Re: Detailed Description of duties for the MDEG Administrator Application
For Schraders' Medical Supply, Inc.

I, Kristina McIntosh, President of Schraders' Medical Supply, Inc. have completed the MDEG Application for the Nevada State Board of Pharmacy to be the MDEG Administrator. I have been with Schraders' for over 17 years and currently hold a California HMDR Exemptees license (#21123) as well as California State Board of Pharmacy Designated Representative License for Wholesaler (#EXC22695).

I have a full understanding of the products we carry and sell, especially those that are under Rx and wholesaler requirements.

We have procedure in place in our ERP system we use for all our inventory and shipping that all Rx items are monitored daily and Exemptees sign off before these products are shipped.

Please let me know if you need any additional information.

Regards,

Kristina McIntosh

Dear Madam or Sir,

We are writing to inform the Nevada State Board of Pharmacy of disciplinary action taken against United States Medical Supply, LLC's ("US MED") Utah Class E DME Pharmacy License by the State of Utah, Department of Commerce, Division of Occupational and Professional Licensing.

The US MED signed a Citation to resolve an issue of failing to provide timely notification of a Change in Designated Representative (DR) for this facility. A copy of the Citation instating this discipline is enclosed. Receipt of US MED's acceptance of the citation was confirmed by Utah on June 9, 2025. US MED was required to pay a small administrative fine.

The delay in notification was unintentional and was the result of an administrative oversight stemming from Cardinal Health's recent acquisition of United States Medical Supply, LLC. The oversight and DR change were reported to the State of Utah as soon as discovered. Please know that under Cardinal Health's ownership, any future changes will be submitted to regulatory bodies according to state reporting requirements.

If you have any questions, please contact Cory Kopitzke, Assistant General Counsel, Regulatory at Cory.Kopitzke01@cardinalhealth.com.

Sincerely,

Keegan Chamberlain,
Director of Quality and Regulatory Affairs

Good morning Kristy,

I apologize for the delay I was working with our HR to obtain the position requirements and responsibilities for Marali's Director job role.

This facility is a corporate location only; there are no products on site. In Marali's role the responsibilities include but not limited to completing all post-shipment activities necessary to bill payers and/or customers, collect and apply payments, overcome denials, and resolve credit balances. DME product knowledge is critical to fulfil this role's responsibilities related to overseeing collections; payer reimbursement processes and sharing product knowledge in the various revenue cycles. In addition, Marali is responsible for complying with the laws and regulations as they pertain to the services provided by the Company and promptly reporting any information regarding a know or suspected violation of any applicable laws, regulations standards and company policy.

Please let me know if you have any additional questions or concerns.

Thank you,

CardinalHealth

Confirming receipt. Can you please have Ms. Samudio provide a resume or a statement regarding her experience with the medical products? The current information regarding her duties pertain mostly to billing and revenue cycles. The Board will want to know that she has working knowledge of the medical device products.

Thank you,

ITEM 1. Business

General

Henry Schein, Inc. is a solutions company for health care professionals powered by a network of people and technology. We believe we are the world's largest provider of health care products and services primarily to office-based dental and medical practitioners, as well as alternate sites of care. Our philosophy is grounded in our commitment to help customers operate a more efficient and successful business so the practitioner can provide better clinical care.

With 93 years of experience distributing health care products, we have built a vast base of small, mid-sized and large customers in the dental and medical markets, serving more than one million customers worldwide across dental practices, laboratories, physician practices, and ambulatory surgery centers, as well as government, institutional health care clinics and other alternate care clinics.

We are headquartered in Melville, New York and employ approximately 25,000 people. Approximately 49% of our workforce is based in the United States and 51% outside of the United States. Our operations or affiliates are located in 33 countries and territories. Our broad global footprint has evolved over time through organic growth as well as through the contribution from our strategic acquisitions.

We stock a comprehensive selection of more than 300,000 branded products and Henry Schein corporate brand products through our main distribution centers. Our infrastructure, including over 5.4 million square feet of space in 36 strategically located distribution centers and 0.5 million square feet of space in 15 manufacturing facilities around the world, enables us to historically provide rapid and accurate order fulfillment, better serve our customers and increase our operating efficiency. This infrastructure, together with broad product and service offerings at competitive prices, and a strong commitment to customer service, enables us to be a single source of supply for our customers' needs, which we believe is a competitive advantage.

During the fourth quarter of our fiscal year ended December 28, 2024, we revised our reportable segments to align with how the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer manages the business, assesses performance and allocates resources. Our revised reportable segments consist of: (i) Global Distribution and Value-Added Services; (ii) Global Specialty Products; and (iii) Global Technology.

Global Distribution and Value-Added Services includes distribution to the global dental and medical markets of national brand and corporate brand merchandise, as well as equipment and related technical services. This segment also includes value-added services such as financial services, continuing education services, consulting and other services. This segment also markets and sells under our own corporate brand, a portfolio of cost-effective, high-quality consumable merchandise. Global Specialty Products includes manufacturing, marketing and sales of dental implant and biomaterial products; and endodontic, orthodontic and orthopedic products and other health care-related products and services. Global Technology includes development and distribution of practice management software, e-services, and other products, which are distributed to health care providers.

Recent Developments

See "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations – Recent Developments" herein for a discussion related to recent Company developments.

Industry

The distribution and value-added services industry, as it relates to office-based health care practitioners, is fragmented and diverse. The industry ranges from sole practitioners working out of relatively small offices to mid-sized and large group practices ranging in size from a few practitioners to several hundred practices owned or operated by dental support organizations ("DSOs"), medical group purchasing organizations ("GPOs"), health maintenance organizations ("HMOs"), hospital systems or integrated delivery networks ("IDNs").

Due in part to the limited capacity of office-based health care practitioners to store and manage large quantities of supplies in their offices, the distribution of health care supplies and small equipment to office-based health care practitioners has been characterized by frequent, small quantity orders, and a need for rapid, reliable and substantially complete order fulfillment. The purchasing decisions within an office-based health care practice are typically made by the practitioner, hygienist or office manager. Supplies and small equipment are generally purchased from more than one distributor, with one generally serving as the primary supplier.

The distribution and value-added services industry should benefit from favorable long-term macro trends that should help stimulate patient traffic and demand for products and services. This includes an aging population, increased health care awareness and the importance of preventive care, an increasing understanding of the connection between good oral health and overall health, improved access to care globally, the proliferation of medical technology and testing, new pharmacology treatments and expanded third-party insurance coverage, partially offset by the effects of unemployment on insurance coverage and technological improvements, including the advancement of software and services, prosthetic solutions and telemedicine. In addition, the non-acute market continues to benefit from the shift of procedures and diagnostic testing from acute care settings to alternate-care sites, particularly physicians' offices and ambulatory surgery centers.

We believe that consolidation within the industry will continue to result in a number of distributors, particularly those with limited financial, operating and marketing resources, seeking to combine with larger companies that can provide growth opportunities. This consolidation also may continue to result in distributors seeking to acquire companies that can enhance their current product and service offerings or provide opportunities to serve a broader customer base.

In addition, customer consolidation will likely lead to multiple locations under common management and the movement of more procedures from the hospital setting to the physician or alternate care setting, as the health care industry is increasingly focused on efficiency and cost containment. This trend has benefited distributors capable of providing a broad array of products and services at low prices. It also has accelerated the growth of HMOs, group practices, other managed care accounts and collective buying groups such as DSOs and GPOs, which, in addition to their emphasis on obtaining products at competitive prices, tend to favor distributors capable of providing specialized management information support. We believe that the trend towards cost containment has the potential to favorably affect demand for technology solutions, including software, which can enhance the efficiency and facilitation of practice management.

Competition

The distribution and manufacture of health care supplies and equipment is highly competitive. Many of the health care products we sell are available to our customers from a number of suppliers. In addition, our competitors could obtain exclusive rights from manufacturers to market particular products. Manufacturers also could seek to sell directly to end-users, and thereby eliminate or reduce our role and that of other distributors. In certain parts of the dental end market, such as those related to dental specialty products, and medical end market manufacturers already sell directly to end customers.

In North America, we compete with other distributors, as well as several manufacturers, of dental and medical products, primarily on the basis of price, breadth of product line, e-commerce capabilities, customer service and value-added products and services. In the dental distribution market, our primary competitors in the U.S. are the Patterson Dental division of Patterson Companies, Inc. and Benco Dental Supply Company. In addition, we compete against a number of other distributors that operate on a national, regional and local level. Our primary competitors in the U.S. medical distribution market, which accounts for the large majority of our global medical sales, are McKesson Corporation and Medline Industries, Inc., which are national distributors. We also compete with a number of regional and local medical distributors, as well as a number of manufacturers that sell directly to physicians and patients in their homes.

Outside of the U.S., we believe we are the only global distributor of supplies and equipment to dental practices and our competitors are primarily local and regional companies. We also face significant competition internationally, where we compete on the basis of price and customer service against several large competitors, including the GACD Group, Proclinic SA, Lifco AB, Nuent Group AB, Planmeca Oy and Billericay Dental Supply Co. Ltd., as well as a large number of other dental and medical product distributors and manufacturers in international countries and territories we serve.

Within Global Specialty Products, our primary competitors include Straumann, Envista, Zimvie, and Dentsply Sirona.

With regard to our dental software, we compete against numerous companies, including the Eaglesoft division of Patterson Companies, Inc., Carestream Dental LLC, Centaur Software Development Co Pty Ltd. (d.b.a. dental4windows, dental4web), Open Dental Software, Inc., PlanetDDS LLC, Good Methods Global Inc. (d.b.a. CareStack), Curve Dental, LLC., the NextGen division of Quality Systems, Inc., eClinicalWorks and Epic Systems Corporation. In other software end markets, including revenue cycle management, patient relationship management and patient demand generation, we compete with companies such as Vyne Medical, Weave Communications, Inc., and Solutionreach, Inc. Many of these competitors connect to our software platforms through our API program.

Manufacturing and Raw Materials

We manufacture certain of our products for our specialty businesses (oral surgery solutions including dental implants, endodontics, and orthopedics) at our 15 company manufacturing sites. We also outsource certain manufacturing to third parties. We purchase our raw materials from various third-party suppliers. No single supplier is material; however, raw materials may be sourced from a single supplier or a limited number of suppliers for reasons of quality assurance, regulatory requirements, cost, and availability.

We believe that we have a readily available supply of raw materials and components sourced from various suppliers, for our significant products.

We may experience shortages of raw materials or purchased components. In recent periods, we have experienced increased costs and shortages of purchased components, which had a negative impact on our profit margins and on our sales for certain product categories, due to our inability to fully satisfy demand.

Competitive Strengths

We have 93 years of experience in distributing products to health care practitioners resulting in strong awareness of the Henry Schein® brand. Our competitive strengths include:

A focus on meeting our customers' unique needs. We are committed to providing customized solutions to our customers that are driven by our understanding of the end markets we serve and that reflect the technology-driven products and services best suited for their practice needs. We are committed to continuing to enhance these offerings through organic investment in our products and our teams, as well as through the acquisition of new products and services that may help us better serve our customers.

Direct sales and marketing expertise. Our sales and marketing efforts are designed to establish and solidify customer relationships through personal or virtual visits by field sales representatives, frequent direct marketing and telesales contact, emphasizing our broad product lines, including exclusive distribution agreements, competitive prices and ease of order placement, particularly through our e-commerce platforms. The key elements of our direct sales and marketing efforts are:

- Field sales consultants. Our field sales consultants, including equipment sales specialists, covering major North American, European and other international markets. These consultants complement our direct marketing and telesales efforts and enable us to better market, service and support the sale of more sophisticated products and equipment.

- Marketing. We market to existing and prospective office-based health care providers through a combination of owned, earned and paid digital channels, tradeshows, as well as through catalogs, flyers, direct mail and other promotional materials. Our strategies include an emphasis on educational content through webinars and content marketing initiatives. We continue to enhance our marketing technology to improve our targeting capability and the relevance of messaging and offers.

- Telesales. We support our direct marketing effort with inbound and outbound telesales representatives, who facilitate order processing, generate new sales through direct and frequent contact with customers and stay abreast of market developments and the hundreds of new products, services and technologies introduced each year to educate practice personnel.

- Electronic commerce solutions. We provide our customers and sales teams with innovative and competitive e-commerce solutions. We continue to invest in our e-commerce platform to offer enhanced content management so customers can more easily find the products they need and to enable an engaging purchase experience, supported by excellent customer service.

- Social media. Our operating entities and employees engage our customers and supplier partners through various social media platforms, which are an important element of our communications and marketing efforts. We continue to expand our social media presence to raise awareness about issues, engage customers beyond a sale and deliver services and solutions to specialized audiences.

Cost-effective purchasing. We believe that cost-effective purchasing is a key element to maintaining and enhancing our position as a competitively priced provider of health care products. We continuously evaluate our purchase requirements and suppliers' offerings and prices in order to obtain products at the lowest possible cost. In 2024, our top 10 Global Distribution and Value-Added Services suppliers and our single largest supplier accounted for approximately 25% and 4%, respectively, of our aggregate purchases.

Efficient distribution. We distribute our products from our 36 strategically located distribution centers. We strive to maintain optimal inventory levels in order to satisfy customer demand for prompt delivery and complete order fulfillment. These inventory levels are managed on a daily basis with the aid of our management information systems. Once an order is entered, it is electronically transmitted to the distribution center nearest the customer's location for order fulfillment.

Broad product and service offerings at competitive prices. We offer a broad range of products and services to our customers, at competitive prices, in the following categories:

Business Strategy

Our mission is to provide innovative, integrated health care products and services; and to be trusted advisors and consultants to our customers - enabling them to deliver the best quality patient care and enhance their practice management efficiency and profitability. Our BOLD+1 Strategic Plan consists of the following:

- Build ("B") Complementary software, specialty, and services businesses for high growth
- Operationalize ("O") One Distribution to deliver exceptional customer experience, increased efficiency, and growth
- Leverage ("L") One Schein to broaden and deepen relationships with our customers
- Drive ("D") Digital transformation for our customers and for Henry Schein
- +1 Create Value for our stakeholders

To accomplish this, we apply our competitive strengths in executing the following strategies:

- Increase penetration of our existing customer base. We have over one million customers worldwide and we intend to increase sales to our existing customer base and enhance or secure our position as their primary supplier. We believe our offering of a broad range of products, services and support, including software solutions that can help drive improved workflow efficiency and patient communications for practices, coupled with our full-service value proposition, helps us to retain and grow our customer base.

- Increase the number of customers we serve. This strategy includes increasing the productivity of our field sales consultants and telesales team, as well as using our customer database to focus our marketing efforts in all of our operating segments. In the dental business, we provide products and services to independent practices, mid-market groups, and large DSOs as well as community health centers and government sites of care. Leveraging our broad array of assets and capabilities, we offer solutions to address these new markets. In the medical business, we have expanded to serve customers located in settings outside of the traditional office, such as urgent care clinics, retail, occupational health and home health settings. As health care settings shift, we remain committed to serving these practitioners and providing them with the products and services they need.

- Leverage our value-added products and services. We continue to increase cross-selling efforts for key product lines utilizing a consultative selling process. We have significant cross-selling opportunities between our dental software users and our dental customers, and opportunities to expand our vaccine, injectables and other pharmaceuticals sales to health care practitioners, as well as cross-selling EHR systems and software when we sell our core products. Our strategy extends to providing health systems, integrated delivery networks and other large group and multi-site health care organizations, including physician clinics, these same value-added products and services. As physicians and health systems closely align, we have increased access to opportunities for cross-marketing and selling our product and service portfolios.

- Pursue strategic acquisitions and joint ventures. Our acquisition strategy is focused on investments in companies that add new customers and sales teams, increase our geographic footprint (whether entering a new country, such as emerging markets, or building scale where we have already invested in businesses), and finally, those that enable us to access new products and technologies.

Markets Served

Demographic trends indicate that our markets are growing, as an aging U.S. population is increasingly using health care services. According to the U.S. Census Bureau's International Database, between 2024 and 2034, the population of people aged 45 and older is expected to grow by approximately 10%. Between 2024 and 2044, this age group is expected to grow by approximately 18%. This compares with expected total U.S. population growth rates of approximately 4% between 2024 and 2034 and approximately 6% between 2024 and 2044.

In the dental industry, there is predicted to be a rise in oral health care expenditures as the 45-and-older segment of the population increases. There is increasing demand for new technologies that allow dentists to increase productivity, and this is being driven in the U.S. by lower insurance reimbursement rates. At the same time, there is an expected increase in dental insurance coverage.

In the medical market, there continues to be a migration of procedures from acute-care settings to physicians' offices and home health settings, a trend that we believe provides additional opportunities for us. There also is the continuing use of vaccines, injectables and other pharmaceuticals in alternate-care settings. We believe we have established a leading position as a vaccine supplier to the office-based physician practitioner.

We support our dental and medical professionals through the many SKUs that we offer, as well as through important value-added services, including practice management software, electronic claims processing, financial services and continuing education, all designed to help maximize a practitioner's efficiency.

Additionally, we seek to expand our dental full-service model and medical offerings in countries where opportunities exist. We do this through both direct sales and by partnering with local distribution and manufacturing companies.

For information on revenues and long-lived assets by geographic area, see Note 4 – Segment and Geographic Data of "Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements."

Seasonality and Other Factors Affecting Our Business and Quarterly Results

We experience fluctuations in quarterly earnings. As a result, we may fail to meet or exceed the expectations of securities analysts and investors, which could cause our stock price to decline.

Our business is subject to seasonal and other quarterly fluctuations. Sales and profitability generally have been higher in the third and fourth quarters due to the timing of sales of seasonal products (including influenza vaccine), purchasing patterns of office-based health care practitioners for certain products (including equipment and software) and year-end promotions. Sales and profitability may also be impacted by the timing of certain annual and biennial dental tradeshows where equipment promotions are offered. In addition, some dental practices delay equipment purchases in the U.S. until year-end due to tax incentives. We expect our historical seasonality of sales to continue in the foreseeable future.

Governmental Regulations

We strive to be compliant in all material respects with the applicable laws, regulations and guidance described below, and believe we have effective compliance programs and other controls in place to ensure substantial compliance. However, compliance is not guaranteed either now or in the future, as certain laws, regulations and guidance may be subject to varying and evolving interpretations that could affect our ability to comply, as well as future changes, additions and enforcement approaches, including political changes. When we discover situations of non-compliance we seek to remedy them and bring the affected area back into compliance.

Changes to applicable laws, regulations and guidance described below, as well as related administrative or judicial interpretations, may require us to update or revise our operations, services, marketing practices and compliance programs and controls, and may impose additional and unforeseen costs on us, pose new or previously immaterial risks to us, or may otherwise have a material adverse effect on our business.

Government

Certain of our businesses involve the distribution, manufacturing, importation, exportation, marketing, sale and promotion of pharmaceuticals and/or medical devices, and in this regard, we are subject to extensive local, state, federal and foreign governmental laws and regulations, including as applicable to our wholesale distribution of pharmaceuticals and medical devices, manufacturing activities, and as part of our specialty home medical supplies businesses that distribute and sell medical equipment and supplies directly to patients. Federal, state and certain foreign governments have also increased enforcement activity in the health care sector, particularly in areas of fraud and abuse, anti-bribery and anti-corruption, controlled substances handling, medical device regulations and data privacy and security standards.

Certain of our businesses involve pharmaceuticals and/or medical devices, including orthopaedic, in vitro diagnostic devices, software regulated as a medical device, and sales of medical equipment and supplies directly to patients, that are paid for by third parties and/or patients and must operate in compliance with a variety of burdensome and complex coding, billing and record-keeping requirements in order to substantiate claims for payment under federal, state and commercial health care reimbursement programs.

Government and private insurance programs fund a large portion of the total cost of medical care, and there have been efforts to limit such private and government insurance programs, including efforts, thus far unsuccessful, to seek repeal of the entire United States Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, as amended by the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act, each enacted in March 2010 (as amended, the "ACA").

Certain of our businesses are subject to various additional federal, state, local and foreign laws and regulations, including with respect to the sale, transportation, importation, storage, handling and disposal of hazardous or potentially hazardous substances; "forever chemicals" such as per-and polyfluoroalkyl substances; amalgam bans; pricing disclosures; supply chain transparency around labor practices; and safe working conditions. In addition, activities to control medical costs, including laws and regulations lowering reimbursement rates for pharmaceuticals, medical devices, medical supplies and/or medical treatments or services, are ongoing. For example, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services' ("CMS") 2024 durable medical equipment, prosthetics, orthotics and supplies ("DMEPOS") reimbursement schedule, which was effective January 1, 2024, reduced the DMEPOS reimbursement rates for non-rural suppliers, such as us, by removing the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security ("CARES") Act relief rates in effect during the COVID-19 pandemic. These and other laws and regulations are subject to change and their evolving implementation may impact our operations and our financial performance.

Certain of our businesses also maintain contracts with governmental agencies and are subject to certain regulatory requirements specific to government contractors.

Our businesses are generally subject to numerous laws and regulations that could impact our financial performance, and failure to comply with such laws or regulations could have a material adverse effect on our business.

Operating, Security and Licensure Standards

Certain of our businesses are subject to local, state and federal governmental laws and regulations relating to the manufacturing and/or distribution of pharmaceuticals and medical devices and supplies. Among the United States federal laws applicable to us are the Controlled Substances Act, the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as amended ("FDC Act"), Section 361 of the Public Health Service Act and Section 401 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act of the Social Security Act, as well as laws regulating the billing of and reimbursement from government programs, such as Medicare and Medicaid, and from commercial payers. We are also subject to comparable foreign regulations.

The FDC Act, the Controlled Substances Act, their implementing regulations, and similar foreign laws generally regulate the introduction, manufacture, advertising, marketing and promotion, sampling, pricing and reimbursement, labeling, packaging, storage, handling, returning or recalling, reporting, and distribution of, and record keeping for, pharmaceuticals and medical devices shipped in interstate commerce or internationally, and states may similarly regulate such activities within the state. Furthermore, Section 361 of the Public Health Service Act, which provides authority to prevent the introduction, transmission or spread of communicable diseases, serves as the legal basis for the United States Food and Drug Administration's ("FDA") regulation of human cells, tissues and cellular and tissue-based products, also known as "HCT/P products."

The Federal Drug Quality and Security Act of 2013 regulates pharmaceutical supply chain requirements and pre-empts certain state laws. Title II of this measure, known as the Drug Supply Chain Security Act ("DSCSA"), establishes a national electronic, interoperable system to identify and trace certain prescription drugs as they are distributed in the United States that went into effect on November 27, 2023. The law's track and trace requirements applicable to manufacturers, wholesalers, third-party logistics providers (e.g., trading partners), repackagers and dispensers (e.g., pharmacies) of prescription drugs took effect in January 2015, and, as stated, continues to be implemented. The DSCSA product tracing requirements replace the former FDA drug pedigree requirements and pre-empt certain state requirements that are inconsistent with, more stringent than, or in addition to, the DSCSA requirements.

Those DSCSA requirements that were scheduled to change on November 27, 2023, and include requiring trading partners to provide, receive and maintain documentation about products and ownership only "electronically" (and not via paper), were subject to a one-year "stabilization period" announced by the FDA through two guidance documents in late August 2023. The FDA permitted the stabilization period to accommodate an additional year, until November 27, 2024, to allow trading partners to implement, troubleshoot and mature their electronic (versus paper), interoperable systems, during which time the FDA did not intend to take action to enforce the requirements for the interoperable, electronic, package level product tracing. Additionally, the FDA announced that it did not intend to take action to enforce the portion of the FDC Act with respect to drug product that was introduced in a transaction into commerce by the product's manufacturer or repackager before November 27, 2024, and for subsequent transactions of such product through the product's expiry. The FDA stated this stabilization period was intended to avoid disruption to the supply chain and ensure continued patient access to drug products as trading partners move towards full implementation of the DSCSA's enhanced drug security requirements. The FDA again extended the stabilization period in late 2024 as follows: (1) manufacturers and repackagers: May 27, 2025; (2) wholesale distributors: August 27, 2025; (3) dispensers with 26 or more pharmacists and technicians: November 27, 2025; and (4) small dispensers: November 27, 2026. The FDA stated that these continued exemptions apply to any product transacted by eligible trading partners who have initiated their "systems and processes, as described in section 582(g)(1) of the FD&C Act," including electronic DSCSA data connections with immediate trading partners by November 27, 2024. The additional time extends to trading partners throughout the pharmaceutical distribution supply chain who subsequently engage in a transaction including such product. The FDA also stated that, for the purposes of these exemptions, eligible trading partners are those who have initiated their systems and processes by successfully completing data connections with their immediate trading partners, and those trading partners who initiated processes including documentation of efforts to establish data connections, but were not able to fully complete these processes.

The DSCSA also establishes certain requirements for the licensing and operation of prescription drug wholesalers and third-party logistics providers ("3PLs") and includes the eventual creation of national wholesaler and 3PL licenses in cases where states do not license such entities. The DSCSA requires that wholesalers and 3PLs distribute drugs in accordance with certain standards regarding the recordkeeping, storage and handling of prescription drugs. The DSCSA requires wholesalers and 3PLs to submit annual reports to the FDA, which include information regarding each state where the wholesaler or 3PL is licensed, the name and address of each facility, and contact information. According to FDA guidance, states are pre-empted from imposing any licensing requirements that are inconsistent with, less stringent than, directly related to, or covered by the standards established by federal law in this area. Current state licensing requirements concerning wholesalers will remain in effect until the FDA issues new regulations as directed by the DSCSA. The FDA issued a proposed rule establishing wholesaler and 3PL national standards for licensing and other requirements in February 2022, but that rule has not yet been finalized. In addition, with respect to our specialty home medical supplies business, we are subject to certain state licensure laws (including state pharmacy laws), and also certain accreditation standards, including to qualify for reimbursement from Medicare, Medicaid, and other third-party payers.

The Food and Drug Administration Amendments Act of 2007 and the Food and Drug Administration Safety and Innovation Act of 2012 amended the FDC Act to require the FDA to promulgate regulations to implement a unique device identification ("UDI") system for medical devices. The UDI rule phased in the implementation of the UDI regulations, generally beginning with the highest-risk devices (i.e., Class III medical devices) and ending with the lowest-risk devices. The UDI regulations require "labelers" to include unique device identifiers ("UDIs"), with a content and format prescribed by the FDA and issued under a system operated by an FDA-accredited issuing agency, on the labels and packages of medical devices (including, but not limited to, certain software that qualifies as a medical device under FDA rules), and to directly mark certain devices with UDIs. The UDI regulations also require labelers to submit certain information concerning UDI-labeled devices to the FDA, much of which information is publicly available on an FDA database, the Global Unique Device Identification Database (GUDID). The UDI regulations and subsequent FDA guidance regarding the UDI requirements provide for certain exceptions, alternatives and time extensions. For example, the UDI regulations include a general exception for Class I devices exempt from the Quality System Regulation (other than record-keeping requirements and complaint files). Regulated labelers include entities such as device manufacturers, repackagers, reprocessors and relabelers that cause a device's label to be applied or modified, with the intent that the device will be commercially distributed without any subsequent replacement or modification of the label and include certain of our businesses. The FDA also released a final rule in February 2024 to amend, effective February 2026, certain device current good manufacturing practice requirements in 21 CFR Part 820 (Quality System Regulation) to align more closely with the international consensus standard (ISO 13485) specific for device quality management systems requirements (QMSR) used by other countries.

As a distributor of controlled substances, we are required, under the Controlled Substances Act, to obtain and renew annually registrations for our facilities from the United States Drug Enforcement Administration ("DEA") permitting us to handle controlled substances. We are also subject to other statutory and regulatory requirements relating to the storage, sale, marketing, handling, reporting, record-keeping and distribution of such drugs, in accordance with the Controlled Substances Act and its implementing regulations, and these requirements have been subject to heightened enforcement activity in recent times. We are subject to inspection by the DEA. Certain of our businesses are also required to register for permits and/or licenses with, and comply with operating and security standards of, the DEA, the FDA, the United States Department of Health and Human Services ("HHS"), and various state boards of pharmacy, state health departments and/or comparable state agencies as well as comparable foreign agencies, and certain accrediting bodies, depending on the type of operations and location of product distribution, manufacturing or sale. These businesses include those that distribute, manufacture, relabel, and/or repackage prescription pharmaceuticals and/or medical devices and/or HCT/P products, or own pharmacy operations, or install, maintain or repair equipment.

In addition, Section 301 of the National Organ Transplant Act, and a number of comparable state laws, impose civil and/or criminal penalties for the transfer of human organs, as defined in the regulations, for valuable consideration, while generally permitting payments for the reasonable costs incurred in their procurement, processing, storage and distribution. We are also subject to foreign government regulation of such products. The DEA, the FDA and state regulatory authorities have broad inspection and enforcement powers, including the ability to suspend or limit the distribution of products by our distribution centers, seize or order the recall of products and impose significant criminal, civil and administrative sanctions for violations of these laws and regulations. Foreign regulations subject us to similar foreign enforcement powers.

EU Regulation of Medicinal and Dental Products

European Union ("EU") member states regulate their own health care systems, as does EU law. The latter regulates certain matters, most notably medicinal products and medical devices. Medicinal products are defined, broadly, as substances or combinations of substances having certain functionalities and may not include medical devices. EU "regulations" apply in all member states, whereas "directives" are implemented by the individual laws of member states.

On medicines for humans, we are regulated under Directive No. 2001/83/EC of 6 November 2001, as amended by Directive 2003/63/EC of 25 June 2003, and EU Regulation (EC) No. 726/2004 of 31 March 2004. These rules provide for the authorization of products, and regulate their manufacture, importation, marketing and distribution. It implements requirements which may be implemented without warning, as well as a national pharmacovigilance system under which marketing authorizations may be withdrawn, and includes potential sanctions for breaches of the rules, and on other bases such as harmfulness or lack of efficacy.

EU Regulation No. 1223/2009 of 30 November 2009 on cosmetic products requires that cosmetic products (which includes dental products) be safe for human health when used under normal or reasonably foreseeable conditions of use and comply with certain obligations which apply to manufacturers, importers and distributors. It includes market surveillance, and non-compliance may result in the recall or withdrawal of products, along with other sanctions.

In the EU, the EU Medical Device Regulation No. 2017/745 of 5 April 2017 ("EU MDR") covers a wide scope of our activities, from dental material and medical devices to X-ray machines, and certain software. It was meant to become applicable three years after publication (i.e., May 26, 2020). However, on April 23, 2020, to allow European Economic Area ("EEA") national authorities, notified bodies, manufacturers and other actors to focus fully on urgent priorities related to the COVID-19 pandemic, the European Council and Parliament adopted Regulation 2020/561, postponing the date of application of the EU MDR by one year (to May 26, 2021).

The EU MDR significantly modifies and intensifies the regulatory compliance requirements for the medical device industry as a whole. Among other things, the EU MDR:

- strengthens the rules on placing devices on the market and reinforces surveillance once they are available;
- establishes explicit provisions on manufacturers' responsibilities for the follow-up of the quality, performance and safety of devices placed on the market;
- improves the traceability of medical devices throughout the supply chain to the end-user or patient through a unique identification number;
- sets up a central database to provide patients, health care professionals and the public with comprehensive information on products available in the EU;
- strengthens rules for the assessment of certain high-risk devices, such as implants, which may have to undergo an additional check by experts before they are placed on the market; and
- identifies importers and distributors and medical device products through registration in the EUDAMED database, which comprises several modules that are not yet fully functional. In order not to hinder the mandatory use of EUDAMED by the functional delay of a single module, the new Regulation No. 2024/1860 of 13 June 2024 has therefore amended Article 34 of the EU MDR to organize a gradual commissioning of the various modules of EUDAMED, once they have been independently audited and declared operational by means of a Commission notice published in the Official Journal of the European Union. In this case, the obligations and requirements relating to the concerned electronic modules of EUDAMED will apply six months after the date of publication of the notice. These changes came into force on July 9, 2024; and
- as amended by the above-mentioned Regulation No. 2024/1860, contains specific provisions in the event of interruption or discontinuation of supply of a device.

In particular, the EU MDR imposes strict requirements for the confirmation that a product meets the regulatory requirements, including regarding a product's clinical evaluation and a company's quality systems, and for the distribution, marketing and sale of medical devices, including post-market surveillance.

Regulation 2023/607 of the European Parliament and of the Council of March 15, 2023 amending Regulations (EU) 2017/745 and (EU) 2017/746 as regards the transitional provisions for certain medical devices and in vitro diagnostic medical devices has, notably, extended the EU MDR transitional periods applicable to certain medical devices that have been assessed and/or certified under the Directive No. 93/42/EEC of 1993 concerning medical devices ("EU Medical Device Directive"). Subject to certain conditions, medical devices that (i) obtained a certificate under the EU Medical Device Directive from May 25, 2017, (ii) which was still valid on May 26, 2021, and (iii) has not been subsequently withdrawn may, for the moment, continue to be placed on the market or put into service until December 31, 2027 for higher risk devices or December 31, 2028 for medium and lower risk devices. Nevertheless, EU MDR requirements regarding the distribution, marketing and sale including quality systems and post-market surveillance have to be observed by manufacturers, importers and distributors as of the application date (i.e., since May 26, 2021).

Other EU regulations that may apply under appropriate circumstances include EU Regulation No. 1907/2006 of 18 December 2006 concerning the Registration, Evaluation, Authorisation and Restriction of Chemicals, which requires importers to register substances or mixtures that they import in the EU beyond certain quantities, and the EU Regulation No. 1272/2008 of 16 December 2008 on classification, labelling and packaging of substances and mixtures (recently amended by Regulation No. 2024/2865 of October 23, 2024, whose provisions come into force

The information in this Annual Report on Form 10-K contains certain forward-looking statements, including statements related to clinical trials, regulatory approvals, markets for our products, new product development, capital requirements and trends in our business that involve risks and uncertainties. Our actual results may differ materially from the results discussed in the forward-looking statements. Forward-Looking Statements

This Annual Report on Form 10-K contains "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These forward-looking statements involve a number of risks and uncertainties. We caution readers that any forward-looking statement is not a guarantee of future performance and that actual results could differ materially from those contained in the forward-looking statement. These statements are based on current expectations of future events. Such statements include, but are not limited to, statements about future financial and operating results, plans, objectives, expectations and intentions, costs and expenses, interest rates, outcome of contingencies, financial condition, results of operations, liquidity, business strategies, cost savings, objectives of management and other statements that are not historical facts. You can find many of these statements by looking for words like "believes," "expects," "anticipates," "estimates," "may," "should," "will," "could," "plan," "intend" or similar expressions in this Annual Report on Form 10-K or in documents incorporated by reference into this Annual Report on Form 10-K. We intend that such forward-looking statements be subject to the safe harbors created thereby. Examples of these forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to:

- progress and preliminary and future results of any clinical trials;
- anticipated regulatory filings and U.S. Food and Drug Administration, or FDA, responses, recommendations, requirements or additional future clinical trials;
- our ability to raise additional capital as needed to fund our planned development and commercialization efforts and repay our existing debt;
- the potential benefits and differentiated profile, FDA approval, commercialization and commercial market for cytisinicline;
- the performance of, and our ability to obtain sufficient supply of cytisinicline in a timely manner from, third-party suppliers and manufacturers;
- timing and plans for the expansion of our focus to develop cytisinicline for other forms of nicotine dependence;
- timing and amount of future contractual payments, product revenue and operating expenses;
- market acceptance of our products and the estimated potential size of these markets; and
- our expectations regarding the impact of the macroeconomic and geopolitical environment, including fluctuating inflation, interest and tariff rates, increased volatility in the debt and equity markets, instability in the global banking system, global health crises and pandemics and geopolitical conflict, and their potentially material adverse impact on our business and the execution of our preclinical studies and clinical trials.

These forward-looking statements are based on the current beliefs and expectations of our management and are subject to significant risks and uncertainties. If underlying assumptions prove inaccurate or unknown risks or uncertainties materialize, actual results may differ materially from current expectations and projections. Factors that might cause such a difference include those discussed in Item 1A "Risk Factors," as well as those discussed elsewhere in the Annual Report on Form 10-K.

You are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date of this Annual Report on Form 10-K or, in the case of documents referred to or incorporated by reference, the date of those documents.

All subsequent written or oral forward-looking statements attributable to us or any person acting on our behalf are expressly qualified in their entirety by the cautionary statements contained or referred to in this section. We do not undertake any obligation to release publicly any revisions to these forward-looking statements to reflect events or circumstances after the date of this Annual Report on Form 10-K or to reflect the occurrence of unanticipated events, except as may be required under applicable U.S. securities law. If we do update one or more forward-looking statements, no inference should be drawn that we will make additional updates with respect to those or other forward-looking statements.

Summary of Risk Factors

An investment in our common stock involves various risks, and prospective investors are urged to carefully consider the matters discussed in the section titled "Risk Factors" prior to making an investment in our common stock. These risks include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Substantial doubt exists as to our ability to continue as a going concern. Our ability to continue as a going concern is subject to material uncertainty and dependent on our success at raising additional capital sufficient to meet our obligations on a timely basis. If we fail to obtain additional financing when needed, we may be unable to complete the development, regulatory approval and commercialization of our product candidate.
- We have incurred substantial debt, which could impair our flexibility and access to capital and adversely affect our financial position, and our business would be materially adversely affected if we are unable to service our debt obligations.

- Cytisinicline is currently our sole product candidate and there is no guarantee that we will be able to successfully develop and commercialize cytisinicline.
- The development and commercialization of our product candidate is dependent upon securing sufficient quantities of cytisinicline from trees and other plants, which grow outside of the United States in a limited number of locations.
- We currently exclusively rely on Sopharma AD, or Sopharma, to manufacture cytisinicline for use in clinical trials. We plan to engage other third parties for our manufacturing processes, including to manufacture future supply of cytisinicline on a commercial scale, if approved. Our commercialization of cytisinicline could be stopped, delayed or made less profitable if Sopharma fails to obtain approval of government regulators, fails to provide us with sufficient quantities of product or fails to do so at acceptable quality levels or prices.
- We plan to submit a New Drug Application, or NDA, to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, or FDA, for the marketing approval of cytisinicline as a drug therapy in treating nicotine dependence for smoking cessation, based largely on data from our completed Phase 3 ORCA-2 and ORCA-3 clinical trials and the ongoing ORCA-OL trial; however, there can be no assurance that the data from our clinical trials will ultimately support an NDA filing or that the FDA will grant marketing approval of cytisinicline without additional clinical or nonclinical studies, or at all.
- If we do not obtain the necessary regulatory approvals in the United States and/or other countries, we will not be able to sell cytisinicline.
- Cytisinicline may cause undesirable side effects or have other properties that could delay or prevent regulatory approval, limit the commercial viability of an approved label, or result in significant negative consequences following marketing approval, if any.
- It is difficult to evaluate our current business, predict our prospects and forecast our financial performance and growth.
- We face substantial competition, and our competitors may discover, develop or commercialize products faster or more successfully than us.

ITEM 1. BUSINESS

OVERVIEW OF OUR BUSINESS AND RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

We are a late-stage clinical specialty pharmaceutical company with a sole mission to address the global nicotine dependence epidemic in combustible cigarette and e-cigarette usage through the development and commercialization of cytisinicline. There are an estimated 29 million adults in the United States alone who smoke combustible cigarettes and an estimated 11 million adults in the United States who utilize e-cigarettes. Tobacco use is currently the leading cause of preventable death and is responsible for more than eight million deaths worldwide and nearly half a million deaths in the United States annually. More than 87% of lung cancer deaths, 61% of all pulmonary disease deaths, and 32% of all deaths from coronary heart disease are attributable to smoking and exposure to secondhand smoke.

While nicotine e-cigarettes are thought to be less harmful than combustible cigarettes, they remain highly addictive and can deliver harmful chemicals which can cause lung injury or cardiovascular disease. In 2024, 1.6 million high school and middle school students reported using e-cigarettes. Research shows adolescents who have used e-cigarettes are seven times more likely to become smokers one year later compared to those who have never used e-cigarettes. Recently, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, or FDA, granted Breakthrough Therapy Designation for cytisinicline for nicotine e-cigarette, or vaping, cessation. Breakthrough Therapy Designation is a process that expedites the development and review of new drugs and biologics that are intended to treat serious or life-threatening conditions and have preliminary clinical evidence indicating substantial improvement over existing therapies. Currently, there are no FDA approved drug therapies indicated specifically as an aid to nicotine e-cigarette cessation. We believe cytisinicline represents a unique opportunity to significantly impact global health by addressing the considerable unmet need among millions of smokers and e-cigarettes users.

We expect to file a New Drug Application, or NDA, with the FDA for treatment of nicotine dependence for smoking cessation at the end of the second quarter of 2025. If approved, cytisinicline will become the first new prescription medicine in nearly two decades for smoking cessation. We believe cytisinicline is differentiated from existing smoking cessation treatments given its combination of efficacy, well-tolerated safety profile, and a shorter therapy duration, as demonstrated in clinical trials. Dependent on availability of funding, we intend to initiate Phase 3 clinical development of cytisinicline for nicotine dependence for e-cigarettes/vaping in the first half of 2026, which we expect to complete approximately 12 months after initiation, and may explore additional indications for the treatment of nicotine dependence in the future.

Cytisinicline as our Product Candidate

Our product candidate, cytisinicline, is a naturally occurring, plant-based alkaloid. In 2018, the U.S. Adopted Names Council adopted cytisinicline as the non-proprietary, or generic, name for the substance also known as cytisine.

Cytisinicline is structurally similar to nicotine and has a well-defined, dual-acting mechanism of action, being both a receptor agonist and antagonist. It is believed to work in treating nicotine dependence for smoking and e-cigarette cessation by interacting with nicotine receptors in the brain by reducing the severity of withdrawal symptoms, and reducing the reward and satisfaction associated with nicotine products. Cytisinicline is an investigational product candidate being developed for treatment of nicotine dependence and has not been approved by the FDA for any indication in the United States.

Cytisinicline as a 25-day downward titration regimen is an established smoking cessation treatment that has been approved and marketed in Central and Eastern Europe by Sopharma AD, or Sopharma, for over 20 years. It is estimated that over 20 million people have used Sopharma's cytisinicline product to help treat nicotine dependence. We have developed an improved dosage, formulation, and simpler treatment schedule. The administration of our cytisinicline has demonstrated robust efficacy with minimal levels of adverse events in two randomized placebo-controlled Phase 3 studies. We have an exclusive license and a supply agreement with Sopharma for the development and commercialization of cytisinicline outside of Sopharma's territories, which are predominately located in Central and Eastern Europe.

Cytisinicline Mechanism of Action

Cytisinicline binds with high affinity to the alpha-4 beta-2, or $\alpha4\beta2$, nicotinic acetylcholine receptors in the brain. The $\alpha4\beta2$ nicotinic receptor is a well-understood target in dependence. When nicotine binds to this receptor, it causes dopamine to be released in the mid-brain, reinforcing the dopamine reward system. This receptor has been implicated in the development and maintenance of nicotine dependence. Cytisinicline is believed to act as a partial agonist/antagonist binding to $\alpha4\beta2$ nicotinic receptors in the brain and is thought to have two potential consequences in treating nicotine dependence. First, the partial agonism maintains some release of dopamine (albeit at a very reduced level than that stimulated by nicotine) and therefore reduces nicotine craving, and second, the partial antagonism prevents nicotine binding so that nicotine no longer induces the same pleasure or reward stimulation.

Cytisinicline Opportunity

We have an exclusive license and supply agreement with Sopharma for the development and commercialization of cytisinicline outside of Sopharma's territory, which consists of certain countries in Central and Eastern Europe, Scandinavia, North Africa, the Middle East and Central Asia, as well as Vietnam.

We are developing cytisinicline as a drug therapy in treating nicotine dependence for smoking cessation and e-cigarette cessation which would address the limitations of both prescription drugs and of Over-the-Counter, or OTC, products.

We believe that a substantial market exists in the United States, European Union, or EU, and the rest of the world for a new, safe and effective smoking cessation treatment. We believe cytisinicline is differentiated from existing smoking cessation treatments given its combination of robust efficacy, minimal frequency of side effects and optional shorter course of therapy, as shown in two randomized placebo-controlled Phase 3 studies. Our goal is to obtain approval from the FDA and from other regulatory agencies for the sale and distribution of cytisinicline in the United States and subsequently to other countries outside of Sopharma's territory.

OVERVIEW OF OUR REGULATORY PROGRESS AND CLINICAL PHASE 3 PROGRAM

Overview of Regulatory Progress

Smoking Cessation Indication

In June 2017, we filed an Investigational New Drug Application, or IND, with the FDA, for evaluation of cytisinicline as a treatment for smoking cessation. This IND included required non-clinical toxicology studies that were sponsored by the National Center for Complementary and Integrative Health, or NCCIH, a division of the NIH and by the National Cancer Institute, or NCI, to assist in our IND for investigating cytisinicline as a smoking cessation treatment.

In May 2018, we held an end of Phase 2 meeting with the FDA to review and receive guidance on our Phase 3 clinical program and overall development plans to support an NDA for the 25-day downward titration cytisinicline regimen. The FDA recommended to consider evaluating higher dosing, a more simplified daily regimen, and possible longer dosing in our development program. This FDA review also included our plans and their recommendations for non-clinical studies, standard drug-to-drug interaction and reproductive/teratogenicity studies. Detailed plans for chronic toxicology, carcinogenicity studies, and additional clinical studies regarding a maximum tolerated dose, renal impairment, QT interval prolongation, longer term exposure and adequate demonstration of safety and efficacy from planned randomized, placebo-controlled, Phase 3 clinical trials were also discussed.

In December 2018, we announced that the FDA agreed with our Initial Pediatric Study Plan, specifically, providing a full waiver for evaluating cytisinicline in a pediatric population. The reasons for the full waiver were based on the low numbers of children smoking under the age of 12 and the logistical difficulties of recruiting treatment-seeking smokers in the adolescent age group. The agreed upon Initial Pediatric Study Plan is expected to be included as part of our future application for marketing approval of cytisinicline.

In November 2019, we held a type C meeting with the FDA to review results from our Phase 2 ORCA-1 study and our revisions to the Phase 3 clinical program using a simplified 3 mg tablet administered three times a day, or TID, dosing schedule. The FDA agreed that the 3 mg TID dosing schedule was acceptable for our Phase 3 clinical program. In March 2019, we had also initiated our Phase 1 clinical study to assess for dose limiting adverse effects, or AEs, that would define the maximum tolerated dose, or MTD, for a single administered oral dose of cytisinicline. Because dose limiting AEs for the MTD could not be reached per protocol definitions in the study, the results were reviewed with the FDA at this November 2019 Type C meeting, with an agreement that further escalation beyond the single 30 mg dose was not required in the study.

Additional NCCIH and NCI sponsored non-clinical toxicology studies that evaluated reproductive toxicology and company sponsored non-clinical toxicology studies that evaluated longer cytisinicline exposure beyond one month to at least three months for support in initiating our Phase 3 clinical program were submitted in 2020. This allowed the initiation of our two Phase 3 clinical trials in the fourth quarter of 2020 and first quarter of 2022.

Additional plans for our Phase 1 studies regarding pharmacokinetics, or PK, assessments for subjects with renal impairment and evaluations for possible QT interval prolongation, which were first discussed with the FDA as part of the end of Phase 2 meeting in 2018, were followed by more detailed review and agreement with the FDA during 2022 and 2023. These studies have now been completed.

During 2022 and 2023, we had several Type C and Type D meetings with the FDA regarding the adequacy of our completed nonclinical studies, overall clinical pharmacology information, manufacturing product information, and our Integrated Safety Summary, or ISS, analysis plans for a future NDA submission.

In the fourth quarter of 2023, we initiated our pre-NDA discussions with the FDA regarding the adequacy of our efficacy and safety information for proceeding with an NDA submission. The FDA expressed support for an NDA submission based on adequate data to assess for efficacy from our two completed randomized and controlled Phase 3 trials. In addition, the FDA advised that long-term exposure data to assess for safety beyond 12 weeks would be needed to adequately assess safety risks given that the FDA views smoking cessation drugs as products for chronic, repeated, and intermittent use as patients may relapse and require subsequent courses of treatment over a lifetime. In the first quarter of 2024, we reached agreement with the FDA that a single, open-label study evaluating the long-term safety effects of cytisinicline will be sufficient to complete the requirement and enable an NDA submission anticipated at the end of the second quarter of 2025.

E-cigarette (vaping) Cessation Indication

In July 2021, we announced that we were awarded a grant from the National Institute on Drug Abuse, or NIDA, of the National Institutes of Health, or NIH, to evaluate the use of cytisinicline as a treatment for cessation of nicotine e-cigarette use. This initial grant award was utilized to complete critical regulatory activities for the submission of a second IND to the FDA for evaluation of cytisinicline as a treatment for nicotine e-cigarette cessation, or vaping cessation. In November 2021, we announced that the FDA had completed their review and accepted this IND to investigate cytisinicline in this population.

In the third quarter of 2024, we received Breakthrough Therapy Designation from the FDA for cytisinicline for nicotine e-cigarette, or vaping, cessation. Breakthrough Therapy Designation is designed to expedite the development and review of drugs that are intended to treat serious conditions when preliminary clinical evidence indicates that the drug may demonstrate substantial improvement over available therapies. It provides product sponsors the ability to receive an FDA cross-disciplinary project management team for interactive communications with senior managers and expert reviewers from FDA to expedite the development of a product.

In December 2024, we announced completing our end-of-Phase 2 meeting with the FDA to review and receive guidance on our proposed Phase 3 clinical program for a future supplemental NDA submission, or sNDA. We obtained FDA agreement on a proposed single Phase 3 study design for cytisinicline treatment in vaping cessation and on the additional requirements for submitting an sNDA, to expand cytisinicline for the treatment for vaping cessation. The FDA was in alignment on the proposed Phase 3 study design, including the inclusion/exclusion criteria, primary and secondary efficacy objectives, definition of vaping abstinence with biochemical verification, and other overall study assessments. The FDA agreed that one well-controlled Phase 3 trial, in addition to our completed Phase 2 ORCA-V1 trial and the safety exposure data from our ongoing ORCA-OL trial, would be sufficient for a vaping cessation indication as an sNDA.

Non-Clinical Program Supportive of IND and Phase 3 Clinical Development

Non-clinical toxicology studies were sponsored by the NCCIH and by the NCI, to assist in our IND for investigating cytisinicline as a smoking cessation treatment. We filed this IND for cytisinicline with the FDA in 2017, which included the NCCIH sponsored non-clinical studies. Additional NCCIH and NCI sponsored non-clinical toxicology studies that evaluated reproductive toxicology were later submitted in support of our Phase 3 program.

In December 2017, we initiated a series of drug metabolism, drug-to-drug interaction, and transporter studies of cytisinicline and results from these studies were announced in June 2018. These studies demonstrated that cytisinicline has no clinically significant interaction with any of the hepatic enzymes commonly responsible for drug metabolism nor clinically significant interaction with drug transporters. This suggests that cytisinicline may be administered with other medications without the need to modify the dose of any co-administered medications.

In addition, company sponsored non-clinical toxicology studies that evaluated longer cytisinicline exposure beyond one month to at least three months were submitted in 2020 prior to initiating our Phase 3 studies.

Non-clinical toxicology studies that are required for an NDA, including two longer-term chronic toxicology studies and two carcinogenicity studies, have been completed and submitted to the FDA.

Ongoing Company-Sponsored Clinical Trial

Ongoing Open Label ORCA-OL Trial

In May 2024 we initiated the ORCA-OL open label exposure trial. The trial is designed to provide long-term cytisinicline safety exposure data from subjects who currently smoke or use nicotine e-cigarettes and will receive cytisinicline treatment for up to one year. Cumulative 6-month exposure data from this study is required for submission of our cytisinicline NDA.

ORCA-OL is designed to evaluate the long-term exposure of 3 mg cytisinicline treatment dosed three times daily in U.S. adults who want to quit smoking or vaping. In October 2024, we announced that the trial completed enrollment of 479 subjects at 29 clinical trial sites across the United States. We enrolled subjects who had previously participated in the ORCA-program studies. Participants were contacted to enroll in the ORCA-OL study if they were currently using either, or both, combustible cigarettes or nicotine containing e-cigarettes (vaping). Subjects receive cytisinicline treatment and are monitored for safety events for up to one year. The primary endpoint is frequency of serious adverse events, or SAEs. Other safety and efficacy outcomes will be collected.

Based on agreement with the FDA to follow ICH E1 guidance for longer-term safety exposure for pharmaceuticals, results of the ORCA-OL trial are expected to meet the FDA requirement to provide safety data on a minimum of 300 subjects treated with cytisinicline for a cumulative period of six months as part of the anticipated NDA submission. Subsequently, data on at least 100 subjects treated for a total cumulative period of one year will be provided prior to potential product approval. ORCA-OL is being conducted at 29 clinical trial sites across the United States, all of which participated in previous ORCA-program clinical trials.

In January 2025, we announced that the ORCA-OL trial had reached the goal of at least 300 subjects completing six months of cumulative cytisinicline treatment. The safety data from the 300 subjects treated with cytisinicline for a cumulative period of six months will be in included in our planned NDA submission at the end of the second quarter of 2025.

CLINICAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Company-Sponsored Completed Phase 1 Trials

Food Effect Phase 1 Trials

In August 2017, we initiated our IND with a Phase 1 clinical study evaluating the effect of food on the bioavailability of cytisinicline in normal healthy volunteers. We completed the food effect study and announced the results in November of 2017 demonstrating similar bioavailability of cytisinicline in fed and fasted subjects.

In 2018, Sopharma commercially launched a newly formulated cytisinicline tablet with improved shelf life in their territories. In May 2018, we initiated a study to evaluate the effect of food on the bioavailability of cytisinicline in volunteer smokers using this new formulation and data results were announced in September 2018. The study demonstrated similar bioavailability of cytisinicline in fed and fasted subjects. Cytisinicline was extensively absorbed after oral administration with maximum cytisinicline concentration levels observed in the blood within less than two hours with or without food. Total excretion levels of cytisinicline also remained equivalent in both the fed and fasted states.

In 2023, we evaluated our planned commercial 3 mg formulated cytisinicline tablet in a 2-part Phase 1 clinical study with the first part evaluating the effect of food on the bioavailability of the 3 mg tablet in volunteer smokers. The study demonstrated similar bioavailability of cytisinicline in fed and fasted subjects and total excretion levels of cytisinicline also remained equivalent in both the fed and fasted states.

In all Phase 1 Food Effect studies, cytisinicline was well tolerated.

Other Phase 1 Safety Trials

In October 2017, we initiated a clinical study assessing the repeat-dose PK and pharmacodynamics, or PD, effects of 1.5 mg and 3 mg cytisinicline in 26 healthy volunteer smokers when administered over the 25-day downward titration regimen as marketed by Sopharma in their territories. Final results were presented at the Annual Meeting of the Society for Research on Nicotine and Tobacco, or SRNT, in February 2019. All 26 subjects completed the study. Predictable increases in plasma cytisinicline concentrations were observed with increasing unit dosing from 1.5 mg to 3 mg. Smokers in the study were not required to have a designated or predetermined quit date. Overall, subjects had an 80% reduction in cigarettes smoked, 82% reduction in expired CO, and 46% of the subjects achieved biochemically verified smoking abstinence by day 26. Subjects who received 3 mg cytisinicline over the 25 days had a trend for higher smoking abstinence compared to subjects who received 1.5 mg cytisinicline. The AEs observed were mostly mild with transient headaches as the most commonly reported event. No serious adverse effects, or SAEs, were observed in the study.

In March 2019, we initiated a clinical trial to evaluate the dose limiting AEs that would define the maximum tolerated dose, or MTD, for a single administered oral dose of cytisinicline. This study evaluated smokers who received one single dose of cytisinicline. The starting dosage of cytisinicline was 6 mg and was to be increased in separate groups of subjects for each escalated dose level until defined stopping criteria (based on the occurrence of dose-limiting AEs) were reached. A safety review after each dose level was performed by an independent Data Safety Monitor Committee, or DSMC, before escalation to the next dose level. Six dose levels were pre-planned with 21 mg cytisinicline as the highest dose level. When the MTD was not reached at 21 mg, the study was amended to evaluate doses up to 30 mg, as recommended by the DSMC. At this 30 mg dose, the stopping criteria of dose-limiting AEs were still not met, but the DSMC recommended stopping the study since the frequency of gastrointestinal symptoms were approaching an MTD level. The results were reviewed with the FDA, with an agreement that further escalation beyond the single 30 mg dose was not required. This Phase-1 study fulfills an FDA requirement to evaluate potential safety issues in the event patients exceed a recommended single dose outside of a clinical trial setting.

Three additional Phase 1 clinical studies were conducted in 2022 and 2023 for the NDA: one pharmacokinetics, or PK, study to evaluate for any increased cytisinicline blood levels in subjects who have various levels of renal impairment; another PK study to determine various remaining PK parameters for the 3 mg TID cytisinicline regimen, including the timing of steady state dosing; and a cardiac safety study to evaluate for any effects of cytisinicline on QT interval prolongation. All 3 studies have been completed.

The renal impairment study demonstrated that cytisinicline is excreted unchanged in urine and the pharmacokinetics of cytisinicline are dependent on renal function. Cytisinicline was generally observed to be well tolerated in subjects with varying degrees of renal impairment compared to subjects with normal renal function.

The PK study demonstrated that the 3mg cytisinicline TID dosing regimen reached steady state cytisinicline pharmacokinetics by the second day of TID administration.

The cardiac safety QT/QTc study evaluating therapeutic and supratherapeutic high doses of cytisinicline demonstrated that cytisinicline has no clinically relevant effect on QT interval prolongation or cardiac repolarization.

Company-Sponsored Completed Phase 2 Trials

Phase 2b ORCA-1 Trial for Smoking Cessation

We conducted the Phase 2b ORCA-1 dose selection trial, which was initiated in October 2018 and evaluated 254 smokers in the United States. The trial evaluated both 1.5 mg and 3 mg doses of cytisinicline on the standard declining titration schedule as well as a more simplified TID dosing schedule, both over 25 days. The trial was randomized and blinded to compare the effectiveness of the cytisinicline doses and schedules to respective placebo groups. All subjects were treated for 25 days, provided behavioral support, and followed up for an additional four weeks to assess smoking abstinence.

The primary endpoint in the study was the reduction in daily smoking, a self-reported measure. Three of the four cytisinicline treatment arms demonstrated a statistically significant improvement, $p<0.05$, compared to placebo. The fourth arm trended to significance ($p= 0.052$). Across all treatment arms, over the 25-day treatment period, subjects on cytisinicline experienced a 74-80% median reduction in the number of cigarettes smoked, compared to a 62% reduction in the placebo arms.

The secondary endpoint of the trial was a 4-week continuous abstinence rate, which is the more relevant endpoint for regulatory approval. All cytisinicline treatment arms showed significant improvements in abstinence rates compared to the placebo arms. Notably, the 3 mg TID cytisinicline arm demonstrated a 50% abstinence rate at week 4, compared to 10% for placebo ($p<0.0001$) and a continuous abstinence rate, weeks 5 through 8, of 30% for cytisinicline compared to 8% for placebo ($p= 0.005$). Smokers in the 3 mg TID arm had an Odds Ratio, or OR, of 5.04 (95% CI: 1.42, 22.32) for continuous abstinence from week 5 to week 8, compared with placebo, meaning, smokers receiving 3 mg cytisinicline TID were five times more likely to stop smoking compared to smokers receiving placebo.

At week 4, all four cytisinicline arms also demonstrated statistically significant ($p<0.05$) reductions in expired carbon monoxide, or CO, a biochemical measure of smoking activity. Expired CO levels had declined by a median of 71-80% in the cytisinicline treatment arms, compared to only 38% in the placebo arms.

Cytisinicline was well-tolerated with no SAEs reported. The most commonly reported (>5%) adverse events, or AEs, across all cytisinicline treatment arms versus placebo arms were abnormal dreams, insomnia, upper respiratory tract infections, and nausea. In the 3 mg TID treatment arm versus placebo arms, the most common AEs were abnormal dreams, insomnia, and constipation (each 6% vs 2%), upper respiratory tract infections (6% vs 14%), and nausea (6% vs 10%), respectively. Compliance with study treatment was greater than 94% across all arms.

A summary of AEs reported in subjects in the ORCA-1 trial is included in the table below.

	TID		Declining Titration		Pooled
	1.5 mg (n=52)	3.0 mg (n=50)	1.5 mg (n=51)	3.0 mg (n=50)	Cytisinicline (n=203)	Placebo (n=51)
At least 1 AE	20 (39%)	21 (42%)	29 (57%)	23 (46%)	93 (46%)	24 (47%)
URTI	5 (10%)	3 (6%)	3 (6%)	2 (4%)	13 (6%)	7 (14%)
Abnormal dreams	4 (8%)	3 (6%)	4 (8%)	7 (14%)	18 (9%)	1 (2%)
Nausea	1 (2%)	3 (6%)	5 (10%)	3 (6%)	12 (6%)	5 (10%)
Insomnia	4 (8%)	3 (6%)	3 (6%)	4 (8%)	14 (7%)	1 (2%)
Headache	6 (12%)	2 (4%)	1 (2%)	1 (2%)	10 (5%)	2 (4%)
Fatigue	3 (6%)	1 (2%)	1 (2%)	2 (4%)	7 (3%)	2 (4%)
Constipation	1 (2%)	3 (6%)	0 (0%)	0 (0%)	4 (2%)	1 (2%)

The outcome of the ORCA-1 trial was the selection of 3 mg TID for Phase 3 development. Overall, the 3 mg dose administered TID demonstrated the best overall safety and efficacy when compared to other doses and administrations studies in ORCA-1. The results from ORCA-1 study were published in the journal Nicotine and Tobacco Research in 2021.

Phase 2 ORCA-V1 Trial for E-cigarette (Vaping) Cessation

In June 2022, following NIDA/NIH review of completed regulatory and clinical operational milestones plus acceptance of the IND by the FDA, we announced that we were awarded the next grant funding from NIDA in the amount of approximately $2.5 million. The full grant award of $2.8 million covered approximately half of the total ORCA-V1 clinical study costs. The Primary Investigators for the grant were Dr. Cindy Jacobs, our President and Chief Medical Officer, and Dr. Nancy Rigotti, Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School and Director, Tobacco Research and Treatment Center, Massachusetts General Hospital.

In June 2022, we announced the initiation of the Phase 2 ORCA-V1 clinical trial. In April 2023, we reported positive topline results showing a statistically significant vaping cessation benefit for cytisinicline-treated participants in the ORCA-V1 trial.

ORCA-V1 evaluated 160 adults who used e-cigarettes on a daily basis at five clinical trial locations in the United States. ORCA-V1 participants were randomized to receive 3 mg cytisinicline three times daily or placebo for 12 weeks in combination with standard cessation behavioral support.

The primary endpoint for ORCA-V1 was biochemically verified continuous abstinence from nicotine e-cigarette use, measured during the last 4 weeks of treatment. Subjects who received 12 weeks of cytisinicline treatment had 2.64 times higher odds, or likelihood, to have quit vaping during the last four weeks of treatment compared to subjects who received placebo (p=0.04). The vaping cessation rate during weeks 9 through 12 was 31.8% for cytisinicline compared to 15.1% for placebo. A benefit in favor of cytisinicline was consistently observed across the secondary endpoints. Additionally, a cessation benefit was observed for cytisinicline across clinical trial sites and participant demographics such as age, gender, race, or whether they had smoked cigarettes in the past.

Cytisinicline was well tolerated and no SAEs were reported. Similar rates of AEs were observed between treatment arms (54.7% in the placebo arm vs. 50.9% in the cytisinicline arm). The most commonly reported (>5%) AEs in the placebo arm, in order of frequency, were nausea, COVID-19 infection, headache, anxiety, and upper respiratory tract infection. In the cytisinicline arm, >5% AEs reported, in order of frequency, were sleep disturbances, anxiety, headache, fatigue, and upper respiratory tract infection.

ORCA-V1 trial results were presented at the Society for Research on Nicotine and Tobacco, or SRNT, European Annual Meeting in September 2023, the SRNT U.S. Annual Meeting in March 2024, the Society of General Internal Medicine U.S. Annual Meeting in May 2024 and final study results were published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, or JAMA, Internal Medicine in May 2024.

Company-Sponsored Phase 3 Clinical Trials for Smoking Cessation Indication

Completed Phase 3 ORCA-2 Trial

In April 2022, we announced positive topline results for the Phase 3 ORCA-2 clinical trial. ORCA-2 was initiated in October 2020 and evaluated the efficacy and safety of 3 mg cytisinicline dosed three times daily compared to placebo in 810 adult smokers at 17 clinical sites in the United States. ORCA-2 participants were randomized to one of three study arms to determine the smoking cessation efficacy and safety profile of cytisinicline when administered for either 6 or 12 weeks, compared to placebo. All subjects received standard behavioral support and were assigned to one of the following groups:

- Arm A: 12 weeks of placebo
- Arm B: 6 weeks of cytisinicline, followed by 6 weeks of placebo
- Arm C: 12 weeks of cytisinicline

The ORCA-2 study had two independent primary endpoints that evaluated for successful smoking cessation for both 6-week and 12-week durations of cytisinicline treatment, compared to placebo. The primary endpoints for ORCA-2 were biochemically verified continuous smoking cessation measured during the last 4 weeks of each treatment duration. Both the 6- and 12-week cytisinicline treatments demonstrated significantly better quit rates than placebo with ORs of 8.0 and 6.3, respectively.

- Subjects who received 12 weeks of cytisinicline treatment had 6.3 times higher odds, or likelihood, to have quit smoking during the last 4 weeks of treatment compared to subjects who received placebo (p<0.0001). The abstinence rate during weeks 9-12 was 32.6% for cytisinicline compared to 7.0% for placebo.
- Subjects who received 6 weeks of cytisinicline treatment had 8.0 times higher odds, or likelihood, to have quit smoking during the last 4 weeks of treatment compared to subjects who received placebo (p<0.0001). The abstinence rate during weeks 3-6 was 25.3% for cytisinicline compared to 4.4% for placebo.

The secondary endpoints measured continuous smoking abstinence after treatment out to 24 weeks. Both the 6- and 12-week secondary endpoints for continuous abstinence demonstrated significantly better quit rates for cytisinicline treated subjects than placebo. The continuous abstinence rate from week 9 to 24 was 21.1% for the 12-week cytisinicline arm compared to 4.8% for placebo, with an OR of 5.3 (p<0.0001). The continuous abstinence rate from week 3 to 24 was 8.9% for the 6-week cytisinicline arm compared to 2.6% for placebo, with an OR of 3.7 (p=0.0016).

A third secondary endpoint compared the two cytisinicline treatment arms and evaluated for an increased risk in relapse from week 6 to week 24 when subjects were switched to placebo during week 6 to week 12 (Arm B) instead of receiving cytisinicline for another 6 weeks during week 6 to week 12 (Arm C). The analysis showed that there was no increased risk of smoking relapse in subjects who had successfully quit smoking by week 3 through week 6 if they received placebo instead of continuing cytisinicline from week 6 to week 12.

Cytisinicline was well tolerated with no treatment-related SAEs reported. The most commonly reported AEs (occurring greater than 5% overall in the study) for placebo, 6-week cytisinicline, and 12-week cytisinicline are shown in the following table:

	Placebo	6-Weeks Cytisinicline	12-Weeks Cytisinicline
Insomnia	4.8%	8.6%	9.6%
Abnormal Dreams	3.0%	8.2%	7.8%
Headaches	8.1%	6.7%	7.8%
Nausea	7.4%	5.9%	5.6%

Additional analyses from the ORCA-2 trial were presented at the SRNT annual meeting in March 2023 and final study results were published in JAMA in July 2023.

Completed Phase 3 ORCA-3 Trial

In May 2023, we announced positive topline results for our Phase 3 ORCA-3 clinical trial. ORCA-3 was initiated in January 2022 and was a confirmatory Phase 3 trial required for registrational approval of cytisinicline in the United States and had the same design as the Phase 3 ORCA-2 trial. This Phase 3 trial evaluated the efficacy and safety of 3 mg cytisinicline dosed three times daily compared to placebo in 792 adult smokers at 20 clinical sites. ORCA-3 participants were randomized to one of three study arms to evaluate cytisinicline administered for either 6 or 12 weeks, compared to placebo. All subjects received standard behavioral support and were assigned to one of the following groups:

- Arm A: 12 weeks of placebo
- Arm B: 6 weeks of cytisinicline, followed by 6 weeks of placebo
- Arm C: 12 weeks of cytisinicline

The primary outcome measure of success in the ORCA-3 trial was biochemically verified continuous smoking cessation during the last four weeks of treatment in the 6 and 12-week cytisinicline treatment arms compared with placebo. Each treatment arm was compared independently to the placebo arm. Secondary outcome measures were conducted to assess continued smoking abstinence rates through six months from the start of study treatment.

Primary endpoint:

- Subjects who received 12 weeks of cytisinicline treatment had 4.4 times higher odds, or likelihood, to have quit smoking during the last 4 weeks of treatment compared to subjects who received placebo ($p<0.0001$). The smoking cessation rate during weeks 9 through 12 was 30.3% for cytisinicline compared to 9.4% for placebo.
- Subjects who received 6 weeks of cytisinicline treatment had 2.85 times higher odds, or likelihood, to have quit smoking during the last 4 weeks of treatment compared to subjects who received placebo ($p=0.0008$). The smoking cessation rate during weeks 3 through 6 was 14.8% for cytisinicline compared to 6% for placebo.

Secondary endpoint:

- The continuous smoking cessation rate from week 9 to week 24 was 20.5% for the 12-week cytisinicline arm compared to 4.2% for placebo, with an odds ratio of 5.79 ($p<0.0001$).
- The continuous smoking cessation rate from week 3 to week 24 was 6.8% for the 6-week cytisinicline arm compared to 1.1% for placebo, with an odds ratio of 6.25 ($p=0.0006$).

The third secondary endpoint compared the two cytisinicline treatment arms for an increased risk in relapse from week 6 to week 24 when subjects were switched to placebo during week 6 to week 12 (Arm B) instead of receiving cytisinicline for another 6 weeks during week 6 to week 12 (Arm C). The analysis showed that there was no increased risk of smoking relapse in subjects who had successfully quit smoking by week 3 through week 6 and switched to placebo.

ORCA-3 subjects had an average age of 53 years, smoked a median of 20 cigarettes per day at baseline, and had a median smoking history of 36 years with 4 prior quit attempts.

Similar to ORCA-2 findings, cytisinicline was well-tolerated with no treatment-related SAEs reported. The most commonly reported (>5% overall) AEs for placebo, 6-week cytisinicline, and 12-week cytisinicline are shown in the following table:

	Placebo	6-Weeks Cytisinicline	12-Weeks Cytisinicline
Insomnia	7.6%	11.0%	11.9%
Abnormal Dreams	5.7%	9.1%	7.7%
Nausea	7.3%	9.5%	6.9%
Headaches	6.1%	7.6%	8.5%

OVERVIEW OF SMOKING CESSATION MARKET AND TREATMENT OPTIONS

Overview of the Tobacco Epidemic

Smoking remains the leading cause of preventable death worldwide and in the United States. The World Health Organization, or WHO, estimates that there are approximately 1.3 billion tobacco users globally and that tobacco kills more than 8 million people each year. More than 7 million of those deaths are the result of direct tobacco use, while around 1.3 million are the result of non-smokers being exposed to second-hand smoke. In the United States alone, cigarette smoking is responsible for more than 480,000 deaths every year, or about one in five deaths.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, or CDC, estimates that the annual cost of smoking related illnesses in the United States is more than $600 billion in direct medical care and lost productivity. Over 16 million people in the United States are living with a disease caused by smoking. Among these diseases are cancer, heart disease, stroke, lung diseases, diabetes and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease which includes emphysema and chronic bronchitis. Smoking also increases risk for tuberculosis, certain eye diseases and problems of the immune system, including rheumatoid arthritis. More than 87% of lung cancer deaths, 61% of all pulmonary disease deaths, and 32% of all deaths from coronary heart disease are attributable to smoking and exposure to secondhand smoke according to the CDC. Tobacco smoking is highly addictive, and research suggests that nicotine may be as addictive as heroin, cocaine and alcohol. The CDC estimates that more people in the United States are addicted to nicotine than any other drug and reports that, historically, nearly 70% of smokers desired to quit and 55% made an attempt to do so in the prior year. Despite the high number of attempts, fewer than one in ten people are successful in their attempt to quit each year. Additionally, up to 60% of people who quit smoking relapse in the first year.

One increasingly popular alternative to smoking is the use of e-cigarettes, or vaping, which deliver liquid nicotine into a mist or vapor which is inhaled. This method of consumption avoids the chemicals that are associated with cigarette smoke but may have other associated health and safety issues. The emerging use of e-cigarettes is contributing to the growing population of people who are addicted to nicotine.

According to data from the National Health Interview Survey, published by the CDC in May 2023, it is estimated that more than 11 million adults in the United States used e-cigarettes in 2021.

A study that we conducted and that was presented at the 2021 SRNT Annual Meeting, showed results from surveying approximately 500 users of nicotine vaping devices or e-cigarettes with approximately 73% of participants responding that they intend to quit vaping within the next three to 12 months. Of those who intended to quit even sooner, within the next 3 months, more than half stated they would be extremely likely to try a new prescription product to help them do so. Further, survey data published in JAMA Network Open in 2021, found that 61% of adult vape users overall endorsed future plans to quit. Intentions to quit were highest, reported at 66%, in those survey participants who were former cigarette smokers and currently using vape devices.

We believe that cytisinicline, if approved, could be the first prescription drug indicated for vape and e-cigarette users who are ready to quit their nicotine dependence.

Overview of Smoking Cessation Marketplace & Treatments

According to DelveInsight's 2020 report "Smoking Cessation Market Insights, Epidemiology and Market Forecast", global revenues for prescription smoking cessation therapies are estimated to reach $5.6 billion by 2030. In 2023, approximately 8 million prescriptions were written for smoking cessation in the United States alone.

Only two non-nicotine, prescription treatments for smoking cessation are currently available in the United States: "varenicline" (formerly marketed by Pfizer as Chantix) and "bupropion" (formerly marketed by GlaxoSmithKline as Zyban). Both are currently available as generic formulations. Varenicline requires a minimum three-month treatment period and bupropion is recommended for a period between seven and 12 weeks. While both have been proven effective in aiding smoking cessation, they are also associated with significant side effects and early discontinuations from treatment. Varenicline's labeling indicates elevated instances of nausea, abnormal dreams, constipation, flatulence, and vomiting may be experienced by varenicline-treated patients compared to placebo-treated patients, and buproprion's product label discloses potential adverse reactions including insomnia, rhinitis, dry mouth, dizziness, nervous disturbance, anxiety, nausea, constipation, arthralgia and seizures. High uptake into the brain combined with activity at "off target" receptors could be responsible for varenicline's adverse event profile.

In June 2021, Pfizer Inc. halted the distribution of Chantix (varenicline) after heightened levels of a nitrosamine impurity, called N-nitroso-varenicline, which were above the FDA's acceptable daily intake limit, were found in some lots of Chantix pills. Long-term use of products with N-nitroso-varenicline may be associated with a potential increased cancer risk in humans. In September 2021, Pfizer announced a nationwide recall in the United States of all lots of Chantix and have also withdrawn the product in other countries around the globe. Prior to market withdrawal and launch of generic Chantix (varenicline), global sales of branded Chantix peaked at $1.1 billion. Of those sales, approximately 75% were attributable to the U.S. market.

The vast majority of OTC smoking cessation aids are NRTs. NRTs come in many forms, including gums, lozenges and patches, and have been shown to be less effective than prescription drugs. For example, a Cochrane Group independent database review of nicotine receptor partial agonists published in 2016 compared varenicline with a number of NRTs and varenicline has been proven to be more effective than the NRTs, as demonstrated in head-to-head studies.

We believe that cytisinicline represents a unique opportunity to significantly impact global health by addressing the considerable unmet need among millions of smokers and e-cigarettes users. If approved by the FDA, it stands to become the first new prescription medicine in nearly two decades aimed at aiding individuals in overcoming nicotine dependence. With its product profile, cytisinicline is positioned to offer a novel solution characterized by robust efficacy in our clinical trials, without the burdensome side effects which have hindered compliance and adoption with current treatments. Additionally, its dosing flexibility with a 6 or 12-week regimen, along with its natural derivation, is perceived favorably by certain potential patients.

LICENSE & SUPPLY AGREEMENTS

Sopharma

In 2009 and 2010, we entered into a license agreement, or the Sopharma License Agreement, and a supply agreement, or the Sopharma Supply Agreement, with Sopharma. Pursuant to the Sopharma License Agreement, we were granted access to all available manufacturing, efficacy and safety data related to cytisinicline, as well as a granted patent in several European countries including Germany, France and Italy related to oral dosage forms of cytisinicline. Additional rights granted under the Sopharma License Agreement include the exclusive use of, and the right to sublicense, the trademark Tabex in all territories—other than certain countries in Central and Eastern Europe, Scandinavia, North Africa, the Middle East and Central Asia, as well as Vietnam, where Sopharma or its affiliates and agents already market Tabex—in connection with the marketing, distribution and sale of products. Under the Sopharma License Agreement, we agreed to pay a nonrefundable license fee. In addition, we agreed to make certain royalty payments equal to a mid-teens percentage of all net sales of Tabex branded products in our territory during the term of the Sopharma License Agreement, including those sold by a third party pursuant to any sublicense which may be granted by us. We have agreed to cooperate with Sopharma in the defense against any actual or threatened infringement claims with respect to Tabex. Sopharma has the right to terminate the Sopharma License Agreement upon the termination or expiration of the Sopharma Supply Agreement. The Sopharma License Agreement will also terminate under customary termination provisions including bankruptcy or insolvency and material breach. To date, any amounts paid to Sopharma pursuant to the Sopharma License Agreement have been immaterial.

A cross-license exists between us and Sopharma whereby we grant to Sopharma rights to any patents or patent applications or other intellectual property rights filed by us in Sopharma territories.

On May 14, 2015, we and Sopharma entered into an amendment to the Sopharma License Agreement. Among other things, the amendment to the Sopharma License Agreement reduced the royalty payments payable by us to Sopharma from a percentage in the mid-teens to a percentage in the mid-single digits and extended the term of the Sopharma License Agreement until May 26, 2029.

On July 28, 2017, we and Sopharma entered into the amended and restated Sopharma Supply Agreement. Pursuant to the amended and restated Sopharma Supply Agreement, for territories as detailed in the licensing agreement, we will exclusively purchase all of our cytisinicline from Sopharma, and Sopharma agrees to exclusively supply all such cytisinicline requested by us, and we extended the term to 2037. In addition, we will have full access to the cytisinicline supply chain and Sopharma will manufacture sufficient cytisinicline to meet a forecast for a specified demand of cytisinicline for the five years commencing shortly after the commencement of the agreement, with the forecast to be updated regularly thereafter. Each of us and Sopharma may terminate the Sopharma Supply Agreement in the event of the other party's material breach or bankruptcy or insolvency.

Share Purchase Agreement

On May 14, 2015, we entered into a Share Purchase Agreement with Sopharma to acquire 75% of the outstanding shares of Extab Corporation for $2.0 million in cash and $2.0 million in a deferred payment, contingent on regulatory approval of cytisinicline by the FDA or the European Medicines Agency. The fair value of the contingent consideration on the acquisition date was nil. The contingent consideration liability is measured at fair value in our financial statements (see Note 2 "Significant Accounting Policies, Sopharma Share Purchase Agreement Contingent Consideration" in the accompanying consolidated Financial Statements).

University of Bristol

In July 2016, we entered into a license agreement with the University of Bristol, or the University of Bristol License Agreement. Under the University of Bristol License Agreement, we received exclusive and nonexclusive licenses from the University of Bristol to certain patent and technology rights resulting from research activities into cytisinicline and its derivatives for use in smoking cessation, including a number of patent applications related to novel approaches to cytisinicline binding at the nicotinic receptor level. Any patents issued in connection with these applications would be scheduled to expire on February 5, 2036, at the earliest.

In consideration of rights granted by the University of Bristol, we agreed to pay amounts of up to $3.2 million, in the aggregate, tied to a financing milestone and to specific clinical development and commercialization milestones resulting from activities covered by the University of Bristol License Agreement. Additionally, if we successfully commercialize product candidates subject to the University of Bristol License Agreement, we are responsible for royalty payments in the low-single digits and payments up to a percentage in the mid-teens of any sublicense income, subject to specified exceptions, based upon net sales of such licensed products.

On January 22, 2018, we and the University of Bristol entered into an amendment to the University of Bristol License Agreement. Pursuant to the amended University of Bristol License Agreement, we received exclusive rights for all human medicinal uses of cytisinicline across all therapeutic categories from the University of Bristol from research activities into cytisinicline and its derivatives. In consideration of rights granted by the amended University of Bristol License Agreement, we agreed to pay an initial amount of $37,500 upon the execution of the amended University of Bristol License Agreement, and additional amounts of up to $1.7 million, in the aggregate, tied to a financing milestone and to specific clinical development and commercialization milestones resulting from activities covered by the amended University of Bristol License Agreement, in addition to amounts under the original University of Bristol License Agreement of up to $3.2 million in the aggregate, tied to specific financing, development and commercialization milestones. Additionally, if we successfully commercialize any product candidate subject to the amended University of Bristol License Agreement or to the original University of Bristol License Agreement, we will be responsible, as provided in the original University of Bristol License Agreement, for royalty payments in the low-single digits and payments up to a percentage in the mid-teens of any sublicense income, subject to specified exceptions, based upon net sales of such licensed products. Up to December 31, 2024, we had paid the University of Bristol $125,000 pursuant to the University of Bristol License Agreement.

Unless otherwise terminated, the University of Bristol License Agreement will continue until the earlier of July 2036 or the expiration of the last patent claim subject to the University of Bristol License Agreement. We may terminate the University of Bristol License Agreement for convenience upon a specified number of days' prior notice to the University of Bristol. The University of Bristol License Agreement will terminate under customary termination provisions including bankruptcy or insolvency or its material breach of the agreement. Under the terms of the University of Bristol License Agreement, we had provided 100 grams of cytisinicline to the University of Bristol as an initial contribution.

Summary of Milestone and Contingent Obligations by Product Candidate

The following table sets forth the milestones and contingent obligations that we may be required to pay to third parties under the license and share purchase agreements described above. As described above, we will also be required to pay certain revenue-based royalties with respect to our product candidate.

Milestone Obligations to Third Parties	Amount Payable
University of Bristol	Up to $4,837,500(1)
Sopharma AD	$2,000,000(2)

(1) Payable in connection with specific financing, development and commercialization milestones.
(2) Payable contingent on regulatory approval by the FDA or EMA.

Abeona Therapeutics® Reports Third Quarter 2025 Financial Results and Corporate Updates

- First anticipated ZEVASKYN® patient treatment shifted to 4Q 2025 following implementation of optimized release assay -

- Strong and growing patient demand and treatment site network, along with broad market access provide foundation for sustainable commercial success -

- $207.5M in cash, cash equivalents, restricted cash and short-term investments as of September 30, 2025 expected to fund operations for over two years -

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12, 2025 – Abeona Therapeutics Inc. (Nasdaq: ABEO) today reported financial results and business highlights for the third quarter of 2025 and shared recent operational progress.

"We are scaling the ZEVASKYN launch to meet patient needs," said Vish Seshadri, Chief Executive Officer of Abeona. "We have strong and growing patient demand. Despite a one-quarter shift in patient starts, we remain steadfast in our 2026 launch goals. Our conviction is built on our expanding treatment site network and powerful momentum from the patient and caregiver community."

Recent Developments

ZEVASKYN (prademagene zamikeracel)

- Product release assay optimized; patient treatment anticipated to start in 4Q'25: During the third quarter, Abeona manufactured a full batch of drug product following patient biopsy collection in August 2025. Although the Company produced bonafide drug product, it could not be released because a rapid sterility assay, mandated by the FDA as a release assay during the final stage of the Biologics License Application (BLA) review, initially yielded a false positive result for sterility. The Company immediately implemented a temporary pause on collecting patient biopsies and worked diligently to optimize the release assay to ensure reliable results and avoid any unnecessary future lot rejections. Upon completion of assay optimization and the necessary regulatory submission for its implementation, Abeona resumed biopsy collection in November 2025. The Company now anticipates commercial product treatment starting in the fourth quarter of 2025.
- Patients at the first two Qualified Treatment Centers (QTCs) are actively advancing through process for ZEVASKYN treatment; Patient demand growing, reflecting unmet need for ZEVASKYN: Of the more than a dozen initial patients identified at the first two QTCs, Abeona has already received ZEVASKYN product order forms (ZPOFs) for 12 patients and they are in the process of scheduling treatments. ZEVASKYN demand has more than doubled at QTCs, with approximately 30 eligible patients now identified.
- Strategic expansion of the QTC network with three activated centers and others progressing through onboarding: With the recent activation of Children's Hospital Colorado (CHCO), a highly recognized epidermolysis bullosa (EB) center, there are now three activated ZEVASKYN treatment centers along with Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago and Lucile Packard Children's Hospital Stanford. Several additional centers across the US are in various stages of site onboarding.

- Strong early access momentum; focused on driving continued payer engagement and provider readiness: Following ZEVASKYN approval, there has been a steady cadence of coverage decisions from commercial health plans that account for approximately 60 percent of all RDEB patients. Policies covering ZEVASKYN have been published by all major commercial payers including United Healthcare, Cigna, Aetna, Anthem, and most Blue Cross Blue Shield plans, that account for 80 percent of lives covered by commercial insurance, signaling broad and early market acceptance. In addition, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) has established a permanent Healthcare Common Procedure Coding System (HCPCS) J-code for ZEVASKYN, J3389 (Topical administration, prademagene zamikeracel, per treatment), effective January 1, 2026.

Other corporate updates

- Pipeline program ABO-503 selected for FDA Rare Disease Endpoint Advancement (RDEA) Pilot Program: ABO-503 gene therapy for X-linked retinoschisis (XLRS) has been selected to participate in the FDA RDEA Pilot Program. As part of the RDEA program, Abeona will have opportunities for enhanced communication and collaboration with the FDA, including frequent advice and regular ad-hoc conversations to accelerate the development and validation of product-specific novel efficacy endpoints for Abeona's XLRS program.
- Strengthened management team with appointment of Head of Clinical Development & Medical Affairs: Abeona appointed James A. Gow, MD, MBA, MS, MHCM, as the Senior Vice President, Head of Clinical Development & Medical Affairs. Dr. Gow has over 20 years of industry experience in clinical development and medical affairs and is a recognized expert in gene therapy, especially in ophthalmology.

Financial Results

Cash, cash equivalents, restricted cash and short-term investments totaled $207.5 million as of September 30, 2025. The current cash position, without accounting for anticipated revenue from ZEVASKYN, is expected to be sufficient to fund current and planned operations for over two years.

Research and development (R&D) spending for the three months ended September 30, 2025 was $4.2 million, compared to $8.9 million for the same period of 2024. The reduction in R&D expense was primarily due to costs capitalized into inventory and select costs, such as engineering runs and other production costs, reclassified as selling, general, and administrative (SG&A) following FDA approval of ZEVASKYN. SG&A expenses were $19.3 million for the three months ended September 30, 2025, compared to $6.4 million for the same period of 2024. In addition to the reclassification of select R&D expenses to SG&A, the increase in SG&A reflects increased headcount and professional costs associated with the commercial launch of ZEVASKYN.

Net loss was $(5.2) million for the third quarter of 2025, or $(0.10) per basic and diluted common share. Net loss in the third quarter of 2024 was $(30.3) million, or $(0.63) per basic and diluted common share.

For CDER Direct Users: Open the previously submitted and accepted Labeler Code Request, click Create New Version, enter the Labeler Code assigned in the field for "Labeler Code", and Submit SPL.
Once you have confirmed the assignment, this Labeler Code shall be used to propose the National Drug Code (NDC) for assignment to all drugs you manufacture or distribute for U.S. commercial distribution. The requirements regarding the assignment of an NDC is extensively discussed in Part 207.33 of Title 21 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The NDC for each drug must be submitted as part of drug listing information submitted to FDA.
Per section 510(j)(1) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FD&C Act) and 21 CFR Part 207 registrants that are required to register their establishment with FDA (or Private Label Distributors (PLD) acting as their authorized agent) must list each drug that it manufactures, repacks, relabels, or salvages for commercial distribution, including the appropriate NDC, no later than 3 calendar days after the initial registration of the establishment. Labeler name, physical address, email address and other contact information, type(s) of activities, and type(s) of drug(s) must be updated within 30 calendar days after any change to that information, § 207.33(c)(2). FDA uses this information for official communication regarding listing.
Labeler Codes are assigned by FDA and may be inactivated at any time upon violation of the FD&C Act or other applicable FDA regulations.

Note that receipt of this letter and assignment of an NDC does not denote approval of the establishment or the drug or any other drugs of the establishment, nor does it mean that the drug may be legally marketed.

PART I

ITEM 1. BUSINESS

Overview

We are a biopharmaceutical company using our proprietary Precision Timed Release™ ("PTR™") drug delivery platform technology to build and advance a pipeline of next-generation pharmaceutical products designed to improve the lives of patients suffering from frequently diagnosed conditions characterized by burdensome daily dosing regimens and suboptimal treatment outcomes. With an initial focus on the treatment of Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder ("ADHD") and anxiety, we are identifying and evaluating additional therapeutic areas where our PTR technology may be employed to develop future product candidates. Our PTR platform incorporates a proprietary Erosion Barrier Layer ("EBL") designed to allow for the release of drug substance at specific, pre-defined time intervals, unlocking the potential for once-daily, multi-dose tablets.

We are targeting the ADHD treatment market, with an estimated US market size of over $23 billion as of November 2023, of which $18.6 billion is attributable to stimulants. Stimulants are historically the most commonly prescribed class of medications for ADHD and accounted for approximately 88% of all ADHD medication prescriptions in the United States for the 12-months ended November 2023. By contrast, non-stimulant medications are typically employed only in the second-line or adjunctive therapy setting and accounted for approximately 12% of all ADHD medication prescriptions during that time. Extended-release, or long-acting, dosage forms of stimulant medications are most frequently deployed as the first-line treatment for ADHD and constituted approximately $16 billion of the overall ADHD market spend and accounting for 54% of all stimulant prescriptions for the 12-months ended November 2023. Most of these extended-release dosage forms are approved for once-daily dosing in the morning and were designed to eliminate the need for re-dosing during the day. However, with the current 'once-daily' extended-release dosage forms, most patients still receive a second or "booster" dose for administration later in the day (typically in the early afternoon) to achieve active-day coverage and suffer from a multitude of unwanted side effects as a result. We believe there is a significant, unmet need within the current treatment paradigm for true once-daily ADHD stimulant medications with a duration that provides entire active-day coverage combined with an improved side effect profile to better serve the numerous unmet needs of patients.

Our two proprietary, first-line stimulant medications: CTx-1301 (dexmethylphenidate) and CTx-1302 (dextroamphetamine), are being developed for the treatment of ADHD across all three patient segments: children (ages 6 -12), adolescents (ages 13-17), and adults (ages 18+). Both CTx-1301 and CTx-1302 are designed to address the key shortcomings of currently approved stimulant therapies by: providing a near immediate onset of action (within 30 minutes); offering entire 'active-day' duration; eliminating the need for 'booster/recovery' doses of additional stimulant medications; minimizing or eliminating the rebound/crash symptoms associated with early medication 'wear-off;' and providing favorable tolerability with a controlled descent of drug blood levels. Furthermore, by eliminating the 'booster' dose, we believe our product candidates will provide important societal and economic benefits: reducing the abuse and diversion associated with short-acting stimulant medications; allowing physicians to prescribe one medication versus two; allowing patients to pay for one medication versus two; and allowing payers to reimburse one medication versus two.

We completed a proof-of-concept trial in human subjects to validate our PTR platform and in October 2020, announced positive results from a Phase 1/2 study of CTx-1301 in ADHD patients establishing tolerability, comparative bioavailability, and dose proportionality of CTx-1301 versus Focalin® XR. In order to meet the pharmacology requirement for the CTx-1301 NDA submission, we completed a food effect study in October 2022, which demonstrated that CTx-1301 can be taken with or without food. In addition, per FDA guidance, we completed a food effect study utilizing CTx-1301's highest dosage strength, 50-mg, in December 2024. Final results from that study are expected by the end of April 2025.

A Phase 3 adult dose-optimization study to assess the efficacy and safety, along with onset and duration, of CTx-1301 in adults with ADHD was initiated in December 2022 and completed in June 2023. Results were presented at the 2023 Psych Congress and were presented at the 2024 American Professional Society of ADHD and Related Disorders ("APSARD") in January 2024. This Phase 3 CTx-1301study (NCT05631626) assessed efficacy and safety along with onset and duration of CTx-1301 in 21 adults (age range: 18-55 years) with ADHD in an adult laboratory classroom setting. The study did not achieve statistical significance on the primary efficacy endpoint but CTx-1301 demonstrated a trend toward significance in improving Permanent Product Measure of Performance ("PERMP") scores compared to the placebo. Clinical Global Impression Scale ("CGI-S") scores with CTx-1301 compared to placebo also showed significant improvements that were indeed statistically significant for this secondary endpoint. The treatment effect size of CTx-1301 in this trial was notable – starting at 30 minutes and demonstrated the ability of CTx-1301 to improve upon ADHD symptoms in patients over an entire active day.

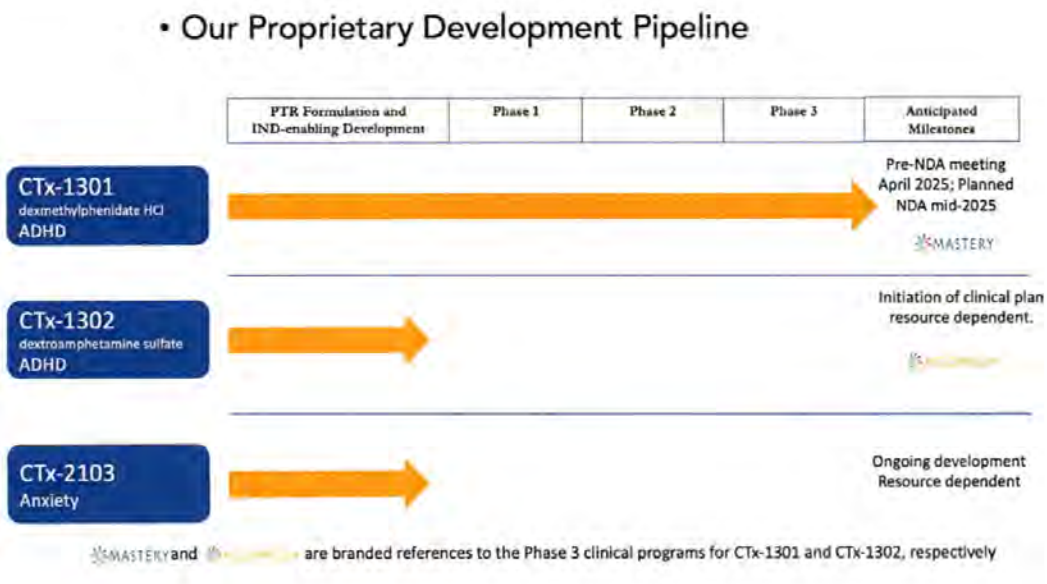
In addition, we initiated two CTx-1301 Phase 3 clinical studies in pediatric and adolescent patients- a fixed dose study (NCT05286762) and a dose-optimized onset and duration study in a laboratory classroom setting (NCT05924594) – in the third quarter of 2023. Based on written communication with the Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") that further conduct of these pediatric and adolescent studies is not required for the submission of an NDA, we closed enrollment on both Phase 3 trials. We are performing the data consolidation and analytical activities for these trials. Appropriate data will be included in the 505(b)(2) NDA, which is targeted for a mid-2025 submission.

Societal CDMO, Inc., doing business as Bend Biosciences, a contract development and manufacturing organization ("CDMO"), will manufacture all clinical, registration, and commercial batches of our lead ADHD candidate, CTx-1301. Bend Bioscience produced a scalable supply of CTx-1301 for our Phase 3 trials in the manufacturing suite within Bend Bioscience's Gainesville, GA facility that is outfitted with equipment supplied by us. Bend Bioscience is currently manufacturing additional CTx-1301 product candidate material in accordance with FDA expectations.

We were issued a European patent for CTx-1301 for the treatment of ADHD on August 14, 2024. The patent application will include up to 30 European territories, including the United Kingdom. We are awaiting prosecution of patents in the US and other geographies.

We are actively seeking strategic pharmaceutical partnerships under which we would license or co-promote CTx-1301 in the United States, internationally, or both. In March 2023, we entered into a joint commercialization agreement (the "Commercialization Agreement") with Indegene, Inc. ("Indegene") in the United States. We are able to utilize Indegene for commercialization services for CTx-1301, including marketing, sales, market access and on a fee for service basis in the United States.

We plan to initiate the clinical plan for CTx-1302 (dextroamphetamine), our second investigational asset for the treatment of ADHD, as soon as 2026, pending additional capital resources.



We have embarked on a program to develop CTx-2103 (buspirone), for the treatment of anxiety, which is one of the most common mental health concerns in the United States. We completed a formulation study in which the pharmacokinetics were evaluated for this trimodal tablet providing three precisely timed doses of buspirone versus one immediate release dose. In addition, scintigraphic imaging visualized transit of the tablets through the gastrointestinal tract to confirm both the site and onset of release, which will then be correlated with pharmacokinetic data to establish the full release profile of the CTx-2103 formulation. Based on the pharmacokinetic profile seen in the data, CTx-2103 achieved a triple release of buspirone. These results provided the critical information required to allow us to request a Pre-IND meeting with the FDA to discuss the design of our clinical and regulatory program for CTx-2103 which occurred in the fourth quarter of 2023. We received input from the FDA regarding the regulatory pathway for CTx-2103, and the design of clinical studies for filing of an IND. Based on this FDA feedback, we believe that we can seek and win approval of CTx-2103 under the 505(b)(2) pathway, which typically requires less time and resources than the 505(b)(1) full NDA pathway.

CTx-2103 is being designed as a novel, extended-release tablet of buspirone that incorporates our proprietary PTR™ drug delivery platform. Buspirone, an azapirone derivative and a 5-HT1A partial agonist, was the first non-benzodiazepine anxiolytic introduced for the treatment of generalized anxiety disorder. Buspirone may exhibit a decreased side-effect profile compared to other anxiolytic treatments. Unlike benzodiazepines and barbiturates, there is no associated risk of physical dependence or withdrawal with buspirone use due to the lack of effects on gamma-aminobutyric acid receptors. Furthermore, buspirone is not regulated as a controlled substance by DEA or under the Controlled Substances Act of 1970 (the "CSA").

In 2020, United States sales of buspirone in various forms accounted for over $2 billion of sales in the $5.2 billion anxiety market. CTx-2103 will be designed as a once-daily, modified-release tablet with clear differentiation and compelling advantages over standard treatment options which must be taken multiple times per day to maximize efficacy. We are in active license conversations and, pending a definitive agreement and additional capital resources, development of CTx-2103 (buspirone) for the treatment of anxiety may begin as soon as mid-2025 pending additional capital resources.

We believe that our PTR platform has the potential to provide patients and physicians with differentiated pharmaceutical treatment options that will enhance patient compliance and improve health outcomes in several additional therapeutic areas. We intend to leverage our PTR platform technology to expand and augment our clinical-stage pipeline by identifying and developing additional assets in other therapeutic areas where one or more active pharmaceutical ingredient ("APIs") need to be delivered several times a day at specific, pre-defined time intervals and released in a manner that would offer significant improvement over existing therapies. Our criteria for the selection of additional, future pipeline candidates will include the potential for $1 billion or more in peak annual sales, the potential to deliver a clearly differentiated therapeutic advantage and the potential to overcome unmet medical needs. We will consider potential in-licensing of additional assets or out-licensing the PTR platform as those opportunities arise.

Our Clinical Development Pipeline

Our Strategy

Our goal is to be a leading, innovative biopharmaceutical company focused on the development, manufacturing and commercialization of next generation pharmaceutical products that utilize our PTR drug delivery platform technology to create dosing schedules and drug release profiles that will improve the lives of patients suffering from a multitude of frequently diagnosed conditions. Key initial elements of our business strategy to achieve this goal are to:

- Complete development and obtain regulatory approval for CTx-1301 for the treatment of ADHD. In October 2020, we announced positive results from a Phase 1/2 study of CTx-1301 in ADHD patients establishing tolerability, comparative bioavailability, and dose proportionality of CTx-1301 versus Focalin® XR. A Phase 3 adult dose-optimization study to assess the efficacy and safety, along with onset and duration, of CTx-1301 in adults with ADHD was initiated in December 2022 and completed in June 2023. Results were presented at the 2024 APSARD in January 2024. In addition, we initiated two CTx-1301 Phase 3 clinical studies in pediatric and adolescent patients- a fixed dose study and a dose-optimized onset and duration study in a laboratory classroom setting – in the third quarter of 2023. Based on written communication with the FDA that further conduct of these pediatric and adolescent studies is not required for the submission of an NDA, we closed enrollment on both Phase 3 trials. We are performing the data consolidation and analytical activities for these trials. In addition, per FDA guidance, we completed a food effect study utilizing CTx-1301's highest dosage strength, 50-mg, in December 2024. Appropriate data will be included in the NDA, targeted for a mid-2025 submission.

- Successfully commercialize CTx-1301. We are actively seeking strategic pharmaceutical partnerships under which we would license or co-promote CTx-1301 in the United States, internationally, or both, to ensure successful commercial launches if we receive FDA approval for CTx-1301. Should we be unable to identify an appropriate pharmaceutical partnership, if we receive FDA approval for CTx-1301, pursuant to the Commercialization Agreement, Indegene would provide commercialization services for CTx-1301, including marketing, sales and market access on a fee for service basis. In addition, we are now focusing on third party logistics services to ensure commercial availability.

- Advance clinical trials for CTx-2103 for the treatment of anxiety. In September 2022, we announced that data from the human formulation study for CTx-2103 demonstrated its ability to deliver a single administration of triple-release buspirone. We will use these results to design the clinical program for CTx-2103, which will be designed as a once-daily, multi-dose tablet with what we believe will be clear differentiation and compelling advantages over standard treatment options. Development of CTx-2103 (buspirone) for the treatment of anxiety may begin as soon as mid-2025 pending additional capital resources.

- Advance development of CTx-1302 for the treatment of ADHD. We plan to initiate a clinical plan for CTx-1302 (dextroamphetamine), our second investigational asset for the treatment of ADHD, as soon as 2026 pending additional capital resources.

- Maximize the potential of our PTR platform to develop additional product candidates in new indications with significant unmet medical need and billion-dollar revenue potential. We intend to use our PTR drug delivery platform technology and the streamlined 505(b)(2) development pathway to develop additional therapeutic assets in other therapeutic areas where one or more active pharmaceutical ingredients need to be administered several times a day at specific, pre-defined time intervals and released in a manner that would offer significant improvement over existing therapies. We believe this will lead to improved patient compliance and better health outcomes. Further indications we intend to evaluate include insomnia, non-opioid pain, Alzheimer's, hypothyroidism, psychosis, depression, cardiovascular disorders, Parkinson's disease, migraine, oral oncology, xerostomia (dry mouth) and bipolar disorder, among others.

- Acquire or in-license additional assets or programs to complement our portfolio and/or leverage our technology. We continuously evaluate potential partnering opportunities or asset acquisitions that can bolster our current product candidate portfolio and provide substantial value to our organization. We intend to focus on early to mid-stage development product candidates to generate clinical data and potentially move to later stages of development and ultimately on to commercialization.

- Out-license our PTR platform to other companies and license our product candidates in the United States and internationally. We are actively seeking and evaluating opportunities to license our current assets and the PTR drug delivery platform technology to other companies looking to serve large patient populations with unmet needs and/or looking to transform multiple daily dosing to once daily administration to satisfy patient needs. We are also in on-going conversations to pursue and evaluate opportunities to license our product candidates to third parties for use in the United States and internationally.

- Further strengthen our intellectual property portfolio. We intend to continue to manage and expand our diverse intellectual property portfolio and maintain our trade secrets and know-how focused on our PTR platform, current and future pipeline candidates, and proprietary manufacturing process. We believe these activities will be critical to protect our platform and product candidates from potential competitors that may try to compete with our therapeutic assets and compression tableting approach.

- Capitalize on our existing cGMP expertise. We have developed proprietary, reliable, high output, specialized manufacturing equipment with the potential for real-time testing and release that is employed by our third-party manufacturing partner. Our process has been designed to allow for the creation of a platform that can incorporate other drug substances thus permitting expansion into additional indications and therapeutic areas. We expect that our investment in these manufacturing capabilities and equipment will substantially reduce our development timelines and overall development costs for current and future assets. We currently utilize commercial manufacturing equipment and will not require technology transfer or large scale-up processes to meet clinical or commercial manufacturing needs. Bend Bioscience, our CDMO, will manufacture all clinical, registration, and commercial batches of our lead candidate CTx-1301. Bend Bioscience has dedicated a specific manufacturing suite within its Gainesville, GA facility which is outfitted with proprietary equipment supplied by us.

ADHD Overview and Drawbacks of Current Therapies

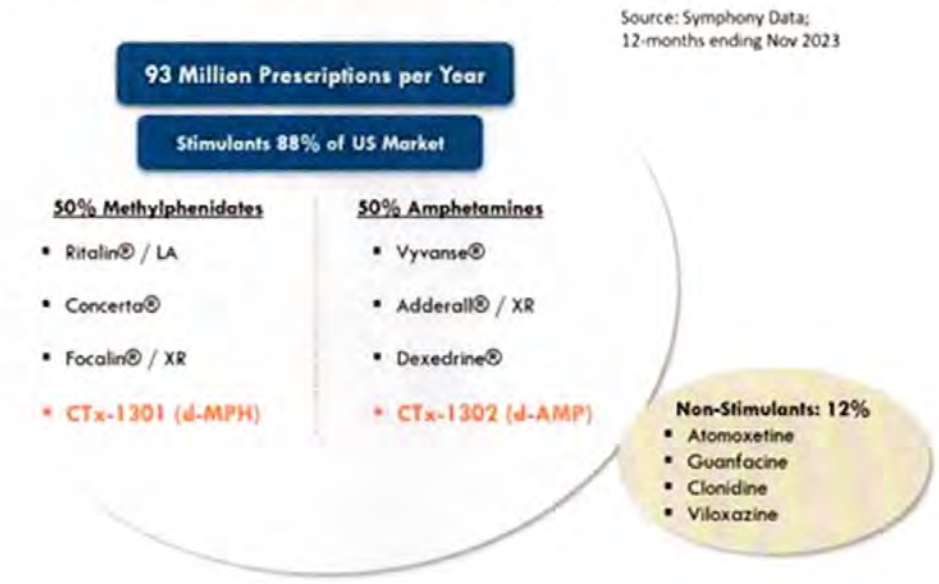
ADHD is a chronic neurobehavioral and developmental disorder that affects millions of children, adolescents and adults. In the United States, many of the children and adolescents aged 4-17 that have been diagnosed with ADHD demonstrate clinical ADHD symptoms that persist into adulthood. Adult ADHD prevalence in the United States is estimated to be significantly larger than the size of the child and adolescent segment combined. Total ADHD medication sales in the United States continue to grow with sales of all ADHD medications reaching over $23 billion for the 12-months ended November 2023.

ADHD is marked by an on-going pattern of inattention and/or hyperactivity-impulsivity that interferes with functioning and/or development. According to the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, common manifestations of ADHD in children and adolescents include:

Hyperactivity: Children always seem to be in motion. A child who is hyperactive may move around touching or playing with whatever is around, or talk continually. During story time or school lessons, the child might squirm around, fidget, or get up and move around the room. Some children wiggle their feet or tap their fingers. A teenager or adult who is hyperactive may feel restless and need to stay busy all the time.

Impulsivity: Children often blurt out comments without thinking first. They may often display their emotions without restraint. They may also fail to consider the consequences of their actions. Such children may find it hard to wait in line or take turns. Impulsive teenagers and adults tend to make choices that have a small immediate payoff rather than working toward larger delayed rewards.

Inattentiveness: Inattentive children may quickly get bored with an activity if it's not something they really enjoy. Organizing and completing a task or learning something new is difficult for them. As students, they often forget to write down a school assignment or bring a book home. Completing homework can be huge challenge. At any age, an inattentive person may often be easily distracted, make careless mistakes, forget things, have trouble following instructions, or skip from one activity to another without finishing anything.



Adult ADHD patients typically suffer from restlessness, impulsivity, difficulty with time management, trouble regulating emotions and difficulty managing finances. Adults with ADHD report experiencing an internal sense of fidgetiness and restlessness and experience greater difficulty communicating with others. Upon entering the job market, many adults have difficulty gaining employment and are at increased risk of termination due to repeated tardiness or absenteeism. Additionally, adults with ADHD are more likely to exhibit a variety of comorbidities including drug and alcohol abuse, social anxiety and depression.

ADHD in both children and adults has an impact not only on the individual but on their families, friends and peers and because of its prevalence as one of the most commonly diagnosed behavioral disorders, a critical impact on society, the healthcare system and the economy at large. On a societal level, versus control groups, ADHD patients have historically experienced a higher rate of vehicle accidents, divorce, incarceration, and accidental death.

Although there is no single medical, physical, or genetic test for ADHD, qualified mental health care professionals and physicians are able to provide a diagnostic evaluation after gathering information from multiple sources including ADHD symptom checklists, standardized behavior rating scales, detailed histories of past and current functioning, and information obtained from close family members or significant others. Some practitioners will also conduct tests of cognitive ability and academic achievement in order to rule out a possible learning disability.

Stimulants are historically the most commonly prescribed class of medications for ADHD, accounting for approximately 88% of all ADHD medication prescriptions during the 12-months ended November 2023. Stimulants are Schedule II controlled substances and are believed to work by enhancing the effects of dopamine and norepinephrine neurotransmitters in the brain. Approximately 82 million stimulant prescriptions were written during the 12-months ended November 2023. In contrast, non-stimulant medications are typically deployed as second line or adjunctive therapies and accounted for 12% of all ADHD medication prescriptions during that time. Currently, the ADHD market is dominated by four main stimulant medications: Vyvanse®, Adderall® XR, Concerta®, and Focalin® XR. These products were approved and became available between 2000 and 2007 and were believed to revolutionize the ADHD treatment paradigm by finally providing a solution to avoid the late morning second dose of stimulant medication then required by ADHD patients.

$23 Billion US ADHD Market Dominated by Stimulants

Unfortunately, as designed, all four of the mostly commonly prescribed stimulant drugs deliver all the drug substance during the morning hours. As a result, most patients still require additional medication to cover the remainder of their active day. Historically, a majority of ADHD patients have required an afternoon 'booster/recovery' dose due to lack of duration, slow onset of efficacy, and the crash or rebound effects in the early afternoon. Additionally, their PK-PD release profiles are such that they leave patients significantly impaired by crash and rebound effects even while on therapy.

Patients and practitioners report, that an ideal ADHD stimulant medication would provide all of the following characteristics: entire active-day duration; immediate onset of action (within 30 minutes); ability to minimize or avoid crash / rebound effects associated with rapid decline in medication blood levels; and elimination of the need for short-acting stimulant booster/recovery doses.

In recent years, the FDA has approved additional stimulant medications that were designed to meet some of the remaining unmet needs. Chewables, liquids and oral disintegrating tablets have come to market as has one product with an evening dosing schedule intended to provide early morning onset. None of these products have been able to meet all of the unmet needs of ADHD patients and prescribers and consequently all have failed to gain traction as first-line agents. Furthermore, these recent stimulant medications, based on their market share, appear to offer little advantage over widely available generic products for healthcare practitioners and their patients. They have proven to be niche remedies occupying a combined 2.0% of the total ADHD prescriptions written in the United States in 2020. Thus, there is an unmet need for a true once-daily dose providing a fast onset of action, minimization or elimination of the crash/rebound, elimination of the booster/recovery dose, and most importantly, providing entire 'active-day' efficacy.

Our Solution: Our Proprietary Precision Timed Release Drug Delivery Platform Technology

We are developing medications capable of achieving true once-daily dosing using our internally developed PTR drug delivery platform technology. Our CTx-1301, CTx-1302 and CTx-2103 drug candidates contain three releases of active pharmaceutical ingredient combined into one small tablet dosage form (smaller than many comparable single dose ADHD products). Each release of API is separated with a proprietary EBL, a functional excipient that is designed to gradually erode throughout the day to provide controlled drug release at specific time intervals, allowing for a favorable target efficacious period.

Illustration of Our PTR Platform Film-Coated Tablet

Size Comparison of CTx-1301 Tablet versus Common ADHD and Other Medications

We believe our PTR technology affords our drug candidates the following advantages over currently available ADHD treatments:

Fast Onset. Many currently available therapies often take up to 60 minutes or longer to start working and thus can leave patients with long gaps between dosing and onset. In an effort to minimize this onset gap, patients will often wake up early to take their medication and attempt to go back to sleep until the medication takes effect. We have designed our drug candidates to be fast-acting so they can be taken in the morning when the patient starts their day, not predawn while they wait for onset.

Elimination of Need For Additional Stimulant Boosters. With entire active-day coverage, we believe our technology will eliminate the need for patients to take afternoon booster doses when their currently prescribed therapies wear off. By eliminating the need for a booster dose, we believe our candidates will cause less embarrassment for patients, especially child and adolescent patients who are often forced to take a second dose while at school surrounded by classmates and increase patient compliance especially in the ADHD population where patients are prone to forget to take the additional dose they need to get through their active day.

Lower Abuse Potential. We believe our fast onset and entire active-day solution for ADHD patients, if approved, will lower the incidence of short-acting stimulant drug abuse and diversion. We believe by eliminating the need for the short-acting stimulant booster dose, the potential for illicit sales and recreational use that often comes as a result of patients carrying short-acting Schedule II controlled substances to school or work for afternoon dosing will decrease.

Elimination Crash and Rebound Symptoms. Patients on currently available therapies may report adverse effects or a flare of ADHD symptoms as their medications wear off; these effects are termed "crash" and "rebound." Using our precise timing, ratio, and style of drug delivery, we believe our candidates provide a controlled descent of blood levels, eliminating this uncomfortable experience for patients.

Lower Cost. By providing entire active-day efficacy, our drug candidates eliminate the need for doctors to prescribe more than one medication lowering the overall cost of the condition to individual patients and within the healthcare system at large. Furthermore, generic medications in the stimulant ADHD category are not tremendously less expensive as they are in other categories of non-controlled medications. Generic stimulant medications cost anywhere from 55%-90% of the cost of their brand counterparts. We believe, if approved, our drug candidates will offer a much more cost-effective solution to patients.

Significantly Improved Tolerability. Because of the PK and PD profile of our drug, we believe patients will experience fewer treatment related adverse events associated with existing stimulant therapies including insomnia, appetite suppression, and feelings of extreme restlessness, dysphoria, irritability, fatigue, and flattening of affect.

Availability in Eight Dosage Strengths at Launch and Single-Enantiomer API Selection. Our CTx-1301 and CTx-1302 product candidates are both round film-coated tablets that we intend to provide in eight matching dosage strengths. We believe providing practitioners with the ability to properly titrate and optimize their patients' daily dosing needs is critical. By having eight dosage strengths at launch, practitioners will not have to constantly switch their patients to other medications or supplement patients with more short-acting booster medications. In addition, we believe that eight dosage strengths will allow healthcare practitioners to appropriately treat the range of patients in their practice, from early childhood through adulthood. Medications that have launched with three dosage strengths are often ignored or avoided until at least six or seven strengths are available. Both CTx-1301 and CTx-1302 contain APIs that are Schedule II controlled substances. The APIs of both product candidates utilize just one of the multiple enantiomers, which may result in improvements in potency, adverse events (Aes), and drug interactions profiles along with an enhanced therapeutic index.

Our Lead Candidate CTx-1301: Dexmethylphenidate for the Treatment of ADHD in 6 Years and Older

We believe our most advanced drug product candidate, CTx-1301, will be the first true once-daily dexmethylphenidate tablet for the treatment of ADHD, providing onset-of-action within 30 minutes and entire 'active-day' efficacy. CTx-1301 is a trimodal extended-release tablet, based on tablet-in-tablet technology, which provides three distinguishing releases of dexmethylphenidate hydrochloride at precise times, ratio, and modality of release. Our CTx-1301 release profile is as follows:

Release #1: An initial immediate-release, or IR, dose providing 35% of the total daily dose beginning within five to six minutes after administration and designed to achieve therapeutic efficacy within 30 minutes; and

Release #2: Three hours after the administration of the dosage form, the first delayed, sustained release (DR1) provides 45% of the total daily dose released over 90 minutes; and

Release #3: Seven hours after the administration of the dosage form, a second delayed, immediate release (DR2, the built-in-booster) provides 20% of the total daily dose released over approximately 30 minutes.

Issuance of MCSR to health facilities

Regulations of the Department of Public Health at 105 CMR 700.003 permit the issuance of a Massachusetts Controlled Substances Registration (MSCR) to licensed health facilities as defined in 105 CMR 700.001. A health facility includes the following:

- A hospital, hospital pharmacy, long-term care facility or clinic licensed or maintained by the Department
- A public medical institution as defined in M.G.L. c. 118E § 8
- Any institution licensed or maintained by the Department of Mental Health
- Any hospital, long-term care facility or clinic maintained by the Commonwealth
- Any ambulance service licensed by the Department to provide Advanced Life Support services

Health facilities with an MCSR are advised that such registrations are not transferable. A new MCSR is required for a change in name, ownership or address. An MCSR is valid for one year and must be kept current.

Requirements for individuals with limited medical licenses

Regulations of the Department of Public Health at 105 CMR 700.004 (B)(5) permit residents and clinical fellows who have limited medical licenses and wish to prescribe, dispense and administer controlled substances to utilize the registration of the hospital in which he/she is employed provided the following criteria are met:

- A person must be authorized to dispense controlled substances under M.G.L. c. 112, if applicable
- Such dispensing must be done in the usual course of business or professional practice
- The hospital by whom a person is employed must verify with the Board of Registration in Medicine that the individual is permitted to dispense controlled substances
- The person must only act within the scope of his/her employment at the hospital
- The hospital must authorize the person to dispense controlled substances under the registration number of the hospital and designate a specific suffix number to the hospital's registration number preceded by a hyphen for each person authorized
- The hospital must maintain a current list of internal codes and make these codes available at all times to other registrants, the Commissioner and authorized law enforcement agencies

It should be noted that individual hospitals determine whether or not they wish to permit persons with limited licenses to use the registration of the hospital. Should a hospital determine that they do not want individuals with limited licenses to utilize the hospital's registration, the physician must apply to the Department and, where applicable, the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), and receive Controlled Substances Registrations for the period of time for which their limited license is issued. Upon full licensure by the Board of Registration in Medicine, a physician must then reapply to the Department, and, where applicable, to the DEA for a new full registration(s). The appropriate fee must accompany the application to the Department. The newly issued registration will not be restricted to the period of time in which the limited license was valid.

Address for Individual Practitioner Massachusetts Controlled Substance Registration (MCSR) Applications and Renewals

This Circular Letter is issued by the Drug Control Program (DCP), which is part of the Bureau of Health Professions Licensure (BHPL), regarding the address to be provided in Massachusetts Controlled Substance Registration (MCSR) applications and renewals for practitioners listed in 105 CMR 700.004(A)(2).

A practitioner must have an MCSR for each location where they are responsible for the purchase and/or storage of controlled substances. The address provided for the application must be that of the location. For example, if a practitioner MCSR is used to purchase controlled substances and authorize storage at two separate practice offices, that practitioner must have two separate MCSRs, one for each such practice office. Each of the MCSR applications must list the physical address of the practice office to be covered by the MCSR.

If a practitioner is not responsible for the purchase and/or storage of controlled substances, they may use any address where DCP can direct program communications for the practitioner. For example, if a Practitioner only prescribes and administers controlled substances, they may use any address where the practitioner can be regularly reached, including the following:

- A post office box or other mail collection type location is permissible for this category of MCSR. The practitioner will be responsible for the prompt receipt and response to communications sent to such an address.
- A practitioner may also elect to use a home address, noting that all MCSR related addresses are considered public information, and will be provided in response to public records requests, unless the practitioner qualifies for a Public Records Law exemption and requests suppression of this personal information.

Massachusetts Controlled Substance Registrations (MCSRs) for Third Party Logistics Providers, Virtual Manufacturers and Virtual Distributors

This Circular Letter is issued by the Drug Control Program (DCP), which is part of the Bureau of Health Professions Licensure, regarding registration of Third Party Logistics Providers (3PLs), Virtual Manufacturers and Virtual Distributors. The purpose is to assist registrants who conduct these kinds of operations to understand which of the three MCSRs available for virtual activities best meets the needs of their business.

1. Selecting the Appropriate MCSR Category

A Virtual Manufacturer is a person/entity with a principal place of business in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts but which never takes physical possession of controlled substances in the Commonwealth. [1] (/news/circular-letter-dcp-23-04-117#_ftn1) An example of a Virtual Manufacturer could be a person/entity with a principal office in Massachusetts, while its manufacturing operations are located in another state. Manufacturing operations are managed or directed in Massachusetts, but no controlled substances are manufactured or stored in Massachusetts. An MCSR for virtual manufacturing would also authorize the person/entity to conduct virtual distribution of its own controlled substance products.

A Virtual Distributor is a person/entity with a principal place of business in Massachusetts but which never take physical possession of controlled substances in Massachusetts.[2] (/news/circular-letter-dcp-23-04-117#_ftn2) An example of a Virtual Distributor could be a person/entity with a principal office in Massachusetts, while its distribution centers, warehouses, trucking operations, etc. are all located in other states. Distribution operations are managed or directed in the Massachusetts, but no controlled substances are received or stored in Massachusetts.

A 3PL is an entity that provides or coordinates warehousing, or other logistics services, of a product in interstate commerce on behalf of a manufacturer, wholesale distributor, or dispenser of a product, but does not take ownership of the product, nor has responsibility to direct the sale or disposition of the product. 3PLs are federally regulated under 21 U.S.C. § 360eee-3. A 3PL may choose to conduct purely virtual activities in Massachusetts , where it directs or manages from Massachusetts but does not receive or store controlled substance here. However, under current federal law, a 3PL may also employ a business model where it takes custody of controlled substances as part of the logistical arrangements being made. An example of this might be that a 3PL chooses to store controlled substances in its warehouse or distribution center located in Massachusetts as part of its operations.

The primary difference between Virtual Manufacturers/Distributors and 3PLs is that Virtual Manufacturers and Distributors never take possession of any controlled substance in Massachusetts, while a 3PL may choose to do so.

2. Pre-Registration Inspections

Virtual Manufacturers and Distributors register with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts primarily because regulators in other states require that they be registered in their "home" state to conduct operations in the other state. For these registrants, no physical inspection of their premises in Massachusetts will be conducted, unless requested. If, at any point, a Virtual Manufacturer or Distributor plans to have controlled substances on site, it must register with DCP for an appropriate MCSR (e.g. manufacturer or distributor) and complete an inspection.

Federal law requires that a 3PL be registered with any state where the 3PL distributes a controlled substance to or from such state.[3] (/news/circular-letter-dcp-23-04-117#_ftn3) Federal law also bars states from licensing/registering 3PLs as wholesale distributors.[4] (/news/circular-letter-dcp-23-04-117#_ftn4) Therefore, the Drug Control Program is making a 3PL MCSR available for this kind of business. To register, a 3PL will need to certify on its initial application and any subsequent renewal applications whether it will be taking custody of controlled substances in Massachusetts. If it is taking custody in Massachusetts, an inspection will be conducted of the necessary premises. If it is registering here for purely virtual activities, no inspection will be conducted, unless requested.

Additional discussion of the risks summarized in this risk factor summary and other risks that we believe are material to our investors can be found below under the heading "Item 1A. Risk Factors" and should be carefully considered, together with other information in this Annual Report on Form 10-K and our other filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, or SEC, before making an investment decision regarding our common stock.

- Our limited operating history may make it difficult for you to evaluate the success of our business to date and to assess our future viability.
- We have incurred significant net losses since our inception and anticipate that we will continue to incur losses for the foreseeable future.
- We have no products approved for commercial sale and have not generated any revenue from product sales.
- Our existing and any future indebtedness could adversely affect our ability to operate our business.
- We may need to raise substantial additional funding. If we are unable to raise capital when needed or on terms acceptable to us, we may be forced to delay, reduce, or eliminate some of our product development programs or commercialization efforts.
- We have not yet progressed any product candidates into a Phase 3 clinical trial and may be unable to successfully complete any additional clinical trials for any product candidates we develop. Certain of our programs are still in preclinical development and may never advance to clinical development.
- Our programs are focused on the development of therapeutics for patients with hematologic diseases, which is a rapidly evolving area of science, and the approach we are taking to discover and develop product candidates is novel and may never lead to approved or marketable products.
- Interim, top-line, initial and preliminary data from our clinical trials that we announce or publish from time to time may change as more patient data become available and are subject to confirmation, audit, and verification procedures that could result in material changes in the final data.
- If we experience delays or difficulties in the enrollment of patients in clinical trials, our receipt of necessary regulatory approvals could be delayed or prevented.
- Results from early preclinical studies and clinical trials of our programs and product candidates are not necessarily predictive of the results of later preclinical studies and clinical trials of our programs and product candidates. If we cannot replicate the results from earlier preclinical studies and clinical trials of our programs and product candidates in our later preclinical studies and clinical trials, we may be unable to successfully develop, obtain regulatory approval for and commercialize our product candidates.
- Our clinical trials or those of our future collaborators may reveal significant adverse events not seen in prior preclinical studies or clinical trials and may result in a safety profile that could inhibit regulatory approval or market acceptance of any of our product candidates.
- Some of our product candidates modulate pathways for which there are currently no approved or effective therapies, which may result in greater research and development expenses, regulatory issues that could delay or prevent approval, or discovery of unknown or unanticipated adverse effects on safety or efficacy.
- We have conducted and are currently conducting clinical trials for bitopertin in Australia and may in the future conduct additional clinical trials of our product candidates outside the United States, and the FDA and comparable foreign regulatory authorities may not accept data from such trials.
- If we are not able to obtain, or if there are delays in obtaining, required regulatory approvals for any of our product candidates, we will not be able to commercialize, or will be delayed in commercializing, such product candidates, and our ability to generate revenue will be materially impaired.
- We face substantial competition, which may result in others discovering, developing, or commercializing products before or more successfully than we do.
- If our current product candidates or any future product candidates do not achieve broad market acceptance, the revenue that we generate from our sales may be limited, and we may never become profitable.

- We rely on third parties to conduct our clinical trials for our product candidates, as well as potential investigator-sponsored clinical trials of our product candidates. If these third parties do not successfully carry out their contractual duties, comply with regulatory requirements, or meet expected deadlines, we may not be able to obtain regulatory approval for or commercialize our product candidates and our business could be substantially harmed.
- We might not realize the anticipated benefits of our current collaborations with Mabwell or NIH, or any other collaborations we enter into in the future.
- We contract with third parties for the manufacture of our product candidates for preclinical development and clinical testing, and expect to continue to do so for commercialization. This reliance on third parties increases the risk that we will not have sufficient quantities of our product candidates or products or such quantities at an acceptable cost, which could delay, prevent, or impair our development or commercialization efforts.
- If we are unable to obtain and maintain patent and other intellectual property protection for our technology and product candidates, or if the scope of the intellectual property protection obtained is not sufficiently broad, our competitors could develop and commercialize technology and drugs similar or identical to ours, and our ability to successfully commercialize our technology and drugs may be impaired, and we may not be able to compete effectively in our market.
- We may not obtain or grant licenses or sublicenses to intellectual property rights in all markets on equally or sufficiently favorable terms with third parties.
- Intellectual property rights do not guarantee commercial success of current or future product candidates or other business activities. Numerous factors may limit any potential competitive advantage provided by our intellectual property rights.
- Obtaining and maintaining regulatory approval of our product candidates in one jurisdiction does not mean that we will be successful in obtaining regulatory approval of our product candidates in other jurisdictions.
- We may seek approval from the FDA for bitopertin or any of our other current or future product candidates under the Accelerated Approval Program. If we are not able to use such program, we may be required to conduct additional clinical trials beyond those that are contemplated, which would increase the expense of obtaining, and delay the receipt of, necessary marketing approvals, if we receive them at all. In addition, even if the Accelerated Approval Program is available to us, it may not ultimately lead to expedited approval of our product candidates, or approval at all.
- Inadequate funding for the NIH, CMS, FDA, the SEC and other government agencies, including from government shut downs, or other disruptions to these agencies' operations, including significant leadership, personnel, or policy changes, could prevent new products and services from being developed or commercialized in a timely manner or otherwise prevent those agencies from performing normal business functions on which the operation of our business may rely, which could negatively impact our business.
- Our future success depends on our ability to retain key executives and experienced scientists and to attract, retain, and motivate qualified personnel.
- Adverse developments affecting the financial services industry, such as actual events or concerns involving liquidity, defaults, or non-performance by financial institutions or transactional counterparties, could adversely affect the Company's current and projected business operations and its financial condition and results of operations.
- Unfavorable global economic conditions could adversely affect our business, financial condition or results of operations.
- The market price of our common stock is expected to be volatile.
- We have incurred and will continue to incur increased costs and increased demands upon management as a result of complying with the laws and regulations affecting public companies.

ITEM 1. BUSINESS

Overview

We are a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company focused on the discovery, development, and commercialization of novel treatments for patients suffering from serious hematologic diseases. We have assembled a portfolio of clinical and preclinical product candidates that aim to modify fundamental biological pathways associated with the formation and function of red blood cells, specifically heme biosynthesis and iron homeostasis. Our current pipeline includes bitopertin for the treatment of erythropoietic porphyrias, or EPs, including erythropoietic protoporphyria, or EPP, and X-linked protoporphyria, or XLP, and Diamond-Blackfan Anemia, or DBA; DISC-0974 for the treatment of anemia of myelofibrosis, or MF, and anemia of chronic kidney disease, or CKD; and DISC-3405 (formerly MWTX-003) for the treatment of polycythemia vera, or PV, and other hematologic disorders. In addition, our preclinical programs also include DISC-0998 for the treatment of anemia associated with inflammatory diseases. Our approach to product candidate development leverages well-understood molecular mechanisms that have been validated in humans. We believe that each of our product candidates, if approved, has the potential to improve the lives of patients suffering from hematologic diseases.

Bitopertin is the lead product candidate in our heme biosynthesis modulation portfolio. Bitopertin was previously evaluated by F. Hoffmann-La Roche Ltd and Hoffmann-La Roche Inc., or collectively, Roche, in a comprehensive clinical program in over 4,000 individuals in other indications which demonstrated the activity of bitopertin as a glycine transporter 1, or GlyT1, inhibitor and its effect on heme biosynthesis. We are initially developing bitopertin for the treatment of EPs, including EPP and XLP, which are part of a group of severe diseases, known as porphyrias, caused by defects in the heme biosynthesis pathway that cause an accumulation of toxic metabolites referred to as porphyrins, resulting in skin hypersensitivity to sunlight and some types of artificial light. In June and December 2023, we presented interim data from BEACON, a Phase 2 open-label, parallel-dose clinical trial of bitopertin in EPP and XLP patients conducted at sites in Australia. In April 2024, we presented topline data from AURORA, a Phase 2, randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled clinical trial of bitopertin in EPP patients conducted at sites in the United States. Additional analyses of the BEACON and AURORA trials were presented in June 2024 and in December 2024. In both trials, bitopertin significantly reduced the toxic metabolite, protoporphyrin IX, or PPIX, and was associated with improvements in measures of time spent in sunlight and quality of life, demonstrating a clear association between PPIX reduction and clinical endpoints. In addition, bitopertin was generally well-tolerated. All participants in AURORA and BEACON are eligible to participate in HELIOS, an ongoing open-label, long-term extension study of bitopertin in EPP and XLP. We are also planning APOLLO, a randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled clinical trial of bitopertin in EPP and XLP patients. In our end-of-Phase 2 meeting, the U.S. Food & Drug Administration, or the FDA, agreed with the potential for reduction of PPIX to serve as a surrogate endpoint to support a potential accelerated approval of bitopertin in EPP and XLP. Under the FDA's Accelerated Approval Program, we would have the potential to submit a New Drug Application, or NDA, for bitopertin in EPP and XLP based on our existing data, and we would be required to conduct a post-marketing confirmatory clinical trial. In our Type C meeting with the FDA in December 2024, we aligned with the FDA on the design of our APOLLO post-marketing confirmatory trial. We plan to initiate the APOLLO trial by mid-2025 and anticipate submitting an NDA for accelerated approval of bitopertin in EPP and XLP in the second half of 2025. We have also entered into a collaborative research and development agreement with the National Institutes of Health, or NIH, to conduct a clinical trial of bitopertin in DBA, which began in July 2023. We are planning additional trials of bitopertin in other indications.

DISC-0974 is the lead product candidate in our iron homeostasis portfolio and was licensed from AbbVie Deutschland GmbH & Co. KG, or AbbVie. DISC-0974 is designed to suppress hepcidin production and increase serum iron levels. We completed a Phase 1 clinical trial in healthy volunteers in the U.S. in June 2022 with results showing an acceptable tolerability profile and evidence of target engagement, iron mobilization and augmented erythropoiesis. We initiated a Phase 1b/2 clinical trial in June 2022 in patients with anemia of MF, and initiated a separate Phase 1b/2 clinical trial in February 2023 in patients with non-dialysis dependent CKD and anemia. We presented interim data from both of these trials in December 2023 as well as additional interim data for anemia of MF in June 2024 and non-dialysis dependent CKD and anemia in October 2024, which additional interim data included safety data and changes in hepcidin, iron, and hemoglobin levels for additional patients, as well as longer follow-up. In December 2024, we presented additional analyses of the Phase 1b study in anemia of MF and initiated the open-label Phase 2 portion of this clinical trial in patients with anemia of MF. We expect to report initial data from this Phase 2 trial in the second half of 2025. We also expect to report data from the multiple-ascending dose, or MAD, portion of the Phase 1b trial in patients with non-dialysis dependent CKD and anemia in the second half of 2025. We are also planning additional trials of DISC-0974 in other anemias of inflammation. In addition, we are developing a preclinical anti-hemojuvelin, or HJV, monoclonal antibody, DISC-0998, which also targets hepcidin suppression and was licensed from AbbVie. DISC-0998 is designed to increase serum iron levels and has an extended serum half-life as compared to DISC-0974. We believe this profile may be desirable in certain subsets of patients with anemia associated with inflammatory diseases.

Lastly, we are developing DISC-3405, a monoclonal antibody against Transmembrane Serine Protease 6, or TMPRSS6, that we licensed from Mabwell Therapeutics, Inc., or Mabwell. DISC-3405 is part of our iron homeostasis portfolio and is designed to induce hepcidin production and reduce serum iron levels. An IND for DISC-3405 was cleared by the FDA, and a Phase 1 clinical trial in healthy adult volunteers was initiated in October 2023. Interim data was presented from the single-ascending dose, or SAD, portion of the Phase 1 clinical trial of DISC-3405 in healthy volunteers in June 2024. We presented data from the MAD portion of the Phase 1 healthy volunteer study of DISC-3405 in December 2024. We expect to develop DISC-3405 for the treatment of PV and other hematologic disorders, and plan to initiate a Phase 2 clinical trial of DISC-3405 in PV in the first half of 2025.

Our Approach

Our goal is to continue to build and advance a portfolio of product candidates that focus on fundamental biological pathways associated with the formation and function of red blood cells. Red blood cells have the essential role of carrying oxygen via hemoglobin to all tissues and organs in the body. The biological processes that are required to maintain normal levels of functional red blood cells are complex, and a variety of congenital and acquired diseases occur due to imbalances or deficiencies in red blood cell formation and function. Two key components needed to support the formation and function of red blood cells are heme and iron. Heme is an essential part of red blood cells, and when complexed into the hemoglobin protein, it performs the vital function of transporting oxygen throughout the body. Iron is a key component of heme, and therefore both iron and heme are required for erythropoiesis, the biological process by which precursor cells in the bone marrow mature to become red blood cells. Based on previously conducted animal models and preclinical and clinical data, we believe our product candidate portfolio, by targeting fundamental pathways in red blood cell biology, has the potential to address a range of hematologic diseases in which modification of iron and heme plays a critical function.

We are focused on therapeutic approaches that modulate heme and iron to address diseases of heme biosynthesis and red blood cell production, and we target therapeutic mechanisms that have been validated in humans, through evidence from either human genetics or third-party clinical trials. For example, our lead program, bitopertin, which has been evaluated in over 4,000 individuals, has demonstrated suppression of heme biosynthesis in multiple clinical trials conducted by Roche. The targets of our iron homeostasis portfolio, HJV and TMPRSS6, have both been genetically validated in humans and shown to have a role in the regulation of hepcidin and iron homeostasis. For example, individuals with inherited loss of the HJV gene exhibit low levels of hepcidin and individuals with inherited loss of the TMPRSS6 gene exhibit elevated levels of hepcidin.

By focusing on fundamental red blood cell biology that is validated in humans, we believe that our product candidates are more likely to exhibit well-defined biological effects in clinical trials and have the potential for broad applicability across a wide range of hematologic diseases. Our current pipeline is focused on the following three approaches:

- Modulating the heme biosynthesis pathway, which is anticipated to be useful in diseases caused by excesses in toxic heme pathway metabolites, e.g., EPs;
- Increasing iron availability to red blood cell precursors, which is anticipated to have direct effects on increasing red blood cell production to correct anemia in diseases of iron restriction, e.g., anemia associated with inflammatory diseases; and
- Decreasing iron availability, which is anticipated to lower red blood cell production in diseases of excessive red cell production, e.g., PV.

Our Pipeline

We are building an innovative pipeline of product candidates that aim to modify fundamental biological pathways associated with the formation and function of red blood cells. We have obtained exclusive, worldwide licenses for the development and commercialization of bitopertin, DISC-0974, and DISC-0998, and exclusive rights for DISC-3405 and related antibodies in all territories outside of Greater China and Southeast Asia.

Clinical-Stage Product Candidates

The diagram below reflects the status of the clinical-stage product candidates, bitopertin, DISC-0974 and DISC-3405, and clinical trials that have been completed, are ongoing or are expected to initiate by the end of 2025. The timelines shown reflect our current expectations and beliefs based on our internal plans and regulatory interactions to date.

We also plan to develop bitopertin, DISC-0974 and DISC-3405 for other indications. For example, we are exploring the potential of bitopertin as a treatment for macrocytic anemias, such as DBA and certain types of myelodysplastic syndromes, or MDS, in preclinical studies and have entered into a collaborative research and development agreement with the NIH to conduct an NIH-sponsored clinical trial of bitopertin in DBA. The trial began in July 2023.

Preclinical-Stage Product Candidates

We also have preclinical-stage programs in development. This includes DISC-0998: a separate, preclinical anti-HJV monoclonal antibody, which is also designed to target hepcidin suppression and was licensed from AbbVie. DISC-0998 is designed to increase serum iron levels and has an extended serum half-life as compared to DISC-0974. We believe this profile may be desirable in certain subsets of patients with anemia associated with inflammatory diseases.

Our Strategy

Our mission is to significantly improve the lives of patients suffering from hematologic diseases by developing differentiated product candidates, including ones designed to target fundamental pathways associated with the formation and function of red blood cells. To achieve our mission, we are focused on the following key elements of our strategy:

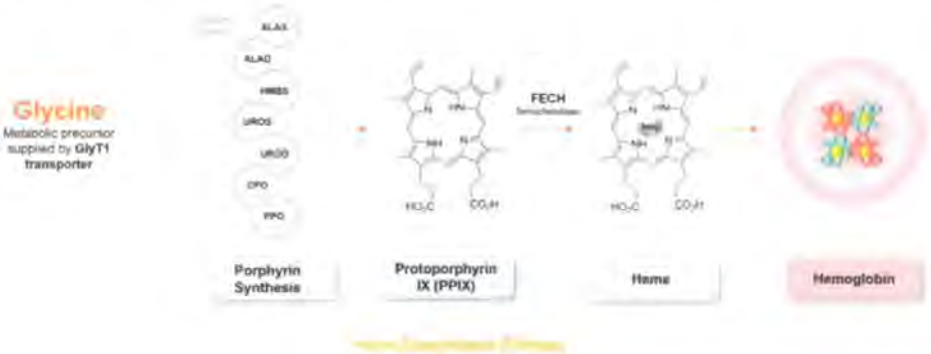
- Obtain regulatory approval for and successfully commercialize bitopertin for the treatment of patients with EPP and XLP, and expand into other diseases characterized by dysregulation of the heme biosynthesis pathway. In multiple clinical trials conducted by Roche in other indications, bitopertin was observed to be a regulator of heme biosynthesis. We are initially developing bitopertin for the treatment of patients with EPP and XLP, which are part of a group of severe diseases, known as porphyrias, caused by defects in the heme biosynthesis pathway that cause an accumulation of toxic metabolites referred to as porphyrins. Based on the clinical data generated by Roche in multiple clinical trials in other indications, the compelling preclinical data we have generated, and the results of our BEACON and AURORA Phase 2 clinical trials, we believe bitopertin has the potential to be a disease-modifying treatment for these patients. In our end-of-Phase 2 meeting, the FDA agreed with the potential for reduction of PPIX to serve as a surrogate endpoint to support a potential accelerated approval of bitopertin in EPP and XLP. Under the FDA's Accelerated Approval Program, we would have the potential to submit an NDA for bitopertin in EPP and XLP based on our existing data, and we would be required to conduct a post-marketing confirmatory clinical trial. In our Type C meeting with the FDA in December 2024, we aligned with the FDA on the design of our APOLLO post-marketing confirmatory trial. We plan to initiate the APOLLO trial by mid-2025 and anticipate submitting an NDA for accelerated approval of bitopertin in EPP and XLP in the second half of 2025. We also plan to explore the potential of bitopertin to treat other hematologic diseases, including DBA.

- Advance the clinical development of DISC-0974 for the treatment of anemia associated with MF, CKD and other inflammatory diseases. We are initially developing our lead hepcidin-suppressing program, DISC-0974, for the treatment of anemia associated with MF and CKD. Our Phase 1, placebo-controlled, single-ascending dose clinical trial of DISC-0974 in healthy volunteers showed an acceptable tolerability profile and evidence of target engagement and iron mobilization and augmented erythropoiesis. We initiated a Phase 1b/2 clinical trial in June 2022 in patients with anemia of MF and initiated a separate Phase 1b/2 clinical trial in February 2023 in patients with non-dialysis dependent CKD and anemia. We presented interim data from both of these trials in December 2023 as well as additional interim data for anemia of MF in June 2024 and non-dialysis dependent CKD and anemia in October 2024. In December 2024, we presented additional analyses of the Phase 1b study in anemia of MF and initiated the open-label Phase 2 portion of this clinical trial in patients with anemia of MF. We expect to report initial data from this Phase 2 trial in the second half of 2025 and final data in 2026. We also expect to report data from the MAD portion of the Phase 1b trial in patients with non-dialysis dependent CKD and anemia in the second half of 2025. Subject to the results of such MAD portion of the study, we expect to initiate and report initial data from a Phase 2 clinical trial in patients with non-dialysis dependent CKD and anemia in 2026. We also plan to further expand the development of DISC-0974 into anemias associated with other inflammatory diseases, such as inflammatory bowel disease.
- Advance the clinical development of DISC-3405 for the treatment of PV and expand into other diseases associated with excess iron availability. The second program in our iron homeostasis portfolio is DISC-3405, which is designed to induce hepcidin production. The inhibition of TMPRSS6 has been shown in non-clinical studies to increase hepcidin levels and restrict iron availability, and DISC-3405 demonstrated activity in disease models of PV and beta-thalassemia. In clinical trials conducted by third parties, iron restriction through a hepcidin mechanism resulted in disease control in patients with PV. We presented interim data from the SAD portion of our Phase 1 clinical trial of DISC-3405 in healthy volunteers in June 2024 and presented data from the MAD portion of such study in December 2024. We expect to develop DISC-3405 for the treatment of PV and other hematologic disorders, and plan to initiate a Phase 2 clinical trial of DISC-3405 in PV in the first half of 2025 and report data in 2026.
- Continue to build our pipeline through internal research or business development. Though we have yet to generate complete clinical data for each of our product candidates, we believe that all of our current product candidates, if approved, could have pipeline-in-a-product potential, and for each product candidate, we plan to explore its potential across multiple hematologic diseases. In addition, we plan to leverage our expertise in hematology to further grow our pipeline through both internal discovery and development of new therapeutic candidates and in-licensing of external assets. This approach includes developing both next-generation programs to support our existing heme biosynthesis and iron homeostasis portfolios as well as molecules that target other pathways associated with red blood cells that may be of strategic and biological interest. For example, we are developing DISC-0998, a preclinical monoclonal antibody as a next generation product candidate against HJV, the same target as DISC-0974. We believe DISC-0998 has improved pharmacokinetic, or PK, and pharmacodynamic, or PD, properties that may benefit certain subsets of patients with anemia associated with inflammatory diseases.
- Opportunistically evaluate strategic collaborations to maximize the value of our product candidates and preclinical programs. We have obtained exclusive, worldwide licenses for the development and commercialization of bitopertin, DISC-0974, and DISC-0998, and exclusive rights for DISC-3405 (formerly MWTX-003) and related antibodies in all territories outside of Greater China and Southeast Asia. As we advance the development of our product candidates and preclinical programs across multiple indications and continue to generate additional data, we intend to continuously evaluate our options for maximizing the value of our overall portfolio. For example, in certain geographies, we may opportunistically enter into strategic collaborations to accelerate the development and maximize the commercial potential of any or all of our product candidates or preclinical programs. For each product candidate, preclinical program, indication, and geographic region, our goal is to find the best path forward for the development of our product candidates and preclinical programs in order to treat patients in need of new therapies, while also maximizing value for our stockholders.

Our Corporate History and Team

We were founded in 2017 with the mission to design, develop, and commercialize medicines for patients with hematologic diseases. Since inception, we have focused on building our pipeline of product candidates through both internal drug discovery activities and external business development, conducting preclinical studies and clinical trials, preparing for the potential commercialization of bitopertin, if approved, and establishing and maintaining our intellectual property portfolio.

We have assembled a management team with extensive experience in successfully developing, manufacturing, and commercializing transformative therapies as well as in business development and alliance management. Collectively, our team led, or was involved in, the development, regulatory approval, and commercialization of therapies for hematologic diseases, such as Idhifa, Reblozyl, Pyrukynd, Adynovate, Tibsovo, Casgevy, and Roxadustat, as well as numerous late-stage clinical and approved therapies for other therapeutic areas. Our team has significant previous experience at leading biotechnology and pharmaceutical companies, including Acceleron Pharma, Inc., Agios Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Albireo Pharma, Inc., Bristol-Myers Squibb Company, CRISPR Therapeutics AG, FibroGen, Inc., Genzyme Corporation, Johnson & Johnson, Merck & Co., Inc., Pfizer Inc., Replimune Group Inc., Takeda Pharmaceutical Co., Vertex Pharmaceuticals Incorporated, and The Medicines Company. Our management team's wide-ranging expertise in rare diseases, hematology, medicinal chemistry, protein biochemistry, and clinical development provide a singular vision for building a company focused on fundamental mechanisms to develop treatments for patients with hematologic diseases.



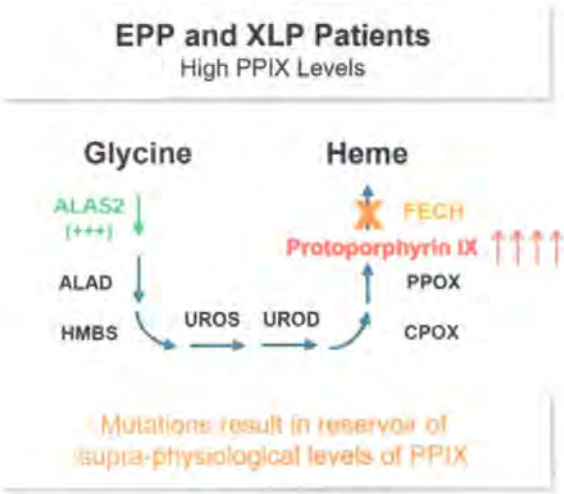
Our Heme Biosynthesis Modulation Portfolio

Our first therapeutic approach is focused on the treatment of diseases caused by defects in heme biosynthesis, a multistep enzymatic process that is critical for the formation of new red blood cells. Heme is an essential part of red blood cells, and when complexed into the hemoglobin protein, it performs the vital function of transporting oxygen throughout the body. However, genetic or acquired defects in the enzymes that mediate heme biosynthesis, as well as deficiencies in the incorporation of heme into hemoglobin, can result in the accumulation of toxic metabolites, leading to a range of hematologic diseases.

Heme Biosynthesis: Fundamental to Erythropoiesis

Erythropoiesis is the biological process by which precursor cells in the bone marrow mature to become red blood cells. The primary function of red blood cells is to transport oxygen throughout the body. Hemoglobin, an iron-containing protein found in all red blood cells, is responsible for binding to oxygen in the lungs, transporting it throughout the body and releasing it in peripheral tissues. The key oxygen binding function of hemoglobin is mediated by its heme component, a molecular complex comprising a porphyrin molecule and iron. Because red blood cells consist largely of heme-containing hemoglobin, newly forming red blood cells must synthesize tremendous amounts of heme. Heme biosynthesis is a complex process that begins with the amino acid glycine and requires multiple subsequent enzymatic reactions, as shown in the figure below. Heme is a highly reactive and potentially toxic complex, as are many of the porphyrin molecules that are generated as metabolic intermediates during heme biosynthesis. As a result, heme biosynthesis is tightly regulated to avoid a build-up of free heme or porphyrins. As new red blood cells are forming in the bone marrow, the heme biosynthesis pathway is tightly coordinated with the expression of the protein subunits of hemoglobin, the globins, and the uptake of iron. The vast majority of newly synthesized heme is incorporated into hemoglobin and does not accumulate in free form to toxic levels. Moreover, the entire process of erythropoiesis is regulated by the availability of heme. As a result, agents that affect heme biosynthesis have broad potential to treat diseases of the heme and hemoglobin biosynthesis pathways and other hematologic diseases resulting from dysregulated erythropoiesis.

Overview of the Heme Biosynthesis Process - Eight Enzymatic Steps from Glycine to Heme



Heme Biosynthesis as a Therapeutic Target for Diseases

In many hematologic diseases, there is abnormal proliferation and differentiation of the progenitor cells that develop into red blood cells. An alteration in any aspect of red blood cell maturation can result in the build-up of metabolic intermediates from heme and hemoglobin biosynthesis, and these intermediates can cause a variety of disease states. Defects of the heme biosynthesis enzymes in the erythroid lineage can cause the build-up of metabolic intermediates called porphyrins and lead to a set of diseases referred to as EPs. In EPs, porphyrins accumulate to inappropriately high levels and cause damage, particularly in the skin, gallbladder, and liver. Similarly, defects in globin biosynthesis, often caused by mutations in the ribosomes that are necessary for mediating globin biosynthesis, result in the build-up of heme that is not complexed with globin. This free heme can damage newly forming red blood cells, leading to forms of anemia observed in DBA and in certain types of MDS. In diseases characterized by defects in the genes coding for the globins, such as sickle cell disease and beta thalassemia, the reduction of heme biosynthesis has the potential to reduce the production of pathologically altered globins that aggregate or polymerize, causing oxidative damage and hemolysis. In people without globin abnormalities, excessive production of red blood cells with normal hemoglobin can cause PV, in which the higher hematocrit can lead to thrombotic disease, including stroke. Restricting heme formation has the potential to ameliorate symptoms in certain patients with these hemoglobinopathies and disorders of red blood cell excess. Therefore, we believe that inhibitors of heme biosynthesis have the potential to treat a wide range of hematologic diseases by restricting the production of damaging metabolites, including porphyrins, heme and globins.

Erythropoietic Porphyrias

EPs are a family of rare, debilitating, and potentially life-threatening diseases caused by mutations that affect the heme biosynthesis pathway. These mutations result in the toxic accumulation of metabolic intermediates in the blood called porphyrins, which can absorb light through the skin and mediate the generation of toxic reactive oxygen species that cause damage to the skin and other tissues. Consequently, when patients with porphyria are exposed to sunlight, they experience excruciating pain, blistering, and edema in the skin. This severe phototoxicity often results in a lifelong aversion to and fear of light, which has a negative impact on patients and their families, particularly for young children. These effects include impaired psychosocial development and conditions, such as anxiety, depression, and social isolation that may require significant adjustments to career and other life choices. EPs comprise three subtypes that are each linked to a specific mutation or deficiency in one of the enzymes in the heme biosynthesis pathway: (1) EPP, which is linked to the ferrochelatase, or FECH, enzyme; (2) XLP, which is linked to the delta-aminolevulinic acid synthase-2, or ALAS2, enzyme; and (3) congenital erythropoietic porphyria, or CEP, which is linked to the uroporphyrinogen III cosynthase, or UROS, enzyme. As shown below, mutations in the FECH and ALAS2 enzymes lead to a pathological accumulation of PPIX, and as a result, patients with EPP or XLP typically have high levels of PPIX.

Genetic and Biochemical Basis for EPP and XLP: FECH and ALAS2 Mutations Increase PPIX Levels

Figures adapted from Halloy et al. (2021) Cell Chem Biol

EPP is a rare, inherited metabolic disease characterized by a deficiency of the FECH enzyme. FECH is responsible for the last step in heme biosynthesis and catalyzes the insertion of iron into PPIX to create the final heme moiety. In patients with EPP who have abnormally low levels of FECH, excessive amounts of PPIX accumulate in the bone marrow, blood plasma, and red blood cells. This accumulation of PPIX, which becomes highly reactive and toxic when exposed to light, causes the hallmark EPP symptom of photosensitivity, or skin hypersensitivity to sunlight and some types of artificial light, such as fluorescent lights. After exposure to light, the patient's skin may initially become itchy and red, and then affected individuals often experience a severe burning sensation that may persist for days. PPIX also accumulates in the gallbladder and liver and causes complications in these organs for some patients. An estimated 25% of patients may develop gallstones that require surgical removal. Many patients live with subclinical liver damage, which progresses to overt liver failure and requires liver transplant in approximately 2% to 5% of patients. The onset of symptoms affecting the skin usually occurs in early childhood; however, in some cases, onset may not occur until adolescence or adulthood. EPP has been reported worldwide, with prevalence between 1 in 75,000 to 1 in 200,000, but a recent genetic study suggests that the genetic prevalence may be higher at approximately 1 in 17,000. Recent analyses we completed of medical claims data using the ICD-10 code for EPP suggests there are approximately 14,000 diagnosed patients in the U.S.

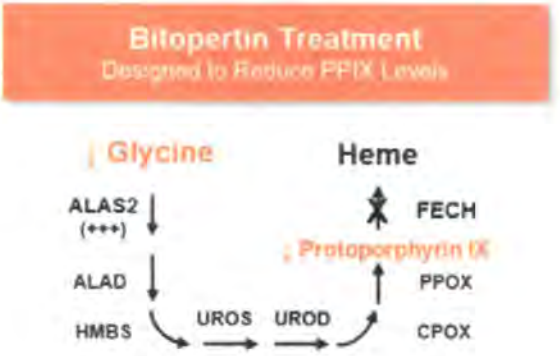
XLP is a genetically distinct inherited metabolic disease with a clinical presentation that is similar to EPP. The causative mutation in XLP occurs in the ALAS2 gene, which codes for the first enzyme in the heme biosynthesis pathway that is found on the X chromosome and inherited with an X-linked pattern. The mutation causes increased ALAS2 function, which results in pathologic accumulation of PPIX. XLP affects both males and females, but males usually develop a severe form of the disease. Females with an ALAS2 mutation may also develop the disease, but severity can range from being asymptomatic to a severe form. Similar to EPP, the major symptom of this disease is skin hypersensitivity to sunlight and some types of artificial light. The exact incidence or prevalence of XLP is unknown, but it is often estimated at one-tenth the incidence of EPP. EPP and XLP, when combined, are the third most common porphyria.

CEP, also known as Günther Disease, is the rarest and most severe form of the EPs and results from the deficient function in UROS, the fourth enzyme in the heme biosynthesis pathway. In CEP, the impaired function of this enzyme leads to the accumulation of excessive amounts of certain porphyrins, particularly in the bone marrow, plasma, red blood cells, urine, teeth, and bones. Similar to EPP and XLP, the major symptom of this disease is skin hypersensitivity to sunlight and some types of artificial light. However, in patients with CEP, the photoactivated porphyrins in the skin cause more profound blistering and scarring. Additionally, the accumulation of porphyrins in the bone impairs bone metabolism and can cause bone loss and deformities. CEP is extremely rare and there have been about 220 affected individuals reported to date.

Current Treatment Options for Erythropoietic Porphyrias

There are currently no disease-modifying therapies available to treat EPs other than bone marrow transplantation, which is associated with high rates of morbidity and mortality. Lifestyle alterations to avoid light exposure are the primary approach to managing phototoxicity in EP patients. Sunscreens, tinted windows, and protective clothing are also commonly used in addition to behavioral modifications. The only class of approved therapies for patients with EP are melanocortin 1 receptor agonists, which are designed to promote melanin production, or tanning, and thereby increase patient tolerance to sunlight. Afamelanotide, an a-melanocyte-stimulating hormone analog delivered by a surgically-administered subcutaneous implant, was approved by the FDA in 2019 for the treatment of adults with EPP. Afamelanotide provides reduction in photosensitivity, but is not designed to reduce PPIX production and is associated with side effects, such as nausea, hyperpigmentation and a darkening of or increase in melanocytic nevi. In a pivotal trial, afamelanotide increased the median number of pain free hours in daytime (10am to 6pm) over 180 days from 40.5 hours in a placebo group to 64.1 hours in the treatment group. Another melanocortin 1 receptor agonist, dersimelagon, which is orally administered, is currently in Phase 3 development by a third party. Overall, there remains a significant unmet need despite the use of melanocortin 1 receptor agonists, as they provide incomplete resolution of photosensitivity and more importantly, are not designed to reduce the production of protoporphyrins or address hepatobiliary complications, such as gallstones and progressive liver disease.

Patients with EP who have progressive liver damage are managed through periodic monitoring, and in cases of liver failure, transplantation is required. While bone marrow transplantation has been used to cure EPs, it is associated with high rates of morbidity and mortality. Therefore, this procedure is usually considered only for younger patients after a liver transplant, for older patients with recurrent disease affecting the liver allograft, or for patients with progressive liver disease.



Our Solution: Bitopertin, an Oral, Selective GlyT1 Inhibitor

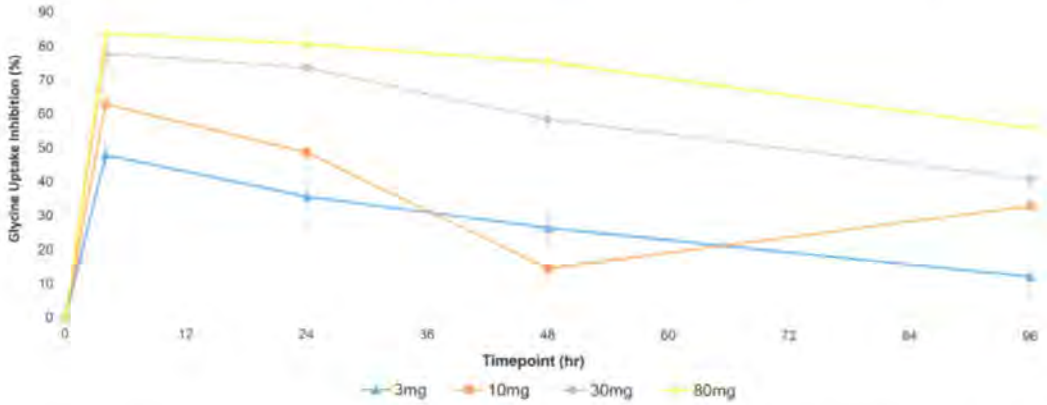
Bitopertin is designed to be an oral, selective inhibitor of GlyT1, a key membrane transporter required to supply developing red blood cells with sufficient glycine to support erythropoiesis. By limiting glycine uptake at the first step in heme biosynthesis in newly forming red blood cells, bitopertin is designed to reduce the activity of this pathway, as shown below, and therefore has the potential to treat a range of hematologic disorders associated with the biosynthesis of heme and hemoglobin.

Bitopertin May Treat a Range of Hematologic Disorders

We are initially focused on the ability of bitopertin to suppress the accumulation of PPIX. Based on its mechanism of action, we believe bitopertin has the potential to be a disease-modifying treatment for EPP and XLP.

EPP and XLP are diseases marked by severe photosensitivity and damage to the hepatobiliary system caused by the accumulation of PPIX. PPIX has been well-characterized to absorb light and induce inflammation and tissue damage, manifesting clinically as painful phototoxic reactions. Lower levels of PPIX are associated with lower disease severity. Epidemiologic data correlate increasing PPIX concentrations with decreased light tolerance, and interventions that reduce PPIX in patients correlate directly with increased light tolerance. Lower PPIX levels (by roughly 30-50%) increased light tolerance in patients. 25% of patients with lower PPIX levels experienced symptoms versus 75-100% of patients with medium to high PPIX levels under controlled light exposure. During pregnancy, women with EPP experience temporary disease remissions that increase sunlight tolerance and coincide with a reduction in PPIX levels. For example, in a study conducted by a third-party, pregnant women were observed to have a median reduction of 53% in PPIX levels during pregnancy, resulting in a significant reduction in their EPP symptoms. Disease symptoms return after delivery when PPIX levels revert to pre-pregnancy levels, leading to the hypothesis that the fetus may utilize plasma PPIX as a substrate for its own escalating heme biosynthesis requirements, thus reducing PPIX levels in the mother's bloodstream. In a third-party study of extracorporeal photoinactivation, a process that reduces circulating PPIX levels, symptoms were markedly improved after reduction in blood PPIX concentrations. In this study, blood was removed from the body and illuminated with controlled wavelength light to inactivate PPIX, and the blood in which the PPIX was inactivated was re-infused. This procedure resulted in PPIX reductions of approximately 30% and light tolerance was temporarily increased 14-fold, a level of improvement that is expected to permit near-normal patient lifestyle. However, given the technical complexities associated with this procedure, it has not been widely adopted as a therapeutic option in patients.

We believe that the findings from our preclinical studies and the clinical trials conducted by Roche demonstrate that bitopertin has the potential to act as a durable, and well-tolerated inhibitor of heme biosynthesis in humans. Importantly, we believe these studies support the potential for bitopertin to reduce PPIX to a degree that has, in third-party studies, been associated with marked symptom improvement in patients with EPP and XLP.



Clinical Data

In May 2021, we licensed exclusive worldwide rights to develop and commercialize bitopertin from Roche. Roche had previously developed bitopertin as a potential therapy for certain symptoms of schizophrenia and obsessive-compulsive disorder, but chose to discontinue the program due to failure to meet primary endpoints in Phase 3 trials for the lead indication after completing over 30 clinical trials in more than 4,000 individuals. Roche conducted a pilot study for the treatment of anemia in 12 patients with beta-thalassemia, a population with a normal heme biosynthesis pathway; this trial did not show consistent increases in hemoglobin at the doses tested. Despite the observed lack of efficacy, the clinical program established a well-defined and generally well-tolerated profile for bitopertin. Importantly, these trials confirmed that bitopertin inhibits glycine uptake in red blood cells and demonstrated the role of GlyT1 inhibition in heme biosynthesis during red blood cell production. A mild, dose-dependent decrease in heme biosynthesis was observed in multiple clinical trials, which manifested as a decrease in hemoglobin of approximately 0.5 to 2 g/dL that stabilized after approximately 16 weeks, the approximate lifespan of a red blood cell.

For example, a single dose clinical trial in healthy volunteers evaluating bitopertin at doses ranging from 3 mg to 80 mg administered once-daily in 24 individuals demonstrated dose-dependent inhibition of erythrocyte glycine uptake levels, as shown below.

Bitopertin Inhibited Erythrocyte Glycine Uptake in Humans in a Dose-Dependent Manner

In multiple Phase 3 clinical trials, Roche demonstrated that in patients with schizophrenia who are otherwise hematologically normal, inhibition of glycine uptake resulted in a reduction in hemoglobin production. Patients were administered placebo or bitopertin at 10 mg/day or 20 mg/day dose levels. The effect on hemoglobin was dose-dependent, with patients receiving 10 mg/day and 20 mg/day of bitopertin experiencing a mean decrease in hemoglobin at 52 weeks of approximately 0.5 g/dL and approximately 1.0 g/dL, respectively. The effect of bitopertin on hemoglobin reached a plateau at approximately week 26 and effects were generally stable for the remainder of the 52-week trial.

BEACON: Completed Phase 2 Clinical Trial in Patients with EPP and XLP

In July 2022, we initiated BEACON, a Phase 2 clinical trial of bitopertin in EPP and XLP patients conducted at sites in Australia. The study was a randomized, open-label, parallel-dose clinical trial designed to evaluate the safety, tolerability, and efficacy of bitopertin. It enrolled 22 adult patients and four adolescent patients with EPP or XLP. The study primarily assessed changes in levels of PPIX as well as the PK profile, safety and tolerability of bitopertin in EPP or XLP patients. It also included measures of photosensitivity, daylight tolerance, pain and exploratory biomarkers of hepatobiliary disease. Patients received orally-administered bitopertin for 24 weeks at doses of either 20 mg once-daily or 60 mg once-daily. These dose levels have a well-understood profile and similar dosage strengths have been shown to provide substantial inhibition of erythroid glycine uptake in the clinical trials conducted by Roche. The trial design is summarized in the figure below. Participants in the BEACON trial are eligible to participate in HELIOS, an ongoing open-label, long-term extension study of bitopertin in EPP and XLP.

RE: Licensure Requirements- Manufacturers/Virtual Manufacturers

[redacted]

Tue 6/25/2024 7:05 PM

To [redacted]

[External]

Good Afternoon,

I was requested to respond to your question. Please refer to Business and Professions Code sec on 4160(h) which states a drug manufacturer premises licensed by the Food and Drug Administration or licensed pursuant to Sec on 11615 of the Health and Safety Code that only distributes dangerous drugs and dangerous devices of it own manufacture is exempt from this sec on and sec on 4161.

Therefore, if you are a virtual manufacturer/manufacturer, licensure as a wholesaler or nonresident wholesaler with the California State Board of Pharmacy is not required if you only distribute dangerous drugs and dangerous devices that XXXXXXX has the NDA or manufactures.

However, if XXXXX also distributes dangerous or dangerous devices, which they are not listed with the FDA or the California Dept of Public Health, State Food and Drug Branch (CDPH, SFDB), as the manufacturer or does not hold the NDA, then a wholesaler license (if located in CA) or nonresident wholesaler license (outside of CA and within the United States or a territory of the U.S.) is required.

I hope this answers your question. Otherwise, my contact information is below if you have any additional questions.

Sincerely,

[redacted]

Summary of Material Risks Associated with Our Business

The principal risks and uncertainties affecting our business include the following:

- We are a clinical-stage precision oncology company with a limited operating history and no products approved for commercial sale. We have incurred significant losses since our inception. We expect to incur losses for at least the next several years and may never achieve or maintain profitability, which, together with our limited operating history, makes it difficult to assess our future viability.
- We have never generated revenue from product sales and may never be profitable.
- We will require substantial additional financing to achieve our goals, which may not be available on acceptable terms, or at all. A failure to obtain this necessary capital when needed could force us to delay, limit, reduce or terminate our product development or commercialization efforts.
- Our business is dependent on the successful development of our current and future product candidates. If we are unable to advance our current or future product candidates through clinical trials, obtain marketing approval and ultimately commercialize any of our product candidates, or we experience significant delays in doing so, our business will be materially harmed.
- Preclinical development is uncertain. Our preclinical programs may experience delays or may never advance to clinical trials, which would adversely affect our ability to obtain regulatory approvals or commercialize our product candidates on a timely basis or at all, which would have an adverse effect on our business.
- Historically, direct inhibition of any RAS protein has been challenging due to a lack of tractable, or "druggable," binding pockets. Given this approach is unproven, it may not be successful.
- The results of preclinical studies and early-stage clinical trials may not be predictive of future results.
- If we encounter difficulties enrolling patients in our clinical trials, our clinical development activities could be delayed or otherwise be adversely affected.
- We and our collaborators are currently developing and may in the future develop, our product candidates in combination with other therapies, which exposes us to additional risks.
- We face significant competition, and if our competitors develop and market products that are more effective, safer or less expensive than our product candidates, our commercial opportunities will be negatively impacted.
- If we and our collaborators are unable to obtain and maintain sufficient patent and other intellectual property protection for our product candidates and technology, our competitors could develop and commercialize products and technology similar or identical to ours, and we may not be able to compete effectively in our market or successfully

The summary risk factors described above should be read together with the text of the full risk factors below in the section entitled "Risk Factors" and the other information set forth in this Annual Report on Form 10-K, including our consolidated financial statements and the related notes, as well as in other documents that we file with the SEC. The risks summarized above or described below are not the only risks that we face. Additional risks and uncertainties not precisely known to us or that we currently deem to be immaterial may also materially and adversely affect our business, competitive position, financial condition, results of operations, cash flows and growth prospects.

PART I

Item 1. Business.

Overview

We are a clinical-stage precision oncology company developing novel targeted therapies for RAS-addicted cancers. We possess sophisticated structure-based drug discovery capabilities built upon deep chemical biology and cancer pharmacology know-how and innovative, proprietary technologies that enable the creation of small molecules tailored to unconventional binding sites. Guided by our understanding of genetic drivers and adaptive resistance mechanisms in cancer, we deploy precision medicine approaches to inform innovative monotherapy and combination regimens.

Our research and development pipeline comprises RAS(ON) inhibitors that bind directly to RAS variants, which we refer to as RAS(ON) Inhibitors, and RAS companion inhibitors that target key nodes in the RAS pathway or associated pathways. Our RAS(ON) Inhibitors are designed to be used as monotherapy, in combination with other RAS(ON) Inhibitors and/or in combination with RAS companion inhibitors or other therapeutic agents.

RAS(ON) Inhibitors

Our RAS(ON) Inhibitors are based on our proprietary tri-complex technology platform, which enables a highly differentiated approach to inhibiting the active, GTP-bound form of RAS, which we refer to as RAS(ON). We are developing a portfolio of compounds that we believe were the first RAS(ON) Inhibitors to use this mechanism of action. We believe that direct inhibitors of RAS(ON) suppress cell growth and survival and are less susceptible to adaptive resistance mechanisms recognized for RAS(OFF) inhibitors.

We are evaluating our RAS(ON) Inhibitors alone and in combination with other drugs and investigational drug candidates, particularly in-pathway agents. We believe tailored RAS(ON) Inhibitors will be useful to serve the diverse landscape of RAS-addicted cancers optimally. We believe that in some cases, patients may experience maximal clinical benefit from the broad activity of our RAS(ON) multi-selective inhibitor, daraxonrasib (RMC-6236), if approved. In others, we believe treatment with a RAS(ON) mutant-selective inhibitor may be optimal. We further believe that in some cases, it could be beneficial to combine daraxonrasib with a RAS(ON) mutant-selective inhibitor, with daraxonrasib functioning as the backbone of these RAS(ON) Inhibitor doublets. In addition, we believe that in some cases, combination of our RAS(ON) Inhibitors with standard of care therapies, including immunotherapies, may be optimal.

We are advancing a deep pipeline of RAS(ON) Inhibitors, including daraxonrasib (RMC-6236), our RAS(ON) multi-selective inhibitor; elironrasib (RMC-6291), our G12C-selective inhibitor; and zoldonrasib (RMC-9805), our G12D-selective inhibitor. Together, we consider these three clinical-stage candidates as the first wave of RAS(ON) inhibitors that we are advancing through clinical development. We also currently plan to advance RMC-5127 (G12V) into clinical development. In addition, we have other preclinical-stage RAS(ON) inhibitor clinical development opportunities, including the RAS(ON) mutant-selective inhibitors RMC-0708 (Q61H) and RMC-8839 (G13C).

Daraxonrasib (RMC-6236)

Daraxonrasib (RMC-6236), our RAS(ON) multi-selective inhibitor, is designed as an oral, RAS-selective tri-complex inhibitor of multiple RAS(ON) variants containing cancer driver mutations at all three of the major RAS mutation hotspot positions (G12, G13 and Q61). Daraxonrasib inhibits all three major RAS isoforms, suppressing the mutant cancer driver and cooperating wild-type RAS proteins.

A global, randomized Phase 3 registrational trial of daraxonrasib in the second-line (2L) treatment of patients with metastatic pancreatic ductal adenocarcinoma (PDAC), which we call the RASolute 302 study, is ongoing. In the RASolute 302 study, we are randomizing patients in a 1:1 ratio to receive either daraxonrasib at a dose of 300 mg daily or the investigator's choice of chemotherapy. The RASolute 302 study has a nested trial design allowing for a hierarchical sequence of statistical analysis, with patients with tumors harboring RAS G12X mutations serving as the core population which will be tested first and all enrolled patients serving as the secondary population. We believe this nested design and hierarchical testing increases the probability of trial success based on the core population while creating an opportunity to gain approval for a broader population. Patients in the RASolute 302 study will be evaluated for the dual primary endpoints of progression-free survival (PFS) and overall survival (OS) in the core population, with secondary endpoints including PFS and OS in the secondary population and objective response

Having finalized the study protocol, we are now activating sites for a global, randomized Phase 3 registrational trial comparing daraxonrasib versus docetaxel in patients with locally advanced or metastatic RAS-mutated non-small cell lung cancer (NSCLC) who have been treated with immunotherapy and platinum-containing chemotherapy, which we call the RASolve 301 study. In the RASolve 301 study, we are randomizing patients in a 1:1 ratio to receive either daraxonrasib or docetaxel. The RASolve 301 study has a nested trial design allowing for a hierarchical sequence of statistical analysis, with patients with tumors harboring RAS G12X (other than G12C) mutations serving as the core population which will be tested first, and all enrolled patients serving as the secondary population. We believe this nested design and hierarchical testing increases the probability of trial success based on the core population while creating an opportunity to gain approval for a broader population. Patients in the RASolve 301 study will be evaluated for the dual primary endpoints of PFS and OS in the core population, with secondary endpoints including PFS and OS in the secondary population and ORR and quality of life measures.

We currently expect to initiate a global, randomized Phase 3 daraxonrasib monotherapy study in patients with first-line (1L) metastatic PDAC in the second half of 2025. We also currently expect to initiate a global, randomized Phase 3 monotherapy study of daraxonrasib as adjuvant treatment for patients with resectable PDAC in the second half of 2025.

On December 2, 2024 we reported updated clinical safety, tolerability, and activity data for daraxonrasib from our first-in-human monotherapy study of daraxonrasib, which we refer to as the RMC-6236-001 study, in patients with previously treated RAS-mutant PDAC as of a data cutoff date of July 23, 2024. We believe these data showed that daraxonrasib was generally well tolerated and demonstrated encouraging antitumor activity that supported our initiation of the RASolute 302 study.

Also on December 2, 2024, we reported clinical safety and tolerability data as of a September 30, 2024 data cutoff date for daraxonrasib from the RMC-6236-001 study in patients with NSCLC with tumors harboring RAS mutations. We also reported clinical activity data as of a September 30, 2024 data cutoff date for daraxonrasib from the RMC-6236-001 study in patients with NSCLC with tumors harboring RAS G12X mutations who had received one or two prior lines of therapy which must have included prior immunotherapy and platinum chemotherapy administered either concurrently or sequentially, but not docetaxel, a study population matching the planned RASolve 301 enrollees. We believe these data showed that daraxonrasib was generally well tolerated and demonstrated encouraging antitumor activity that supported our initiation of the RASolve 301 study.

Based on our observations from the RMC-6236-001 study and our preclinical observations, we believe there is a potential opportunity to evaluate daraxonrasib combinations in earlier lines of therapy in multiple tumor types, and we are currently evaluating several exploratory combination regimens that include daraxonrasib in order to assess the potential for development in these settings. These combinations include daraxonrasib with pembrolizumab, daraxonrasib with elironrasib, daraxonrasib with zoldonrasib and daraxonrasib with standard of care chemotherapy agents.

On December 2, 2024, we disclosed initial clinical safety and tolerability data as of a data cutoff date of October 28, 2024 from our clinical study of the combination of daraxonrasib with pembrolizumab, which we believe showed the combination was generally well tolerated with limited hepatotoxicity.

Also on December 2, 2024, we disclosed initial clinical safety, tolerability and activity data as of a data cutoff date of October 28, 2024 from our clinical study of the combination of daraxonrasib with elironrasib, which we believe showed the combination was generally well tolerated and provide initial proof-of-mechanism for a RAS(ON) inhibitor doublet in patients with colorectal cancer (CRC) who were previously treated with KRAS(OFF) G12C inhibitors. We believe these preliminary data observations support continued development of RAS(ON) inhibitor doublets in a broad range of tumor types and earlier lines of therapy, including 1L patients with NSCLC carrying RAS G12C tumors.

In April 2024, at the American Association for Cancer Research (AACR) Annual Meeting 2024, we reported individual case studies from the RMC-6236-001 study that showed examples of objective responses to daraxonrasib in patients with tumor types beyond PDAC or NSCLC, specifically patients with melanoma and with CRC.

Elironrasib (RMC-6291)

Elironrasib (RMC-6291) is designed as a RAS(ON) oral tri-complex G12C-selective inhibitor. It is designed to exhibit subnanomolar potency for suppressing RAS pathway signaling and growth of RAS G12C-bearing cancer cells and is engineered to be highly selective for RAS G12C over wild-type RAS and other cellular targets. Elironrasib is designed to be differentiated from first-generation KRAS(OFF) G12C inhibitors, which sequester the KRAS(OFF) G12C form, by its mechanism of directly iting the RAS(ON) G12C form.

On October 13, 2023, we reported interim preliminary safety and anti-tumor data from our ongoing first-in-human study of elironrasib, which we refer to as the RMC-6291-001 study, as of an October 5, 2023 data cut-off date, which we believe provide preliminary evidence of clinically meaningful differentiation of elironrasib from KRAS(OFF) G12C inhibitors.

We are evaluating several exploratory combination regimens that include elironrasib in order to assess the potential for development in earlier lines of therapy. These combinations include elironrasib with pembrolizumab and, as discussed in the "Daraxonrasib (RMC-6236)" section above, elironrasib with daraxonrasib. We are also planning a combination study of elironrasib with both daraxonrasib and pembrolizumab.

On December 2, 2024, we disclosed initial clinical safety, tolerability and activity data for the combination of daraxonrasib with elironrasib, as discussed in the "Daraxonrasib (RMC-6236)" section above.

Also on December 2, 2024, we disclosed clinical safety and tolerability data as of a data cutoff date of October 28, 2024 for the combination of elironrasib with pembrolizumab, which we believe showed the combination was generally well tolerated with limited hepatotoxicity.

Zoldonrasib (RMC-9805)

Zoldonrasib (RMC-9805) is designed as a RAS(ON) oral tri-complex G12D-selective inhibitor. It is designed to exhibit low nanomolar potency for suppressing RAS pathway signaling and growth of RAS G12D-bearing cancer cells and is engineered to covalently inactivate RAS G12D irreversibly.

On October 25, 2024, we reported preliminary clinical safety, tolerability and activity data as of a data cutoff date of September 2, 2024 from our first-in-human monotherapy study of zoldonrasib, which we refer to as the RMC-9805-001 study in patients with previously treated solid tumors harboring KRAS G12D mutations.

We believe that these data support our ongoing development of zoldonrasib as a single agent and in combination with other therapies, including with daraxonrasib. An exploratory combination study of zoldonrasib with daraxonrasib is ongoing. We currently expect to disclose additional zoldonrasib clinical safety and antitumor activity data in the second quarter of 2025.

We currently expect to initiate one or more pivotal combination studies in 2026 that incorporate either zoldonrasib or elironrasib and currently expect to share clinical data supporting these plans in the second or third quarter of 2025.

RMC-5127

RMC-5127 is designed as a RAS(ON) oral G12V-selective inhibitor. It is designed to exhibit picomolar potency for suppressing RAS pathway signaling and growth of RAS G12V-bearing cancer cells and is engineered for selective inhibition of RAS G12V over other RAS isoforms via non-covalent binding interactions. We currently expect to advance RMC-5127 to a clinic-ready stage in 2025 and to initiate a first-in-human dose escalation clinical trial of RMC-5127 in 2026.

RMC-0708

RMC-0708 is designed as a RAS(ON) oral Q61H-selective inhibitor. It is designed to exhibit picomolar potency for suppressing RAS pathway signaling and growth of RAS Q61H-bearing cancer cells and is engineered for selective inhibition of RAS Q61H over other RAS isoforms via non-covalent binding interactions. Clinical development of RMC-0708 is subject to our continuing assessment of our portfolio priorities.

RMC-8839

RMC-8839 is designed as a RAS(ON) oral G13C-selective inhibitor. It is designed to exhibit picomolar potency for suppressing RAS pathway signaling and growth of KRAS G13C-bearing cancer cells and is engineered to covalently inactivate KRAS G13C for irreversible inhibition. Clinical development of RMC-8839 is subject to our continuing assessment of our portfolio priorities.

Other Development Opportunities

-ave developed RAS companion inhibitors that are designed to suppress cooperating targets and pathways that sustain RAS-

5552, which is designed as a selective inhibitor of mTORC1 signaling in tumors; and RMC-5845, which is designed to target SOS1 a protein that plays a key role in converting RAS(OFF) to RAS(ON) in cells. Additional clinical development of our RAS companion inhibitors is subject to our continuing assessment of our portfolio priorities.

We are also developing preclinical next-generation programs that are designed to sustain our innovation platform beyond our current development-stage assets.

Our Strategy

Overview

Our goal is to revolutionize treatment for patients with RAS-addicted cancers through the discovery, development and delivery of innovative, targeted medicines. RAS proteins drive a significant number of human cancers, and are largely unserved by targeted therapeutics. The KRAS G12C mutation has been clinically validated as a therapeutic target, and the evidence is strong that numerous other oncogenic mutations in the RAS family of proteins are likewise compelling cancer targets. Our collection of RAS(ON) Inhibitors is tailored to target RAS mutations that together comprise the driver mutations in the vast majority of RAS-addicted cancers.

Our RAS(ON) Inhibitors are unique in that they are the first RAS inhibitors in clinical development to specifically target the activated, or ON, form of oncogenic RAS proteins. This differentiated mechanism of action offers potential improvements over that of the first RAS inhibitors to gain U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approval (KRAS G12C inhibitors sotorasib and adagrasib), which interact exclusively with the OFF form. Based on an emerging understanding of the limitations of first-generation RAS(OFF) drugs in the clinic and findings from our own preclinical research, we believe our RAS(ON) Inhibitors have the potential to deliver deeper antitumor activity and more durable clinical benefit to a broader patient population.

Our pipeline of RAS(ON) multi-selective and RAS(ON) mutant-selective inhibitors offer an opportunity for RAS(ON) doublet combinations designed to potentially maximize durable clinical benefit by effectively targeting the most common KRAS mutant variants in cancer. The consistent finding from the first-generation mutant-selective RAS inhibitors is that the main resistance mechanism that curtails durable efficacy is through reactivation of RAS pathway, highlighting the oncogenic addiction in RAS-mutated cancers. We believe many of these resistance mechanisms may be amenable to inhibition with a RAS(ON) multi-selective inhibitor. The pairing of the RAS(ON) multi-selective inhibitor daraxonrasib with a mutant-selective inhibitor (such as elironrasib or zoldonrasib) may address potential resistances which may ultimately translate to more durable clinical benefit. In addition, our experiments have shown that two inhibitors generally result in more effective inhibition of the primary mutant RAS driver than either inhibitor alone. These doublets form a core part of our strategy to improve the standard of care for patients with RAS-addicted cancers, along with monotherapy and combination with standard of care therapies. This approach is based on our biological understanding of RAS addiction and leverages the unique nature of our pipeline.

Our current corporate priorities are to:

- Execute pivotal trials with daraxonrasib monotherapy in patients with previously treated metastatic PDAC and NSCLC.
- Advance daraxonrasib into earlier-line randomized pivotal trials in patients with PDAC.
- Generate sufficient data to inform development priorities for elironrasib and zoldonrasib and prepare to initiate one or more pivotal trials including these compounds either as monotherapy or in a drug combination.
- Progress our earlier-stage pipeline, including advancing next-generation innovations from the company's highly productive discovery organization.
- Grow our commercial and operational capabilities and increase precommercial activities in support of a potential commercial launch.

RAS Mutant Epidemiology in the United States.

Variants in RAS proteins account for a significant number of human cancers in the United States, many of which are fatal. Diverse oncogenic RAS variants in three different RAS isoforms (KRAS, NRAS and HRAS) drive distinct human cancers.

A very bad lapse in judgment to operate a vehicle under the influence of alcohol. Flew across country on the arrest date of 3/21/2018 to attend a conference at a resort in Indian Wells, CA. After attending a late afternoon opening welcome reception with little to no food throughout the day, I unknowingly drove under the influence across the resort to my room from the reception area and struck a stanchion on a roundabout.

ADDITIONAL PERILS EXCLUDED

"We" do not pay for loss or damage caused directly or indirectly by, or consisting of, one or more of the following excluded causes, events, or conditions. Such loss or damage is excluded regardless of other causes, events, or conditions that contribute in any sequence to or aggravate the loss or damage, whether such causes, events, or conditions act to produce such loss or damage before, at the same time as, or after the excluded causes, events, or conditions.

1. Earth Movement --

   a. "Earth movement" regardless of cause and regardless of whether or not the cause of the "earth movement":

      1) originated at the covered property; or
      2) was being performed at "your" request or for "your" benefit.

   b. However, if

      1) eruption, explosion, or effusion of a volcano results in "volcanic action", "we" will pay for the loss or damage caused by that "volcanic action";
      2) "earth movement" results in fire, "we" will pay for the loss or damage caused by that fire; or

the Inland Marine Coverage
-- PLEASE READ THIS CAREFULLY --

LOSS PAYABLE OPTIONS

If indicated on the Loss Payable Schedule, the following conditions apply to the property described on the schedule. The following conditions apply in addition to the policy "terms" which are contained in the Inland Marine Coverage(s).

LOSS PAYABLE

Any loss will be adjusted with "you" and will be payable to "you" and the loss payee described on the schedule as "your" and their interests appear.

LENDER'S LOSS PAYABLE

Any loss will be payable to "you" and the loss payee described on the schedule as interests appear. If more than one loss payee is named, they will be paid in order of precedence.

The insurance for the loss payee continues in effect even when "your" insurance may be void because of "your" acts, neglect, or failure to comply with the coverage "terms". The insurance for the loss payee does not continue in effect if the loss payee is aware of changes in ownership or substantial increase in risk and does not notify "us".

If "we" cancel this policy, "we" notify the loss payee at least ten days before the effective date of cancellation if "we" cancel for "your" nonpayment of premium, or 30 days before the effective date of cancellation if "we" cancel for any other reason.

"We" may request payment of the premium from the loss payee, if "you" fail to pay the premium.

If "we" pay the loss payee for a loss where "your" insurance may be void, the loss payee's right to collect that portion of the debt from "you" then belongs to "us". This does not affect the loss payee's right to collect the remainder of the debt from "you". As an alternative, "we" may pay the loss payee the remaining principal and accrued interest in return for a full assignment of the loss payee's interest and any instruments given as security for the debt.

If "we" choose not to renew this policy, "we" give written notice to the loss payee at least ten days before the expiration date of this policy.

CONTRACT OF SALE

Any loss will be adjusted with "you" and will be payable to "you" and the loss payee described on the schedule as "your" and their interests appear.

The loss payee shown on the schedule is a person or organization "you" have entered into a contract with for the sale of covered property.

When covered property is the subject of a contract of sale, the word "you" also means the loss payee.

Texas State Board of Pharmacy

"Red Flags" Checklist for Pharmacies

YOU MIGHT BE A PILL MILL IF...

Check all that apply:

	(1) Your pharmacy fills a discernable pattern of prescriptions for prescribers who write essentially the same prescriptions for numerous persons, indicating a lack of individual drug therapy
	(2) Your pharmacy operates with limited hours of operation or closes after a certain threshold of controlled substance prescriptions are dispensed, and has overall low prescription dispensing volume.
	(3) Prescriptions presented to the pharmacy are for controlled substances with popularity as street drugs, such as opiates, benzodiazepines, muscle relaxants, psychostimulants, and/or cough syrups, or any combination of these drugs.
	(4) The prescriptions for controlled substances contain nonspecific or no diagnoses.
	(5) The prescriptions are commonly for the highest strength of the drug and/or for large quantities.
	(6) Dangerous drugs or OTC products (such as multi-vitamins or laxatives) are added to the controlled substance prescriptions, maintaining relatively consistent 1:1 ratio of controlled substances to dangerous drugs and/or OTC products dispensed as prescriptions.
	(7) Prescriptions are authorized by the same prescriber with what appears to be different handwriting on the hardcopy prescription drug order forms.
	(8) Upon contact with the prescriber's office, you are unable to engage in comprehensive discussion with the actual prescriber, or he/she is unconcerned about your apprehensions regarding his/her prescribing practices or unwilling to provide additional information, such as treatment goals and/or prognosis with prescribed drug therapy.
	(9) You rely solely on the prescriber's representation, or on the representation of the individual answering the phone at the number on the prescription, that prescriptions are legitimate.
	(10) The prescriber's clinic is not registered as a pain management clinic by the Texas Medical Board, despite routinely receiving prescriptions from the prescriber foropiates, benzodiazepines, and/or muscle relaxants.
	(11) Drugs prescribed are inconsistent with the prescriber's area of practice.
	(12) The prescriber of the drugs is located a significant distance from your pharmacy.
	(13) The prescriber has been subject to disciplinary action by the licensing board, had his/her DEA registration removed, or been subject to criminal action.
	(14) The Texas PMP system indicates that persons are obtaining prescriptions for the same drugs from multiple prescribers or that persons are filling prescriptions for the same drugs at multiple pharmacies.
	(15) The person's address is a significant distance from your pharmacy and/or from the prescriber's office.
	(16) Multiple persons with the same address present prescriptions from the same prescriber.
	(17) Persons pay with cash or credit card more often than through insurance.
	(18) Persons presenting controlled substance prescriptions are doing so in such a manner that varies from seeking routine pharmacy services (e.g., willing to wait in long lines to receive drugs, persons arrive in the same vehicle with prescriptions from same prescriber, one person presents to pick up prescriptions for multiple others, persons refer to drugs by "street names" and/or comment on drug's color, persons seek early refills, persons travel from outside reasonable trade area of pharmacy).
	(19) Your pharmacy charges and persons are willing to pay more for controlled substances than they would at nearby pharmacies.
	(20) Your pharmacy routinely orders controlled substances from more than one drug supplier, or your pharmacy has been discontinued by a drug supplier related to controlled substance orders.
	(21) Sporadic and non-consistent dispensing volume (including zero dispensing) varies from day to day and week to week, and your pharmacy does not maintain operational hours each week on Monday through Friday.
	(22) Your pharmacy employs or contracts security personnel during operational hours to prevent problems.
	(23) Your pharmacy has been previously warned or disciplined by the Texas State Board of Pharmacy for inappropriate dispensing of controlled substances (i.e., corresponding responsibility).

If you checked any of the above items, you should review the laws and rules regarding corresponding responsibility and non-therapeutic dispensing, especially Board rule §291.29, in the law book or on our website: www.pharmacy.texas.gov (click on Texas Pharmacy Rules and Laws). Additional educational material is available at: http://www.pharmacy.texas.gov/Nontherapeutic.asp. Failure of pharmacies and pharmacists to detect patterns of inappropriate dispensing of prescription drugs is unprofessional practice and constitutes grounds for disciplinary action.

Disciplinary Action Overview
(Previously Disclosed)

Missouri
Prior to McKesson's ownership of Biologics, Biologics applied for a Missouri nonresident pharmacy permit in November 2003. In January 2004, the Missouri Board requested additional information to complete the application. Unfortunately, due to an oversight during a change in pharmacy management personnel, Biologics did not provide the information and, contrary to Biologics' intent, the application expired in May 2004. As a result, Biologics was found to be in violation of Missouri law for shipping into Missouri without a valid permit. On March 31, 2005, Biologics entered into an Order with the Missouri State Board of Pharmacy whereby the Board issued a nonresident permit to Biologics subject to a three year probationary period. Biologics complied with the Order and the terms thereof, and pursuant to the terms of the Order, the nonresident permit was fully restored after the probationary period. Biologics is currently in good standing with the Missouri Board of Pharmacy.

Texas
In April 2012, the Texas State Board of Pharmacy notified Biologics, Inc. that Biologics, Inc. had failed to include the Missouri restricted license in its 2006 Texas licensure renewal and subsequent Change of Managing Office notice.

In a letter dated June 4, 2012, the Texas Board of Pharmacy notified Biologics, Inc. that its license# 23756 would be sanctioned from May 16, 2012 through August 14, 2015. In addition, an administrative penalty of $2,000.00 would be assessed. The omission was inadvertent and in the good faith belief that the reason for the restricted license was due to a tardy application in Missouri and not an "act" by the Company or its personnel in Missouri. Biologics now understands that this was an incorrect interpretation. Biologics, Inc. paid the penalty and completed the restricted period. Biologics is currently in good standing with the Texas Board of Pharmacy.

Michigan
In May 2013, the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs notified Biologics, Inc. of an administrative complaint in relation to the administrative penalty levied by Texas. In a State of Michigan consent order dated August 18, 2013, Michigan issued a reprimand to Biologics' Michigan pharmacy license# 530100834 and levied a fine in the amount of $500.00. Biologics is currently in good standing with the Michigan Board of Pharmacy.

Montana
In August 2013, the Montana Board of Pharmacy convened a hearing to review the above mentioned disciplinary actions and determine whether it would take reciprocal action. After review of all documentation submitted by Biologics, the Board determined that the case did not justify legal or disciplinary proceedings. Biologics is currently in good standing with the Montana Board of Pharmacy.

Hawaii

On March 16, 2015, Hawaii notified Biologics that it would investigate the above mentioned Michigan and Texas discipline, as it was not notified within 30 days of the orders. Early resolution terms were signed and fee of $1,500.00 was paid. Biologics is currently in good standing with the Hawaii Board of Pharmacy.

Illinois

In March 2016, Illinois Board of Pharmacy notified Biologics that it would investigate the above mentioned discipline, as it was not notified within 30 days of the orders. A consent order was signed and fee of $2,000.00 was paid. Biologics is currently in good standing with the Illinois Board of Pharmacy.

Colorado

In an unrelated action in January 2010, Biologics, Inc. was fined five thousand dollars (plus a $500 surcharge) by the Colorado Board of Pharmacy for a failure to provide a zero report to the Colorado Prescription Drug Monitoring Program for a 10 day reporting period from December 1, 2009 through December 10, 2009.The failure was inadvertent and immediately corrected.

Biologics, Inc. has undergone a change in ownership since these instances resulting in disciplinary action. The leadership and management of Biologics take all of these allegations and disciplinary action seriously. The company currently operates in all 50 states plus the District of Columbia and it is our intention to comply with all laws and regulations.

4. The Permit Holder shall comply with all provisions of Chapter 338, Chapter 195, and all applicable federal and state drug laws, rules and regulations and with all federal

AGREED BOARD ORDER #L-11-018

RE: IN THE MATTER OF BIOLOGICS, INC. (PHARMACY LICENSE #23756)

BEFORE THE TEXAS STATE BOARD OF PHARMACY

On this day came on to be considered by the Texas State Board of Pharmacy the matter of pharmacy license number 23756 issued to Biologics, Inc., 120 Weston Oaks Court, Cary, North Carolina 27513.

By letter dated April 12, 2012, the Texas State Board of Pharmacy gave preliminary notice to Biologics, Inc. of its intent to take disciplinary action with respect to pharmacy license number 23756 held by Biologics, Inc. as a result of information received by the Board which produced evidence indicating that Biologics, Inc. may have violated:

Section 565.002(a)(3) and (10) of the Texas Pharmacy Act, TEX. OCC. CODE ANN. Subtitle J (2007); and

Section 281.7(c) of the Texas Pharmacy Board Rules, 22 TEX. ADMIN. CODE (2008), in that, allegedly:

COUNTS

(1) On or about March 31, 2005, the Missouri State Board of Pharmacy entered an Order against the application for a Missouri pharmacy permit by Biologics, Inc. The Order was based on information that Biologics, Inc. had served Missouri patients without being licensed as a pharmacy in Missouri. The Order granted the pharmacy's application for a pharmacy permit subject to probation for a period of three years.

On or about October 2, 2006, Biologics, Inc. submitted a fraudulent application for pharmacy license renewal to the Texas State Board of Pharmacy. On the application, it was indicated that the pharmacy had not been the subject of any professional disciplinary action by a regulatory authority within the last 36 months, when, as described above, the pharmacy had been subject to an Order by the Missouri State Board of Pharmacy on March 31, 2005.

EXHIBIT "1"

(2) On or about May 21, 2008, Biologics, Inc. submitted a fraudulent application for Change of Managing Officer to the Texas State Board of Pharmacy. On the application, it was indicated that the pharmacy had not been the subject of any professional disciplinary action by a regulatory authority, when, as described above in Count (1), the pharmacy had been subject to an Order by the Missouri State Board of Pharmacy on March 31, 2005.

By letter dated April 12, 2012, Biologics, Inc. was notified that the matters previously set out in this Order could be disposed of without the scheduling of an informal conference or administrative hearing. By his signature on this Order, Stuart Frantz, Corporate President, on behalf of Biologics, Inc., neither admits nor denies the truth of the matters previously set out in this Order, agrees that the Texas State Board of Pharmacy has jurisdiction in this matter and waives the pharmacy's right to informal conference, to notice of hearing, to a formal administrative hearing, and to judicial review of this Order.

Stuart Frantz understands that any failure to comply with the terms of this Order is a basis for discipline under the Texas Pharmacy Act.

Should this Order not be accepted by the Board, it is agreed that neither the presentation of the Order to the Board nor the Board's consideration of the Order, will be deemed to have unfairly or illegally prejudiced the Board or its individual members and, therefore, will not be grounds for precluding the Board or any individual member of the Board from further participation in proceedings related to the matters set forth in the Order.

Stuart Frantz, on behalf of Biologics, Inc., agrees to the entry of an Order disposing of the need for further disciplinary action in this matter and agrees to comply with the terms and conditions set forth in the ORDER OF THE BOARD below.

ORDER OF THE BOARD

THEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, the Texas State Board of Pharmacy (hereinafter referred to as "BOARD") does hereby ORDER that pharmacy license number 23756 held by Biologics, Inc. (hereinafter referred to as "Respondent") shall pay an administrative penalty of two thousand dollars ($2,000) due ninety (90) days after the entry of this Order.

It is further ORDERED that Respondent shall allow the staff of the BOARD, Enforcement Division, to directly contact Respondent on any matter regarding the enforcement of this Order.

It is further ORDERED that any cost associated with compliance with the terms of this Order shall be the responsibility of Respondent.

It is finally ORDERED that failure to comply with any of the terms and conditions in this Order constitutes a violation and shall be grounds for further disciplinary action against the Texas pharmacy license held by Respondent.

And it is so ORDERED.

THIS ORDER IS A PUBLIC RECORD.

Signed and entered by the Executive Director on behalf of the Texas State Board of Pharmacy on this 16th day of May, 2012.

RE: Complaint #2013-PHA-LIC-1094

Dear BIOLOGICS INC:

The screening panel of the Board of Pharmacy recently reviewed the above-referenced complaint. Section 37-1-307, MCA delegates to the screening panel the authority to determine whether there is reasonable cause to believe that a person has violated a statute or rule justifying legal or disciplinary proceedings.

Having fully considered the matter before it, the screening panel determined that the circumstances surrounding this case do not justify legal or disciplinary proceedings. Therefore, the screening panel voted to dismiss the complaint with prejudice, which means the board may not consider the complaint in the future.

Thank you for your cooperation and assistance in this matter.

Sincerely,

5. No Objection if Board Fails to Approve. If the Board does not approve this Settlement Agreement, does not issue an order pursuant thereto, or does not approve a lesser remedy, but instead an administrative hearing is conducted against Respondent in the Board's usual and customary fashion pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, Respondent agrees that neither Respondent nor any attorney that Respondent may retain, will raise as an objection in any administrative proceeding or in any judicial action, to the Board's proceeding against Respondent on the basis that the Board has become disqualified to consider the case because of its review and consideration of this Settlement Agreement.

6. Any Ambiguities Shall be Construed to Protect the Consuming Public. It is agreed that any ambiguity in this Settlement Agreement is to be read in the manner that most completely protects the interests of the consuming public.

7. No Reliance on Representations by RICO. Other than the matters specifically stated in this Settlement Agreement, neither RICO nor anyone acting on its behalf has made any representation of fact, opinion or promise to Respondent to induce entry into this Settlement Agreement, and Respondent is not relying upon any statement, representation or opinion or promise made by RICO or any of its agents, employees, representatives or attorneys concerning the nature, extent or duration of exposure to legal liability arising from the subject matter of this Settlement Agreement or concerning any other matter.

8. Complete Agreement. This Settlement Agreement is a complete settlement of the rights, responsibilities and liabilities of the parties hereto with respect to the subject matter hereof; contains the entire agreement of the parties; and may only be modified, changed or amended by written instrument duly executed by all parties hereto.

IN THE MATTER OF THE DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDING REGARDING THE NON-RESIDENT PRESCRIPTION DRUG OUTLET REGISTRATION OF BIOLOGICS INC., REGISTRATION NO. OSP 5544, RESPONDENT PHARMACY.

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED by and between the Colorado State Board of Pharmacy ("Board") and Biologics Inc. ("Respondent Pharmacy"), to resolve all matters pertaining to Board Case Number 2010-002040 as follows:

1. The Board has jurisdiction over Respondent Pharmacy, its registration as a non-resident prescription drug outlet, and the subject matter of this Stipulation and Final Agency Order ("Final Agency Order") pursuant to the provisions of title 12, article 22, C.R.S. (2009), otherwise known as the Pharmaceuticals and Pharmacists Act.

2. Respondent Pharmacy has been registered by the Board as a non-resident prescription drug outlet in the State of Colorado at all times relevant to this disciplinary action.

3. Respondent Pharmacy's address of record with the Board and current location is 120 Weston Oak's Ct., Cary, North Carolina, 27513.

4. Respondent Pharmacy does not contest these findings and hereby waives any further proof in this proceeding before the Board regarding the following facts.

5. Respondent failed to comply with the Colorado Prescription Drug Monitoring Program (PDMP) by failing to submit data during the December 1 through December 10, 2009, reporting period.

6. On December 14, 2009, the Board initiated a complaint against Respondent Pharmacy because Respondent Pharmacy failed to comply with the data submission requirements of the PDMP.

7. Respondent Pharmacy does not contest that the conduct described above constitutes a violation of section 12-22-125(1)(c)(I), (II) and (III) and 12-22-708, C.R.S. and that such conduct provides grounds for disciplinary action against Respondent Pharmacy's non-resident prescription drug outlet registration.

DISPOSITION

$5,000.00 Fine with Surcharge and Terms

8. Fine with Surcharge. Pursuant to section 12-22-125.2(5), C.R.S., Respondent Pharmacy shall pay a fine of Five Thousand Dollars and No Cents ($5,000.00). Respondent Pharmacy understands and acknowledges that, pursuant to section 24-34-108, C.R.S., the Executive Director of the Department of Regulatory Agencies shall impose an additional surcharge of 10% of this fine. Respondent Pharmacy shall therefore pay a total amount of Five Thousand, Five Hundred Dollars and No Cents ($5,500.00). The total amount shall be payable to the State of Colorado and shall be remitted in one lump sum to be included when Respondent Pharmacy submits this signed Final Agency Order to the Board.

9. Compliance. Respondent Pharmacy shall at all times comply with the data submission requirements of the PDMP.

10. Advisements and Waivers. Respondent Pharmacy enters into this Final Agency Order freely and voluntarily, whether or not Respondent Pharmacy has consulted with legal counsel. Respondent Pharmacy acknowledges its understanding that it has the following rights:

    a. To have a formal notice of hearing and charges served upon it;
    b. To respond to said formal notice of charges;
    c. To have a formal disciplinary hearing pursuant to section 12-22-125, C.R.S.; and
    d. To appeal this Board order.

    Respondent Pharmacy freely waives these rights, and acknowledges that such waiver is made voluntarily in consideration for Board's limiting the action taken against it to the sanctions imposed herein.

11. Acknowledgments. The undersigned authorized agent of Respondent Pharmacy has read this Final Agency Order in its entirety and acknowledges, whether or not Respondent Pharmacy has consulted with legal counsel, that Respondent Pharmacy understands the legal consequences and agrees that none of the terms or conditions herein are unconscionable. Respondent Pharmacy is not relying on any statements, promises or representations from the Board other than as may be contained in this Final Agency Order. Respondent Pharmacy further acknowledges that it is not entering into this Final Agency Order under any duress.

12. Violations. Time is of the essence to this Final Agency Order. It is the responsibility of Respondent Pharmacy to take all appropriate steps to comply fully with this Final Agency Order. Respondent Pharmacy acknowledges and agrees that any violation of this Final Agency Order may be sanctioned as provided under section 12-22-125.2(4), C.R.S., and may be sufficient grounds for additional discipline, including but not limited to revocation of its registration. The pendency of any suspension or disciplinary action arising out of an alleged violation of this Final Agency Order shall not affect the obligation of Respondent Pharmacy to comply with all terms and conditions of this Final Agency Order.

13. Integration and Severability. Upon execution by all parties, this Final Agency Order shall represent the entire and final agreement of and between the parties in this case. In the event any provision of this Final Agency Order is deemed invalid or unenforceable by a court of law, it shall be severed and the remaining provisions of this Final Agency Order shall be given full force and effect.

14. Public Record. Upon execution by all parties, this Final Agency Order shall be a public record, maintained in the custody of the Board.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCIAL AND PROFESSIONAL REGULATION, DIVISION OF PROFESSIONAL REGULATION of the State of Illinois,	Complainant	)
v.		)	No. 2015-05711
BIOLOGICS, INC License No. 054017496	Respondent	)

CONSENT ORDER

The Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation, Division of Professional Regulation, (hereinafter the "Department") by and through its attorney, Bonita B. Canavan, and BIOLOGICS, INC., and agree to the following:

STIPULATIONS

BIOLOGICS, INC, located in Cary, North Carolina, is licensed as a NON-RESIDENT pharmacy in the State of Illinois, currently holding License No. 054017496. Said license is presently in active status.

At all times material to the matters set forth in this Consent Order, the Department had jurisdiction over the subject matter and parties to this Consent Order.

Respondent originally applied for licensure on June 9, 2010, and a pharmacy license was first issued on February 8, 2012. A duplicate application was filed on July 13, 2013. A renewal was effective on March 24, 2014. On April 4, 2013, Respondent filed an application for Change-of-Pharmacist in Charge (hereinafter PIC) changing the former PIC Pamela Smith, RPh to Adam Childs, PharmD. On June 26, 2014, another application to change PIC from Childs to Gregory Wolfe was received by the Department.

ON NONE OF THE DATES, APPLICATIONS OR RENEWALS SUBMITTED TO ILLINOIS did the Pharmacy ever reveal that in 2005 it had been put on a three-year probation by Missouri for engaging in unlicensed practice in Missouri by shipping drugs into Missouri before its license had issued.

On May 16, 2012, Texas issued an Administrative Penalty of $2000.00 against Respondent for failure to reveal the Missouri discipline.

On September 13, 2013, Michigan issued a Reprimand and a five hundred dollar ($500.00) against Respondent for failure to reveal the Missouri probation.

On April 17, 2015, Hawaii issued a $1500.00 fine against Respondent for failure to reveal the Missouri probation.

Respondent's pharmacist-in-charge made a self report to the Department on June 9, 2015, that it had been disciplined by Hawaii based on the prior reciprocal state disciplines as delineated above.

The Department alleges that Respondent made material misstatements in furnishing information to the Department, made misrepresentations for the purpose of obtaining licenses, failed to report a discipline by another U.S. jurisdiction or foreign nation, the basis of which was unlicensed practice.

These allegations, if proven at a hearing to be true, would constitute grounds for disciplining Respondent's license as a pharmacy in the State of Illinois, on the authority of 225 ILCS 85/30(a)(b); 225 ILCS 85/30(a)(2), (3), (4), and (7); Ill. Admin. Code tit. 68, §1330.550.

On December 3, 2015, a review of this matter was made by the Vice-Chairman of the Illinois Board of Pharmacy and a recommendation for discipline was made.

Respondent Pharmacy admits in its self report to the Department that on application, on renewal, and on at least three applications for change of pharmacist in charge, it failed to reveal disciplines from the states of Missouri, Texas, and Michigan, and failed to timely reveal the Hawaii discipline.

Respondent has been advised of the right to counsel, the right to have the pending allegations reduced to written charges, the right to a hearing, the right to contest any charges brought, and the right to administrative review of any Order resulting from a hearing. Respondent knowingly waives each of these rights, as well as any right to administrative review of this Consent Order. Such waiver ceases if this Consent Order is rejected by either Illinois State Board of Pharmacy or the Director of the Division of Professional Regulation of the Department. Respondent acknowledges that it has entered into this Consent Order freely and of their own will without threat or coercion by the Department or any person. Respondent acknowledges that the Department attorney may be requested to communicate with the Illinois State Board of Pharmacy or the Director of the Division of Professional Regulation of the Department in furtherance of the approval of this Consent Order.

Respondent and the Department have agreed that in order to resolve this matter Respondent be permitted to enter into a Consent Order with the Department, providing for the imposition of disciplinary measures which are fair and equitable in these circumstances and which are consistent with the best interests of the people of the State of Illinois.

CONDITIONS

WHEREFORE, the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation, Division of Professional Regulation, through Bonita B. Canavan, a Prosecutor for the Department, and BIOLOGICS, INC Respondent, agree:

1. The License of BIOLOGICS, INC, holding license number 054017496, shall be REPRIMANDED and be fined TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS ($2,000.00).
2. BIOLOGICS, INC shall pay a fine of Two Thousand dollars and no cents ($2,000.00) to the Department within sixty (60) days of the effective date of this Order. The fine is to be paid by personal check, a corporate check, or cashier's check. Said check shall be made payable to the: Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation and mailed to:

Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation
Attention: SSC-Accounts Receivable Section
320 W. Washington, Room 344
P.O. Box 7086
Springfield, IL 62791

In the notation portion of the check, this Case No. 2015-5711 and the License No. 054017496 shall be reflected.

3. In the event the fine of Two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) is not paid to the Department, within sixty (60) days of the effective date of this Consent Order, Respondent, BIOLOGICS, INC. acknowledges and agrees that its failure to pay the fine will permit the Director of the Division of Professional Regulation to issue an Order forthwith mandating the automatic, indefinite and immediate suspension of Respondent's pharmacy License No. 054017496. The suspension shall not preclude the Department from taking any other disciplinary or other action it deems appropriate. This suspension shall remain in full force and effect until such time as the Department receives the full amount of the fine of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00). In the event Respondent contests in writing the factual basis underlying said suspension and does so within thirty (30) days of the imposition of the automatic suspension, Respondent shall be afforded a hearing on the merits.

4. If Respondent fails to pay the aforementioned fine and the Department initiates a collection effort to retrieve the fine, BIOLOGICS, INC. shall be responsible for all costs and fees incurred by the Department in said collection effort.

5. This Consent Order shall become effective on the date the Director of the Department signs the order.

Case No. 2015-05711
License No. 054017496

ORDER OF THE STATE BOARD OF PHARMACY REGARDING ISSUANCE OF A PROBATED LICENSE BIOLOGICS, INCORPORATED

Comes now the State Board of Pharmacy ("Board") and hereby issues its ORDER granting a PROBATED license, License No. 2005010826, to Biologics, Incorporated ("Biologics"). As set forth in § 620.149.2, RSMo 2000, Biologics may submit a written request for a hearing to the Administrative Hearing Commission seeking review of the Board's decision to issue a probated license to Biologics. Such written request must be submitted to the Administrative Hearing Commission within 30 days of the delivery or mailing of this Order by certified mail. The written request should be addressed to the Administrative Hearing Commission, Room 640, Truman State Office Building, P.O. Box 1557, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102-1557. If no written request for review is received by the Administrative Hearing Commission within the 30-day period, the right to seek review of the Board's decision shall be considered waived.

I.

Based upon the foregoing, the Board hereby states:

1. The State Board of Pharmacy ("Board") is an agency of the state of Missouri created and established pursuant to § 338.110, RSMo 2000, for the purpose of executing and enforcing the provisions of Chapter 338, RSMo.

2. Biologics is located at 625 Oberline Road, Raleigh, North Carolina.

3. Robin U. Smith is the president of Biologics and holder of Biologics' permit. David A. Shaw is the pharmacist-in-charge of Biologics.

4. On or about November 25, 2003, the Board received Biologics Application for New Permit to Operate a Pharmacy.

5. 4 CSR 220-2.020(2)(A) states in pertinent part:

> (A) An applicant for a pharmacy permit will become null and void if the applicant fails to complete the process for licensure within six (6) months of receipt of the application by the board.

6. On or about January 20, 2004, the board mailed a letter to Biologics advising of the non-receipt of two documents required to complete processing of its application. The two documents required were a copy of its North Carolina controlled substance license (or a statement that such state does not issue a separate controlled substance license) and verification of Pharmacy and Pharmacist in Charge licenses from North Carolina.

7. Pursuant to 4 CSR 200-2.020(2)(A), Biologics' November 25, 2003 Application expired on May 26, 2004 due to Biologics failure to complete the process for licensure.

8. On or about June 21, 2004, the Board received information from the North Carolina Board of Pharmacy indicating that Biologics was serving patients residing in Missouri without being licensed as a non-resident pharmacy by the Board.

9. The Board determined that Biologics was in violation of § 338.220(1) and 4 CSR 220-2.025(1) which state in pertinent part:

Section 338.220(1)

> 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, copartnership, association, corporation or any other business entity to open, establish, operate or maintain any pharmacy, as defined by statute without first obtaining a permit or license to do so from the Missouri board of pharmacy.

4 CSR 200-2.025(1):

> (1) Nonresident pharmacies shall not ship, mail or deliver prescription drugs into Missouri without first obtaining a pharmacy license from the Missouri Board of Pharmacy. . . .

10. Cause exists for the Board to deny Biologics' request for a pharmacy permit pursuant to the provisions of § 338055.2(5) and (6), RSMo 2000, which provide:

> 2. The board may cause a complaint to be filed with the administrative hearing commission as provided by chapter 621, RSMo, against any holder of any certificate of registration or authority, permit or license required by this chapter or any person who has failed to renew or has surrendered his certificate of registration or authority, permit or license for any one or any combination of the following causes:
> . . . .
> (5) Incompetency, misconduct, gross negligence, fraud, misrepresentation or dishonesty in the performance of the functions or duties of any profession regulated by this chapter;

(6) Violation of, or assisting or enabling any person to violate, any provision of this chapter, or of any lawful rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this chapter;

. . . .

11. The Board hereby issues this Order in lieu of denial of Biologics' request for a pharmacy permit.

II.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Based on the foregoing, the permit issued to Biologics is subject to the following terms and conditions:

1. Permit no. 2005010826 is hereby placed on PROBATION for a period of THEE (3) YEARS ("the disciplinary period"). During the disciplinary period, Biologics shall be entitled to engage in the practice of pharmacy provided it adheres to all of the terms of this Order.

2. The Permit Holder shall keep the Board apprised of licensed pharmacists employed by Permit Holder, and the individuals' current home and work addresses and telephone numbers.

3. The Permit Holder shall pay all required fees for permitting to the Board and shall renew its permit prior to October 31 of each permitting year.

4. The Permit Holder shall comply with all provisions of Chapter 338, Chapter 195, and all applicable federal and state drug laws, rules and regulations and with all federal and state criminal laws. "State" here includes the State of Missouri and all other states and territories of the United States.

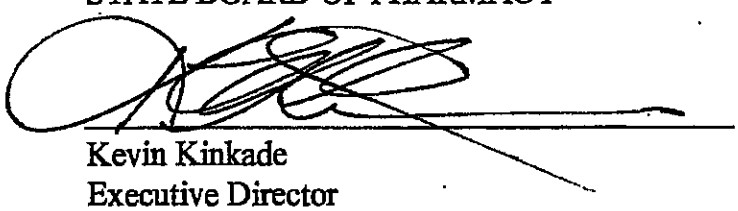
5. The Permit Holder shall not serve as an intern training facility for interns.

6. If, after disciplinary sanctions have been imposed, the Permit Holder fails to keep its Missouri pharmacy permit current, the period of unlicensed status shall not bee deemed or taken as any part of the time of discipline so imposed.

7. If the Permit Holder fails to comply with the terms of this agreement, in any respect, the Board may impose such additional or other discipline which it deems appropriate.

8. The Board of Pharmacy will maintain this Order as an open and public record of the Board as provided in Chapters 338, 610, and 620, RSMo.



9. Upon the expiration of said discipline period, the Permit Holder's permit to practice pharmacy in Missouri shall be fully restored if all other requirements of law have been satisfied; provided, however, that in the event the Board determines that the Permit Holder has violated any term or condition of this Order, the Board may, in its discretion, after an evidentiary hearing, vacate and set aside the discipline imposed herein and may suspend, revoke, or otherwise lawfully discipline the Permit.

10. No order shall be entered by the Board pursuant to the preceding paragraph of this Order without notice and an opportunity for hearing before the Board in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 536, RSMo.

11. If the Board determines that the Permit Holder has violated a term or condition of this Order, which violation would also be actionable in a proceeding before the Administrative Hearing Commission or the circuit court, the Board may elect to pursue any lawful remedies or procedures afforded it and is not bound by this agreement in its determination of appropriate legal actions concerning that violation.

SO ORDERED EFFECTIVE THIS 31 day of March, 2005.

Sterile Compounding:

Personnel Training and Requirements (for Nonsterile-to-Sterile Compounding)

Cache Valley Pharmacy requires all sterile compounding personnel to successfully complete specialized training in aseptic techniques and aseptic area practices prior to preparing CSPs.

Cache Valley Pharmacy personnel will ensure that all compounded sterile products are prepared in a manner that maintains sterility and minimizes the introduction of particulate matter.

Cache Valley Pharmacy personnel shall be thoroughly competent and highly motivated to perform proper aseptic manipulations with ingredients, devices and components of compounded sterile products. Compounding personnel who fail any of the following; written tests, observational audits, media-fill tests, surface samples, glove tests; should be re-instructed and re-evaluated by infusion pharmacist.

All training-related documents will be kept for 3 years.

INITIAL Sterile Compounding Training Requirements:

Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) & USP 797 Competency

- All compounding personnel shall read Cache Valley's sterile compounding standard operating procedures and USP Chapter 797 most current update of November 2022, then take the SOP / USP 797 comprehensive exam.
- A score of 80% or greater is required to pass the exam.

Calculation Competency

- All compounding personnel shall perform calculations related to sterile compounding by completing the sterile compounding calculations exam.
- A score of 80% or greater is required to pass the exam.

Demonstration of Proper Garbing and Hand Hygiene followed by Gloved Fingertip Test

- Cache Valley Pharmacy will not allow individuals experiencing rashes, sunburn, weeping sores, conjunctivitis, active respiratory infection, as well as when they wear cosmetics, to work in the compounding area.
- Before entering the ante-room, compounding personnel shall remove personal outer garments (e.g., bandannas, coats, hats, jackets, scarves, sweaters, vests), all cosmetics, because they shed flakes and particles; all hand, wrist, and other visible jewelry or piercings (e.g., earrings, lip or eyebrow piercings). The wearing of artificial nails or extenders is prohibited.
- Eyeglasses (if worn) need to be wiped
- Cache Valley Pharmacy requires compounding personnel to don PPE in the following order

1. Put on one shoe cover and cross the demarcation line
2. Put on other shoe cover
3. Put on head and facial hair covers
4. Put one face masks
5. Hand cleaning procedure:
   Remove debris from underneath fingernails using a nail pick
   Hands and forearms shall be washed to the elbow for at least 30 seconds with soap and water
6. Put on a non-shedding gown with sleeves that fit snugly around the wrists and enclosed at the neck. Pharmacy only uses disposable gowns.
7. All the PPE will be disposed after compounder comes out of the ante room. Exception: If the gown is clean and free of damage, it may be reused by the same employee until the end of the shift.

- Once inside the buffer room and prior to donning sterile powder-free gloves, compounder is required to perform antiseptic hand cleansing using a waterless alcohol-based surgical hand antiseptic.
- Before compounding begins, compounder shall don sterile gloves. (Pharmacy only uses sterile gloves that have been proven to be compatible with alcohol). Compounder should apply sterile 70% IPA routinely throughout the compounding process and whenever nonsterile surfaces (e.g.: vials) are touched. Gloves on hands shall also be routinely inspected for holes, punctures or tears and replaced immediately if such are detected.

Sterile compounding personnel are required to study Pharmacy SOPs pertaining to personal cleaning and garbing as well as the Hand hygiene and garbing practices training form. All the compounding personnel should be trained conscientiously and skillfully by infusion pharmacist on all the personal cleaning and garbing processes. Infusion pharmacist will observe them performing personal cleaning and garbing and decide whether they pass the training.

The visual observation will be documented on the form "Assessing hand hygiene and garbing related practice of compounding personnel".

Gloved Fingertip Test to validate Hand Hygiene and Garbing

- Immediately after the compounder completes the hand hygiene and garbing procedure (e.g.: donning of sterile gloves prior to any disinfection with sterile 70% IPA), the evaluator will collect a gloved fingertip and thumb sample from both hands of the compounder onto TSA agar plates by lightly pressing each fingertip into the agar.
- The agar plates will be incubated at 30° to 35° C for at least 48 hours followed by incubation at 20° to 25° C for at least 5 days
  Results: Pass: 0 CFU / Fail: > 0 CFU
  If compounding personnel fail the glove fingertip sampling, infusion pharmacist will redo the training of hand hygiene and garbing procedures and compounding personnel should redo the glove fingertip sampling.
  New trainees will need to successfully pass Hand Hygiene and Garbing with gloved fingertip sampling no less than three separate times before being allowed to start compounding CSPs.

The initial 3 collections of gloved fingertip samples will be documented on the "Initial GFT form". Subsequent gloved fingertip samples will be documented on the "Periodic GFT & surface sample form"

Aseptic Manipulation Competency Evaluation through Media-Fill Test, Followed by Gloved Fingertip Test and Surface Sample

Pharmacy requires all compounding personnel read SOP regarding aseptic compounding procedures. Aseptic manipulation competency will be evaluated by media-fill test followed by a gloved fingertip test and a surface sample of the direct compounding area where the media-fill test was performed. Infusion pharmacist will observe the process of the media-fill test and assess aseptic technique and related practice as well.

Media-Fill Procedure

Pharmacy will used the IVQA (or similar) brand High Complexity Media Fill Test Kit to perform the media-fill test

Test Kit Materials: 1 vial containing 3 grams of media, 9 Crimped Top 10 mL empty sterile vials.
Other Required Materials: 3 x 30mL syringes, 100mL non-bacteriostatic water, 3 x 0.22 micron sterile filters, 3 Adhesive Seals.

- Step 1: Outside an ISO class 5 air quality environment, dissolve 3gm of nonsterile commercially available Soybean-Casein Digest Medium in 100 ml of non-bacteriostatic water to make a 3% solution.
- Step 2: Withdraw 25 ml of the medium into each of three 30-ml sterile syringes.
- Step 3: Transfer 5 ml from each syringe into separate sterile 10-ml vials. Label these vials as controls. These vials will generate exponential microbial growth, indicated by visible turbidity upon incubation.
- Step 4: Under aseptic conditions (in an ISO class 5 air quality environment), and using aseptic techniques, affix a sterile 0.2-µm porosity filter unit and a 20-gauge needle to each syringe. Inject 10 ml from each syringe into each of two, 10 ml sterile vials.
