations in the ordinary course of business, which relate to the intellectual property, commercial, securities and other matters. Adverse outcomes in such claims, legal proceedings and investigations may also adversely affect AbbVie's business and results of operations. Additionally, Allergan has been named as a defendant in approximately 3,130 matters relating to the promotion and sale of prescription opioid pain relievers and additional suits may be filed. See Note 15, "Legal Proceedings and Contingencies" to the Consolidated Financial Statements included under Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data." AbbVie cannot predict the outcome of these proceedings. AbbVie is subject to cost-containment efforts and pricing pressures that could cause a reduction in future revenues and operating earnings, and changes in the terms of rebate and chargeback programs, which are common in the pharmaceuticals industry, could have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's operations. Cost-containment efforts by governments and private organizations are described in greater detail in Item 1, "Business—Regulation—Commercialization, Distribution and Manufacturing." To the extent these cost containment efforts are not offset by greater demand, increased patient access to health care, or other factors, AbbVie's future revenues and operating earnings will be reduced. In the United States, the European Union and other countries, AbbVie's business has experienced downward pressure on product pricing, and this pressure could increase in the future. AbbVie is subject to increasing public and legislative pressure with respect to pharmaceutical pricing. In the United States, practices of managed care groups, and institutional and governmental purchasers, and United States federal laws and regulations related to Medicare and Medicaid, including the Medicare Prescription Drug Improvement and Modernization Act of 2003 and the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, contribute to pricing pressures. The potential for continuing changes to the health care system in the United States and the increased purchasing power of entities that negotiate on behalf of Medicare, Medicaid and private sector beneficiaries could result in additional pricing pressures. In numerous major markets worldwide, the government plays a significant role in funding health care services and determining the pricing and reimbursement of pharmaceutical products. Consequently, in those markets, AbbVie is subject to government decision-making and budgetary actions with respect to its products. In particular, many European countries have ongoing government-mandated price reductions for many pharmaceutical products, and AbbVie anticipates continuing pricing pressures in Europe. Differences between countries in pricing regulations could lead to third-party cross-border trading in AbbVie's products that results in a reduction in future revenues and operating earnings. Rebates related to government programs, such as fee-for-service Medicaid or Medicaid managed care programs, arise from laws and regulations. AbbVie cannot predict if additional government initiatives to contain health care costs or other factors could lead to new or modified regulatory requirements that include higher or incremental rebates or discounts. Other rebate and discount programs arise from contractual agreements with private payers. Various factors, including market factors and the ability of private payers to control patient access to products, may provide payers the leverage to negotiate higher or additional rebates or discounts that could have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's operations.

- political and economic instability, including as a result of the United Kingdom's exit from the European Union and the COVID-19 pandemic;
- sovereign debt issues; • price and currency exchange controls, limitations on participation in local enterprises, expropriation, nationalization and other governmental action and regulation; • inflation, recession and fluctuations in interest rates; • restrictions on transfers of funds; • potential deterioration in the economic position and credit quality of certain non-U.S. countries; and • potential penalties or other adverse consequences for violations of anti-corruption, anti-bribery and other similar laws and regulations, including the United States Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and the United Kingdom Bribery Act. Events contemplated by these risks may, individually or in the aggregate, have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's revenues and profitability. If AbbVie does not effectively and profitably commercialize its products, AbbVie's revenues and financial condition could be adversely affected. AbbVie must effectively and profitably commercialize its principal products by creating and meeting continued market demand; achieving market acceptance and generating product sales; ensuring that the active pharmaceutical ingredient(s) for a product and the finished product are manufactured in sufficient quantities and in compliance with requirements of the FDA and similar foreign regulatory agencies and with acceptable quality and pricing to meet commercial demand; and ensuring that the entire supply chain efficiently and consistently delivers AbbVie's products to its customers. The commercialization of AbbVie products may not be successful due to, among other things, unexpected challenges from competitors, new safety issues or concerns being reported that may impact or narrow approved indications, the relative price of AbbVie's product as compared to alternative treatment options and changes to a product's label that further restrict its marketing. If the commercialization of AbbVie's principal products is unsuccessful, AbbVie's ability to generate revenue from product sales will be adversely affected. AbbVie may acquire other businesses, license rights to technologies or products, form alliances, or dispose of assets, which could couse it to incur significant expenses and could negatively affect profitobility. AbbVie may pursue acquisitions, technology licensing arrangements, joint ventures and strategic alliances, or dispose of some of its assets, as part of its business strategy. AbbVie may not complete these transactions in a timely manner, on a cost-effective basis, or at all, and may not realize the expected benefits. If AbbVie is successful in making an acquisition, the products and technologies that are acquired may not be successful or may require significantly greater resources and investments than originally anticipated. AbbVie may not be able to integrate acquisitions successfully into its existing business and could incur or assume significant debt and unknown or contingent liabilities. AbbVie could also experience negative effects on its reported results of operations from acquisition or disposition-related charges, amortization of expenses related to intangibles and charges for impairment of long-term assets. These effects could cause a deterioration of AbbVie's credit rating and result in increased borrowing costs and interest expense. Additionally, changes in AbbVie's structure, operations, revenues, costs, or efficiency resulting from major transactions such as acquisitions, divestitures, mergers, alliances, joint ventures, restructurings or other strategic initiatives, may result in greater than expected costs, may take longer than expected to complete or encounter other difficulties, including the need for regulatory approval where appropriate.

AbbVie is dependent on wholesale distributors for distribution of its products in the United States and, accordingly, its results of operations could be adversely affected if they encounter finonciol difficulties. In 2021, three wholesale distributors (McKesson Corporation, Cardinal Health, Inc. and AmerisourceBergen Corporation) accounted for substantially all of AbbVie's pharmaceutical product sales in the United States. If one of its significant wholesale distributors encounters financial or other difficulties, such distributor may decrease the amount of business that it does with AbbVie, and AbbVie may be unable to collect all the amounts that the distributor owes it on a timely basis or at all, which could negatively impact AbbVie's business and results of operations.

AbbVie is subject to numerous governmental regulations, and it can be costly to comply with these regulations and to develop compliant products and processes. AbbVie's products are subject to rigorous regulation by numerous international, supranational, federal and state authorities, as described in Item 1, "Business—Regulation—Discovery and Clinical Development," "Business—Regulation—Commercialization, Distribution and Manufacturing," and "Business—Regulation—Medical Devices." The process of obtaining regulatory approvals to market a pharmaceutical product can be costly and time consuming, and approvals might not be granted for future products, or additional indications or uses of existing products, on a timely basis, if at all. Delays in the receipt of, or failure to obtain approvals for, future products, or new indications and uses, could result in delayed realization of product revenues, reduction in revenues and substantial additional costs. In addition, AbbVie cannot guarantee that it will remain compliant with applicable regulatory requirements once approval has been obtained for a product. These requirements include, among other things, regulations regarding manufacturing practices, product labeling and advertising and post-marketing reporting, including adverse event reports and field alerts due to manufacturing quality concerns. AbbVie must incur expense and spend time and effort to ensure compliance with these complex regulations. Possible regulatory actions could result in substantial modifications to AbbVie's business practices and operations; refunds, recalls or seizures of AbbVie's products; a total or partial shutdown of production in one or more of AbbVie's or its suppliers' facilities while AbbVie or its supplier remedies the alleged violation; the inability to obtain future approvals; and withdrawals or suspensions of current products from the market. Any of these events could disrupt AbbVie's business and have a material adverse effect on its business and results of operations. Laws and regulations affecting government benefit programs could impose new obligations on AbbVie, require it to change its business practices, and restrict its operations in the future. The health care industry is subject to various federal, state and international laws and regulations pertaining to government benefit programs reimbursement, rebates, price reporting and regulation and health care fraud and abuse. In the United States, these laws include anti-kickback and false claims laws, the Medicaid Rebate Statute, the Veterans Health Care Act, the U.S. Physician Payments Sunshine Act, the TRICARE program, the government pricing rules applicable to the Medicaid, Medicare Part B, 340B Drug Pricing Program and individual state laws relating to pricing and sales and marketing practices. Violations of these laws may be punishable by criminal and/or civil sanctions, including, in some instances, substantial fines, imprisonment and exclusion from participation in federal and state health care programs, including Medicare, Medicaid and Veterans Administration health programs. These laws and regulations are broad in scope and they are subject to change and evolving interpretations, which could require AbbVie to incur substantial costs associated with compliance or to alter one or more of its sales or marketing practices. In addition, violations of these laws, or allegations of such violations, could disrupt AbbVie's business and result in a material adverse effect on its business and results of operations. The international nature of AbbVie's business subjects it to additional business risks that may cause its revenue and profitability to decline. AbbVie's business is subject to risks associated with doing business internationally, including in emerging markets. Net revenues outside of the United States made up approximately 23% of AbbVie's total net revenues in 2021. The risks associated with AbbVie's operations outside the United States include: • fluctuations in currency exchange rates; • changes in medical reimbursement policies and programs; • multiple legal and regulatory requirements that are subject to change and that could restrict AbbVie's ability to manufacture, market and sell its products; • differing local product preferences and product requirements; • trade protection measures and import or export licensing requirements; • international trade disruptions or disputes; • difficulty in establishing, staffing and managing operations; • differing labor regulations; • potentially negative consequences from changes in or interpretations of tax laws;

Forward-Looking Statements

This Annual Report on Form 10-K (the "Annual Report") and the information incorporated herein by reference includes forward-looking statements regarding our business and the therapeutic and commercial potential of our technologies and products in development. Any statement describing our goals, expectations, financial or other projections, intentions or beliefs, is a forward-looking statement and should be considered an at-risk statement. Such statements are subject to certain risks and uncertainties, particularly those inherent in the process of discovering, developing and commercializing medicines that are safe and effective for use as human therapeutics, and in the endeavor of building a business around such medicines. Our forward-looking statements also involve assumptions that, if they never materialize or prove correct, could cause our results to differ materially from those expressed or implied by such forward-looking statements. Factors that could cause or contribute to such differences include, but are not limited to, those discussed in this Annual Report, including those identified in Item 1A entitled "Risk Factors". Although our forward-looking statements reflect the good faith judgment of our management, these statements are based only on facts and factors currently known by us. As a result, you are cautioned not to rely or place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements. References in this Annual Report to "we", "our", "us", "Mirati" or "the Company" refer to Mirati Therapeutics, Inc. and its subsidiaries.

Summary of Risk Factors

Investing in our securities involves a high degree of risk. Below is a summary of material factors that make an investment in our securities speculative or risky. Importantly, this summary does not address all of the risks that we face. Additional discussion of the risks summarized in this summary of risk factors, as well as other risks that we face, can be found under the heading "Item 1A – Risk Factors" in Part I of this Annual Report.

- Risks Related to our Business and Industry
  - Our research and development programs and product candidates are in development. As a result, we are unable to predict if or when we will successfully develop or commercialize our product candidates.
  - All of our product candidates are subject to extensive regulation, which can be costly and time consuming, cause delays or prevent approval of such product candidates for commercialization
  - The successful commercialization of our product candidates, if approved, will depend on achieving market acceptance and we may not be able to gain sufficient acceptance to generate significant revenue.
  - The COVID-19 pandemic could adversely impact our business including our ongoing and planned clinical trials and preclinical research.
  - We rely upon third-party contractors and service providers for the execution of some aspects of our development programs. Failure of these collaborators to provide services of a suitable quality and within acceptable timeframes may cause the delay or failure of our development programs.*

Item 1. Business

BUSINESS

Company Overview

Mirati Therapeutics, Inc. is a clinical-stage oncology company developing novel therapeutics to address the genetic and immunological promoters of cancer.

We have two KRAS inhibitor programs. Adagrasib is an investigational, selective, specific, potent and orally available KRAS G12C inhibitor in clinical development as a monotherapy and in combination with other agents. Adagrasib is the provisionally filed nonproprietary name for MRTX849. MRTX1133 is an investigational, selective, specific and potent KRAS G12D inhibitor in preclinical development.

Sitravatinib is an investigational spectrum-selective kinase inhibitor designed to potently inhibit receptor tyrosine kinases ("RTK"s) and enhance immune responses through the inhibition of immunosuppressive signaling.

MRTX1719 is an internally discovered investigational synthetic lethal PRMT5 inhibitor designed to specifically target the PRMT5/methylthioadensoine (MTA) complex in preclinical development.

The Company also has additional preclinical programs of potentially first-in-class and best-in-class product candidates specifically designed to address mutations and tumors where few treatment options exist. We approach all of our programs with a singular focus: to translate our deep understanding of the molecular drivers of cancer into better therapies and better outcomes for patients.

KRAS Inhibitor Programs

The RAS family of genes is the most commonly mutated oncogene and mutations in this gene family occur in up to approximately 25% of all human cancers. Among the RAS family members, mutations most frequently occur in KRAS (approximately 85% of all RAS family mutations). Tumors characterized by KRAS mutations are commonly associated with poor prognosis and resistance to therapy. Nonclinical studies have demonstrated that cancer cells exhibiting KRAS mutations are highly dependent on KRAS function for cell growth and survival. Our KRAS inhibitor programs are focused on the discovery and development of small molecule compounds that target KRAS G12C and G12D. We are pursuing development of our KRAS G12C and KRAS G12D inhibitor programs in both single agent and rational combination approaches.

Adagrasib, a selective KRAS G12C inhibitor

Adagrasib, our lead KRAS G12C compound, is an investigational, selective, specific, potent and orally available KRAS G12C inhibitor and is in clinical development varying from Phase 1 through Phase 3. Adagrasib is designed to directly inhibit KRAS G12C mutations. KRAS G12C mutations are present in approximately 14% of non-small cell lung cancer ("NSCLC") adenocarcinoma patients, 3-4% of colorectal cancer ("CRC") patients, 2% of pancreatic cancer patients, as well as smaller percentages of several other difficult-to-treat cancers.

We received U.S. Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") authorization of our investigational new drug application ("IND") for adagrasib in November 2018, and in January 2019, we initiated the dose escalation phase of KRYSTAL-1, a Phase 1/2 multiple expansion cohort clinical trial evaluating adagrasib in patients with advanced solid tumors that harbor KRAS G12C mutations both in monotherapy and in combination with other anticancer therapies. Following single agent dose escalation, the KRYSTAL-1 trial was expanded into multiple cohorts in which adagrasib is being evaluated both in monotherapy and in combination with other compounds in patients with NSCLC, CRC and those with other tumors that carry the KRAS G12C mutation.

In December 2021, we completed our New Drug Application ("NDA") submission to the FDA for adagrasib for the treatment of patients with previously treated KRAS G12C-mutated NSCLC who have received prior systemic therapy. In February 2022, the FDA accepted the NDA and assigned a Prescription Drug User Fee Action ("PDUFA") date of December 14, 2022. The NDA is being reviewed by the FDA for Accelerated Approval (Subpart H), which allows for the approval of drugs that treat serious conditions, and that fill an unmet medical need based on a surrogate endpoint. In addition, this application is being reviewed under the FDA Real-Time Oncology Review pilot program, which aims to explore a more efficient review process that ensures safe and effective treatments are made available to patients as early as possible. Adagrasib has also achieved Breakthrough Therapy Designation as a potential treatment for patients with NSCLC who harbor the KRAS G12C mutation following prior systemic therapy. The Company also has an Expanded Access Program for adagrasib for the treatment of eligible patients with KRAS G12C-mutated cancers regardless of tumor type in the United States.

The KRYSTAL-1 trial is evaluating the combination of adagrasib and a PD-1 inhibitor (pembrolizumab) in patients with NSCLC, the combination of adagrasib and a pan-EGFR inhibitor (afatinib) in patients with advanced NSCLC, and the combination of adagrasib and an anti-EGFR antibody (cetuximab) in patients with CRC. In 2020, we initiated KRYSTAL-2, a Phase 1/2 clinical trial evaluating the combination of adagrasib and a SHP-2 inhibitor (TNO-155) in patients with advanced NSCLC and advanced CRC. In 2021, we initiated KRYSTAL-14, a Phase 1/2 clinical trial evaluating the combination of adagrasib and a SOS1 inhibitor (BI 1701963) in patients with advanced NSCLC, and we initiated KRYSTAL-16, a Phase 1/1b clinical trial evaluating the combination of adagrasib and a CDK4/6 inhibitor (palbociclib) in patients with advanced solid tumors with KRAS G12C mutation.

In the fourth quarter of 2021, we announced preliminary results from the Phase 1b cohort of the KRYSTAL-1 trial evaluating the combination of adagrasib and a PD-1 inhibitor (pembrolizumab) in eight patients with KRAS G12C-mutated first-line NSCLC. The preliminary results support moving forward with a 400mg twice daily dose ("BID") of adagrasib with full dose pembrolizumab, which will be evaluated in an ongoing Phase 2 clinical trial. The Phase 1b data showed adagrasib 400mg BID plus pembrolizumab had a manageable tolerability profile, with no observed Grade 4 or Grade 5 adverse events. Of the seven patients evaluable for a response as of October 21, 2021, four had a confirmed RECIST-defined partial response and one additional patient, who is still on study, experienced 49% tumor regression in the first scan, which allowed for tumor resection prior to achieving a RECIST-defined confirmed response. The disease control rate ("DCR") was 100%, with all seven patients exhibiting tumor regression ranging from 37% to 92%. With a median follow up of 9.9 months, five of the seven patients remained on treatment, as of the data cutoff date, and had been on treatment for 8 to 11 months.

On September 20, 2021, we announced that we completed an analysis in the intent-to-treat population of the registration enabling cohort of KRYSTAL-1, the Phase 1/2 clinical trial evaluating adagrasib at 600mg BID as a monotherapy treatment for patients in at least 2nd line NSCLC. The analysis showed an objective response rate ("ORR") of 43% and a DCR of 80%, based on central independent review, as of June 15, 2021.

In the third quarter of 2021, we amended KRYSTAL-7, the Phase 2 clinical trial evaluating the combination of adagrasib at 400mg BID and a PD-1 inhibitor (pembrolizumab) in patients with NSCLC stratified by <1% Tumor Proportion Score ("TPS") score and ≥1% TPS score.

In the first quarter of 2021, we initiated two registration-enabling Phase 3 clinical trials. The first clinical trial, KRYSTAL-12, is evaluating adagrasib as a monotherapy randomized against docetaxel in patients with 2nd line NSCLC. The second clinical trial, KRYSTAL-10, is evaluating the combination of adagrasib and an anti-EGFR antibody (cetuximab) randomized against chemotherapy in patients with 2nd line CRC.

On September 19, 2021, at the European Society for Medical Oncology Congress 2021, we presented preliminary results from the cohort of the KRYSTAL-1 Phase 1/2 clinical trial evaluating adagrasib at 600mg BID as both a monotherapy treatment and in combination with cetuximab for patients with heavily pretreated colorectal cancer harboring a KRAS G12C mutation.

- As of May 25, 2021, the adagrasib monotherapy arm (n=46) had a median follow up of 8.9 months. Of the evaluable patients (n=45), preliminary results showed an investigator assessed response rate ("RR") of 22%, including one unconfirmed partial response ("PR"), and a DCR of 87%; the median duration of response ("DOR") was 4.2 months. In all enrolled patients, the median progression free survival ("PFS") was 5.6 months (95% confidence interval ("CI"): 4.1,8.3).

- As of July 9, 2021, the adagrasib plus cetuximab arm (n=32) had a median follow up of 7 months. Of the evaluable patients (n=28), preliminary results showed an investigator assessed RR of 43%, including two unconfirmed PRs and a DCR of 100%. After the data cutoff date, of the two unconfirmed PRs, follow up scans showed one patient had a confirmed PR, and the second patient progressed.

- Adagrasib monotherapy and in combination with cetuximab was well-tolerated in this study, with a manageable safety profile. Grade 3/4 treatment related adverse events ("TRAEs") were observed in 30% of patients treated with adagrasib alone, and in 16% of patients treated with the combination. Treatment related adverse events led to treatment discontinuation in 6% of patients who received combination therapy and in none (0%) of those who received adagrasib monotherapy. No Grade 5 TRAEs were observed in either treatment arm.

On October 9, 2021, at the 33rd EORTC-NCI-AACR Symposium on Molecular Targets and Therapeutics, we presented preliminary results from a cohort of the KRYSTAL-1 clinical trial evaluating adagrasib at 600mg BID as monotherapy for patients with pancreatic ductal adenocarcinoma harboring a KRAS G12C mutation. arm (n=12). Of the evaluable patients (n=10), preliminary results showed an investigator assessed RR of 50%, including an unconfirmed PR, and a DCR of 100%.

Preliminary efficacy data was assessed as of August 30, 2020 in six patients with advanced solid tumors, other than NSCLC and CRC, treated with adagrasib as a monotherapy at 600mg BID dose from a Phase 1/1b cohort. One patient each with pancreatic, ovarian, endometrial and cholangiocarcinoma tumors were treated and had a confirmed PR to therapy. Two appendiceal cancer patients had stable disease and all six eligible patients remained on treatment.

Adagrasib Development in Collaboration with Zai Lab Ltd. ("Zai")

In May 2021, we entered into a Collaboration and License Agreement with Zai (the "Zai Agreement"). Under the Zai Agreement, we granted Zai the right to research, develop, manufacture and exclusively commercialize adagrasib in all indications in China, Macau, Hong Kong and Taiwan (collectively, the "Zai Licensed Territory"), with Mirati retaining exclusive rights for the development, manufacture and commercialization of adagrasib outside the Zai Territory and certain co-commercialization, manufacture, and development rights in the Zai Licensed Territory.

MRTX1133, a selective KRAS G12D inhibitor

MRTX1133, our lead KRAS G12D compound, has been identified as a clinical development candidate and is an investigational, selective, specific and potent inhibitor of KRAS G12D and is currently in preclinical development. KRAS G12D mutations have been detected in over 25 different types of cancer, including pancreatic, colon, lung and endometrial adenocarcinoma. The prevalence of cancers harboring KRAS G12D mutations exceeds the prevalence of KRAS G12C positive cancers by greater than two-fold and is an area of significant unmet medical need.

On October 25, 2020 we announced initial preclinical in vivo data from MRTX1133. Based on preclinical analyses, MRTX1133 has a projected human half-life of approximately 50 hours and exhibits a low propensity for drug interactions or off-target pharmacology. MRTX1133 demonstrated tumor regression in multiple in vivo tumor models, including pancreatic and colorectal cancers. MRTX1133 has a low predicted target plasma concentration, based on its potency and high unbound fraction, and our goal is to achieve near complete and sustained target inhibition and maximal anti-tumor activity. We have prioritized a long-acting IV injectable drug product strategy, including liposome-based formulations, that are designed to optimize and extend the duration of KRAS G12D target inhibition as we progress towards IND-enabling studies. We are also continuing to evaluate strategies to enhance oral absorption to potentially enable development of a solid oral dose form.

Sitravatinib

Sitravatinib is a spectrum-selective kinase inhibitor in Phase 3 clinical development and is designed to potently inhibit receptor tyrosine kinases ("RTK"s), including TAM family receptors (TYRO3, Axl, Mer), split family receptors (VEGFR2, KIT) and RET. Sitravatinib's potent inhibition of TAM and split family RTKs may overcome resistance to checkpoint inhibitor therapy through targeted reversal of an immunosuppressive tumor microenvironment, enhancing antigen-specific T cell response and expanding dendritic cell-dependent antigen presentation. There are over 100,000 2nd or 3rd line NSCLC patients in the United States and Europe, who have derived prior clinical benefit following treatment with a PD-(L)1 inhibitor, with approximately 70,000 of these patients being of the non-squamous histology.

Sitravatinib in Combination with Nivolumab

As an immuno-oncology agent, sitravatinib is being evaluated in combination with nivolumab (OPDIVO®), Bristol-Myers Squibb Company's ("BMS") anti-PD-1 checkpoint inhibitor, in patients with NSCLC who have experienced documented disease progression following treatment with a checkpoint inhibitor. Sitravatinib is also being developed in certain Asian territories in collaboration with BeiGene, Ltd. ("BeiGene") which is evaluating sitravatinib in combination with tislelizumab, BeiGene's anti-PD-1 checkpoint inhibitor, in a number of advanced solid tumors.

We are enrolling an ongoing Phase 3 clinical trial in 2nd line non-squamous NSCLC patients whose tumors have progressed on prior therapy with platinum-chemotherapy in combination with a checkpoint inhibitor or 3rd line non-squamous NSCLC patients who have received chemotherapy followed by a checkpoint inhibitor. The Phase 3 clinical trial is comparing the combination of sitravatinib plus nivolumab randomized to docetaxel. The statistical design of the Phase 3 clinical trial includes an interim analysis of overall survival that we believe, if positive, could support an NDA submission seeking full approval.

In January 2019, we announced a clinical trial collaboration with BMS in connection with the aforementioned Phase 3 clinical trial. Under the terms of the collaboration, we are sponsoring and funding the clinical trial and BMS is providing nivolumab at no cost. We maintain global development and commercial rights to sitravatinib outside of certain Asian territories and Australia and New Zealand, where we have partnered with BeiGene, and we are free to develop the program in combination with other agents.

We also have several Phase 2 clinical trials in which we are evaluating sitravatinib in combination with nivolumab in patients with NSCLC, urothelial carcinoma or other cancers who have experienced documented disease progression following prior treatment with chemotherapy and/or a checkpoint inhibitor. On September 20, 2021, we announced results from a post hoc exploratory analysis of the Phase 2 study, MRTX-500, in patients with nonsquamous NSCLC with prior clinical benefit from checkpoint inhibitor therapy and where anti-PD-(L)1 was the most recent line of therapy (n=68) and a median follow-up of 33.6 months. The median overall survival was 14.9 months (95% CI: 9.3, 21.1), with 56% and 32% of these patients alive at one year and two years, respectively. The ORR was 18%, with 3% of patients achieving a complete response and 15% of patients achieving a PR. The median DOR was 12.8 months.

Sitravatinib Development in Collaboration with BeiGene

In January 2018, we entered into a Collaboration and License Agreement with BeiGene (the "BeiGene Agreement"). Under the BeiGene Agreement, we granted BeiGene an exclusive license to develop, manufacture and commercialize sitravatinib in Asia (excluding Japan and certain other countries), Australia and New Zealand (the "BeiGene Licensed Territory"), and we retained exclusive rights for the development, manufacturing and commercialization of sitravatinib outside the BeiGene Licensed Territory.

In November 2018, we dosed the first patient under the BeiGene Agreement to assess the safety and tolerability, pharmacokinetics and preliminary anti-tumor activity of sitravatinib in combination with BeiGene's investigational anti-PD-1 antibody, tislelizumab, in patients with advanced solid tumors. BeiGene's clinical trials will evaluate the combination of sitravatinib and tislelizumab in patients with solid tumors including NSCLC, renal cell carcinoma, hepatocellular cancer, gastric cancer and ovarian cancer.

MRTX1719, a synthetic lethal MTA cooperative PRMT5 inhibitor

MRTX1719, our lead synthetic MTA cooperative lethal PRMT5 inhibitor is an investigational, selective, potent and orally available inhibitor targeting the PRMT5/MTA complex in methylthioadenosine phosphorylase (MTAP)-deleted cancers and is in Phase 1/2 clinical development. The MTAP deletion is present in approximately 10 percent of all cancers and is the most frequently observed gene deletion event (MTAP/CDKN2A) across several cancer types. Cancers with an MTAP deletion, such as pancreatic, lung, and bladder cancers, are associated with a poor prognosis, representing a significant unmet medical need.

In preclinical studies, MRTX1719 has demonstrated a greater than 70-fold selectivity for MTAP-deleted cells relative to normal cells and demonstrated near complete and sustained inhibition of PRMT5 in tumor xenografts resulting in significant tumor growth inhibition or tumor regression in MTAP-deleted tumor models. The ability to target the PRMT5/MTA complex provides an opportunity to selectively target tumor cells harboring the MTAP gene deletion which exhibit an abnormally high level of MTA (methylthioadenosine) compared with normal cells. This is anticipated to provide an increased therapeutic index relative to first generation PRMT5 inhibitors that do not specifically target the PRMT5/MTA complex. In the first quarter of 2022, we initiated a Phase 1/2 multiple expansion cohort trial to evaluate MRTX1719 in patients with advanced, unresectable or metastatic solid tumor malignancy with homozygous deletion of the MTAP gene.

Market and Competition

NSCLC Market

The National Cancer Institute estimates that in 2021, approximately 236,000 patients in the United States ("U.S.") were diagnosed with lung cancer and 132,000 died due to the disease. Lung cancer represents almost 12% of all new cancer cases in the U.S., and 22% of all cancer deaths. According to the American Cancer Society, approximately 84% of lung cancers are NSCLC. The five-year survival rate for lung cancer patients is 25%, indicating a significant need for novel therapies to extend overall survival in this patient population.

The prognosis for advanced NSCLC is poor, and the primary objective of treating late-stage disease is to prolong overall survival, delay disease progression and control symptoms. The treatment algorithm for advanced NSCLC has changed significantly following recent approvals and label expansions of immuno-oncology agents, specifically immune checkpoint inhibitors. In 2015, the FDA approved OPDIVO®, an anti-PD-1 monoclonal antibody, and the first immuno-oncology agent approved for the treatment of squamous NSCLC. The approval of OPDIVO® in NSCLC was subsequently followed by FDA approval of three additional immuno-oncology agents in NSCLC, KEYTRUDA®, TECENTRIQ®, and IMFINZI®. These four agents, approved for multiple indications including NSCLC, accounted for over $27 billion in global sales in 2020.

Despite the advances in patient outcomes demonstrated by approved immuno-oncology therapies in NSCLC, a significant patient need remains. The percentage of patients who respond to approved immuno-oncology treatments is quite low, and of the patients that respond, the majority will still experience disease progression.

NSCLC represents a heterogeneous patient population with diverse tumor histology and underlying genomic aberrations. The clinical and commercial success of leading targeted agents across multiple indications, including NSCLC, demonstrates the potential of new targeted treatments for cancer.

Competition

KRAS G12C

We are aware of at least six companies who currently have competing commercial or clinical-stage direct KRAS G12C inhibitor programs: Amgen, Inc., F. Hoffman-LaRoche Ltd., Eli Lilly and Company, Merck & Co., Inc., Novartis AG and Boehringer Ingelheim International GmbH.

Sitravatinib in Combination with Immune Checkpoint Inhibitors

There are several immune checkpoint inhibitors currently approved for use as single agents to treat multiple tumor types, including NSCLC. To augment the efficacy of these agents, combination studies are being conducted with a variety of potentially synergistic mechanisms, including inhibitors of CTLA-4, LAG3, TIM-3, TIGIT and CSF-1R, among others. Most of these combination studies are being conducted in patients who are naïve to immune checkpoint inhibitor therapy. Direct mechanistic competitors to sitravatinib in combination with checkpoint inhibitors in NSCLC patients who had previously failed checkpoint inhibitor therapy include CABOMETYX® (Exelixis, Inc.) and LENVIMA® (Eisai Co., Ltd.), both anti-VEGF agents that also inhibit other receptor tyrosine kinases. Additionally, there are numerous other potential competitors with kinase inhibitors that are being evaluated in combination with checkpoint inhibitors in NSCLC patients who had previously failed checkpoint inhibitor therapy in earlier lines of treatment.

Oncology

In addition to companies that have kinase inhibitors addressing our targets of interest, our competition also includes hundreds of private and publicly traded companies that operate in the area of oncology but have therapeutics with different mechanisms of action. The oncology market in general is highly competitive with over 1,000 molecules currently in clinical development. Other important competitors, in addition to those mentioned above, are small and large biotechnology companies, specialty and regional pharmaceutical companies and multinational pharmaceutical companies, including but not limited to AbbVie Inc., AstraZeneca plc, Bristol-Myers Squibb Company, Gilead Sciences, Inc., GlaxoSmithKline plc, Johnson & Johnson, Pfizer Inc., Sanofi S.A., and Takeda Pharmaceutical Co.

Intellectual Property

Our goal is to obtain, maintain and enforce patent protection wherever appropriate for our product candidates, formulations, processes, methods and any other proprietary technologies both in the United States and in other countries. We typically file for patents in the United States with counterparts in certain countries in Europe and certain key market countries in the rest of the world, thereby covering the major pharmaceutical markets. As of December 31, 2021, we own or co-own U.S. patents and patent applications and their foreign counterparts, including 34 issued U.S. patents, including one for KRAS inhibitors and 15 for sitravatinib and other kinase inhibitors. Mirati's patents and patent applications have expiration dates ranging from 2023-2041. In some instances, patent terms can be increased or decreased, depending on the laws and regulations of the country or jurisdiction that issued the patent.

Manufacturing

We do not own or operate manufacturing facilities for the production of any of our product candidates, nor do we plan to develop our own manufacturing operations in the foreseeable future. We currently depend on third-party contract manufacturers for all of our required raw materials and finished products for our preclinical and clinical trials.

Manufacturers of our products are required to comply with applicable FDA manufacturing requirements contained in the FDA's Current Good Manufacturing Practices ("cGMP") regulations. cGMP regulations require, among other things, quality control and quality assurance, as well as corresponding maintenance of records and documentation. Pharmaceutical product manufacturers and other entities involved in the manufacture and distribution of approved pharmaceutical products are required to register their establishments with the FDA and certain state agencies, and are subject to periodic unannounced inspections by the FDA and certain state agencies for compliance with cGMP and other laws. Accordingly, manufacturers must continue to expend time, money, and effort in the area of production and quality control to maintain cGMP compliance. Discovery of problems with a product after approval may result in restrictions on a product, manufacturer or holder of an NDA, including withdrawal of the product from the market. In addition, changes to the manufacturing process generally require prior FDA approval before being implemented.

Government Regulation

The Regulatory Process for Drug Development

Our business activities, including the manufacturing of our product candidates and our ongoing research and development activities are subject to extensive regulation by numerous governmental authorities in the United States and other countries. Regulation by these government authorities is a significant component in the development, manufacture and commercialization of pharmaceutical products and services. Before marketing in the United States, any new drug developed must undergo rigorous preclinical testing, clinical trials and an extensive regulatory clearance process implemented by the FDA under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as amended (the "FDCA"). The FDCA and other various federal, state and foreign statutes govern or influence the research, testing, manufacture, safety, labeling, storage, recordkeeping, approval, promotion, marketing, distribution, post-approval monitoring and reporting, sampling, quality, and import and export of our medicines. State, local, and other authorities also regulate pharmaceutical manufacturing.

Applicable legislation requires licensing of manufacturing and contract research facilities, carefully controlled research and testing of products, and governmental review and/or approval of results prior to marketing therapeutic products. Additionally, adherence to good laboratory practices ("GLP") and good clinical practices ("GCP") during nonclinical and clinical testing and cGMP during production is required. Our manufacturing CMOs are subject to periodic inspection by the FDA and other foreign equivalents to ensure that they are operating in compliance with cGMP requirements. In addition, marketing authorization for each new medicine may require a rigorous manufacturing pre-approval inspection by regulatory authorities. Post approval, there are strict regulations regarding changes to the manufacturing process, and, depending on the significance of the change, changes may require prior FDA approval. FDA regulations also require investigation and correction of any deviations from cGMP and impose reporting and documentation requirements upon us and any third-party manufacturers that we may decide to use.

In addition, we are subject to other state and federal laws, including, among others, anti-kickback laws, fraud and abuse, false claims laws, Sunshine Act, patient protection and affordable care, data privacy and security laws and regulations, and transparency laws that restrict certain business practices in the pharmaceutical industry. Violations of these healthcare laws can result in significant penalties, including civil, criminal and administrative penalties. Moreover, government coverage and reimbursement policies will both directly and indirectly impact our ability to successfully commercialize any future approved products, and such coverage and reimbursement policies will be impacted by enacted and any applicable future healthcare reform and drug pricing measures.

U.S. Pharmaceutical Product Development Process

To establish a new product candidate's safety and efficacy, the FDA requires companies seeking approval to market a pharmaceutical drug product to submit extensive preclinical and clinical data, along with other information, for each indication for which the product will be labeled. The data and information are submitted to the FDA in the form of a New Drug Application (NDA), which must be accompanied by payment of a significant user fee unless a waiver or exemption applies. Generating the required data and information for an NDA takes many years and requires the expenditure of substantial resources. Information generated in this process is susceptible to varying interpretations that could delay, limit or prevent regulatory approval at any stage of the process. The failure to demonstrate adequately the quality, safety and efficacy of a product candidate under development would delay or prevent regulatory approval of the product candidate. Under applicable laws and FDA regulations, each NDA submitted for FDA approval is given an internal administrative review within 60 days following submission of the NDA. If deemed sufficiently complete to permit a substantive review, the FDA will "file" the NDA. The FDA can refuse to file any NDA that it deems incomplete or not properly reviewable. The FDA has established internal goals of eight months from submission for priority review of NDAs that cover new product candidates that offer major advances in treatment or provide a treatment where no adequate therapy exists, and 12 months from submission for the standard review of NDAs. However, the FDA is not legally required to complete its review within these periods, these performance goals may change over time and the review is often extended by FDA requests for additional information or clarification. Moreover, the outcome of the review, even if generally favorable, may not be an actual approval but a "complete response letter" that describes additional work that must be done before the NDA can be approved. Before approving an NDA, the FDA can choose to inspect the facilities at which the product is manufactured and will not approve the product unless the manufacturing facility complies with GMPs. The FDA may also audit sites at which clinical trials have been conducted to determine compliance with GCPs and data integrity. The FDA's review of an NDA may also involve review and recommendations by an independent FDA advisory committee, particularly for novel indications. The FDA is not bound by the recommendation of an advisory committee. Further, the FDA may require that certain contraindications, warnings or precautions be included in the product labeling.

FDA Regulation of Companion Diagnostics

As part of our clinical development plans, we are exploring the use of companion diagnostics to identify patients most likely to respond to our product candidates. Companion diagnostics are classified as medical devices under the FDCA in the United States and similarly in other foreign regulations. In the United States, the FDA regulates the medical device design and development, preclinical and clinical testing, premarket clearance or approval, registration and listing, manufacturing, labeling, storage, reporting, recordkeeping, advertising and promotion, export and import, sales and distribution, and post-market surveillance of medical devices. Unless an exemption applies, companion diagnostics require marketing clearance or approval from the FDA prior to commercial distribution. The two primary types of FDA marketing authorization applicable to a medical device are premarket notification, also called 510(k) clearance, and premarket approval ("PMA").

The FDA previously has required in vitro companion diagnostics intended to select the patients who will respond to the cancer treatment to obtain a 510(k) clearance or PMA simultaneously with approval of the drug. Based on the draft guidance, and the FDA's past treatment of companion diagnostics, we believe that the FDA will require a PMA for one or more companion diagnostics to identify patient populations suitable for our product candidates. The review of these companion diagnostics in conjunction with the review of our product candidates involves coordination of review by the FDA's Center for Drug Evaluation and Research and by the FDA's Center for Devices and Radiological Health.

Pharmaceutical Coverage, Pricing and Reimbursement

In the United States and markets in other countries, sales of any products for which we receive regulatory approval for commercial sale will depend in part on the availability of coverage and adequate reimbursement from third-party payors, including government authorities, managed care providers, private health insurers and other organizations. In the United States, private health insurers and other third-party payors often provide reimbursement for products and services based on the level at which the government (through the Medicare or Medicaid programs) provides reimbursement for such products and services. There is no uniform coverage and reimbursement policy among third-party payors in the United States; however, private third-party payors often follow Medicare coverage policy and payment limitations in setting their own reimbursement rates. Third-party payors are increasingly examining the medical necessity and cost-effectiveness of medical products and services in addition to their safety and efficacy and, accordingly, significant uncertainty exists as to the coverage and reimbursement status of newly approved therapeutics. In particular, in the United States, the European Union and other potentially significant markets for our product candidates, government authorities and third-party payors are increasingly attempting to limit or regulate the price of medical products and services, particularly for new and innovative products and therapies, which often has resulted in average selling prices that are lower than they would otherwise be. The increased emphasis on managed healthcare in the United States and on country and regional pricing and reimbursement controls in the European Union will put additional pressure on product pricing, reimbursement and utilization, which may adversely affect our future product sales and results of operations. These pressures can arise from rules and practices of managed care groups, judicial decisions and governmental laws and regulations related to Medicare, Medicaid and healthcare reform, pharmaceutical reimbursement policies and pricing in general. As a result, coverage and adequate third-party reimbursement may not be available for our product candidates to enable us to realize an appropriate return on our investment in research and product development.

The market for our product candidates for which we may receive regulatory approval will depend significantly on access to third-party payors' drug formularies, or lists of medications for which third-party payors provide coverage and reimbursement. The industry competition to be included in such formularies often leads to downward pricing pressures on pharmaceutical companies. Also, third-party payors may refuse to include a particular branded drug in their formularies or may otherwise restrict patient access to a branded drug when a less costly generic equivalent or other alternative is available. In addition, because each third-party payor individually approves coverage and reimbursement levels, obtaining coverage and adequate reimbursement is a time-consuming and costly process. We would be required to provide scientific and clinical support for the use of any product to each third-party payor separately with no assurance that approval would be obtained, and we may need to conduct expensive pharmacoeconomic studies in order to demonstrate the cost-effectiveness of our products. This process could delay the market acceptance of any of our product candidates for which we may receive approval and could have a negative effect on our future revenue and operating results. We cannot be certain that our product candidates will be considered cost-effective. If we are unable to obtain coverage and adequate payment levels for our product candidates from third-party payors, physicians may limit how much or under what circumstances they will prescribe or administer them and patients may decline to purchase them. This in turn could affect our ability to successfully commercialize our products and impact our profitability, results of operations, financial condition, and future success.

Human Capital Resources

Successful execution of our strategy is dependent on attracting, developing, and retaining key employees and members of our executive leadership team. The skills, experience and industry knowledge of our employees significantly benefit our operations and performance. We continuously evaluate, modify, and enhance our internal processes and technologies to increase employee engagement, productivity, and efficiency. The Company works diligently to attract the best talent from a diverse range of sources in order to meet the current and future demands of our business. We offer a strong employee value proposition and our compensation programs are designed to align the compensation of our employees with the Company's performance and to provide the proper incentives to attract, retain and motivate employees. The structure of our compensation programs incentivizes both short-term and long-term performance and we believe in a total rewards experience, specifically:

- We provide employee wages that are competitive and consistent with employee positions, skill levels, experience, and knowledge. Our competitive benefits packages include equity grants such as stock options and restricted stock units; performance-based bonuses; recognition awards; an employee stock purchase plan; retirement savings plan with company matching contributions; medical, dental and life insurance; an employee assistance program; work/life balance arrangements, including core hours and flexible work arrangements; paid time off and holidays; and volunteer hours.

- We engage nationally recognized independent compensation and benefits consulting firms to evaluate the effectiveness of our executive compensation and benefit programs and to provide benchmarking against our peers within the industry.

- Annual increases and incentive compensation, which are communicated to employees at the time of hiring and documented through our talent management process as part of our review procedures.

We also make significant investments in training, development and engagement, using development programs such as our Leadership Model Sessions program, comprised of interactive workshops to gain insight into leading at the Company, and our Mirati Mentor Program, in which employees self-nominate as mentors or mentees and facilitates meaningful relationships supporting new employees' career and development goals.

As of December 31, 2021, we had 418 employees of which 413 were full-time, exempt employees, one was a part-time, exempt employee, and the remaining were full-time, non-exempt employees. None of our employees are represented by a collective bargaining agreement

Culture

Fostering and maintaining a strong, healthy culture is fundamental to the success of our business. Our core values reflect who we are and the way our employees interact with one another, our partners, and stakeholders. Urgency, open-mindedness, accountability, and collaboration ground our work and behavior. These shared values are central to who we are, what we do, and how we do it. No matter the role, we are unified by our passion for helping patients, and we are inspired by a single vision – to unlock the science behind the promise of a life beyond cancer. We believe our culture creates strong engagement, which is measured through an annual employee-wide, anonymous survey to assess our performance on metrics including mission and vision, development and empowerment, our ability to adapt and overall employee satisfaction.

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

We believe diverse professional experiences and an inclusive culture can drive better outcomes for patients. Our culture is one where we challenge norms, have high risk tolerance and celebrate an entrepreneurial and courageous attitude full of grit and determination to make a difference. In 2021, we initiated a Diversity, Equity and Inclusion ("DE&I") program, for which we took the following initials steps: established a DE&I Committee, comprised of cross-functional representatives including from medical affairs, supply chain, financial planning, business development, commercial and human resources, and surveyed all employees to inform the Company's DE&I objectives and future employee training. Based on data as of November 1, 2021, 46% of our Company's employees identify as women, including 43% of our executive leadership team; and 40% of our Company's employees identify as being a racial or ethnic minority, including 14% of our executive leadership team. As of December 31, 2021, 30% of the Company's board of directors, identify as women and 30% identify as being a racial or ethnic minority. We are committed to diversifying the representation of our organization.

COVID-19 Health and Safety

We are committed to providing a healthy and safe work environment for our employees, partners and consultants. In early 2020 as the pandemic began, we assembled a cross-functional COVID-19 response team that included members of our executive leadership. At the start of the pandemic, we quickly moved to a work-from-home mandate and adopted a flexible work schedule. We are continuing to allow for flexible work schedules, including remote and hybrid options. To allow employees to work from home seamlessly, we provide the necessary technology and collaboration tools and developed an internal task force to identify support opportunities for employees working from home and homeschooling children.

In response to employee feedback and as part of our commitment to supporting our employees and families in meaningful ways throughout the pandemic, we put in place the following programs: a work-from-home stipend for all employees whose jobs are not regularly remote; caregiver resources, including a tax-free subsidy to help with unplanned dependent care costs; an Employee Assistance Program that includes free resources and confidential counseling for employees and their household members; and fully-covered COVID-19 testing for employees.

As we move towards having more of our workforce onsite, we implemented the following protocols based on recent COVID-19 science and local/federal government advice: requiring the COVID-19 vaccination as a condition to be at our corporate headquarters, with certain exceptions; Company personnel who are onsite are highly recommended to wear face masks when unable to physically distance, regardless of vaccination status; providing disposable masks, face masks and a negative COVID-19 test result are required for those who are unvaccinated for each week they are approved to come on-site; and all personnel complete a touch-free temperature check and "check" to the site via a third-party app to help keep track of employees coming to the site for potential contact tracing needs. We continually evaluate our approach in line with our principles to meet our company goals, while maintaining the well-being and productivity of our teams.

Item 1A. Risk Factors

RISK FACTORS

Risks Related to Our Business and Industry

Our research and development programs and product candidates are in development. As a result, we are unable to predict if or when we will successfully develop or commercialize our product candidates.

Our clinical-stage product candidates as well as our other pipeline assets will require significant further investment and regulatory approvals prior to commercialization. Adagrasib is in Phase 3 and Phase 1/2 clinical trials, sitravatinib is in a Phase 3 clinical trial, and Phase 1/2 clinical trials, MRTX1719 is in a Phase 1 clinical trial, and MRTX1133 is in preclinical development. We recently submitted an NDA to the FDA to adagrasib. Each of our product candidates will require the selection of suitable patients for our clinical trials and additional clinical development, management of clinical, preclinical and manufacturing activities, obtaining regulatory approval, obtaining manufacturing supply, continued build out of a commercial organization, substantial investment and significant marketing efforts before we generate any revenues from product sales. We are not permitted to market or promote any of our product candidates before we receive regulatory approval from the FDA or comparable foreign regulatory authorities, and we may never receive such regulatory approval for any of our product candidates. The treatment of cancer is a rapidly evolving field and will continue to evolve. By such time, if ever, as we may receive necessary regulatory approvals for our product candidates, the standard of care for the treatment of cancers may have evolved such that it would be necessary to modify our plans for full approval and commercial acceptance of our products may be limited by a change in the standard of care. In addition, some of our product development programs contemplate the development of companion diagnostics. Companion diagnostics are subject to regulation as medical devices and we or our collaborators may be required to obtain marketing approval for accompanying companion diagnostics before we may commercialize our product candidates.

Even if we obtain the required financing or establish a collaboration to enable us to conduct late-stage clinical development of our product candidates and pipeline assets, we cannot be certain that such clinical development would be successful, or that we will obtain regulatory approval or be able to successfully commercialize any of our product candidates and generate revenue. Success in preclinical testing and early clinical trials does not ensure that later clinical trials will be successful, and the clinical trial process may fail to demonstrate that our product candidates are safe and effective for their proposed uses. Any such failure could cause us to abandon further development of any one or more of our product candidates and may delay development of other product candidates. Product candidates in later stages of clinical trials may fail to show the desired safety and efficacy traits despite having progressed through preclinical studies and initial clinical trials. Any delay in, or termination of, our clinical trials will delay and possibly preclude the submission of any new drug applications ("NDA") with the FDA and, ultimately, our ability to commercialize our product candidates and generate product revenue.

We recently submitted an NDA to the FDA. We, however, have not previously submitted an NDA to the FDA, or similar drug approval filings to comparable foreign authorities, for any product candidate, and we cannot be certain that any of our product candidates will receive regulatory approval. Further, our product candidates may not receive regulatory approval even if they are successful in clinical trials. If we do not receive regulatory approvals for our product candidates, we may not be able to continue our operations. Even if we successfully obtain regulatory approvals to market one or more of our product candidates, our revenues will be dependent, in part, upon our current collaborators' and future collaborators' ability to obtain regulatory approval for the companion diagnostics to be used with our product candidates, if required, and upon the size of the markets in the territories for which we gain regulatory approval and have commercial rights. If the markets for patient subsets that we are targeting are not as significant as we estimate, we may not generate significant revenues from sales of such products, if approved.

Further, even if any product candidate we develop was to receive marketing approval or be commercialized for use in combination with other existing therapies, we would continue to bear the risks that the FDA or similar foreign regulatory authorities could revoke approval of the therapy used in combination with our product candidate or that safety, efficacy, manufacturing or supply issues could arise with these existing therapies.

All of our product candidates are subject to extensive regulation, which can be costly and time consuming, cause delays or prevent approval of such product candidates for commercialization.

The clinical development of product candidates is subject to extensive regulation by the FDA in the United States and by comparable regulatory authorities in foreign markets. Product development is a very lengthy and expensive process, and its outcome is inherently uncertain. The product development timeline can vary significantly based upon the product candidate's novelty and complexity and the applicable regulatory authority. For example, we are pursuing an expansion strategy to bring our leading product candidate to countries within the European Economic Area ("EEA") and the United Kingdom ("UK"). The regulatory approval in other countries may include all the risks associated with FDA approval as well as additional, presently unanticipated, risks. Regulations are subject to change and regulatory agencies have significant discretion in the approval process.

Numerous statutes and regulations govern human testing and the manufacture and sale of human therapeutic products in the United States, Europe and other countries and regions where we intend to market our products. Such legislation and regulation bears upon, among other things, the approval of trial protocols and human testing, the approval of manufacturing facilities, safety of the product candidates, testing procedures and controlled research, review and approval of manufacturing, preclinical and clinical data prior to marketing approval including adherence to good manufacturing practices ("GMP") during production and storage as well as regulation of marketing activities including advertising and labeling.

In order to obtain regulatory approval, including an NDA or marketing authorization application, for the commercial sale of any of our product candidates in the United States, EEA and other foreign market, we must demonstrate through preclinical studies and clinical trials, as well as extensive information regarding chemistry, manufacturing and controls ("CMC"), that the potential product is safe and effective for use in humans for each target indication. The failure to adequately demonstrate the safety and efficacy of a product under development could delay or prevent regulatory approval of our product candidates. Regulatory approval in one country does not ensure regulatory approval in another, but a failure or delay in obtaining regulatory approval in one country may negatively impact the regulatory process in others.

No assurance can be given that current regulations relating to regulatory approval will not change or become more stringent in the United States or foreign markets. Regulatory agencies may also require that additional trials be run in order to provide additional information regarding the safety or efficacy of any drug candidates for which we seek regulatory approval or require additional administrative review periods, including obtaining reimbursement and pricing approval in select markets. Moreover, any regulatory approval of a drug which is eventually obtained may entail limitations on the indicated uses for which that drug may be marketed. Furthermore, product approvals may be withdrawn or limited in some way if problems occur following initial marketing or if compliance with regulatory standards is not maintained. Regulatory agencies could become more risk averse to any side effects or set higher standards of safety and efficacy prior to reviewing or approving a product. This could result in a product not being approved. Any of the foregoing scenarios could materially harm the commercial prospects for our product candidates.

The successful commercialization of our product candidates, if approved, will depend on achieving market acceptance and we may not be able to gain sufficient acceptance to generate significant revenue.

Even if our product candidates are successfully developed and receive regulatory approval, they may not gain market acceptance among physicians, patients, healthcare payors such as private insurers or governments and other funding parties and the medical community. The degree of market acceptance for any of our products will depend on a number of factors, including:

- demonstration of the clinical efficacy and safety of our products;
- the prevalence and severity of any adverse side effects;
- limitations or warnings contained in the product's approved labeling;
- cost-effectiveness and availability of acceptable pricing;
- competitive product profile versus alternative treatment methods and the superiority of alternative treatment or therapeutics;
- the effectiveness of marketing and distribution methods and support for the products; and
- the availability of coverage and adequate reimbursement from third-party payors to the extent that our products receive regulatory approval.

Disease indications may be small subsets of a disease that could be parsed into smaller and smaller indications as different subsets of diseases are defined. This increasingly fine characterization of diseases could have negative consequences; including creating an approved indication that is so small as not to have a viable market for us. If future technology allows characterization of a disease in a way that is different from the characterization used for large pivotal studies, it may make those Does an in state virtual drug manufacturer need to be registered or licensed with the Pennsylvania Department of Health?

The Pennsylvania Department of Health does not license or register a virtual drug or device manufacturers located within the Commonwealth. However, virtual drug or device manufacturers located in the Commonwealth and recognized by federal government (ie FDA) may voluntarily request an official letter of record with record number upon completion of a record application (www.health.state.pa.us/ddc under download application) from the Pennsylvania Department of Health, Drug, Device, and Cosmetic Program/ All applications are subject to review and verification of certain documentation (ie FDA label code, business filings etc.). If engaging in activities in another state that requires documentation from a virtual drug or device manufacturer, you should check with that state as to their requirements but it may be helpful to provide or have readily available: 1. A Pennsylvania letter of record 2. A verification form (see other FAQ on How to obtain a formal verification?) 3. A FDA assigned drug or device labeler code, 5. A copy of the contract entered into with the contract manufacturer and/or FDA facility number for the physical manufacturing site. 6. DUNS and BRADSTREET Registration Number. Additionally, the National Association of Board of Pharmacies (NABP) offers an inspection and accreditation program for virtual manufacturers. Contact them directly if interested.

PART I

Item 1. Business.

Overview

We are a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company focused on the development and commercialization of novel therapies for cardiovascular diseases. Our lead product candidate, bentracimab (also known as PB2452), is a novel reversal agent for the antiplatelet drug ticagrelor. Based on feedback from the United States Food and Drug Administration, or FDA, we intend to seek approval of bentracimab in the United States through an accelerated approval process. Bentracimab has been generally well tolerated in our completed trials, with no drug-related serious adverse events, or SAEs. In our completed Phase 2a and Phase 2b clinical trials of bentracimab, we observed immediate and complete reversal of ticagrelor's antiplatelet activity within five minutes following initiation of infusion and sustained reversal for over 20 hours. We are currently conducting our pivotal Phase 3 REVERSE-IT trial of bentracimab. In a prespecified interim analysis of 150 enrolled patients (142 of whom enrolled required urgent surgery or an invasive procedure and eight of whom enrolled with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding), bentracimab achieved the primary endpoint of the trial by immediately and sustainably reversing the antiplatelet effects of ticagrelor. We are targeting to submit a Biologics License Application, or BLA, to the FDA for bentracimab in mid-2022, although this timing could be impacted by the continued scope and duration of the COVID-19 pandemic. We are developing bentracimab pursuant to a co-development agreement, or the SFJ Agreement, with SFJ Pharmaceuticals X, Ltd., an SFJ Pharmaceuticals Group company, or SFJ. Under the SFJ Agreement, SFJ has agreed to pay us up to $120.0 million to support the clinical development of bentracimab. We are also developing our preclinical product candidate, PB6440, for treatment-resistant hypertension. Except for the rights that we granted to Alfasigma S.p.A., or Alfasigma, for bentracimab, we retain worldwide commercial rights to all of our product candidates.

As we advance our clinical programs for bentracimab with site activations and patient enrollment, we remain in close contact with our clinical research organizations, clinical sites and suppliers to attempt to assess the impacts that COVID-19 and its variants may have on our clinical trials and current timelines and to consider whether we can implement appropriate mitigating measures to help lessen such impacts. At this time, however, we cannot fully forecast the scope of impacts that COVID-19 may have on our ability to initiate trial sites, enroll and assess patients, supply study drug and report trial results.

Bentracimab

Bentracimab is a novel recombinant human monoclonal antibody antigen-binding fragment, or Fab fragment, designed to reverse the antiplatelet activity of ticagrelor. Ticagrelor is an antiplatelet therapy widely prescribed to reduce the rates of death, heart attack and stroke in patients with acute coronary syndrome, or ACS, or who have previously experienced a heart attack. The American College of Cardiology, American Heart Association and European Society of Cardiology guidelines recognize ticagrelor as the preferred antiplatelet therapy for ACS. In 2021, ticagrelor, currently marketed by AstraZeneca plc, or AstraZeneca, under the brand names Brilinta and Brilique, had worldwide sales of $1.5 billion. Ticagrelor binds to platelets to prevent them from forming blood clots, which could restrict blood flow to critical organs in these patients, causing heart attacks or strokes. Due to ticagrelor's antiplatelet activity, patients on ticagrelor have an elevated risk of spontaneous bleeding. In addition, patients on ticagrelor who need urgent surgery cannot wait the recommended five days for ticagrelor's effect to dissipate and are at increased risk of major bleeding during and after surgery. There are currently no other known reversal agents approved or in clinical development for ticagrelor or any other antiplatelet drugs. In the European Union, an extracorporeal whole blood purification adsorber device is available that may be useful for non-specific removal of ticagrelor during some cardiac procedures when used in conjunction with cardiopulmonary bypass. The maker of the device, CytoSorbents Corporation, has also initiated a clinical trial in the U.S. to evaluate the use of the DrugSorb-ATR antithrombotic removal system during cardiothoracic surgery. Upon approval, bentracimab would be the only therapeutic agent available for specific reversal of ticagrelor. We believe the availability of bentracimab as a specific reversal agent could expand ticagrelor's use by mitigating concerns regarding bleeding risk and uniquely position ticagrelor as the only oral antiplatelet drug with a reversal agent. In our Phase 1, Phase 2a and Phase 2b clinical trials, as well as in the interim analysis of our Phase 3 REVERSE-IT trial, bentracimab achieved immediate and complete reversal of ticagrelor's antiplatelet activity, with potential customizable duration of reversal based on the dosing regimen, which we believe has the potential to bring life-saving therapeutic benefit to these patients by increasing the safety of ticagrelor.

In March 2020, we commenced our pivotal REVERSE-IT trial, a global, multi-center, non-randomized, open-label trial in which we plan to enroll a total of 200 ticagrelor patients with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding or requiring urgent surgery or an invasive procedure. The primary endpoints for this trial are the reversal of the antiplatelet effects of ticagrelor with intravenous infusion of bentracimab as measured by the VerifyNow PRUTest biomarker and achievement of clinical hemostasis in enrolled patients. In the interim analysis of 150 enrolled patients (142 of whom required urgent surgery or an invasive procedure and eight of whom enrolled with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding), which we announced in November 2021, bentracimab achieved the primary endpoint of the trial by immediately and sustainably reversing the antiplatelet effects of ticagrelor. Bentracimab was generally well tolerated, with five drug-related non-serious adverse events reported in three patients. The cohort of patients requiring urgent surgery or an invasive procedure has been fully enrolled, and trial sites have shifted focus to enrolling patients with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding events. We are continuing to attempt to accelerate enrollment of these patients, including by working to increase the number of enrolling clinical trial sites in the United States, Canada, and the European Union as we believe that a broader site footprint will increase the probability of enrolling these patients. In addition, our Investigational New Drug application, or IND, for bentracimab was recently approved by the Center for Drug Evaluation, or CDE, of the China National Medical Products Administration, or NMPA, in August 2021. We expect to begin enrolling patients in China in the first half of 2022.

The FDA granted Breakthrough Therapy designation for bentracimab in April 2019, and the European Medicines Agency, or the EMA, granted bentracimab Priority Medicines, or PRIME, designation in February 2020. The FDA previously provided feedback that we could submit a BLA for potential accelerated approval based on an interim analysis of the first approximately 100 patients treated in our REVERSE-IT trial. For the interim analysis, the FDA also recommended that approximately 50 patients enrolled have uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding and approximately 50 require urgent surgery or an invasive procedure, although the FDA indicated that whether there are an adequate number of patients in either group would be a review issue.

We intend to submit our BLA for potential accelerated approval based on the interim analysis of the patients in our REVERSE-IT trial, all of whom were measured against the same VerifyNow PRUTest biomarker and hemostasis endpoints described above. For the interim analysis, we elected to continue to enroll ticagrelor patients in excess of our prior target of approximately 100 patients to take advantage of robust surgical enrollment and to mitigate continued uncertainties caused by the COVID-19 pandemic and its potential impact on future patient availability. We are targeting to submit our BLA in mid-2022, although that timeline could be impacted by the continued scope and duration of the COVID-19 pandemic. Following the submission of our BLA, the FDA could determine that we did not enroll a sufficient number of patients in the REVERSE-IT trial, including patients with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding, for all or some of the proposed indications we intend to pursue. Further, the FDA may require us to conduct extensive post-approval studies or require us to make modifications to our ongoing REVERSE-IT trial after approval and marketing.

We intend to complete the REVERSE-IT trial and establish a post-approval registry in accordance with FDA requirements. With regard to the 200 total patients needed for full enrollment of the REVERSE-IT trial, our protocol provides that no more than approximately two-thirds of patients can come from either the uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding population or the patient population requiring urgent surgery or an invasive procedure. The Committee for Medicinal Products for Human Use, or CHMP, of the EMA has also generally agreed with our proposed clinical development plan for bentracimab.

In June 2021, we entered into a sublicense agreement with Alfasigma, or the Alfasigma Sublicense, pursuant to which we granted Alfasigma exclusive rights to distribute and sell bentracimab in the European Union and European Economic Area, as well as the United Kingdom, Russia, Ukraine and certain other countries within the Commonwealth of Independent States, Europe and central Asia, or the Sublicense Territory. Under the Alfasigma Sublicense, we are responsible for developing bentracimab and securing regulatory approval with the EMA and the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency, or MHRA, including in accordance with the SFJ Agreement, after which any marketing authorizations will be assigned to Alfasigma. Alfasigma is obligated to obtain and maintain any regulatory approvals necessary to market and sell bentracimab (including pricing approvals and post-marketing commitments) and is also responsible for securing regulatory approval in countries outside of Europe and the United Kingdom.

PB6440 is a highly selective aldosterone synthase inhibitor being developed for treatment-resistant hypertension. In preclinical studies to date, PB6440 demonstrated dose-dependent aldosterone reduction without a significant increase in 11-deoxycorticosterone or deoxycortisol in both rodent and primate models. The oral bioavailability and pharmacokinetic profiles observed in these preclinical studies appear suitable for once-daily oral dosing in humans. To date, no evidence of toxicity has been observed in either in vitro toxicity studies or in animal models, including primates. We initiated nonclinical IND-enabling studies for PB6440 in 2021 and we plan to submit an IND in the second half of 2022. We are also targeting to begin a first-in-human trial in late 2022, although our timelines could be impacted by the scope and duration of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Strategy

Our strategy is to identify, develop and commercialize novel therapies for cardiovascular diseases. The key elements of our strategy include:

- Continue to advance bentracimab through clinical development and regulatory approval. We intend to develop and commercialize bentracimab as a novel reversal agent for the antiplatelet drug ticagrelor. In March 2020, in collaboration with SFJ, we commenced our pivotal REVERSE-IT trial in patients on ticagrelor with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding or requiring urgent surgery or an invasive procedure, and recently completed the planned interim analysis of the first 1S0 patients enrolled in the REVERSE-IT trial. We intend to continue to enroll patients in the REVERSE-IT trial in the United States, the European Union and Canada, and we expect to begin enrolling patients in China in the first half of 2022. We have received Breakthrough Therapy designation and plan to submit a BLA seeking accelerated approval of bentracimab prior to completion of the REVERSE-IT trial, based on biomarker data from an initial subset of the REVERSE-IT patients, in mid-2022. The EMA granted bentracimab PRIME designation in February 2020, and the China NMPA granted Breakthrough Therapy designation in December 2021.

- Continue the preclinical development of PB6440 for treatment-resistant hypertension. We initiated IND-enabling studies for PB6440 in 2021, and we plan to submit an IND for PB6440 with the FDA in the second half of 2022. We are also targeting to begin a first-in-human trial in late 2022, although our timelines could be impacted by the scope and duration of the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Leverage our ELP technology platform to expand our development pipeline. We believe that our ELP technology enhances solubility, stability and bioavailability, provides extended drug exposure and creates product candidates that are straightforward to manufacture and administer. As such, we plan to utilize our platform to identify product candidates for additional indications. We intend to apply our ELP technology to improve the pharmacokinetics of proteins and peptides with well-characterized therapeutic activities but suboptimal half-lives, in order to improve their pharmacokinetics, enable their use as pharmaceutical products and allow for more convenient dosing regimens.
- Commercialize our product candidates. We have entered into exclusive license agreements with AstraZeneca for bentracimab and Duke University, or Duke, for our ELP technology, pursuant to which we retain worldwide commercial rights to our product candidates. In addition, we own all of the assets and intellectual property rights related to PB6440. If approved, we intend to commercialize bentracimab and PB6440 independently in the United States and through partnerships in international markets. As we advance towards regulatory approvals for our product candidates, we intend to establish a focused marketing and sales infrastructure.

Pipeline

Our preclinical and clinical-stage pipeline is set forth below:

Bentracimab: Antiplatelet Therapy Reversal Agent for Ticagrelor

Our lead product candidate, bentracimab, is a novel ticagrelor reversal agent, which we are developing for the reversal of the antiplatelet effects of ticagrelor.

We are currently conducting REVERSE-IT, our pivotal Phase 3 clinical trial of bentracimab, in which we plan to enroll 200 ticagrelor patients with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding or requiring urgent surgery or an invasive procedure. In the interim analysis of 150 enrolled patients, bentracimab achieved the primary endpoint of the trial by immediately and sustainably reversing the antiplatelet effects of ticagrelor. Bentracimab was generally well tolerated. We observed similar results in a Phase 2a clinical trial in older subjects and healthy, younger subjects and in a Phase 2b trial of healthy, older subjects.

Background on Acute Coronary Syndrome

ACS describes a range of conditions associated with sudden reduced blood flow to the heart, including unstable angina and myocardial infarction, or heart attack. ACS is caused by the inappropriate formation of clots in the coronary arteries. These blood clots are made up primarily of platelets, small lens-shaped cells found in the blood that normally aggregate at sites of injury to help stop bleeding. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, approximately 805,000 Americans have a heart attack every year, and heart attacks are a leading cause of death in the developed world.

The primary treatment for ACS is the use of antiplatelet drugs to prevent the worsening of existing clots or to reduce the formation of additional clots. These clots can occur in the heart or in stents that are placed in the blocked coronary artery to keep the blood vessel open or elsewhere in the body. Without antiplatelet drugs, patients are at a significantly increased risk of recurrent heart attacks, stroke and death. The standard of care for ACS patients is dual antiplatelet therapy, or DAPT, which is a combination of aspirin and an inhibitor of a specific receptor found on platelets known as the $P2Y_{12}$ receptor. This combination is started after a patient experiences a heart attack or other manifestation of ACS and has been shown to significantly reduce platelet aggregation and clot formation and reduce the frequency of recurrent heart attacks, stroke and death.

While the antiplatelet drugs used in DAPT have proven effective at improving overall outcomes in ACS patients, their suppression of blood clotting increases patients' risk of bleeding. Bleeding events in patients on antiplatelet therapy, which can occur spontaneously or as a result of injury or surgery, are classified as minor or major. In the 18,000-patient clinical trial, Platelet Inhibition and Patient Outcomes, or PLATO, conducted by AstraZeneca, ticagrelor was shown to be superior to the antiplatelet drug clopidogrel, marketed under the brand name Plavix, in reducing recurrent heart attack, stroke and death in patients with ACS. However, in both treatment groups, approximately 11% to 12% of patients in the trial suffered major bleeding events, and in approximately 6% of patients, these major bleeding events were fatal or life-threatening. The causes of bleeding varied in the trial population. In approximately 3% of the patients on ticagrelor, the major bleeding events were spontaneous and not related to any medical procedure, whereas approximately 9% of patients on ticagrelor developed major bleeding that was related to procedures like coronary artery bypass surgery, or CABG. Although the trial protocol recommended that patients who needed CABG stop taking ticagrelor for one to three days prior to surgery, nearly half of all ticagrelor patients needed surgery urgently and could not wait the up to three days for ticagrelor's effect to dissipate so normal blood clotting could be restored. Overall, up to 80% of patients who underwent CABG surgery in the trial suffered a major or life-threatening bleeding event related to the surgery, and for those who needed urgent surgery and could not wait three days for the effects of ticagrelor to dissipate, approximately 50% experienced a fatal or life-threatening bleeding event. While some of this risk was likely associated with patients' underlying conditions, the overall bleeding risk is significantly increased by antiplatelet drugs, and the current United States and European prescribing information for ticagrelor suggests suspension of ticagrelor treatment for five days prior to surgery.

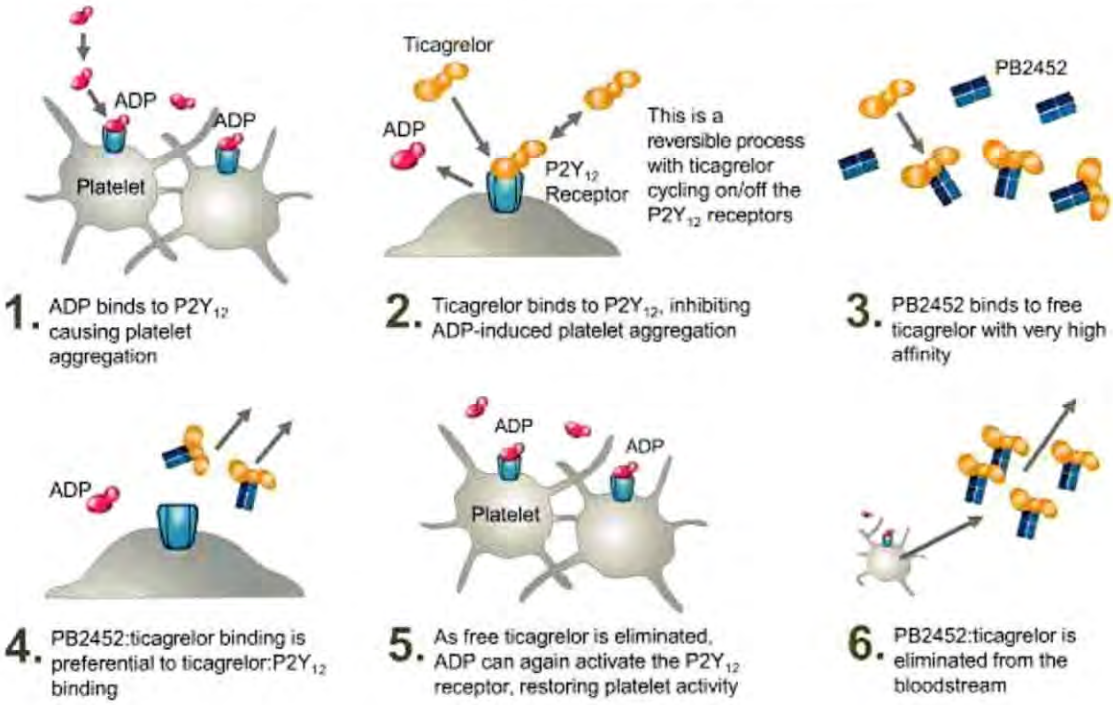
Despite the increased bleeding risk, antiplatelet drugs, along with anticoagulant drugs that are used to prevent clots in veins, represent some of the most widely prescribed drugs in the United States due to their lifesaving effects. There are currently no other known reversal agents approved or in clinical development for ticagrelor or any other antiplatelet drugs. In the European Union, an extracorporeal whole blood purification adsorber device is available that may be useful for non-specific removal of ticagrelor during some cardiac procedures when used in conjunction with cardiopulmonary bypass. The maker of the device, CytoSorbent Corporation, has also initiated a clinical trial in the U.S. to evaluate the use of the DrugSorb-ATR antithrombotic removal system during cardiothoracic surgery. Upon approval, bentracimab would be the only therapeutic agent available for specific reversal of ticagrelor. In the absence of a specific reversal agent, physicians have limited treatment options, and sometimes administer platelet transfusions, which are unproven in this setting. The ability to quickly reverse the antiplatelet activity of ticagrelor and restore normal clotting would increase its safety, both in instances of major bleeding as well as in situations where surgical or other medical interventions associated with bleeding are urgently needed.

Background on Antiplatelet Drugs

The three oral antiplatelet $P2Y_{12}$ receptor antagonist drugs prescribed in DAPT are clopidogrel, marketed under the brand name Plavix; prasugrel, marketed under the brand name Effient; and ticagrelor, marketed under the brand names Brilinta and Brilique. Unlike clopidogrel and prasugrel that permanently bind to and inhibit the target receptors on platelets, ticagrelor binds to the $P2Y_{12}$ receptor in a transient manner, quickly cycling on and off the receptor. We believe this transient binding of ticagrelor presents a unique opportunity to develop a specific reversal agent for ticagrelor, whereas the permanent binding of the other drugs to the receptor precludes a reversal agent from being developed.

We consider ticagrelor to be the best-in-class $P2Y_{12}$ antiplatelet agent because it has demonstrated a superior benefit-risk profile compared to other products in the $P2Y_{12}$ class. In 2020, ticagrelor had worldwide sales of $1.6 billion. Ticagrelor has achieved this level of market share despite the availability of generic versions of clopidogrel and prasugrel. We believe ticagrelor growth is being driven in part by treatment guidelines from the American College of Cardiology, American Heart Association and the European Society of Cardiology that recognize ticagrelor as the preferred antiplatelet treatment for ACS. We believe that the availability of a reversal agent could further drive the use of ticagrelor by making it the only reversible oral $P2Y_{12}$ antiplatelet treatment, thereby conferring a possible safety benefit over the other agents. Furthermore, based on the growth of clopidogrel prescriptions after the introduction of a generic form of that drug, we believe ticagrelor prescriptions could grow significantly after its patents expire in 2024 and generic competition drives prices down to similar levels as other $P2Y_{12}$ antiplatelet therapies.



Our Solution: Bentracimab

Bentracimab is a human Fab fragment that binds to ticagrelor with high affinity and specificity to reverse ticagrelor's antiplatelet activity. We believe that the availability of bentracimab may further differentiate ticagrelor from other $P2Y_{12}$ receptor antagonists by providing for better clinical management of the balance between the desired antiplatelet effect and prevention or control of bleeding. We exclusively licensed bentracimab from MedImmune Limited, or MedImmune, a wholly-owned subsidiary of AstraZeneca.

Bentracimab Background

Ticagrelor works by binding to the $P2Y_{12}$ receptor on platelets, thereby preventing adenosine diphosphate, or ADP, from causing platelet aggregation. Ticagrelor binds transiently to the $P2Y_{12}$ receptor, quickly cycling on and off, and allowing bentracimab to bind to free ticagrelor, thereby preventing ticagrelor's inactivation of the receptor and removing ticagrelor from circulation. With ticagrelor removed, ADP can once again activate the $P2Y_{12}$ receptor and induce platelet aggregation. This activity is illustrated below.

Mechanism of action of ticagrelor and its reversal by bentracimab

Bentracimab binds to ticagrelor with an affinity that is approximately 100 times stronger than ticagrelor's affinity for the $P2Y_{12}$ receptor. This high affinity enables bentracimab to bind to free ticagrelor, resulting in an immediate reversal of ticagrelor's effect and restoration of platelet activity.

Clinical Development of Bentracimab

Phase 3 REVERSE-IT Clinical Trial

In March 2020, we commenced our pivotal REVERSE-IT trial. We expect to enroll a total of 200 ticagrelor patients with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding or requiring urgent surgery or an invasive procedure in this global, multi-center, non-randomized, open-label trial and file for an accelerated approval based upon the results of the interim analysis of the first 150 patients, which we announced in November 2021. The primary endpoints for this trial are the reversal of the antiplatelet effects of ticagrelor with intravenous infusion of bentracimab as measured by the VerifyNow® PRUTest® biomarker and achievement of clinical hemostasis in enrolled patients. We are targeting to submit our BLA in mid-2022.

We recently completed the planned interim analysis of the first 150 patients enrolled in the REVERSE-IT trial and announced the results from this analysis in November 2021. The prespecified interim analysis of 150 enrolled patients (142 of whom enrolled required urgent surgery or an invasive procedure and eight of whom enrolled with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding) demonstrated that bentracimab achieved the primary endpoint of the trial by immediately and sustainably reversing the antiplatelet effects of ticagrelor. As measured by the point-of-care VerifyNow PRUTest platelet function assay, a 135% reduction in platelet inhibition ($P<0.001$) was observed within five to ten minutes after initiation of bentracimab infusion and sustained through all timepoints over 24 hours. More than 90% of eligible patients achieved the co-primary endpoint of the trial, defined as good or excellent hemostasis within 24 hours of initiation of bentracimab therapy ($P<0.001$). Thrombotic events were reported in 5.3% of patients, with none resulting in death or considered by investigators to be related to bentracimab.

Bentracimab was generally well tolerated, with five non-serious adverse events, reported in three patients, considered by investigators to be related to bentracimab. The most common adverse events were related to pain associated with surgical procedures. Four patients died of events considered by investigators to be unrelated to treatment with bentracimab: two patients from septic shock and two patients from cardiogenic shock. Bentracimab immunogenicity was also measured in the trial by testing patients for anti-drug antibodies, or ADA, before and after the initiation of bentracimab infusion. Results of the immunogenicity testing found that 22.6% of patients had pre-existing ADA, 24.3% of patients developed ADA after bentracimab infusion, and 53.0% of patients had no ADA. The presence of ADA had no apparent effect on ticagrelor reversal as measured by VerifyNow or on achievement of effective hemostasis.

Phase 2b Clinical Trial

In November 2021, we announced topline data from our Phase 2b bentracimab trial, which is a multi-center, randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled trial that is designed to evaluate the safety and efficacy of bentracimab in reversing the antiplatelet effects of ticagrelor in 200 healthy volunteers who are older and elderly (ages 50 to 80), with 150 subjects receiving bentracimab and 50 subjects receiving placebo, all after pretreatment with dual antiplatelet therapy composed of ticagrelor and low-dose aspirin. In the Phase 2b bentracimab trial, we observed immediate and complete reversal of ticagrelor's antiplatelet activity within five minutes following initiation of infusion and sustained reversal for over 20 hours as measured using the point-of-care VerifyNow PRUTest biomarker. In addition, treatment with bentracimab had a favorable safety profile, with no drug-related SAEs or thrombotic events reported in the Phase 2b trial. In our earlier, completed Phase 2a clinical trial of bentracimab, we also observed immediate and complete reversal of ticagrelor's antiplatelet activity within five minutes following initiation of infusion and sustained reversal for over 20 hours.

Phase 2a Clinical Trial

In September 2019, we completed a Phase 2a clinical trial of bentracimab in older and elderly subjects dosed with ticagrelor and aspirin and in healthy, younger subjects on supratherapeutic doses of ticagrelor. We observed a statistically significant reversal of ticagrelor within five minutes of initiation of bentracimab infusion, which was sustained for over 20 hours. Platelet function was normalized by 15 minutes (30 minutes for the supratherapeutic ticagrelor-dose cohort) following initiation of bentracimab infusion and remained normal for over 20 hours. Bentracimab was generally well tolerated, with only minor AEs reported. These results are consistent with results observed in healthy, younger subjects treated with ticagrelor in our Phase 1 trial. The older and elderly subjects in the Phase 2a trial resemble the patient population most likely to be treated with ticagrelor and to potentially benefit from bentracimab, if approved.

Phase 1 Clinical Trial

In September 2018, we completed a Phase 1 dose escalation clinical trial of bentracimab, delivered as an intravenous infusion in healthy subjects pre-dosed with ticagrelor that was designed to identify the target dose, determine proof of concept and evaluate the safety and tolerability of bentracimab. In the trial, we observed that bentracimab immediately and completely reversed the antiplatelet effects of ticagrelor. We conducted this trial pursuant to an IND that we sponsored and that became effective in March 2018. In March 2019, the full results from this trial of bentracimab were published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Our Phase 1 clinical trial enrolled 64 subjects across 10 sequential dose cohorts. Based on pharmacokinetic and pharmacodynamic data from the early dose cohorts in the trial, we adjusted the intravenous infusion of bentracimab to identify the optimal dose and dosing regimen for future trials and for the target patient populations. The initial three cohorts of subjects were dosed with 30-minute intravenous infusions of bentracimab alone in order to assess pharmacokinetics and safety. Subsequent cohorts were pre-dosed with the standard clinical regimen of ticagrelor for two days prior to administration of bentracimab to enable direct assessment of reversal of ticagrelor's inhibition of platelet aggregation using platelet function assays. There were no bentracimab-related AEs or SAEs in any of the dose cohorts.

In cohorts 5 and 6, which were the first cohorts in which potentially pharmacodynamically active doses of bentracimab were administered, we saw immediate and complete reversal of ticagrelor's antiplatelet activity based upon restoration of platelet function. In 11 out of 12 subjects, platelet function was restored at the first measured time point at the end of the 30-minute infusion. The duration of reversal varied from approximately one to four hours depending upon the dose level and subject, with longer duration at higher doses. In cohort 7, we modified the dosing regimen to deliver a total dose of 18 g, with 3 g delivered in the first five minutes of infusion, followed by 15 g delivered at a constant rate over an additional seven hours and 55 minutes. In cohort 7, we observed that all subjects achieved complete and sustained restoration of platelet function within two hours after the start of infusion. The duration of reversal in cohort 7 lasted approximately 16 hours from the start of the infusion as measured by restoration of platelet activity.

In cohorts 8, 9 and 10, the dosing regimen of bentracimab was further refined to achieve both a more rapid onset of reversal and a longer duration of reversal compared to earlier cohorts. We administered a total dose of 18 g, with the initial 6 g delivered as a bolus in cohorts 8, 9 and 10. The remaining 12 g was administered after the initial bolus for an additional 12 to 16 hours in cohorts 8, 9 and 10. In each of these cohorts, we observed both immediate and complete reversal within the first five minutes following initiation of infusion and a sustained duration of reversal of over 20 hours. We intend to further evaluate the dose and dosing regimens observed in these cohorts in future clinical trials.

Planned BLA Submission

Based on feedback from the FDA, we intend to submit a BLA for potential accelerated approval based on the interim analysis of our REVERSE-IT trial, which included 142 patients enrolled requiring urgent surgery or an invasive procedure and eight patients enrolled with uncontrolled major or life-threatening bleeding. To support our plan to seek full approval and consistent with the recommendation of the FDA, we plan to enroll 200 total patients in the REVERSE-IT trial. After we submit our BLA with data from the first 150 patients, we intend to complete the REVERSE-IT trial and establish a post-approval registry in accordance with FDA requirements. We are targeting to submit our BLA for bentracimab in mid-2022, although this timing could be impacted by the continued scope and duration of the COVID-19 pandemic. The FDA granted Breakthrough Therapy designation for bentracimab in April 2019. The EMA granted bentracimab PRIME designation in February 2020 and NMPA of China granted Breakthrough Therapy designation in December 2021.

PB6440 for Treatment-Resistant Hypertension

PB6440 is a selective aldosterone synthase inhibitor that we are developing as an orally administered treatment for resistant hypertension. The mineralocorticoid hormone aldosterone is a critical regulator of fluid and electrolyte balance in the body and, as such, can play an important role in the development of high blood pressure or hypertension. Elevated aldosterone levels are associated with resistant hypertension, congestive heart failure and chronic kidney disease. Agents that block the action of mineralocorticoids at the receptor level, such as spironolactone, have been shown to lower blood pressure, including in patients with resistant hypertension. However, use of these agents is limited by adverse side effects. Inhibition of the production of aldosterone through inhibition of the enzyme responsible for its synthesis, aldosterone synthase (CYP11B2), is an alternative approach to treatment of hypertension. However, development of aldosterone synthase inhibitors is challenging because of a closely-related enzyme, steroid 11β-hydroxylase (CYP11B1), which many potential compounds also inhibit. In preclinical studies, PB6440 was observed to be a highly potent and selective inhibitor of aldosterone synthase and demonstrated a dose-dependent aldosterone reduction without a significant increase in 11-deoxycorticosterone or deoxycortisol in both rodent and primate models. The oral bioavailability and pharmacokinetic profiles appear suitable for once-daily oral dosing in humans.

We initiated nonclinical IND-enabling studies for PB6440 in 2021, and we plan to submit an IND in the second half of 2022. We are also targeting to begin a first-in-human trial in late 2022, although our timelines could be impacted by the scope and duration of the COVID-19 pandemic.

ELP Technology

Our proprietary ELP technology is based on recombinant biopolymers called ELPs, which comprise individual subunits or building blocks derived from a five-amino acid repeat motif found in the human protein elastin. This five-amino acid motif is repeated multiple times to form the ELP biopolymer. We produce our ELP-based products by engineering E. coli to produce a single protein comprising the active peptide or protein fused to the ELP biopolymer. This molecule is active as a fusion protein and does not require cleavage or release of the peptide. ELP fusion proteins are produced in the soluble fraction of E. coli, which allows for ease of scale-up and purification.

Fusion to ELPs significantly improves the stability of peptides and proteins and enables use of natural or minimally altered peptide sequences. We believe these fusion proteins retain similar potency to the native molecule while being protected from degradation by enzymes in circulation. Additionally, we have observed that the fusion protein maintains the solubility and long half-life of the ELP, in many cases allowing for long-term liquid stability, which is important for injectable products.

NOTES

Deficiencies

- Licensee ensures its trading partners are legitimate with documentation of current licensure in the appropriate jurisdiction; maintains an appropriate mechanism to ensure the trading partner is currently licensed at the time of distribution (657-17.7(1)"a")

  Facility verifies licenses and registrations annually as required by NCDQS accreditation (license and registration copies maintained on file). For controlled substance distribution, facility will verify professional license and DEA registrations are current and active annually or prior to expiration of license/registration. The license and registration information is maintained in the facility's processing system and orders will be blocked when a license/registration is expired. The facility does not currently verify the status of a state CSA registration where one is required. These registrations also need to be maintained and verified. Facility will institute CSA registration in system and spreadsheet and will verify manually each year/prior to expiration unless and until a system enhancement can automate the process.

LETTER OF EXPLANATION

Dear Sir,

10 APR 22

This letter shall serve as my "letter of explanation," regarding the false charges filed against me in the early 90s. For the record, until now, I was unaware that they still existed, as they were supposed to be expunged. That said, I do recall the overall theme of events that took place 30+ years ago. For background, I was serving on active duty in the US Army, at the time. As is customary for Special Operations Forces units, we're often deployed for training and combat operations and quite regularly, therefore, being gone for extended periods of time, it made sense to have an alarm system installed.

We hire an installer, who made several claims for their service and also demanded a long-term contract. They did install the system but it was flimsy, failed to work and we requested repairs multiple times, yet to no avail. Finally, we hired a new company, which de-installed the old system and we started paying them for the new, working system and stopped paying for the old system, which sat in a box for over a year. They never came to pick it up—in fact, my attorney kept possession of it until he retired! Yet they erroneously accused us of "Theft by Conversion!" As in, we ordered the system "just" to possess it, yet failed to pay and then conspired to "steal" it...

Although laughable: in the state of Georgia, any citizen may request to see a judge, as long as they paid $10 dollars (at the time) and if the judge felt there was a dispute, he issued a bench warrant. And based on hearing only 1 side of the story, with limited facts, he agreed to issue the warrant. They shady company—preying on busy military people—didn't care about the equipment, or whether it worked nor retrieving it (after refusing to fix it and thus we removed it), and rather cared only about the 12 mos contract, which of course, we stopped paying on!

Prior to court however, based on the entirety of all of the facts (mentioned above), our attorney was granted a summary disposition and the case was tossed. I was never arrested, brought in, etc., yet, apparently, the initial warrant still resides on my record? As I was saying above; 14 years afterwards, my atty retired and sent me the old alarm, that was still in the box that we'd placed it in a decade and a half earlier.

Hopefully this better explains the situation at hand. Please contact me as needed, if more follow up is needed?

Respectfully,

Frank

POST THIS LICENSE PROMINENTLY IN A CONSPICUOUS PLACE

To Nevada Board of Pharmacy,

On September 26,1992, I was on duty as a pharmacist with a pharmacy clerk/technician.

At the time of the incident I was on the phone with a physician's office clarifying a prescription.

My clerk/tech was waiting on patients at the counter in between helping me in the pharmacy.

A parent of a pediatric patient arrived at the counter to pick up a suspension for amoxicillin. As I was still on the phone with the doctor's office, my clerk then handed me the patient's bottle that had previously been prepared, checked and labeled. These unreconstituted medications were kept on a separate shelf awaiting patient pick up and reconstitution when picked up.

I preceded to reconstitute the medication while I was still on the phone and handed it back to the tech to finish ringing up the patient. Unfortunately, the bottle that I reconstituted was an an amoxicillin for another pediatric patient. When the parent arrived home she noticed that the label had someone else's name and called the pharmacy. The medication was retrieved immediately and the patient was given the corrected labeled medication that was still sitting in the pharmacy on the shelf, labeled and unreconstituted.

No medication was given to the patient.

After meeting with the board for a reprimand, I made it my policy at the pharmacy to verify the patient's name at time of pick up prior to reconstitution and the clerk/tech was no longer allowed to handle the checked and labeled medications.

I was placed on 2 year probation, which expired in 1995 without incident.

BOARD OF PHARMACY

TO: Bonnie A. Sysling, R.Ph. File No. 53-92-1272-00
[redacted]
St. Clair Shores, MI 48082

NOTICE OF INTENDED ACTION

Pursuant to section 92 of the Administrative Procedures Act of 1969, 1969 PA 306, as amended; MCLA 24.201 et seq; MSA 3.560(101) et seq, you are hereby advised, based upon an assessment of your records by a Representative of the Board of Pharmacy that you have engaged in the following conduct:

> On September 26, 1992, you issued Rx [redacted] for [redacted] in error for Rx [redacted] for [redacted] in violation of Section 16221(a) of the Public Health Code, 1978 PA 368, as amended; MCL 333.1101 et seq; MSA 14.15(1101) et seq.

In dealing with violations of this kind, the Board has typically limited the sanction to a reprimand. It is the Board's belief that while any offense is a serious matter, a reprimand is sufficient to protect the public health, safety, and welfare and to insure that future violations will not occur.

You may waive a hearing and agree to a final order of reprimand by completing the attached Acknowledgment of Violation form. Upon acceptance by the Board, the Acknowledgment of Violation will become a permanent part of your license file and no further action will be taken against you for the conduct set forth in this Notice.

If you fail to respond to this Notice in any fashion within twenty (20) days from the date you receive this notice, you will be deemed to have waived your opportunity to show compliance with all lawful requirements for retention of your license, and proceedings will be convened under section 16221 of the Public Health Code, supra, and the Administrative Procedures Act of 1969, supra. If after a hearing a violation is found to exist, the Board may take whatever action it deems appropriate against your license, according to law.

It does not alarm each time the refrigerator cycles. There is a protocol of who receives any alarm and a notification tree if the first responder does not respond in a timely manner. We also have a manual back-up system that we record the refrigerator temperature as a snapshot at a given time as a double check process during open hours which is a good indicator of the refrigerator's performance given the fact it is during open hours that the refrigerator is accessed regularly. As a point of information, our refrigerator is connected to the building's emergency power source which kicks in in 5 seconds of power interruption. It is reasonable to say that the refrigerator is never out of power. The surveyor noted a temperature that was 0.3 of 1 degree out of range. RE: Explanation of Disciplinary History
RGH Enterprises, LLC

Dear Mr. Wuest:

This letter is provided in conjunction with our affirmative response to question 3 on our application for our Out-of-State license. We have a few matters with corresponding derivative action to disclose.

In March 2015, the RGH pharmacy located in Twinsburg, OH, was issued a citation and fined $500 by the Maine Board of Pharmacy, for failure to timely report a change in the facility's pharmacist-in-charge. This failure to report within the seven-day time frame was due to the unavailability of the corporate official authorized to sign the application. RGH paid the fine to the Maine State Board of Pharmacy; additionally, RGH has undertaken a process to ensure regulatory notifications occur in a timely manner.

In April 2016, the Hawaii Board of Pharmacy took derivative action against the Twinsburg, OH, facility based on the action described above. RGH entered a Settlement Agreement with Hawaii and agreed to pay a $250 fine; the matter was closed on May 6, 2016.

Furthermore, Cardinal Health's distribution center in Valencia, California, entered into a settlement agreement with the California Board of Pharmacy. As a condition of that settlement, effective April 3, 2019, the California Wholesale license for our Valencia, CA distribution center will be on probation for a period of two years (through April 2, 2021). This probation in no way affects the continued ability of our Valencia distribution center to service our customers in a timely and efficient manner.

Probation was a result of a settlement agreement between our Valencia distribution center and the California Board of Pharmacy regarding sales that distribution center made to a customer between 2012 and 2014 and the failure to receive a pharmacist's signature on several deliveries in that same time frame.

Additionally, on March 11, 2019, Cardinal Health's Wheeling, West Virginia, distribution center entered into a settlement agreement with the Ohio Board of Pharmacy regarding the security and storage of drugs while those drugs were being distributed to the customer. This issue involved Ohio Board of Pharmacy inspectors manipulating our totes in such a way as to be able to retrieve a bottle out of a strapped/sealed tote. This occurred on several occasions all while the totes were in the custody of our delivery drivers or pharmacies. An inspector also witnessed a delivery vehicle door that was not locked and secured appropriately. Cardinal Health agreed to pay a monetary penalty of $5,000.

As previously reported, on May 15, 2012, Cardinal Health entered into a settlement agreement with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration ("DEA") regarding Cardinal Health's registration to distribute controlled substances from our Lakeland, Florida facility. On February 3, 2012, DEA served an Order to Show Cause and Immediate Suspension of Registration (the "Order") on Cardinal Health's Lakeland, Florida distribution center. In the Order, DEA alleged that the Lakeland facility "failed to maintain effective controls against the diversion of controlled substances" and "failed to detect and report suspicious orders of oxycodone by its pharmacy customers." In particular, DEA identified four retail pharmacies located in Florida that were serviced by the Lakeland facility and alleged that "[n]otwithstanding the large quantities of controlled substances ordered by Cardinal's top retail pharmacy customers Cardinal failed to conduct meaningful due diligence to ensure that the controlled substances were not diverted...." Importantly, these allegations did not involve any diversion of controlled substances from Cardinal's facility.

Under the settlement agreement, the Lakeland facility's DEA registration was suspended for two years from the date of the settlement agreement. On May 21, 2014, the suspension was lifted and the DEA reinstated Lakeland's registration. On December 23, 2016, Cardinal Health reached a nationwide settlement with the federal government, resolving the outstanding civil penalty portion of this May 15, 2012 administrative settlement with the DEA. Under this civil settlement, Cardinal Health has agreed to pay $44 million to the Department of Justice (DOJ) to resolve this matter. The DOJ, including the DEA and the United States Attorneys' Offices for the Middle District of Florida, the Southern District of New York, the District of Maryland, and the Western District of Washington and all other districts across the country have also agreed to take no further administrative or civil action on these and related matters. In addition, Cardinal Health has reached an agreement with the State of West Virginia regarding the company's distribution of controlled substances in that state between 2007 and 2012. While Cardinal Health denies the allegations, it agreed to pay West Virginia $20 million to resolve issues and release the company from further actions.

In 2014, the Boards of Pharmacy in both California and Georgia took derivative action based upon the DEA settlement. The Georgia Board fined the Lakeland facility $500 in administrative fees, and the California Board fined the facility $1,505 in investigative fees. Both fees were paid to the respective Boards.

We make every effort to meet our customers' legitimate demands for controlled substances. However, we have also demonstrated a deep commitment to helping fight prescription drug abuse. If you have any questions about this issue, please contact Martha Russell, Assistant General Counsel, Regulatory, at 614-757-6654.

Sincerely,

Keegan Chamberlain
